StuGo senator positions open

by Tiffany Grunert
News Editor

Four Student Government senator positions are open, and applications are being accepted.

Senators who held the offices have left for various reasons since elections in the fall. According to Lovanese Malone, president of Student Government, there are at least four senator positions available, and there may be more.

Senators are required to maintain a grade point average of 2.0, be enrolled in 8 credit hours, and be able to attend meetings, which are held every Thursday at 2:00 in X150.

Others resigned because of conflicting class schedules, personal conflicts, or non-enrollment in the spring semester.

Dean of Students and Advisor to the Student Government Carol Steinman says she would like to have a diverse group of senators.

"I think it is important to have all students at Parkland represented," says Steinman. "We encourage students to take advantage of opportunities which serving on the Board offers."

Student Government participation provides the opportunity to develop important leadership skills, she said.

"Future employers also are impressed by this type of college experience," Steinman says.

According to the Student Association, the open positions are filled by appointment. Those interested should send a resume to Lovanese Malone, President of Student Government, or inquire at X159, or see Carol Steinman in X153.

New law has no tolerance

by Tiffany Grunert
News Editor

Drivers under the age of 21 found with any trace of alcohol in their systems can lose their driving privileges thanks to zero-tolerance legislation that became effective Jan. 1, 1995.

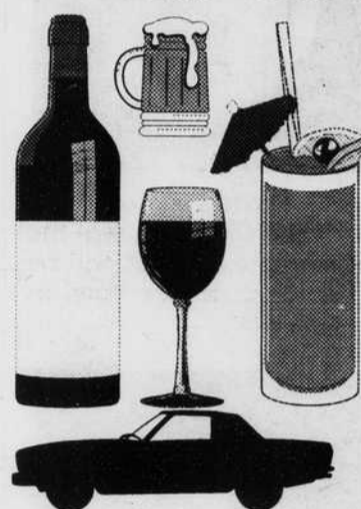

First-time offenders of underage drinking will lose their licenses for three months—if they agree to a breathalyzer test. If the test is refused by the driver, the penalty is license suspension for six months.

If the offender's BAC (Blood Alcohol Concentration) is above .10, the legal level of drunkenness, the driver may also face DUI charges and lose his/her license for a minimum of two years.

Police may require a breathalyzer test from a driver if the officer has probable cause to believe that the driver has been drinking.

The second offense for an underage drinker caught driving is loss of the offender's license for a year, and if found to be driving drunk, (BAC .10 or above), the license will be suspended for at least three years.

It is also illegal in the state of Illinois for anyone under 21 to purchase or possess alcohol, and offenders can also lose their driving privileges even if they are not driving.

Exceptions to the law include alcohol consumed at religious ceremonies or as a prescribed medication.

Champaign recently toughened up its underage drinking legislation by raising fines. The $250 minimum fine is $250 for 19-20-year-olds who are caught drinking (up from $100) and $500 for those 18 and younger.

Secretary of State George Ryan says he hopes that this "Use It & Lose It" law will result in fewer automobile accidents, which are the leading cause of death for young adults.

What to do when Winter comes

(besides going to Florida)

by Erik Larson
Prospectus Staff Writer

Winter is upon us, and that means it's time to list the College's procedures regarding inclement weather and school closings.

The basic philosophy of the College is to keep the campus open if at all possible during inclement weather. Closing the College is always a somewhat difficult decision to make in view of the large geographical area served.

If, however, it becomes necessary to close the campus while any classes are in session, and announcement will be made over the public address system.

If weather conditions deteriorate overnight, cancellations for day classes are usually decided between 5:30 and 6 a.m. and by 3 p.m. for evening classes.

When a decision is made to close Parkland, all radio and news stations in the area are notified.

The following radio and television stations are contacted when the College is to be closed:

Students are asked to listen or watch for cancellations rather than call the College because of the potential strain on the switchboard.

If you must call, a busy signal would indicate the College is open, and a recording will be left if the College is closed.

As the media will only accept closings, only announcements to that effect will be aired. Consequently, if a person is listening in and Parkland is not mentioned in the list of area school closings, the College is open.

Security offers travel tips

by Erik Larson
Prospectus Staff Writer

With winter weather approaching — and bringing with it dangerous driving conditions and possible class cancellations — the Office of Health, Safety and Security recommends some basic winter precautions:

- go slower; take more time to get to your destination
- maintain a greater distance between yours and other vehicles
- store extra items such as blankets, candles and a first-aid kit in your vehicle

•notify someone (not travelling with you) of your planned routes and travel times

The H.S.S. office also provides free, on-campus jump-start service for students and staff whose vehicles succumb to the elements of winter.

Details, questions and comments should be directed to the H.S.S. office in X204, or by calling 351-2369.

Letters to the Editor

Tuition increase is disturbing

Having the tuition increased is disturbing to me and possibly other students at Parkland College. Parkland College has increased tuition for the past three years.

Presently, Parkland is proposing to raise tuition annually. Does this sound irresponsible? I think so because big businesses such as Parkland College should be obliged to research the inadequacy of its budgeting, especially when enrollment keeps dropping.

People might outwardly wonder why students do not return to Parkland College. Statistics show that 62 percent of high school students now attend college, and the average age at Parkland is 29 years old. I would suspect that either Parkland is not appealing to these prospective high school graduates or that ages have gone up significantly since I graduated from high school!

Nathan S. Gavel

Stoplight needed at entrance

What will it take to get stoplights at the corner of Mattis and the entrance to Parkland? Will someone have to be killed or at least seriously injured for the city and Parkland to do something about it?

The problem of coming from the south on Mattis and turning into the park entrance to get over to Parkland is very unsafe and time consuming. When everyone is trying to get to school in the mornings, at noon, and in the afternoon no one gives anyone else a break. We have sat there trying to turn off Mattis while all the traffic coming from the north either keeps turning into the side street or are going straight ahead.

There is a line upcoming from the south to make the left-hand turn into the side street, and there is a line up trying to turn left onto Mattis to go north.

A demand stoplight on this corner where it would be green for Mattis unless there were cars leaving the school or trying to turn into the school. It would make it much safer and easier to get to school.

'Kisses'

Ginta Zvilius (l.), and Parkland student Heather Latta (r.) during the production of 'Kisses.' The Parkland Camerata will perform in the valentine program Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. at the Virginia Theater.

Kisses: A very special valentine

by Andrea Franklin
Features Editor

"Moonlight and love songs are never out-of-date because the world will always welcome lovers," says Parkland Music Coordinator Sandra Chabot.

The Parkland Camerata will be performing Kisses Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Virginia Theater to help "you remember, to prompt your dreams, and to stir your heart," says Chabot.

A white Mighty Wurlitzer theater organ, refurbished and played by Warren York, will rise out of a pit at the start of the show, accompanied by a piano, bass, drum, and guitar.

The stage will be filled with valentines, and the vocalists dressed in costumes will act according to their time period.

Parkland's Camerata will be singing "pop tunes" from the 12th to 20th centuries such as "My Bonnie Lass She Smileth," "I wish you love," and "Kiss de Girl."

Every song sung by PC's Camerata will contain the word, "kisses" says Chabot, and whoever guesses the number of times the word is sung in the course of the program will receive a special valentine.

The U of I Dance Theater will also be performing swing dances from the big band era, says Chabot.

During intermissions, there will be sing-alongs with Warren York at the Mighty Wurlitzer.

She says the program will end with "a million baby kisses I will deliver."

"Songs that everyone loves to hear are sung, ones that lift the spirits and make you feel good and laugh," Chabot said.

Chabot says, "Cuddle up, hum along, and let your worries be forgotten at Kisses."

Coach Argie Johnson:

Sports more than winning games

by Andrea Franklin
Features Editor

There's more to sports than just winning games, says Argie Johnson, and there's also more to coaching than just shouting from the sidelines.

Johnson, head coach of the Lady Cobras basketball and baseball teams since 1990, says a coach has to "keep the team unified and in tip-top shape throughout the season, work lots of overtime planning for future events, keep spirits up when things are looking rough, and encourage athletes to be successful in all areas of their lives."

But the job is about more than just coaching, Johnson added.

"It's being a friend, too."

He says he came to Parkland with the hopes of recruiting some of the state's best woman athletes, preparing them for games and contests and building winning teams.

In his second year, the Lady Cobras basketball team was ranked seventh in the nation, and two years later they were ranked third.

He says he has also had the "privilege" of coaching some "outstanding" players. Two went on to achieve All-American status, and three became Academic All-Americans.

Johnson says he teaches his athletes to "put academics first and sports second and to believe in themselves as winners, regardless of the outcome of the game."

Johnson was graduated from the University of Illinois, where he attended on a football scholarship, and majored in sociology with a minor recreation.

He and his wife, Margo, who works for the University of Illinois, have two daughters. Jene, also a U. of I. graduate, hopes to go on to medical school, according to Johnson, and is currently working for Carle Clinic in Urbana.

Their other daughter, 5 ft., 9 in. Janelle, is a freshman starter for Champaign Central High School's junior-varsity girls' basketball team. In addition to his Parkland duties, Johnson coaches an eighth-grade basketball team for a Unit 4 middle school. He said he wasn't sure at first if he would have the time, but he decided to do it because "a lot of young kids need a role model. I felt I could be that role model."

Johnson also runs girls' basketball camps in the summer, participates in a bowling league, and recruits players for the Lady Cobras throughout the year.

Johnson's office is in P123 (the Gymnasium building), and the phone number is 351-2370.

Coontz: person with many roles

by Andrea Franklin
Features Editor

Student Life Program Assistant Susan Coontz is one of the many examples of people at PC who have multiple roles.

Among her daily duties: editor of the Parkland Sprinkler (an intra-campus newsletter); Housing Information officer; assistant to the dean of students, instructor in the Principal Scholar Program; supervisor of Parkland I.D.'s, and business manager for the Prospectus.

Coontz is also the person to see about reserving display cases and renting College vans. She is also currently assisting Activities Program Manager Shelly Stoltenberg in coordinating this year's Alternative Spring Break program.

Through the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA), Coontz began working at the College in February, 1991.

"I like the variety of my job," she said. "I like the challenge of deadlines, serving students, and working in the Student Life Department. We're a good team."

The Rockland, Maine-born Coontz has three daughters, ages 25-33, and three grandchildren.

Prior to Parkland, she worked as a park naturalist for Broward County Parks and Recreation, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

She said her father told her that her family was part Native American, so she set out to learn more about her heritage.

She spent a month on a reservation and attended Sinte Gleska College (a Native American college), and she says she learned a lot of interesting things that "changed my life." She now follows "Red Path" spiritually.

"Being a park naturalist," she said, "I knew things were physically connected through ecosystems, but I learned all things were connected spiritually as well."

She added that she had "suspected this earlier, but actually knowing was like going home for me."

Before attending college, she attended the National Audubon Expedition Institute, Maine, during which her group spent nine months travelling around the country, sleeping outside and learning to live by consensus.

"At the end, we had to grade ourselves, and the group decided by consensus whether the grade was appropriate."

Coontz says she tries to greet students with a smile and help them find answers to their questions.

"Usually," she said, "when students get to Student Life they have already travelled all over the College seeking people to answer their questions; we're often their last resource. I try to end the wild goose chase. If I don't know the answer, I make sure I get it for them."

Coontz's office is in X154— adjacent to the Student Life office—and she can be reached by calling 351-2206.

Cobras beat DACC, lose to Lewis & Clark

by John Frazier
Prospectus Staff Writer

The Cobras won one of two last week, defeating DACC and narrowly losing to Lewis and Clark.

Against the Jaguars of DACC, Parkland led at the half 46 to 29, with the help of sophomore Karl Shipert.

In the second half, Danville made a concerted effort to catch up with Mike Meidel scoring 28 points for the visitors.

Parkland's fast-break and solid defense were too much for Danville, enabling Parkland to keet the lead, and win 89 to 77.

Despite sophomore Waymon Upshaw's outstanding 23-point performance, Parkland could not overcome Lewis and Clark's team which had four men scoring double figures. Parkland lost by one point—87-86.

The next home game is Jan. 26, at 7:35 against Spoon River.

Looking forward to new season

Baseball team warming up

by Brandon Lewis
Prospectus Staff Writer

With spring not to far away, the Parkland baseball team is getting ready for the up coming season. The team started practice only about a week and a half ago. They are at the U of I bubble and already their looking like winners.

Coming off a strong fall season, head Coach Rod Lovett is upbeat about his team's winter practices so far. "I'm happy with the team's work ethic so far and everyone seems to have stayed in shape over the off season."

The Cobras will have to be in good shape to try and match last year's 50-11 overall mark which set a school record for most wins in a season. It will be extremely difficult to do with the loss of last year's staff ace Matt McDonald to the Oakland A's organization and a young incoming team this year.

Coach Lovett will need some new people to step up and lead the team this year. Strong offensive numbers will be needed from switch hitting catcher Cory Bianch and infielder Shane Smith, who was second on the team last year in hitting with a .418 average. Freshmen Mike Cunningham and Shane Heams will also have to come through if the team is to do as well as last year.

To fill the gap in the pitching department left by McDonald, sophomores Brad Wagers and Brian Passini along with freshmen Preny Rodriguez and Steve Elkins will be expected to head the pitching staff. Coach Lovett believes that the pitching can be as dominant as it has been in the past. "I think we have the potential for dominant pitching but we still have a young staff right now."

Whether or not the pitching is as dominant as it has been for the Cobras in the past it should still be a strength for this year's team. "Pitching depth, high batting averages, speed, and defense should be some of strengths on this team," says Lovett, "but we won't have as much hitting power as last year, and we still need an ace on the pitching staff."

Coach Lovett has two goals for his team this year: "We want continued team improvement and more success in tournament play."

If the steady rise in the team's record from year to year in the past is any indication, then achieving these goals should be possible for this year's Parkland baseball team. The season is scheduled to get under way for the Cobras March 7 against Wabash Valley and at home April 5 against Lake Land College.
