

Parkland Celebrates 30th Anniversary

By JACOB LIVENGOOD
PROSPECTUS NEWS EDITOR

"We are so grateful to the founders. Thank you founders for following your dreams," said Lynette Trout, PCA president, at the Founders Wall Dedication and 30th Birthday Celebration.

The celebration honored the five founders of Parkland: Dr. Ray Braun, Dr. Lowell Fisher, William Froom, Dr. M Ray Karnes, and Dr. Eugene H. Mellon.

"We are here to honor the vision of people who were able to see things that weren't there," said David Thies of the Parkland College Foundation.

Dr. Ray Braun was active in the Illinois Association of School Administrators and was president of the Illinois Association of Secondary School Principals.

Dr. Lowell Fisher served on the Urbana Board of Education from 1951 to 1972, co-chairing the East Central Illinois Junior College District 505 steering ing Committee.

"Lowell Fisher deserves credit for the process that started Parkland College," said William Froom.

Froom, president of the Parkland College Foundation from 1975 to 1996, was named first recipient of the Parkland College Distinguished Service Award.

"William Froom is known as Mr. Parkland," said David Thies, member of the Parkland College Foundation Board of Directors.

Dr. M. Ray Karnes was active in the Illinois statewide study, which of the community college from the administration of secondary school districts, that was written into the Illinois higher education law in 1963.

Dr. Eugene H. Mellon aided in the founding of Horace Mann Insurance Company and served on the United Board of Directors of Champaign.

"The founding fathers were only a start," said William Froom. "This set the tone for remarkable educational opportunities."

"Twenty Six faculty members that began in 1967-69 still remain at Parkland," said Trout.

"I see an educational facility that far exceeds my expectations," said Froom. "The schools present sight of 233 acres, we believed, was enough room for expansion into the 21st century. We figured it was the best fit for the environment and for the community.

"This is an event that is unparalleled in my life."

WPCD 88.7 to change format

By JACOB LIVENGOOD
PROSPECTUS NEWS EDITOR

WPCD, Parkland's radio station at 88.7 on the FM dial, is changing its format effective Jan. 13.

Currently "Oldies by day, Rock by Night," WPCD's format, will be changed to Classic Rock from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., "New" Rock from 2p.m. to 6p.m., and "The Beat," which consists of R&B and Rap, from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

"It was time for a change," said Angela Proctor, co-director of Sales & Promotion at WPCD.

Research done in radio classes and studies in the surrounding area showed that Classic Rock, New Rock, R&B and Rap are popular among area listeners.

"We wanted to see what the people wanted," said Proctor.

In addition to WPCD's format change, the station also will join the technology revolution by initiating a web page (www.parkland.cc.il.us/WPCD).

While visiting WPCD's site, visitors may obtain information on the different formats WPCD has to offer: sports programming (Parkland basketball and baseball, and high school football and basketball), and music specialty shows (Jazz, Hard Rock, Accapella, Metal, Dance Mix and 80's Retro).

Information on Parkland's Broadcasting Program and classes may also be seen on the new web-page.

Those viewing the site can also e-mail the student management committee of WPCD, students who work at the station, or the WPCD professional staff through the web-page. The page will be up and running on Jan. 13.

Police Reports

A student reported that he was nearly struck by a vehicle which was driving on the sidewalk near the service drive.

A custodian found a bag of toys in an X-wing janitors closet. He recognized the toys as those he had seen earlier in the Toys for Tots bin. The toys were returned to the bin.

Officers responded to an emergency phone activation at the X-10 entrance. No one was in the area when the officers arrived. The phone was checked and found to be functioning properly.

Dec. 6

An officer was dispatched to the Gallery Lounge to investigate a report of a male subject harassing female students. The subject was located and questioned.

Dec. 7

A staff member reported his book bag had been taken from the M108 computer lab sometime during the previous evening.

Dec. 8

An officer found a book bag under a bench at the bus stop. The book bag was identified as one that had been reported stolen the previous day. The owner was contacted

The Department of Public Safety responded to 80 calls for service between Monday, December 2 and Sunday, December 8.

Letter to the Editor

Students dissatisfied with bookstore

Is there ever a time that your mind races with revelation? Well... at this time mine is, so I thought it beneficial to share with you these magnificent thoughts of pending revolution concerning nothing other than what we all live and breathe for... our money.

Let's face it, without our education we are just another ignorant individual who has a rare chance of being a face in the crowd. For this simple fact, I cannot thank Parkland enough for being a fine institution of higher education which will allow us tremendous opportunities to catapult ourselves into presidency or poverty. But in all this satisfaction I cannot help but be pessimistic about the way the college, (and every other bureaucracy), has to constantly dive into my pocketbook with some new percentage increase.

Let's forget about the tuition increases, or the programs that are masked with layers of red tape and talk about something that is instantly rewarding, directly financial and coming soon...let's talk about your college books.

I've talked to literally hundreds of students who are dissatisfied with the "refund" value of their costly books. People who for some reason or another were "short-changed" or left with a perfectly good "out-dated" book.

So being the resourceful senator I portray, I looked into the matter only to find that they are, "doing the best job they can." This sounds good and supportable but just like us students...not everyone gets A's.

This means there is room for improvement. Room for us docile students to raise a legitimate complaint while rendering a "student friendly" alternative to bookstore policies. A complaint/reform that if fashioned correctly could shake a little more change out of the bookstores pockets into our own.

Forget the notion "complaining gets nowhere," because there is power in the masses.

Let's come together, like the productively bright students we are, and devise a bookstore program that is by the students and for the students.

The option is ours: do we want to sit down and silently complain about our financially sapped disposition or do we want to stand up and loudly proclaim authority within this well endowed institution. Let's edify ourselves vocally and legibly, to someone or everyone but more importantly, to Your Student Government, so we all can collectively live and breathe easier with our money.

Place any ideas or complaints in the Student Government office located next to the library stairs in Room X159.

Parkland College—30 years past

Parkland students wait to register for classes outside of the school's prior location in downtown Champaign.

BY ALEXANDER LOBEL
FEATURES EDITOR

Parkland's College Center opened in September, 1967, in temporary facilities in downtown Champaign where Thai restaurant Nitaya now stands, but classes and activities were widely dispersed.

Many classes were held in downtown churches, all conveniently located within walking distance from each other.

The first student enrollment of 1,338 in September, 1967, was larger than anticipated and called for an immediate effort to meet the public demand.

Tuition in the fall of 1967 was $ 4.50 per credit hour, and 50 cents per credit hour registration and activity fee.

When Parkland started its fourth academic year in the fall of 1970, construction of Phase 1 of the permanent campus was well under way.

On the flat farmland a slight north-south ridge was, from the outset, recognized as the "prominence" upon which the College would sit.

Ernest Kump, the architect who designed the campus, referred to it as an "educational village." Parkland was featured at the New York Museum of Modern Art as an example of outstanding architectural design.

Camerata to perform Dec. 21-22

By Jessica Marksteiner
PROSPECTUS STAFF WRITER

The annual Christmas concert of the Parkland Camerata, entitled "The Sweetest Sounds of Christmas," will be Dec. 21 at 8 p.m., and Dec. 22 at 2p.m. at Holy Cross Church in Champaign.

The Camerata will feature traditional music from the Victorian era with carols such as "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "What Child is This," and "The Holly and the Ivy."

During the second half of the concert, the handbell choir will accompany the Camerata and perform two solos under the direction of Carol Hillman. The Camerata will also be accompanied by a string quartet and Ellen Elrick on flute.

There is a charge for tickets. They are also available from Sandra Chabot, room C144b, or at the door.

Christmas shopping has promise after all

BY DORI PHELPS
PROSPECTUS STAFF WRITER

In 1945, the Slinky took America by storm. Then came the Cabbage Patch Kids. Now it's Tickle Me Elmo by Tyco Toys.

This furry, laughing doll has not left many parents laughing. At some stores, the dolls don't even go on the racks. Customers on waiting lists are called to pick-up the dolls.

The Champaign Kmart is giving out rain checks and will not have any dolls until after Christmas.

The holiday shopping season has met with some mixed opinions. An area department store manager reported that this year's Christmas season, though only officially into its third week, is good. He went on to say that this shopping season has an added advantage. Because Christmas falls on Wednesday, holiday shoppers are getting two extra days in the week to shop.

Walmart Stores, Inc., reported net sales for the four-week period ended Nov. 29, of $9.35 trillion, an increase of 9.8% from the $8.519 trillion in the similar period in the prior year. Sales for this 1996 shopping season includes one shopping day while sales in the similar period in 1995 included eight holiday shopping days.

Because Christmas sales account for half of most retailers yearly sales, that type of optimism may not be unfounded. This year's strong economy may be giving shoppers the confidence to go out and make those Christmas purchases with such force as to make last year's depressed sales just a bad dream.

Retail analysts believe this year's sales will not be as strong because many shoppers may have started earlier in November or have run out of steam. Many shoppers also could be out just pricing and holding out for bigger discounts. Some stores have gone so far as to open at 5 a.m. and hand out free samples. However, even with their reservations, retail analysts are still talking of an increase in sales of 3-9% depending on the region.

Nudo—no stranger to winning

BY JASON PFEFFER
PROSPECTUS STAFF WRITER

Growing up as a kid Parkland Basketball Coach Al Nudo was a boy in love with a game—basketball.

"I can remember getting up at 7 o'clock and going over to the court next to the grade school and playing 'til school started. I didn't care what I smelt like," said Nudo.

As a youth, he was a member of a city championship grade school team and at Thorton High School went on to play for a state championship team.

"I never was a great athlete," says Nudo. "But I enjoyed the game, and when the opportunity came up for me to coach 15 years ago I took it."

Nudo made his way up through the coaching ranks starting with grade school and high school teams. Eventually, three years ago, he took the coaching position at Parkland.

"The love for basketball has always been with me," says Nudo. "Now that I have the time, I have the ability to give back to the game of basketball."

Coach Nudo enforces the essence of teamwork to his players.

"There is nothing wrong

with winning, but winning is the result of teamwork and sportsmanship...it's attitude," says Nudo.

Nudo doesn't talk as much about winning and losing as he does about the emphasis of team chemistry. He believes that right now the Cobras have the most positive team since he started coaching.

"The kids are willing to work, and they're understanding what it means to have good academic records," says Nudo.

He hopes that his players will understand that by working hard and succeeding in the classroom as well as on the court, they will be able to apply their ethics to the work force.

Nudo has three children: Nick, Maggie, and Sal and has been married for 26 years to his wife, Kassy, a Champaign native.

"You have to have an understanding wife to be away so much," said Nudo.

He has enjoyed living in Champaign for about 22 years and says he devotes most of his time to game films, players and family.

However, he insists that by stressing academics and the classroom, players will have more success on the court.

Turk Watson—Athlete the Month

BY DONNA LENTS-JOHNSON
PROSPECTUS SPORTS EDITOR

Sophomore Turk Watson of Danville received the nomination for Athlete of the Month for November.

Watson was named to the All-tourney team at the Lake County Tip-Off Tourney earlier this season.

Watson scored double figures in six consecutive games for the 6-2 Cobras with a season high 27 against Wabash Valley.

Watson also leads the team in scoring, averaging 19.0 points per game.

Watson is shooting 59% from the field, including 42.9% from the three-point arc and is shooting 71% from the free throw line.

In addition to his excellent shooting, Watson is second on the team in steals and assists and averages over five rebounds per game.

Coach Nudo stated that Watson's playing attitude is as tough as his academic stance.

"Watson works hard to achieve the best in everything he does," said Nudo.

PC Volleyball players collect awards

BY DONNA LENTS-JOHNSON
PROSPECTUS SPORTS EDITOR

The Parkland College volleyball team had a great fall season. The Cobras ended up in third place out of 15 teams in Region 24.

Erika Brez, Anne Chatterton, and Jamie Dague were voted to the 1st Team All-Conference and also to the All-Region Tournament Team and the All-Region Team.

For the CCI Conference

(Collegiate Conference of Central Illinois), Brez was named Freshman Player of the Year and was also voted Player of the Year.

"We have not had a double before.... This is a real honor," said Coach Winkeler.

During conference play, the Cobras lost only three games, but did not lose any matches.

"This was a great feat to show such consistency" said Coach Winkeler.

Erika Brez is also a nominee for the All American. "We've never had a freshman candidate for the All-American before.... We're really excited for Erika," said coach Winkeler.

Coach Winkeler also won the Coach of the Year award for her outstanding leadership.

The final confence standing for the Lady Cobras was 10 - 0.
