PC Student attends Million Woman March

BY BEN HARDIN
PROSPECTUS STAFF WRITER

"It was so positive," said Linda Gains, Parkland student, who attended the Million Women March in Washington, D.C. on Oct. 25.

Gains said the purpose of the march was to help African-American women get a better understanding of the community around them, get experience in working together, and understand how they can shape the lives of their children.

She said she went to the march to meet her sisters, get a better understanding of herself, and learn how to relate better to her children and plan their educations.

"Everyone treated us with the highest respect," Gains said.

She added that everyone she met on the way to the march and at the march, including those of different nationalities, were very helpful and supportive.

At the march, Gains met people from many countries and areas including Zimbabwe, South Africa, and New York.

Sister Sole, a young activist who took part in the march, really moved her, Gains said.

'Do something you like'

Successful business women give students advice

BY BEN HARDIN
PROSPECTUS STAFF WRITER

"Do something you enjoy," Lydia W. Fischel, mayor of Arcola, advised her audience at a discussion entitled "Women entrepreneurs: How to succeed in business in rural and small town America."

She said she first bought a pizza business in Arcola because she thought it would be a good experience for her children. Then, when her daughters were in junior high school, she bought a dress shop; when they were in college, she sold it and later ran for mayor.

The first time she ran, she ran against five men, and won. The second time she ran against four men, and won. The third time she was the only person who ran. She is now in her third term.

Fischel said that Arcola attracted businesses to because it had a good economics committee and used personal contact. She added that anyone who wants to succeed must use personal contact.

Asked how Arcola has improved its economic situation, Fischel said the town gets information every day from the state about matching fund grants and other programs, and although some people weren't happy about Arcola applying for grants, she feels that if Arcola didn't apply for the grants, some one else would.

She said her main motivation to become mayor came from her "pushy husband," who also was mayor of Arcola.

Marjorie Albin, director and vice president of eight banks, started out as a farmer. Her family owned some land, and some of it they rented. When her family tried to get a loan from a bank to buy some more land, the banker refused.

She had a small tax practice, then decided to get a charter to start a bank. However, while on a trip, she met a person who later sold her a bank in Champaign with assets of around $1.2 million.

She decided to stress agriculture and now owns eight banks with assets of approximately $150 million and is about two buy two additional banks.

Albin said that, to her, the real reward is seeing a person succeed and knowing that she played a small part in helping them.

She said; "You have to look for opportunities." She added, "Hard work is the core of the whole thing."

She also advised people who are thinking about starting their own businesses to choose something they like to do. She also said that a little hint is to learn the vocabulary so you can converse with others knowledgeably. Further she advised her audience to understand the accounting of the business and take care of the customers they already have. She cautioned that one of the big reasons businesses fail is that owners don't have enough money to get through the first slow period and they don't know how to generate interest. To solve that problem, she suggested that the owner find someone else who is in the business and find out what they are doing.

One will quench your thirst.
The other could set you up for rape.

Which would you drink?

Rape is a sad reality. And it can happen to anyone. Even you.

When secretly slipped into a beverage, even a glass of iced tea, sedating substances can leave anyone vulnerable to sexual assault. You may not be able to see it, smell it, or taste it. And you don't have to be at a bar or club. It could happen in any social setting. The tragic fact is that the reasons for rape really have nothing to do with you. It happens only because there are people who wish to harm.

But there are some things that may help reduce your risk:

- Always keep your beverage in sight
- At a bar or club, accept drinks only from the bartender or server.

- At social gatherings, don't accept open-container drinks from anyone.
- If you experience dizziness, extreme drowsiness, or other sudden and unexplained symptoms, call someone you trust. Go to a hospital emergency room immediately. Try to retain a sample of the beverage for testing.

If you think you've been sexually assaulted, call (800)656-HOPE for a rape crisis center near you, or call the police immediately. Don't be afraid to reach out for help. There are tests to help prove you've been drugged, and a federal law that can put the rapist in prison for 20 years.

So please, help reduce your risk...

Watch your drink!

Music Reviews

By: Steve West

God Street Wine
God Street Wine ★★★★★
 Mercury Records

A pinch of the Allman Brothers, a dash of the Black Crowes, and a tidbit of Wide Spread Panic. Put in blender and hit puree. The result is God Street Wine.

God Street Wine's newest album is simply titled God Street Wine. The album is a brilliant compilation of southern rock and blues rifts. Songs such as Feather have the band rolling in an explosive direction.

The band, natives of Maryland, made the album even better by inviting some friends to help with it. John Popper, of Blues Traveler, makes several appearances in the album.

God Street Wine have definitely defined themselves as a band to be recognized. The band puts on a great live show and has shared the stage with some great bands (Why Store, Allman Brothers, Wilco).

The new cd is a must for anyone who enjoys southern rock. The band is presently on tour and will be in Chicago around mid November.

Release Date: out
 Available: Everywhere.

Gold Finger
Hang Ups ★★★
 MOJO Records

The sophomore album from old Finger, Hang Ups, has anything but. The album shows what two years of maturity can do to a band.

GoldFinger's album is a lot "poppier" than the first one and offers more of a musical variety. The instrumentation jumps as this ska-punk band uses everything from a mandolin to flauto magico.

GoldFinger also used some friends on the album. Musicians from No Doubt and FishBone gave their support as well as talent to help the guys out.

Gold Finger holds a distinguished record. The band played 382 shows in one year. Now that is some fan appreciation.

The era of Ska-Punk bands in the mainstream is here, and bands like Gold finger are leading the way.

While this is only the second effort by the band, it is definitely one to check out

Release Date: out
 Available: Everywhere.

Holly McNarland
Stuff ★★★
 Universal Records

The cold air is not the only thing Canada is sending our way this year. Holly McNarland is exploding onto the U.S. music scene with her new album Stuff.

The album is filled with intensity as well as light heartedness. The 23-year-old singer is very candid in her lyrics and seems to capture personal emotions at their very roots.

Stuff at first seems almost poppy, but yet it is so intricate in some of the melodies that you find yourself drawn into the emotion of the album.

The song Numb, which has already made the top 20, shows off just how good the rest of the album is. Unlike the cold air of Canada, Holly McNarland will not disappear this Spring.

Release Date: out
 Available: Everywhere

Sult
Spirit of the Music ★★★★★
 Bottom Line Records

When Ireland and music fall into the same sentence, only a few bands come to mind— U-2, Cranberries, Sinead O'Connor. The new album Sult, a compilation of Irish artists, needs to be added to this list.

Sult, a gaelic word for fun, is the newest creation from Ireland. The album is a journey from start to finish. While most music does not captivate a listener for an entire album, Sult will have you begging for more.

Sult: Spirit of the Music, is the soundtrack for a 13 part mini-series about Irish music. The telecast was originally for TnaG, but since has been distributed around the world including the US Ovation channel.

The Spirit of the Music transcends the listener to the rolling hills of Ireland, right up to the mainstream of today's Irish contemporary music scene.

Sult is the ultimate album to settle back with a few friends, sip a beverage and feel the Irish melodies invade your soul. Do not miss the chance to pick up this album.

Halloween websites offer cheap thrill

BY COLLEEN DE BAISE
COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Talk about scary. Halloween is almost here, and what frightens you most is whether you'll find a costume that won't cost big bucks or isn't so complicated it'll prevent you from going to the bathroom the entire night.

Or maybe what's keeping you awake these nights is the thought of throwing a Halloween party so dull that your guests act like zombies--out of sheer boredom.

Never fear. There are plenty of websites out there this season that can offer last-minute inspiration for those spooked by the social pressures of Halloween. By spending a few minutes online, you can research the best fright flicks, get costume ideas, even find recipes for ghoulish party appetizers.

No parties to go to? Then consider taking part in an online seance (www.microserve.net/~magicusa/halloween.html). Organizers say it's an attempt to call back the spirit of magician Harry Houdini, who died on Halloween in 1926.

"The Houdini Halloween Seance has been a tradition for the past 71 years since the great magician's untimely death and has now moved to cyberspace," the site notes. But organizers admit they aren't expecting too much. Even Houdini's wife, who started the seance tradition, called them off 10 years after his death when they did not produce any astounding results.

Still, "e-mail with any results and lack of results," they say. "No kooks please, this is a serious test and tribute."

If contact with lost souls in the nether world isn't your thing, then check out a listing of nearly every horror movie ever made (la.yahoo.com/Showbiz/Film/Movie\_Websites/Titles/Horror/).

The site provides links to the movie homepages such as "Halloween '97 Celebration: The Homepage of Michael Myers" (www.ipass.net/~halloween/), which bills itself as "a website dedicated to the most terrifying film series ever--Halloween."

The site is named after Michael Myers, the series' evil villain who escapes from a sanitarium and stalks young girls, including the character played by Jamie Lee Curtis. If you've never seen the Halloween movies, there's quite possibly enough pictures on the site to save you a trip to the video store.

In the spirit of the holiday, the Ghost Web (www.aone.com/~starwest/) offers tips for ghost hunting and answers a host of frequently asked questions, such as "What do ghosts look like?"

Ghost Web, the official website for the International Ghost Hunters Society, also features a gallery of 615 "ghostly" photographs sent in by users. Prepare to be utterly spooked or underimpressed, depending on your level of skepticism.

Most of the photographs—including lots of graveyard shots—feature "mysterious" mists identified as the "swirling energy vortex" of ghosts. Funny thing is they often look a lot like regular precipitation, too.

For lighter entertainment, Sympatico Halloween (www.nb.sympatico.ca/Features/Halloween/boo.html) boasts a continuing Halloween story, which starts off with the line "It was a dark and stormy night..." and allows users to add their own spin.

The site also provides a link to an online Ouija Board, which, if done right, should have your mouse flying across the mousepad as if possessed.

There's also costume tips on Sympatico Halloween--"Learn how to make great fake blood... on a budget!!!"--and some truly disgusting recipes for Halloween parties, such as the edible Meathead centerpiece.

To make the centerpiece, start off with a plastic skull, layer it with Jell-O, then cover with strips of ham or corned beef, depending on the look you hope to achieve, the site says. "A ham Meathead has the appearance of someone with his outer layer of skin peeled off," the site says. "Vegetarians can experiment with the Cheesehead concept."

If your Halloween plans include a stop at a costume party, several sites offer clever ideas for a get-up.

A commercial site, Halloween Mart

(www.accessnv.com/halloween/) offers an order form from a catalog of costumes--everything from Batgirl to Chinese Take-Out Guy.

Halloween Costume Closet (www.FabricLink.com/Closet.html) has put together "10 Terrific Timesaving Costumes," which is a list of easy and inexpensive ideas for thrifty partyers.

For instance, the site details how to "quickly and inexpensively create a medieval costume using things you might already have in your closet." (Here's the skinny: Find a shirt four times too big. Cut off the collar, throw on a vest, and presto! You're a Renaissance man.)

There are even tips from the folks at Goodwill Stores of New Jersey, people who really know how to offer expert advice on how to dress like a Tacky Man/Woman. "Just butt UGLY, mismatched clothes (polyester and patterns are a plus)," they say.

If you're in the mood to share Halloween well wishes with others, consider sending an online greeting card. One of the more extensive collections can be found on the Awesome Halloween Greeting Card Site (www.marlo.com/halloween.htm).

The cards can be free and can be sent whizzing through cyberspace with a musical greeting, too.

To end your night, stop by the official homepage of the Ghost Research Society (www.ghostresearch.org), another site that features lots of "ghostly" photographs.

There's also tips on how to capture a "swirling energy vortex" on film, such as what kind of camera you need to use. Although not to fear, "any camera at any given time can capture a ghost on film," the site assures.

For a little light reading, turn your eyes to the Ghost Trackers Newsletter, the official online publication of the Ghost Research Society, which "devotes each and every issue strictly to the reporting of ghost, hauntings, poltergeists and life-and-death articles and will never deviate from that."

At least some things on life--and in death--you can count on.

term economic well-being."

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. —If you want to live comfortably in your old age, a good strategy may be to marry—for love and money.

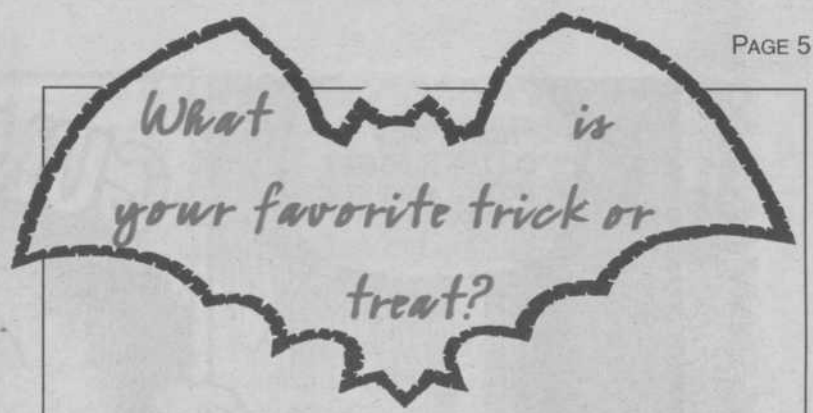

The study was based on a national survey of more than 7,000 households that included at least one retirement person age 51 to 61.

Married people tend to have more financial assets than divorced or never-married persons when they reach retirement age, according to a new Purdue University study.

"In later life, people who had never married had only 14 percent of the financial assets that married persons had accumulated. Divorced people who did not remarry had 15 percent," Wilmoth says.

"Marriage has a lot to do with wealth accumulation," says Janet Wilmoth, assistant professor of sociology at Purdue. "Getting and staying married appears to provide institutional benefits that greatly impact long-

Wilmoth says some of the financial benefits of marriage include home ownership, insurance coverage for spouses, survivor pension benefits, and an increased rate of savings.

PC Lady Spikers take final tourney

By NICHOLAS TRAXLER
PROSPECTUS SPORTS EDITOR

I'm sure that the Parkland volleyball team and its entire coaching staff has felt a great sense of accomplishment from Saturday's impressive Kankakee Invitational championship title. After a rip-roaring beginning to the season that saw the team win tournaments in Missouri and here in Champaign, the spikers entered a drought that saw them play well, but not well enough against the top teams to win those tournaments.

This weekend's triumphs could not have come at a better time. Tuesday will be the last regular season game, a home match versus Danville, and then the Region 24 tournament starts the following Monday.

The great timing can be attributed to great overall team play. Coach Winkeler said it in the simplest of terms when asked how her team played this weekend, "Well, she said. I prefer Awesome and this is why; Parkland went three and one in the tournament and lost only to Belleville College. Belleville is ranked in the top fifteen in the nation and P.C. took the match to three games before losing. More importantly, the team kept heads high and bounced back to punish all the other squads including Mott College from Michigan who was a top 25 team and perennial power Kankakee in the title tilt."

There was no shortage of sophomore leadership when it was needed most as team leaders Tracy Chaplin, Erika Brez, and Megan Grafton played extremely well in the key matches that led to the title. Grafton produced numerous service aces throughout the weekend and as always the set and spike Brez-Chaplin combo provided the offensive hammer.

Congratulations to the team with a 33-19 record and one game remaining. Next issue we will cover an unheralded aspect of the team that has been a major contributor to the players' successes all year. The players who support the team from the bench.

Intramural Roundup

By NICHOLAS TRAXLER

"Intramural Outdoor Soccer Day next Tuesday @ 3p.m. on P.C. soccer fields (barring snow!?!)."

Intramural Basketball League play began last Wednesday in the Parkland Gymnasium from 7p.m. to 10 p.m. The league is open to any Parkland student, male or female and participation is encouraged.

Team sign-ups were to be completed last week, but if you still want to play you may come this week to get registered. You are not required to have a complete team in order to participate. If you need players or you are in need of a team to play on, come on out and the Intramural Staff will help you get what you need for the league.

Colored jerseys are provided each week, but only if you have identification. The league will run from October 22nd until one week prior to the end of the semester.

Outdoor Soccer Day will be Tuesday, November 4th on the soccer fields near the Olympic Monument on the East side of campus and adjacent to the softball diamonds. This event is open to all students who wish to play soccer one more time outdoors before winter engulfs us.

Next Thursday, November 6th, will be bowling and 8-ball tourney day at Arrowhead Lanes in Champaign. This event is FREE!! to all interested P.C. students and campus organizations. The event will be held from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Transportation to this event will not be provided, but all games, shoe rentals, and pool matches will be paid for as well as prizes given out for various events.

Persons interested in any of these events can contact Tim Wulf or Nick Traxler @ 351-2426 for more information and times. Remember the IM staff is here to provide recreational activities for the student body so any questions or comments are welcome. Please leave a message and someone will return your call.
