Duncan Road Closed Again

The city of Champaign Public Works Department announced this week that Duncan Road will be closed - again.

Before you get into too much of a huff, they will not completely close the Duncan-Bradley intersection, and we do still have the main Parkland College entrance.

On Wednesday, March 4, Duce Construction Co. will close Duncan Road between Bradley Avenue and Bonnie Blair Drive to all traffic. This will effectively close the back entrance to Parkland College. This part of Duncan will remain closed through the end of June of this year. Traffic will have access into and out of Timberline Valley Subdivision from Alpine Drive on Bradley Avenue.

Vermilion County Museum Society

The Vermilion County Museum Society, 116 N. Gilbert Street, Danville, IL will be hosting a special quilt show Basic Necessities throughout the month of March. Basic Necessities, 51 original quilts each measuring 24 X 36 inches, were stitched by Pacific Northwest and Western Canadian Quiltmakers.

Sponsored by the Association of Pacific Northwest Quilters (APNQ) and coordinated by Jill Christenson and Anne Ryan, the exhibition highlights the imaginative potential of the quilt as an art medium with such diverse images as a blueberry bush, Visa card, houses and black shoes. Participants were asked to think about what is essential in their lives. What is it that they could not fathom living without?

The Vermilion County Museum is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Sundays 1 - 5:00 p.m. For additional information or directions, call the museum at 217-442-2922, or visit the museum's web site at www.vermilion-countymuseum.org.

Will we ever agree?

Editor, Mike Bush

There have been differences between societies throughout the ages and for the most part they have resulted in segregation. What happens when one society dominates another is where problems begin.

Usually there is an aggressor in the mix. You know, a person who is not satisfied with the way things are and is willing to do something extreme to change the status quo. Lenin was such a man, Chairman Mao another and Osama bin Laden is another such leader. But what drives people such as these to do what they do.

I believe that for each of these men, hate, at various levels, is the driving force. Hate that is not directed at a specific person, but at what is perceived to be wrong with a specific society.

I have heard some on Capital Hill proclaim that we should talk to bin Laden so we could end this war. The question is, what good would it do.

A Gallop Poll of ten thousand people in nine Islamic countries says that Muslims in these countries "showed deep hostility toward U.S. military actions and deep resentment of American values." It is the last part of this statement that I find perplexing. What part of our values do they mean? Materialism?

The Gallop Poll shows that we really do not agree on much when it comes to the events of 9/11. A majority of Americans say that Arab Muslims carried out the attacks of 9/11. While the majority of those polled in Islamic nations do not believe this.

Americans believe the attacks in Afghanistan are justified while, again, those in Muslim countries hold the opposite opinion.

For two people-groups who have a basic understanding of right and wrong to be so far apart is a paradox. To change the current situation requires an exception of a different paradigm.

Will we ever agree? I do not think we will. We will with the passing of time and information be able to better understand each other. As with many things in life, what one person thinks is not what the another understands and no amount of prodding will change this.

Athlete Spotlight: With Keith Parks

This weeks guest: Parkland College basketball star Keith Parks. Parks is averaging 22 points/game for the 14-16 Cobras who begin tournament play this Thursday.

By Kevin Ducey
Sports Writer

Q: Keith, what brought you to Parkland College?

A: I was in between schools and I was planning on transferring from South Plains Junior College due to my old coach moving on to a different school. I called Coach Warren here at Parkland, he asked me to come down to work out with the team and everything just clicked.

Q: What High School did you attend?

A: Chicago Carver.

Q: Were you recruited out of High School?

A: I had offers to play at Tulane, Bradley, Georgia Tech and Western Kentucky, but I didn't hit the books like I should have and I was forced to go the junior college route.

Q: What were your expectations of this team going into the season?

A: My goal was to get the program turned around to the national power it used to be when Coach Warren played here and won a national title.

Q: Why do you think the team struggled this season through an eight-game losing streak?

A: I think after we lost a couple in a row our confidence was shot and we just didn't believe in ourselves any more.

Q: Well you won six of eight after that and the team is headed in the right direction now, how far do you think you guys can go?

A: Well I think we got the worst basketball out of us already so that is a positive. I also feel that when we play well we can beat anyone in the country.

Q: What part of your game do you pride yourself on?

A: Definitely defense. You can't play for Coach Warren and not play good defense. I am still trying to improve day in and day out on my positioning and strength, but like I said to play here at Parkland you gotta love to play D.

Q: What was it like playing with guys like Jordan and Barkley?

A: Man those guys bring out the best in you. It is so competitive, but at times I would catch myself just watching and not playing. I mean it's Michael Jordan and Charles Barkley playing on the same team as me, it's kind of unbelievable.

Q: How do you feel those workouts improved you as a basketball player?

A: When you can excel on the court with those guys it just brings your game to the next level. Then when you play at the college level you feel you can dominate.

Q: Your choice, game on the line how do you win it?

A: Without a doubt a steal and a thunderous dunk!

Q: What are your plans after college?

A: Well, I have to take some more classes here because when I attended junior college in Texas some of my credits didn't transfer. So, I have to sit out a year and concentrate on school, but after that, there is a good possibility of me going to Florida State, Augustana, or maybe Illinois.

Q: What will you take from your experiences at Parkland?

A: In the classroom, mostly just the helping environment here at Parkland. There is always someone here to help and there are all kinds of programs to help you succeed. If you want to excel at Parkland there are so many people that are there for you to ensure that you do excel. In the sense of basketball, I would say my relationship with Coach Warren, he has helped me so much. Coach Warren is the perfect coach for me, he pushed me to make the most out of myself on and of the court, and he demands success. If I could just let some of you aspiring athletes out there know, take it from me, to be an athlete starts in the classroom.

Q: You worked out with Michael Jordan at one of his hoop camps is that correct?

A: Yeah I attended his camp when I was in High School and now Mike invites me back every time he is in Chicago holding a workout. I was there when he broke his ribs this summer. Mike and I have a good relationship.

Q: Who are some of the other players you have played with at one of Jordan's workouts?

A: Charles Barkley, Quentin Richardson, Michael Finley and a lot more.
