94 New Students Join the Ranks

The usual "Who is who" excitement prevailed in the college halls last Tuesday and Wednesday. Up until Friday evening 198 students had registered, 94 of whom were not here last year. The prospect for much larger registration is good as there are quite a number of old students who have not registered yet, because of circumstances that prevented their return for the opening day. Y. W. C. A. Reception

On Saturday evening, Sept. the 18th, a miracle took place among the women of McMinnville College. Childhood joys were once more at their command and they gathered at Music Hall 10 spend an evening together in fin and frolic before their curls and pigtails short dresses and beloved playthings should be taken away from them for a second time

The happy company amused itself in the hall, playing, teasing and even quarreling a little just like all kids do while each new girl listened with shivering expectancy for her summons to the dark room where unheard of torture awaited her. The "old girls" could creep into the mystery room by the back way and witness the procedures in safety and comfort.

After the last new girl had been put thru the mill the lights were turned on and all the little folks joined in a grand march. Then followed a thrilling race across the floor on newspapers after which the company seated itself on cushions upon the floor with faces turned expectantly toward the platform. After a bashful pause the country cousins mounted the stage awkwardly and gave an exhibition of how raw recruits are drilled out where they hailed from.

Next came a very clever performance by Miss Ruth Younkin impersonating the newlyweds. The Rosebud girls entertained the company delightfully with a few songs and Miss Minnie Larson, the Lady from New York, recalled for the benefit of her young and unsophisticated audience, her memorable sojourn in Mac some years before and gave words of advice and warning gleaned from her rich and varied experiences. Miss Jessie Young presented her company of marvelously trained artists who sang several charming songs in a most unusual manner and Miss Margaret Mann and Miss Beth Northup concluded the program with an entertaining dialogue.

An old pedlar with a push cart chanced along at just the opportune moment and the children viewed with delight the tempting lunches which filled his cart. He was most generous and provided each girl with an interesting packet holding still more interesting contents.

While an investigation and testing of this new found treasure was being made by each happy individual. Miss Myrtle Ballard, the president of the Y. W. C. A. gave a speech of welcome to the new girls and a warm invitation to join the College Y. M. C. A. and enjoy its privileges and help carry onward its work.

Youngsters must retire early you know, and so each little girl went home to take a long sleep and make up a young lady once more still holding dear, however, the memory of an evening spent in childhood's happy play time.

Y.M.C.A. "Stag"

The "Stag Party" which took place in the gymnasium Saturday evening was a great success. It was given for the benefit of the new men, and was characterized by warm feeling thruout.

The show began promptly at 7:45 and the new men were entertained one at a time to preserve order, and that they might be welcomed individually.

The first number on the program as the most interesting was the warming up. Each new man was admitted in the darkness and immediately taken in hand. Then the lights came on and his shoes came off. Next, he was draped gracefully over a pole and the upper classmen tendered him their regards, accompanied by loud noises.

After this the shoeless newcomers were given a peanut apiece, which had to be rolled the length of the gymnasium with the chin.

Another feature was "rough riding" the barrel, hung from the ceiling and jerked back and forth by two ropes.

Then the Frosh were lined up at one end of the gym and their shoes dumped in the center of the room. At the word "go" the bunch made a dash for the shoes, woe to the last fellow to get his on.

Soon all the fellows, old and new, sat down on the floor in a circle, (pretty trying on the new ones) and in turn each gave his name, home town, and nickname.

For "eats" each man received a piece of pie and a cup of cider. Afterward handbooks were given out, and lungs were tested on a few yells, and songs.

The affair broke up about ten, the new fellows going home to spend a sleepless night but with sweet anticipation of passing the good thing along next year.

B.Y.P.U. Gives Reception

At the close of the address by Rev. Myron W. Haines, all students and friends, old and new, adjourned to the Conquest Class room. On entering each was tagged with a slip bearing his name and home town, and given a souvenir of the evening.

But why all the violent handshaking? For once some people received something they didn't bargain for. Five people, Susie Steele, Dot Smith, Irl McSherry, Weston Henry and Emmett Konzelman, had been given dimes, and these they presented to the twenty-second person with whom they had shaken hands.

The fellows were next sent out to find the young lady whose name they found on a slip of paper. And then such bouquets as they gave each oth-

New Faculty Members Introduced

At the Baptist church Wednesday evening the opening exercises of Mc-Minnville College were held.

Harlo Leger accompanied by Miss Esther Smith furnished the opening music. Pastor Trawin then lead in prayer.

Dean Northup gave the necessary announcements pertaining to the opening of the college before introducing the new faculty members.

Miss Ramsey, a graduate of last year's class of McMinnville college, Miss Erickson of the State University of Montana, and Prof. Shumaker, a graduate of Colgate University, were the new faculty members who replied with short speeches as Prof. Northup introduced them to the students and patrons of the school.

Dr. Myron Haynes gave the opening address on "Things Worth While." He brought a strong appeal to the students to build temples, not huts, with their education. Seek your task and apply yourself and the world will give you credit. You are now forming habits which make your character. Guard these habits carefully so that your character will be pure, clean and Christian.

The Misses Myrtle and Mary Ballard, accompanied by Miss Loda Davis, rendered a violin duet before Dr. Haynes spoke and the evening program was concluded with a solo by Miss Alma Carstens, Miss Esther Smith accompanist.

New Officers Nominated

President Whitman called the first meeting of the Associated Students, Thursday, Sept. 17. The purpose of the meeting was to receive nominations for offices left vacant by the failure of some students to return to college.

The president assumed his new duties with the colon and dignity of a lord, and as all the old students know, he is well qualified for the position.

The students responded quickly, and the series certain at the series of the series of

It is Up To You!

Many students who for the first time set foot upon the campus of our large institutions find it extremely difficult to accustom themselves to the many rules and regulations under which they are to live. It is no easy task for some to make such adjustments as are necessary to bring them in accord with the laws that govern them. In Mc-Minnville we are proud of the freedom that we enjoy. The splendid discipline that is maintained on the campus and away from the campus is due in large part to the absence of petty regulations Regulations are good in their place and very often are a necessity, but so far it has not been necessary to overburden the handbook of our own school.

Doubtless many of the new students have already noticed that there are very few written regulations governing student life. No institution or organization can properly function and accomplish its purpose without a few fundamental rules and McMinnville College is no exception in this case. However, we believe that the administration has been exceptionally lenient for our good, and beyond a doubt very few students in other schools enjoy the freedom that is enjoyed by students on our own campus.

Certainly no student should find it difficult or unpleasant to abide by the regulations as prescribed by our own administration. Recently a few new regulations were added to the small list for the physical and social development of the student, but these in no way impair or interfere with the joys of college life. It is true that Mc-Minnville College does prohibit some things that are not prohibited in many other institutions. Students must not fail to remember that they are attending a private college and not a public institution. If this is kept in mind and at least a moderate amount of common sense is displayed every student will soon find his place in the ranks.

The absence of regulations places a responsibility upon each student to conduct himself so that further regulations will be unnecessary. When a student who has passed one or more years in McMinnville College returns for another year's work he or she accepts that responsibility, and we believe when the new students realize their position they will be equally willing to do their share.

There are some unwritten laws that it was found necessary to enforce several years ago and doubtless could be enforced again if occasion demanded it, but in a body of students where cooperation is desirable and essential to the success of student activities such measures should be a thing of the past, and we believe they are.

In view of the fact that there are but few regulations, it behooves every student to live up to the letter of each one. Certainly, no student will want to do less, for in so doing everybody will help to promote harmony and good fellowship in the college. Now that you are here, it's up to you to be a good sport, and come through with the best that's in you.

Get Into the Game

Going to College may be likened to playing a game. It has the essential elements and characteristics of a game. To some of you this is a new game, to others it has been a game for several years. But to all it means a recommencing of the game as the new semester begins.

Like all other games the success of the team depends on the players. The victorious team has a will to win. As you enter this "game of College" you must realize that your opposing team is composed of such skillful players as laziness, indifference, inertia and a host of other players who have the determination to beat you in your college game. Only as your determination is greater than your opponents' can you hope to attain your goal.

In baseball or any other game of whole game. The college game is not an exception. You must have team that nature no one player plays the work if you are to win. The student who tries to cooperate in making "Old Mac" a better school by fitting into his place in the game, is the student who will be a star player. If, while playing this game you find other players who are out of line and who are balky you play just that much harder and thus inspire them to get into the game.

Every game needs team work and besides every successful team means that each player is doing his best. In that respect the college game is better than many others. Even tho you do cooperate and tho you do have the spirit to make Old Mac victorious in athletics, oratory and debate, and other college activities, you may sometimes fail. You can be good losers, all the while knowing that you have done your best.

There is a place for everyone in college on this team. The faculty is expecting you to play on the team and your parents are counting on you to buck the line and to buck it hard. So old and new students alike get into the game right at the start. Work hard for your college. Get the spirit of cooperation in Student Body affairs and social functions. Above all, remember that this is a game where the individual efforts of the player counts most. You will find many things in the game that you don't like. Perhaps it will be some fellow player, some faculty member or some ruling. You can all find some criticism with every game. Be a booster for the game and play it hard. Remember it's the biggest game you can get into while here in college.

Conquest Class Notes

The beginning of the college year brought back a large number of old faces and a lot of new ones to the conquest class.

Erston Noftsinger, president of the class, due to sickness has not been able to return to school yet but sent his greetings to the class in a telegram. The class replied with a night letter.

The greater part of the class time was spent in making announcements and in getting acquainted.

Prof. Van Osdel spoke a few helpful words on the lesson which was a review of the kingly history of Israel. Miss Alma Carstens accompanied by Miss Loda Davis sang the verses of the Conquest Class song and all joined in on the chorus.

College Dining Club

Today more than ever before we hear the word "efficiency." As the efficiency of an individual in every relation of life depends largely upon the condition of his health, and as in turn his health depends largely upon the food he eats, on the selection and preparation of our food depends, more than on any single factor, the health and consequent happiness and prosperity of mankind.

A well balanced diet has been defined as "that amount that combination of food which will keep a person in full health provided he is normal to start with. We bid you welcome to our dining room, and hope to serve you (despite the H. C. of L.) with well-cooked food properly/combined to meet the needs of the body for growth, repair and cooper.

We are sure the members of the Dining Club will note with appreciation some necessary new equipment. We want our dining room to be a place of good cheer and good fellowship, and ask your hearty and helpful cooperation in making this the best year of the College Dining Club.

Again the mighty class of '22 has gathered within the historic halls of learning to diligently labor and toil that we might in due time become so sophisticated and intellectual as to occupy the seats of our grave and dignified Seniors.

The class has organized for the coming year, electing Minnie Larson as president and Sarah Christenson as Executive Board representative. In spite of the unusual heavy courses carried by the majority of the class already plans are being formulated for the good times in store for the jolly Juniors.

We are proud to be the kindly protectors of the greatest mass of verdant material that has ever appeared upon our campus and thru the long nine months of their fresh greenness we will endeavor to guide and direct their faltering footsteps, to aid them in forgetting their childhood pranks and the joys of infancy and duly impress upon their infantile minds that all that is green must eventually ripen. So we look forward to a big year, a good year and a peppy year. Let no Junior be caught napping on the job but let us unite to make it the best year yet.

Zeta Chi

September brings college life back again to us all and all enjoy it to the fullest extent. But that month also brings all Zeta Chi's together and that is almost better yet. This year we are especially glad to have some members of former years with us once more. Flora Maloney is back to complete her course after two years of teaching piano in and around McMinnville; Jessie Young and Mattie Bean are both here again. We feel we have good reason to look forward to the coming year with great anticipation for with these girls added to our membership we are ready to do our best for the college.

On Friday night we met with Margaret Mann in her new home on B street. There we compared notes on vacations and discussed many plans which will materialize in the future. After installing our new officers we had a short business meeting.

Phi Epsilon

As a fraternity we are looking forward to a very enjoyable and helpful year in which the fellowship and the social good times will draw us closer together and we will realize to a larger degree the worth of true friendship which will make us long remember our school and fraternity.

We had our first meeting with Prof. Frerichs last Friday night. The time was spent very profitably going over our varied experiences during the summer and we felt that we were ready to start another year in earnest. Some home-made ice cream and cake went to its appointed place without delay and added to our determination to do a good year's work.

Lambda Lambda Sigma

The first meeting of the Lambaa Lambda Sigma was held at the homof Her Royal Majesty, Loda Davis. Plans were laid for the coming year, and the Round Robin was read, which told of the summer work of all our girls. We are sorry that some of our girls were not able to be with us but our best wishes are with them wherever they are.

Kappa Alpha Phi

The Kappa girls are pleased to be together again and take up their college work. The aim for the year is to be of help to others and to uphold the standards of the institution.

The first meeting of the year was held in the grove. After the last steak was roasted and the fire extinguished the girls all went to Mother Potter's room. A jolly hour was spent at the home of Beth and Vivian Stewart be-fore time for the girls to return to their respective rooms.

I. O. M.'s

On Friday night the I. O. M.'s met with Dewey Maxwell. After getting them all together we could only count five of the old men present. We talked over the plans for the coming year and although there are only a few of us we feel as though we were going to have the best year yet.

Delta Psi Delta

A royal time was enjoyel at our first meeting of the year. The renewal of friendships and the relating of various summer experiences occupied the early part of the evening. Eleven of the active members have returne and we are looking forwa d to an ecceeting'y helpful year. Flas were discussed A short social hour sol lowed.

The College opening day found seven Alpha Gamma Nu men back on the job. Those registering were Park Stewart, Llewellan Sanderman, Harold Bliss, Jack Crump, Allrick Erickson, Orin Wilson, and Oscar Meddaugh. We all met at Prof. Van Osdel's home on Friday night for our first meeting of the year.

Blair Stewart and Earl Druse will be with us again soon. We are glad to say that Ralph Doud who graduated last year will be with us again as he expects to teach in the local High school this year.

We are also hoping that Erston Noftsinger will be sufficiently recovered from his recent severe illness to be back soon.

Miss Reavis Not to Return

Recent letters from Hollister, California, bring the disappointing news that Lois Reavis will not return to "Old Mac" this year She will attend a California school.

Miss Reavis was of Junior standing and chairman of the G. M. C. council. Her absence will be sorely missed by that body as great things were expected of her this year.

Miss Christensen to Reed

Mildred Christensen will not return to McMinnville this year, having decided to take her senior year at Reed college in Portland. She was secretary of the Associated Students.

er! Mark Rich found his lady to be a "Good Giver." You found out quickly, Mark. All the compliments that were read were snappy and to the point. The judges even had to flip a coin to decide to whom the prize should be awarded. Mr. McSherry was selected as the originator of the most appropriate compliment, as he said of his partner, "Everlastingly enthusiastic, eternally enduring," and as Prof. said, he ought to know.

The first fall nut crop was a most satisfactory one. Esther Whirry made a good collection of the nuts, and we are glad to have them labeled for us. Here's hoping none of them are bad ones.

Sinding's "Rustle of Spring" rendered beautifully by Miss Loda Davis, was enjoyed by all, especially those musically inclined. We are looking forward to that promised encore, Loda. Don't keep us waiting too long.

Is this next young damsel on the program a new student? in her coat and hat of royal purple? No, Professor Schlauch has no record of registering her. The poor girl of seventeen summers seems heart-broken, bewailing the fact that a widow of forty-nine is capturing all the men. Our sympathy was stirred to the utmost. Many of us have felt likewise, but all in vain.

Lights out! But hark! "Hiawatha's Melody of Love" is wafted to our ears, and see, before the campfire, in front of their tepee sit two Indians. The song was charmingly sung by Ruth Riley and Dorothy Smith, accompanied by Misses Mary and Myrtle Ballard and Miss Esther Smith.

Next, two large rings were formed, the young women forming the inner circle, and the men the outer. These circles moved in opposite directions, and when the music stopped, those opposite each other spent the time in getting acquainted. After this had been done several times, partners for refreshments were secured in a like manner. Apple pie a-la-mode may have tasted good before, but it surely hit the right spot that evening.

Our B. Y. P. U. president, Sylvester Cross, welcomed the new students, and we do hope that all will enter into our B. Y. P. U. and make this year the best ever.

It seemed quite natural for McSherry to lead us in our college yells. He can put the required pep into them, so that they go off with a boom.

After singing the College song, led by Professor VanOsdel, it was time to break up, for eleven always comes so quickly.

The social committee is to be congratulated, especially Mary and Myrtle Ballard, who so successfully engineered the reception.
