Master of Science in Accounting (MSA) Program

The Accounting MS Program prepares students for the changing accounting profession of the new millennium. The Accounting MS Program provides students with a balanced, rigorous, and in-depth core-course exposure that covers financial accounting, managerial accounting, auditing, income taxation, and research methodology. The Accounting MS program also exposes students to non-accounting fields so that graduates from the program can make decisions in multi-disciplinary business environments. In addition, the program enables students to meet the 150 credit hours requirement for the CPA exam in the states which have enacted this legislation. The program consists of curricular studies of 30 credit hours in the Accounting Core and Elective Curriculum.

Admission to the Accounting MS Program

The Accounting MS Program is open to applicants who hold a bachelor's degree from a regionally-accredited college/university or recognized international institution. Acceptance to the Accounting MS Program is contingent upon either: a bachelor's degree in Accounting from a regionallyaccredited college/university or recognized international institution; or successful completion of the equivalent content of (1) BLAW 285 The Legal Environment of Business, and (2) the following five undergraduate-level accounting courses:

- ACTG 301 Cost Accounting
- ACTG 307 Auditing Theory and Problems
- ACTG 310 Federal Income Tax (Individual)
- ACTG 321 Intermediate Financial Accounting I
- ACTG 322 Intermediate Financial Accounting II

Each application is evaluated on the basis of: (1) transcripts of all prior undergraduate and graduate coursework; (2) performance on the Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT) or Graduate Records Exam (GRE); (3) a statement of career goals and objectives; (4) two letters of recommendation; and (5) curriculum vitae (C.V.) and any other evidence that can help the committee assess the applicant's qualifications. International applicants are required to submit a minimum Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of 550 on the paper-based test (or, equivalently, 213 on the computer-based test, or 79 on the internet-based test). A minimum score of 6.5 on International English Language Testing System (IELTS) is also acceptable in lieu of TOEFL. All transcripts from foreign countries must be professionally evaluated on a course-by-course basis by Educational Credential Evaluators (ECE) or World Education Services (WES).

The Accounting MS program requires an undergraduate cumulative GPA of at least 2.75 (on a 4.0 scale) and a GMAT score of at least 450 or an equivalent GRE score computed using the published GRE conversion table (generally, 149 on each part of GRE is equivalent to 450 on GMAT).

Minimum competency in Mathematics (i.e., Finite Mathematics, Business Calculus, or their equivalent) will be expected before entry into the program. Those who have not acquired appropriate mathematical skills as part of their undergraduate programs may be required by the Graduate Program Coordinator to take appropriate remedial course(s).

Admission to provisional status:

Applicants may be admitted to provisional status if their GPA is slightly below the minimum requirement as specified above, provided that the composite index score calculated following the formula below is greater than or equal to 1,000 .

Composite index score $=($ GPA $\times 200)+$ GMAT score (or equivalent GMAT score in the case of GRE)
Each applicant admitted to provisional status is required to obtain a letter grade of $B$ or $A$ in all courses in the first 9 credit hours.

Exceptions policy for GMAT/GRE:

An applicant may request a GMAT/GRE waiver during the application process, if one of the following three conditions is satisfied.

1. An advanced degree (e.g., masters or higher) from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution with a GPA of 3.5 or higher;
2. A combination of an undergraduate GPA of 3.25 or higher from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution, at least five years of management experience, and at least 7 years of working experiences in total;
3. A combination of an undergraduate GPA of 3.25 or higher from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution, and active (or current) certification of ongoing continuing education (i.e., CPA, CMA, CIA, PHR, SPHR)).

If, upon review by the Admissions Committee, the applicant is considered admissible without a GMAT/GRE score, then the GMAT/GRE requirement will be waived. An applicant may also request personal interview. Note: A GMAT preparation course is available through the Office of Continuing and Professional Education (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/college-of-business-and-management/graduate-programs-business/gmat-preparation-course) .

Course Scheduling

All graduate courses being offered are scheduled on the evenings of workdays most of the time and on Saturday occasionally. The College of Business and Management makes an effort to schedule the graduate courses by following a predictable pattern. Students are cautioned to make course choices carefully and plan well in advance so that program completion will not be delayed.

Additional information for the MSA Program can be found on the website of the College of Business and Management (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/ college-of-business-and-management) .

Students can qualify for a variety of jobs in many sectors of business because of their broad based preparation in general business. ## Master of Business Administration (MBA) Program

The MBA Program provides students with a broad knowledge base in the area of business and management which will prepare them for mid- and upper-level positions in both the private and public sectors, including the manufacturing, service, financial, institutional, and government fields. The MBA Program offers a challenging and practical orientation to the complexities of modern business management and to the tools necessary for business decision-making. It consists of curricular studies of 33 credit hours in the Business Core and Elective Curriculum.

Admission to the MBA Program

The MBA Program is open to applicants who hold a bachelor's degree from a regionally-accredited college/university or recognized international institution. Each application is evaluated on the basis of: (1) transcripts of all prior undergraduate and graduate coursework; (2) performance on the Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT) or Graduate Records Exam (GRE); (3) a statement of career goals and objectives; (4) two letters of recommendation; and (5) curriculum vitae (C.V.) and any other evidence that can help the committee assess the applicant's qualifications. International applicants are required to submit a minimum Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of 550 on the paper-based test (or, equivalently, 213 on the computer-based test, or 79 on the internet-based test). A minimum score of 6.5 on International English Language Testing System (IELTS) is also acceptable in lieu of TOEFL. All transcripts from foreign countries must be professionally evaluated on a course-by-course basis by Educational Credential Evaluators (https://www.ece.org) (ECE) or World Education Services (https://www.wes.org) (WES).

The MBA program requires an undergraduate cumulative GPA of at least 2.75 (on a 4.0 scale) and a GMAT score of at least 450 or an equivalent GRE score computed using the published GRE conversion table (generally, 149 on each part of GRE is equivalent to 450 on GMAT).

Minimum competency in Mathematics (i.e., Finite Mathematics, Business Calculus, or their equivalent) will be expected before entry into the program. Those who have not acquired appropriate mathematical skills as part of their undergraduate programs may be required by the Graduate Program Coordinator to take appropriate remedial course(s).

Admission to provisional status:

Applicants may be admitted to provisional status if their GPA or GMAT/GRE score is slightly lower than the minimum requirement as specified above, provided that the composite index score calculated following the formula below is greater than or equal to 1,000 .

\text { Composite index score }=(\text { GPA } \times 200)+\text { GMAT score (or equivalent GMAT score in the case of GRE) }

Each applicant admitted to provisional status is required to obtain a letter grade of $B$ or $A$ in all courses in the first 9 credit hours.

Exceptions policy for GMAT/GRE:

An applicant may request a GMAT/GRE waiver during the application process, if one of the following three conditions is satisfied.

1. An advanced degree (e.g., masters or higher) from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution with a GPA of 3.5 or higher;
2. A combination of an undergraduate GPA of 3.25 or higher from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution, at least five years of management experience, and at least 7 years of working experiences in total;
3. A combination of an undergraduate GPA of 3.25 or higher from a U.S. regionally-accredited institution, and active (or current) certification of ongoing continuing education (i.e., CPA, CMA, CIA, PHR, SPHR)).

If, upon review by the Admissions Committee, the applicant is considered admissible without a GMAT/GRE score, then the GMAT/GRE requirement will be waived. An applicant may also request personal interview. Note: A GMAT preparation course is available through the Office of Continuing and Professional Education (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/college-of-business-and-management/graduate-programs-business/gmat-preparation-course) (CAPE).

Course Scheduling

All graduate courses being offered are scheduled on the evenings of workdays most of the time and on Saturday occasionally. The College of Business and Management makes an effort to schedule the graduate courses by following a predictable pattern. Students are cautioned to make course choices carefully and plan well in advance so that program completion will not be delayed.

Additional information for the MBA Program can be found on the website of the College of Business and Management (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/ college-of-business-and-management) .

Sandra Beyda, Ph.D., Professor, Acting DeanAlberto López-Carrasquillo, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Associate Dean

The faculty and staff of the Goodwin College of Education of Northeastern Illinois University are dedicated to excellence and innovation in education. Serving the Chicago metropolitan area, we seek to make our teaching, research, and service efforts responsive to the needs and aspirations of a diverse student body and community. The theories of our conceptual framework are reflective, collaborative, and transformative, and guide the preparation of all educators. The Goodwin College of Education, as a fundamental component of a comprehensive public urban university, dedicates itself to becoming nationally recognized:

1. In developing professionals who will teach, train, consult, and counsel; in becoming leaders who facilitate learning, scholarship and creativity throughout life;
2. In developing, applying and disseminating research that results in new knowledge, improved practice and greater levels of achievement by instructors, learners, families, communities and organizations; and
3. By strengthening a commitment to serve schools, communities, business, industry and the professions.

To accomplish our mission, we pursue collaborative and systematic strategies that will continue to improve our teaching, learning, research, and service. We seek to utilize our location in the Chicago metropolitan area as a base upon which we will build and support teams and alliances within the university, and in all appropriate areas outside the university.

The Goodwin College of Education takes an all-university approach, requiring its candidates to have a well- rounded general education in the liberal arts, thorough training in professional education courses, and extensive school-community clinical experiences. Candidates completing teacher preparation programs receive entitlement to licensure from the Illinois State Board of Education. Occasionally, state requirements for various endorsements may change. Consult the Program Advisor regarding licensure and endorsement requirements.

The summary pass rate for Northeastern Illinois University of Test of Academic Proficiency (formerly Basic Skills) and the Academic Content Area Tests is $97 \%$. Additional information on test performance of NEIU program completers is available in the Goodwin College of Education office of the Dean.

Candidates with degrees may complete an approved teacher preparation program through a Teacher Licensure Program (TLP) or Focus Program. Information for degree candidates is available from the Program Advisor.

General Considerations for Those Taking Course Work, Seeking Admission and Retention in the Goodwin College of Education

The following apply to candidates completing coursework in the Goodwin College of Education seeking admission and after admission to the college:

- Candidates may not enroll in any required professional education course more than twice to achieve an acceptable grade.
- The Admissions, Retention, and Appeals Committee of the Goodwin College of Education may request an interview with any candidate or have any candidate meet with the respective Department Professional Standards Committee. The continuation, admission, retention, or graduation of that candidate may be withheld until the candidate complies, and the committee takes appropriate action relative to the candidate's status.
- Candidates may be required to take examinations or submit other documentation specific to the particular program and discipline in which they are enrolled or seeking enrollment.
- Programs may impose time limitations on candidates completing programs. If candidates do not meet time limitations, they may have to retake some courses.
- Evidence of specific behaviors and/or dispositions which would be likely to interfere with satisfactory performance as a teacher or professional within the field may be considered as constituting a basis for denying admission or retention.
- Prior conviction of certain felonies may preclude State Teacher Licensure. Contact the State Licensure Officer for clarification. Prior conviction of certain felonies may also preclude placement in certain field experiences. A federal fingerprint-based background check is required. The individual must notify the Clinical Experiences Office of any convictions prior to placement in any field experiences.
- Candidates with degrees seeking licensure under Illinois House Bill 2207 must seek admission to both the Goodwin College of Education and to the Teacher Licensure Program (TLP) for Post-Baccalaureate Students. These are separate processes. For requirements and advisement, contact the program advisor.
- Candidates enrolled in the B.A in Interdisciplinary Studies (BAIS) program at Northeastern who wish to pursue any of the programs within the Goodwin College of Education may take a maximum of nine hours prior to admission to the college. To take any further courses, the candidate must be formally admitted to the Goodwin College of Education. Candidates must also complete all professional course requirements of their particular programs. A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50 (on a 4.0 scale) is required of all undergraduate work for BAIS candidates to be admitted into the college.
- For graduation, candidates must have a GPA of 2.75 or higher in all Professional Courses and a 2.50 cumulative GPA (some programs might have a different GPA requirement, please consult your program advisor). Grade of "B" or better in all Clinical Experiences and Student Teaching is required. Also see graduation requirements below.

Graduation Requirements

To be eligible for graduation all candidates must:

- be admitted to the correspondent college (Goodwin College of Education for undergraduate and TLP candidates and College of Graduate Studies and Research for graduate candidates
- follow college retention policies (Goodwin College of Education for undergraduate students and College of Graduate Studies and Research for graduate students),
- successful completion of required courses in professional education sequence, all requirements of their academic program, and all university graduation requirements.

Licensure Requirements

Candidates pursuing teacher licensure are required to complete general education coursework as specified by their respective program. For further information concerning the general education requirements, candidates should consult with the respective Goodwin College of Education departments offering teacher licensure programs. In addition, candidates must meet all the State of Illinois requirements pertaining to the specific endorsement(s) to be recommended for licensure through University Entitlement by the Goodwin College of Education.

Illinois Licensure Testing System (ILTS)

The State of Illinois requires that candidates seeking early childhood education, elementary education, secondary education, K-12 programs, reading, special education, school service personnel or administrative endorsements must pass a series of examinations in order to be licensed. For instance, all candidates must pass a Test of Basic Skills such as the ILTS Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) or ACT plus writing or SAT prior to college admission. All candidates must also pass the Content Area Test for which endorsement is sought prior to receiving authorization for any student teaching, practicum, or culminating internship.

Candidates seeking licensure in early childhood education, elementary education, secondary education, K-12 programs, or special education must also pass the Teacher Performance Assessment (edPTA) during student teaching experience. edTPA is only required for the initial licensure in Illinois. Subsequence endorsements do not require edTPA.

Additional information for these tests is available at ISBE Licensure Testing.
Note: Candidates who completed their student teaching before September 1, 2015, consult with your adviser regarding APT 188.

Admission Policies for Undergraduates

Admission to Northeastern Illinois University does not automatically constitute admission to the Goodwin College of Education, or to professional programs in the college. Candidates who seek to major in any of the programs offered in the Goodwin College of Education must be admitted to the college to complete their degrees and to graduate.

Declaring an Education Major

Students intending to major in education should first declare a "pre-major" until all college admission requirements are completed. Once the admission requirements are satisfied, be sure to submit a second Undergraduate Major/Minor Declaration form (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/sites/ neiu.edu.academics/files/documents/srmagill/Major-Minor\%20Declaration\%20Form\%205-16-16.pdf) to declare the education major. Candidates may contact the undergraduate Goodwin College of Education advisers (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/program-adivisors-college-education/ contact-us) for further information.

In order to declare a major in education undergraduate students must:
Step 1: Contact a Goodwin College of Education Advisor (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/program-adivisors-college-education/contactus) in the program they are interested in majoring in;

Step 2: Passing a Test of Basic Skills such as: the ILTS Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP) or ACT plus writing or SAT. If using ACT or SAT in lieu of TAP, scores must be received in a sealed envelop by the college. Visit the Goodwin College of Education for instruction (http://neiu.edu/academics/ college-of-education/admission-requirements).

Step 3: Set up an account in Educator Licensure Information System (ELIS).
Step 4: Send official ACT or SAT scores to ISBE (http://www.isbe.state.il.us/licensure/html/testing.htm#scores) .
Step 5: Program advisor will forward complete Declaration of Major form to the Goodwin College of Education Dean's Office. In Secondary Education, candidates may declare their content area major (Art, Biology, English, Health Education, History, Math, Music, PE, Spanish) but may not declare their secondary education major until they have passed a Test of Basic Skills.

To apply for admission, all candidates must submit a complete application. To obtain a list of admission requirements, undergraduate candidates may visit Goodwin College of Education Website (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/admission-requirements) or graduate candidates may visit the College of Graduate Studies and Research (http://neiu.edu/academics/graduate-college) . Admission will inform undergraduate students of their decision by email. Applicants must include their NEIU e-mail on their application, and check their e-mail regularly to know their admission status.

All candidates, including transfer students, must meet the following minimum requirements for admission to the Goodwin College of Education:

Clinical Experience and Student Teaching (CEST)

Programs that prepare students to obtain an Illinois Professional Educator License require students to participate in a variety of courses that include field-based experiences as required by State Law. These field-based experiences occur in public, charter, private, and parochial schools, day care centers, and community agencies, depending on the program of study being pursued. The Clinical Experiences and Student Teaching Office collaborates with school partners to identify a variety of field sites for placements.

Prior to being accepted by a field site, the student may be required to interview with staff at the site, complete an application, submit additional information, and/or have credentials reviewed based on site requirements.

Students complete supervised field-based activities at these partner sites to develop a practical skill set and gain a deeper awareness of the knowledge, skills, and dispositions required of a practicing professional in the field. All field-based experiences are conducted under the supervision of a fully certified professional at the field site and a university supervisor. The student is evaluated by both.

Office of Clinical Experiences and Student Teaching (CEST)

Catherine Wycoff, Director

OVERVIEW

Field-based clinical and student teaching experiences support the development of knowledge, skills, and dispositions future educators require to educate diverse student populations. These are managed, assigned, supervised, and evaluated through the CEST Office. Design, implementation, and evaluation of clinical experiences are done in collaboration with faculty, staff, and school-based partners to provide optimum opportunities for the growth and development of candidates. Illinois state law requires those seeking an Illinois Initial Professional Educator License to complete field-based experiences which include student teaching. These must be completed while enrolled in a State Approved Program under the direct supervision of teacher holding the appropriate teaching certificate/license and a university supervisor.

All field-based experiences are components of university courses and are completed at field sites selected solely by the university. One or more placements will be in diverse and/or urban settings. Field sites are selected to assure compliance with CAEP Standards, Illinois State Law, School District/School policies, procedures, and regulations, and NEIU policies and procedures. Processes or procedures may be altered in response to changes made by any of the aforementioned.

All clinical and student teaching experiences include a field-based component and university-based coursework and/ or a seminar. In addition, concurrent registration in other courses may be required. Students must successfully demonstrate success in the field and with seminar and classroom components of the course to successfully complete the course. A candidate, who is successful in one, but not the other, will be unable to successfully complete the course, without exception.

Note: EDFN course field placement information is found at the end of this section of the catalog.

All dates, announcements, information, news, and other resources will be posted at the CEST Group homepage found in NEIUport Groups. Students planning to pursue a degree in an education program requiring clinical coursework and/ or student teaching must join the CEST Group in NEIUport Groups. This should be done during enrollment in the EDFN courses, or immediately upon deciding to pursue a degree in Education.

If you are in a program requiring you to pass edTPA (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/edtpa/edtpa-candidates) for lllinois initial licensure, important information and documents are available at the Daniel L. Goodwin Goodwin College of Education edTPA Website. (http://neiu.edu/academics/ college-of-education/edtpa/edtpa-candidates)

COMMUNICATION

All communications from the CEST Office will be sent only through the NEIU email address.
A variety of technology will be used extensively to maintain communication with candidates. Technological tools currently in use include NEIU email and NEIUport Groups.

The student is responsible to immediately become a member of an online group when directed. Failure to enroll in an environment, check email, or maintain an active email address in a NEIUport CEST Group (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/departments/clinical-experiences-and-student-teaching/cest-group) may cause the student to miss important information, including updates about program changes and deadlines. Students who miss information or deadlines due to lack of membership, errors in the email address, or failure to check announcements or email sent will not be afforded any special consideration or adjustments.

CLINICAL AND STUDENT TEACHING INFORMATION SESSIONS

All who intend to apply for a clinical and student teaching are required to attend one CEST information session (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/departments/clinical-experiences-and-student-teaching/cest-group) BEFORE submitting an application. Meetings will be announced within the CEST NEIUport group (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/departments/clinical-experiences-and-student-teaching/cest-group) site. Information about application procedures, policies, expectations, timelines, and other related information will be provided to assure successful application.

Information sessions are mandatory. EACH field experience, regardless of the number of field experiences in a program, will require you to attend an information session and submit an application. Students who do not attend an information session must contact the Director of the CEST Office (http:// neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/node/227) . This may result in a delay of your field experience.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Teacher candidates must apply to the CEST Office one year in advance of the semester in which planning to complete their clinical or student teaching experience.

REGISTRATION FOR COURSES WITH FIELD-BASED EXPERIENCES

Courses requiring field-based experiences require the following:

1. submission of all materials (online and print) application to the CEST Office by the established deadlines,
2. registration in the course(s) using regular university procedures during advance registration and payments made on schedule to assure that registration is maintained, and
3. final approval from the CEST Office to enroll/remain enrolled in associated courses based on a review of program requirements.

To be considered fully registered in a field-based course, the course must appear on the student's record in the official university student registration system. Those who are not fully registered into a course with field-based placements will not be permitted to report to a placement site. Students will be immediately removed from a field site and notified at the time the CEST Office becomes aware of removal from a course for non-payment or any other reason. Reporting to a placement site with knowledge of not being fully enrolled or after being terminated is cause for disciplinary action.

ADMINISTRATIVE DROPS FROM FIELD BASED COURSES

Students will be administratively dropped by the CEST Office when prerequisites or requirements for courses, having field placements have not been fulfilled, for the following reasons: 1) when procedures have not been followed, 2) registration in required concurrent courses has not occurred, 3) student has been removed from his/her placement site by school administration or NEIU.

PLACEMENT

Field placements are solely managed by the CEST Office. Students may request one or more placement sites to be considered. However, placements are driven by CAEP Standards, Illinois State Law, school district or private school requirements, and availability of supervisors. As such, a placement site cannot be guaranteed. Placement at some sites is contingent upon completion of a successful interview with the administration and/or other staff. In the event a candidate is unsuccessful in two interviews, no further attempts to place will be made.

CHANGES IN PLACEMENT

Changes will not be made once a placement has been confirmed by a School/District. Students may NOT contact schools or districts in attempts to secure a placement. This behavior is cause for disciplinary action, including removal from the program. Candidates who reject placements will not be placed until the next semester in which placements are made.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Placements will be made to assure that no conflicts of interest occur so that candidates receive an experience that is free of bias and external influence. Candidates will not be placed in schools they have attended, where family members or significant others attend, are employed, serve on school boards or LSCs, or in districts outside of CPS District 299 where family members are employed or serve on school boards.

PLACEMENT SITE LOCATIONS

Placements will be made in urban and diverse settings in Chicago, and portions of Cook, Lake, McHenry, Kane, Will, and DuPage counties.
Field placement sites are selected to prepare students to be able to teach students with special needs, newcomers and English Language Learners (ELLs), students in high needs schools, and students from racial, cultural, ethnic and socioeconomic groups. Every effort is made to provide teacher candidates with a variety of experiences within the grade range required under the endorsement; however, this may not always be possible. All placements are made within the age/grade span covered on the endorsement under the Professional Educator License (PEL) one is seeking to earn as follows:

| PEL Endorsement | Placement |
| :--- | :--- |
| Early Childhood Education | Birth-Grade 3 |
| Elementary Education | Grades K-9 |
| Secondary Education | $6-12:$ Grades $9-12$ (specific subject) and 6-8 with middle school coursework |
| K-12 Education Programs | K-12 (specific subject) |

PLACEMENTS OUT OF AREA

Candidates may submit a written request for the Director to grant permission to complete student teaching as guest student at another NCATE or CAEP accredited institution outside of these areas in the event of a move out of the area. These situations generally occur due to a move out of state with student teaching the only class left for completion. If permission is granted, the candidate registers at NEIU and pays tuition and fees and the Director defines procedures for supervision and evaluation. The candidate usually incurs additional fees to be paid to the host institution directly.

STUDENTS SEEKING A SUBSEQUENT ENDORSEMENT

Illinois State Law allows those possessing a current Illinois Teaching License to obtain one or more subsequent teaching endorsements by pursuing a focused program of study. The configuration of clinical experiences and student teaching required will be based on the results of an evaluation of credentials and professional teaching experiences.

These students will apply and be processed individually consistent with the law and in accordance with NEIU policies and procedures.

TB TEST

NEIU requires clinical students and student teachers to provide evidence of freedom from communicable disease, including tuberculosis. Such evidence shall consist of a tuberculin skin test (TB Test) (NEIU Health Services requires Mantoux) and, if appropriate, an X-Ray, made by a physician licensed in Illinois or any other state to practice medicine and surgery in all its branches, an advanced practice nurse who has a written collaborative agreement with a collaborating physician that authorizes the advanced practice nurse to perform health examinations, or a physician assistant who has been delegated the authority to perform health examinations by his or her supervising physician not more than 90 days preceding the start date. T.B. Test may be obtained at no cost from the NEIU Health Services Department ((773) 442-5800, Room E-051).

Those tested outside of NEIU must present their results to the NEIU Health Services Department and receive a Tuberculosis Test Report Form. The student then brings this form to this office. A form is available online at: OFF-CAMPUS TB TEST REFERRAL FORM (http://neiu.edu/university-life/sites/ neiu.edu.university-life/files/documents/bthoang/tb_form.pdf)

A TB test may be obtained in the Health Services Office or from a health provider outside the university.

PHYSICAL EXAM

Candidates may have to complete a physical exam. Illinois School Code, 105 ILCS 5/24-5) (from Ch. 122, par. 24-5) identifies the need for new employees, including student teachers, to provide evidence of physical fitness to perform the duties assigned and freedom from communicable disease. It will be the student teacher's responsibility to comply with the Illinois School Code physical exam requirements if requested by a hosting school district/ school during your student teaching assignment. In accordance with the Illinois School Code (105 ILCS 5/24-5 (a) and (b)):
(a) In this Section, "employee" means any employee of a school district, a student teacher, an employee of a contractor that provides services to students or in schools, or any other individual subject to the requirements of Section 10-21.9 or 34-18.5 of this Code.
(b) School boards shall require of new employees evidence of physical fitness to perform duties assigned and freedom from communicable disease. Such evidence shall consist of a physical examination by a physician licensed in Illinois or any other state to practice medicine and surgery in all its branches, an advanced practice nurse who has a written collaborative agreement with a collaborating physician that authorizes the advanced practice nurse to perform health examinations, or a physician assistant who has been delegated the authority to perform health examinations by his or her supervising physician not more than 90 days preceding time of presentation to the board, and the cost of such examination shall rest with the employee. A new or existing employee may be subject to additional health examinations, including screening for tuberculosis, as required by rules adopted by the Department of Public Health or by order of a local public health official. The board may from time to time require an examination of any employee by a physician licensed in Illinois to practice medicine and surgery in all its branches, an advanced practice nurse who has a written collaborative agreement with a collaborating physician that authorizes the advanced practice nurse to perform health examinations, or a physician assistant who has been delegated the authority to perform health examinations by his or her supervising physician and shall pay the expenses thereof from school funds.

- crimes defined in the Illinois Controlled Substances Act.

Employment must be denied where the offenses and/or conviction occurred inside or outside the state of Illinois.
In addition, convictions related to certain offenses, other than those listed in Section 21B-80 of the School Code [105 ILCS 5/21B-80] that result in automatic revocation or denial of licensure, may lead to denial of licensure if they demonstrate that the applicant is not of good character as required by Section 21B-15 of the School Code. Accordingly, each applicant for the issuance, registration, or renewal of an Illinois professional educator license, educator license with stipulations or substitute teaching license or for the addition of another credential (e.g., endorsement, approval, designation), including any credential issued under Subpart G of this Part, shall be required to indicate on the relevant form whether he or she has ever been convicted of a felony or of any sex, narcotics, or drug offense (whether felony or misdemeanor) in Illinois or any other state.

The Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education requires LIVESCAN Federal Fingerprint Background Checks of those registering to complete major fieldbased clinical experiences. Students may be subject to multiple checks if enrolling or participating in a clinical experience after the expiration date.

The Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education requires LIVESCAN Federal Fingerprint background checks of those registering to complete student teaching less than three months prior to the start of the semester in which student teaching is taken.

STUDENT TEACHING CALENDAR

All courses requiring students to complete field-based clinical components are University courses and follow the University calendar. Student teaching begins and ends on the first and last day of the semester as published in the University Schedule. Students may not report to a school to begin student teaching or activities associated with it before the official first day of the semester, without written approval of the principal and the CEST Director.

During the student teaching period, the student teacher follows the calendar of the school/district, not NEIU, with respect to holidays and vacations. Those planning to student teach in the Spring semester must not plan travel or vacations in advance of receiving a confirmed student teaching assignment. If advance plans are made and conflict with school/district Spring Vacation times, travel plans will need to be altered. Teacher Candidates who plan vacations in advance of knowing the school district calendar risk being unable to complete their plans as scheduled if the vacation period conflicts with the school/district calendar.

PRE-STUDENT TEACHING CLINICALS: SCHEDULING

Pre-student teaching clinical experiences are scheduled at dates and times mutually agreed upon between the NEIU Teacher Candidate and the school/ site cooperating teacher(s) and/or administration. These will be planned between the start and end dates of the semester and only after being assigned to a placement site by the CEST Office.

Candidates must plan to be at a school in no less than half day increments, and ideally for full days. Additionally, clinical candidates should plan to be at a clinical site on one or more consistent days throughout the semester.

Pre-student teaching clinicals may not be completed sporadically or clustered into a two or three week period.
A Teacher Candidate who is unable to complete a field-based component of a course within the semester due to an extenuating circumstance may request to receive an "I" grade (Incomplete Grade Policy (http://catalog.neiu.edu/archive/2016-2017/academics/grading-transcripts/incomplete-gradepolicy) ). When an "I" grade is issued, an Incomplete Contract will be developed to define the requirements, procedures, and timelines to be followed. Deviations from this contract minimally require the written approval of the CEST Director. Lack of success in the placement is not cause to issue an "l" grade.

SCHEDULING CONFLICTS

Candidates must plan other coursework, work, personal, and family obligations in a way that allows sufficient time to travel to and from the site, fulfill clinical expectations at the site, and complete any associated requirements such as research, lesson planning, and other work required outside of the placement site. When planning, it is suggested that the candidate plan ninety minutes in each direction for travel as there is no guarantee of a placement site close to home, work sites, or the University.

Scheduling conflicts for seminars and other University-based activities may occur as a result of variations in holiday, break, or vacation periods of schools/districts and NEIU, and/or variations among the school/district calendars of the students under the supervision of a single supervisor and/or seminar leader. Conflicts will need to be discussed with the supervisor who may or may not make an accommodation.

The supervisor or the student may seek assistance from the CEST Director to resolve such matters. Nothing in this section should be construed to suggest that matters will automatically resolve as the Teacher Candidate desires as the University is responsible to maintain program integrity.

SEMINARS

All courses with field-based clinical components include a class seminar held on or off campus. Dates and times will be published in the University Schedule for the semester. Seminars begin during the first week of classes and continue throughout the semester.

Seminars follow a defined syllabus and complement the field-based component of the course. The syllabus includes specific content to be learned. Written and other assignments are also required. Discussions will include reflections about the field-based clinical experience and progress toward becoming a professional educator.

Seminars may or may not be conducted by the same person supervising the clinical student/student teacher and may include Teacher Candidates supervised by multiple supervisors. In this case, the final grade will be determined collaboratively by the supervisor and the seminar leader. Supervisors who are not seminar leaders may need to schedule additional meetings with those being supervised if deemed necessary.

EVALUATION

The University Supervisor assigns a final grade with input from the cooperating teacher(s). A Teacher Candidate must be fully successful in the fieldbased component to successfully complete any course requiring a component regardless of the quality of work in the non-field based component of the course. Failure to successfully complete non-field based work or assignments will negatively impact a course grade.

A grade of " $A$ " or " $B$ " must be earned in a pre-student teaching clinical course to enroll in a subsequent course requiring a field-based clinical component, and in student teaching to be entitled to receive an Illinois Professional Educator License. Student teachers receiving a grade of "C" or "D" will not be entitled to Illinois Licensure but may be eligible for graduation.

The Teacher Candidate may appeal a final grade in accordance to University Policy, see Student Handbook. (http://neiu.edu/university-life/student-rights-and-responsibilities/student-handbook)

RE-ENROLLMENT IN A CLINICAL COURSE OR STUDENT TEACHING

Those earning less than a " $B$ " in any course requiring a field-based component will be reviewed by the Teacher Candidate's academic program and the CEST Director to determine eligibility to re-enroll in the course. Teacher Candidates who are unsuccessful a second time will be reviewed for removal from the program. A third attempt to re-enroll will not be permitted.

INTERRUPTED PLACEMENTS

Interruptions in placements occur due to changes in staffing at the school, personal or health issues, or due to a lack of success in the field experience. When the placement is interrupted due to unexpected changes in staffing at the site or for some other reason beyond control of the university or the candidate, a new placement site will be secured within the semester.

All decisions to terminate field based placements are handled on a case-by-case basis regardless of the initiator. A request to terminate any fieldbased clinical experience may be initiated by the University supervisor, cooperating teacher, school/site administrator, the CEST Director, or other NEIU faculty or administrators. If asked to leave a field experience placement by the placements site/school district, cooperating teacher, or NEIU, the teacher candidate will receive an automatic "F" in the respective clinical/student teaching course and will not be given a new placement or allowed to continue his/her field experience. The teacher candidate also may be referred to his/her respective academic department's professional standards committee and/or dismissed from his/her academic program. If a teacher candidate is asked to leave his/her field experience placement, he/she may not have any further communication with the school administration, the cooperating teacher, school staff, or students at the school. If the teacher candidate does so, he/she may be referred to his/her respective academic department's professional standards committee and/or dismissed from his/her academic program. Candidates who do not successfully complete a second field-based clinical experience will generally not be permitted to complete the program.

SELF-SELECTED TERMINATION

Those who self-select to terminate a clinical experience or student teaching are required to discuss this matter with the University supervisor and CEST Director prior to making a final decision.

A decision to self-terminate clinical experiences or student teaching must be submitted to the CEST Director in writing prior to notifying the placement site and cooperating teacher. Teacher Candidates who self-terminate are responsible to withdraw from the course in accordance with University procedures (http://neiu.edu/academics/registrar-services) and according to timelines printed in the University Schedule. Standard university timelines and procedures influence grading and ability to recover tuition and fees. Teacher Candidates who self-terminate may petition the CEST Director in writing for permission to reapply in a future semester provided the self-termination was not done to avoid remedial or disciplinary actions resulting from deficiencies in knowledge, skills, and/or dispositions. The CEST Office may define conditions or deny a future placement.

A teacher candidate who self-terminates without discussing the matter with the University Supervisor and without submitting a written notice to the CEST Director may receive a "F" in the clinical/student teaching course, be referred to the respective academic department's professional standards committee, and/or dismissed from the academic program.

CAUSES FOR REMOVAL

The following is a representative, not exhaustive, list of events that are generally considered serious enough to warrant removal from a placement site by the supervisor, cooperating teacher, or site administration:

- failure to abide by school/school district or NEIU regulations and policies
- frequent absences and tardiness (regardless of reason)
- completing personal work at the school site
- leaving the building, classroom, or assignment area without authorization
- inappropriate interactions with students
- verbal or physical abuse
- fighting
- falsification of time sheets by failing to sign in/out at actual times
- failure to sign in/out
- multiple changes of clinical schedule
- failure to submit lesson plans in advance
- failure to develop adequate lesson plans
- failure to complete/submit items to CT or US on schedule
- lack of content knowledge
- sleeping
- inability to cope with the demands of teaching
- lack of appropriate and professional dispositions as determined by the CT and/or US
- failure to implement directions and/or suggestions for improvement
- disruptive to classroom or school (e.g. misuse of cellphone and social media)
- failure to abide by the school/school district's technology policies
- failure to return student grading

ACTION PLAN FOR PROFESSIONAL IMPROVEMENT

A Candidate Alert form is submitted by either the supervisor, instructor, or cooperating teacher when a candidate's performance is not meeting expectations, or a placement is interrupted. A Candidate Alert and/or Action Plan meeting is mandatory, and teacher candidates must make accommodations in order to be present. Failure to attend a Candidate Alert and/or Action Plan meeting may result in an automatic "F" in the clinical/ student teaching course, referral to the respective academic department's professional standards committee, and/or dismissal from the academic program.

A written Action Plan will be developed based on the outcomes of the candidate alert meeting. Action Plans may include: a) areas in need of remediation, b) goals, c) activities and timelines, d) assessment plans, e) monitoring plan and future actions. A teacher candidate's failure to adhere to the Action Plan is cause for termination without further placement.

Intermediate steps such as additional coursework or counseling may be required to address deficiencies as part of the Action Plan and/or before future placements are made. Additionally, the student may be required to formally withdraw from the course and receive a failing grade. The decision will be based on the causes, not the time the termination occurs during the semester.

When the deficiencies in knowledge, skills, or dispositions are deemed so severe or beyond remediation, a referral to the Professional Standards Committee of the respective departments, or the Goodwin College of Education Admissions, Retention and Appeals Committee may be made in tandem with, or in lieu of an Action Plan as deemed appropriate by the Director of the CEST Office.

ON-LINE CAREER PORTFOLIO

An Online Career Portfolio for NEIU student teachers may be developed with the assistance of the Career Development Center, Room B-119, 773-442-4680. Up-to-date employment opportunities are also maintained in this office.

STUDENT TEACHER ORIENTATION AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT DAYS

The Student Teacher Orientation is scheduled during the week prior to the start of the first day of the semester before student teaching begins. This orientation is mandatory. Student teachers who fail to attend may be prohibited from student teaching during that semester. Additional professional development days may be scheduled at other times during the semester in which student teaching occurs and attendance is required.

Student teachers who are full-time teachers and teaching in their own classroom as permitted by law may request an exemption from attendance at all Student Teacher Orientation and Professional Growth Days events only if these days conflict with the school work calendar.

Additional days may be scheduled during the semester, as deemed necessary by the Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education and/or CEST Director. These will be announced on the NEIUport CEST Group homepage or by announcement.

WORKING AND ENROLLMENT IN OTHER COURSES

Working and/or enrollment in other University courses during student teaching is strongly discouraged because student teachers are required to function in the same way as a full-time teacher. As such, tremendous workload demands are made of the teacher candidate.

In addition to teaching and working in the classroom during the regular school day, a student teacher engages in many other activities. These include preparing detailed lesson plans, grading papers, locating and developing instructional materials to use with students, developing tests and other assessments, participating in professional development sessions that may occur before or after the student school day, planning for and attending student conferences with parents, family, and/or other staff, participating in weekly University-based seminars, and completing written and other assignments associated with the seminar/University course. In addition, attendance at other professional development activities may be required by the Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education as detailed earlier in this section.

OBTAINING AN INITIAL ILLINOIS PROFESSIONAL EDUCATOR LICENSE

Successful completion of one of the teacher preparation programs in the Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education entitles one to obtain an Illinois Professional Educator License (PEL). Applications and procedures are available under the Goodwin College of Education Website. (http:// www.neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/policies-procedures)

Those who meet the requirements for additional endorsements will have them added at the time the License is processed. An application for additional endorsement is available in the Daniel L. Goodwin College of Education Dean's Office (LWH 4040). Candidates must submit this form in the Dean's Office. While NEIU informs the State of those entitled to receive a License, the License is issued by the State and regulations for maintaining and renewing it are governed by the State. Illinois licensure laws and procedures are online (http://www.isbe.net/licensure/default.htm ).

INSURANCE

Accidents or unforeseen health challenges may occur at any time. Teacher Candidates are especially vulnerable due to contact with large numbers of people.

All full-time students pay a fee for student health insurance or must show proof of a private health plan which provides coverage equal to or better than the student health plan. Part-time students may elect to pay for student health coverage. Details about the NEIU student health insurance plan can be obtained at Student Health and Counseling Services (http://www.neiu.edu/university-life/student-health-and-counseling-services) or by contacting the Health Service Office (773) 442-5800.

Students completing field-based clinicals who are enrolled on a part-time basis are strongly encouraged to have their own health insurance which covers medical services, ambulance transportation, mental health services, and prescription needs whether purchased through NEIU or a private provider.

LIABILITY

Pursuant to Illinois law, the school district must provide NEIU Teacher Candidates with liability protection as is provided to regular employees of the district. See 105 ILCS 5/10-20.20 and 105 ILCS 5/10-22.3.

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATIONS (EDFN) COURSE INFORMATION

Students in EDFN-306, EDFN-307, EDFN-406, and EDFN-407 complete observations and/or service in educational settings. Unlike major clinicals and student teaching, EDFN students identify and secure their own field site to complete the course activities in a way that will allow them to fulfill the specific field-based requirements as outlined in the course syllabi.

Within the first two weeks of the semester, students will receive a direction packet prepared by the CEST Office from the course instructor. The steps to complete, prior to going to the school site, are defined in the EDFN direction packet. Minimally, students must successfully complete the Chicago Public School (CPS) Field Experience registration process. Students will be required to register with the CEST Office and provide evidence of freedom from communicable diseases (TB, specifically).

Upon completion of these activities, the student will obtain a clearance packet from the CEST Office. The student is then eligible to go into the school site to complete their hours. A documentation form on which all observation and service hours are recorded must be submitted to CEST Office at the end of the semester.

A student may NOT begin the field work for any EDFN class without receiving an authorization packet from the CEST Office.

Counselor Education

The mission of the Department of Counselor Education at Northeastern Illinois University is to provide a quality graduate education in Clinical Mental Health, Family, School, and Rehabilitation Counseling. Through a reflective, collaborative pedagogical approach, graduate students acquire transformative as well as culturally sensitive knowledge and skills that promote personal, interpersonal, and professional development. The program will train graduate students to become skilled counselors and clinicians in a diverse and changing world.

Program Objectives

1. The Department of Counselor Education will recruit qualified applicants and will train counselors-in-training to be self reflective, effective, and competent providers of services.
2. Program faculty will endeavor to include the most current evidence-based and/or outcome-based research in their course work.
3. Syllabi will include current CACREP and CORE standards, as well as information from other sources to maintain an open, engaging curriculum that equips students to work in a variety of work settings.
4. The Department will conduct program evaluation including recommendations and feedback from advisory board meetings, program faculty, and current and former students. The information obtained will be reviewed annually and incorporated into the program as appropriate.

The Clinical Mental Health and School Counseling programs are accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP). The School Counseling program also meets the educational requirements for the state of lllinois for a Professional Educator License (PEL), with the school counselor endorsement. Graduate students of CACREP accredited counseling programs are eligible to sit for the National Counselor Exam (NCE) during their last year of study. The eight core curricular areas of CACREP are the comprehensive foundation of the exam questions used for the NCE. After successful completion of the NCE and upon graduation, one can then apply for the National Certified Counselor (NCC) credential through the National Board of Certified Counselors (NBCC).

The Rehabilitation Counseling program is accredited by the Council on Rehabilitation Education (CORE). Graduates of this program are qualified to obtain national certification as a Certified Rehabilitation Counselor (CRC). The standards for rehabilitation counselor education are set by CORE, which has a working relationship and parallel accreditation standards with CACREP.

Graduates of the Clinical Mental Health, School, and Rehabilitation Counseling programs are also eligible to apply for and receive licensure as a Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC) upon successful completion of the requirements and licensure application(s) as set forth by the state of Illinois.

It is imperative that students consult with their program advisors regarding course selection and sequencing.

Notification of Student Recess

Once having begun the Counselor Education program, if a student does not attend classes for more than two consecutive semesters (Fall, Spring, Summer), the student must notify the College of Graduate Studies and Research and the advisor of his/her intent to continue in the program. Faculty members reserve the right to review the student's course work upon reentry by the student and to require that certain courses be repeated if necessary. Students have a maximum of six years in which to complete their degree programs.

This sample curricular map is provided to guide you in the planning of your progression for this major. This guide should not replace regular consultations with your program advisor. For specific recommendations of courses not identified, please consult your program advisor.

The Plans of Study for the programs in Counselor Education should be used as general guidelines for the completion of courses. These plans suggest how a student might complete a program in two calendar years by beginning in the fall semester and attending through two summer semesters. There are many factors that affect how students complete their programs, including whether they begin in the fall or spring semesters and whether they attend full-time or part-time. The plan for school counseling is based on the student possessing a teacher or professional educator license. School counseling students who are not licensed must complete an additional three courses outside of the Department of Counselor Education: EDFN 405 Development of Educational Thought; EDFN 407 Learning Theories and Educational Practice; and SPED 404 Introduction to Special Education.

All students in Counselor Education will have a mandatory orientation at the beginning of their programs and have a faculty advisor who will help in the planning of each student's course of study.

Master of Arts in Family Counseling

Coursework for the 60 credit hours Master of Arts in Family Counseling program fulfills the requirements for state licensure, the CACREP Specialty Track, the National Academy for Certified Family Therapists, Inc., and the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy Clinical memberships. Although most accrediting bodies use the words "Marriage and Family" to describe their specialty, this program has elected to use the word "Family" to represent what the program believes to be a better description of the practice methods.

The Family counseling program is accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP). Graduates of CACREP accredited programs are eligible to sit for the National Counselor Exam (NCE) during their last year of study. The eight core curricular areas of CACREP are the comprehensive foundation of the exam questions used for the NCE. After successful completion of the NCE and upon graduation, one can then apply for the National Certified Counselor credential through the National Board of Certified Counselors (NBCC).

The Plans of Study for the programs in Counselor Education should be used as general guidelines for the completion of courses. These plans suggest how a student might complete a program in two calendar years by beginning in the fall semester and attending through two summer semesters. There are many factors that affect how students complete their programs, including whether they begin in the fall or spring semesters and whether they attend full-time or part-time. The plan for school counseling is based on the student possessing a teacher or professional educator license. School counseling students who are not licensed must complete an additional three courses outside of the Department of Counselor Education: EDFN 405 Development of Educational Thought; EDFN 407 Learning Theories and Educational Practice; and SPED 404 Introduction to Special Education.

All students in Counselor Education will have a mandatory orientation at the beginning of their programs and have a faculty advisor who will help in the planning of each student's course of study.

Master of Arts in Community and Teacher Leaders

Master of Arts in Community and Teacher Leaders

NEIU offers a Master of Arts degree for those individuals seeking an advanced degree in Community and Teacher Leaders. The program is designed to develop knowledge, dispositions, and skills to foster reflective, collaborative and transformative leaders in both community and school settings. Specifically, students will learn to harness the collective knowledge of community members and educators to have a positive impact on community and school success in both traditional and non-traditional settings; promote collaborative governance and leadership in communities and schools with a consistent focus on improved outcomes; model excellence in community leadership and teaching with a strong foundation in transforming the climate; and provide coaching, mentoring, and support to educators and community members to promote and influence change. Instructional strategies include research, inquiry, analysis, and evaluation as well digital literacy and technology skills.

Students may select one of two concentrations: community leadership or school-based teacher leadership. While both the Community and Teacher Leaders concentration lead to a Master of Arts degree, the Teacher Leader concentration also leads to a Teacher Leader Endorsement as recognized by the Illinois State Board of Education. Teachers who already have a Master degree and an Illinois teaching license may take a subset of these courses to earn only the Teacher Leader endorsement. This school-based teacher leader concentration provides knowledge and skills related to leadership and mentoring, professional development, promoting school culture that focuses on student learning, using data to improve educational outcomes, and building collaborative relationships with stakeholders. The community-based leader concentration provides knowledge and skills that foster leadership in ethical and culturally sensitive public engagement, acknowledgement and consideration of the complexities of local and global communities, and leverages community assets to promote social justice.

Teacher Leader Endorsement (Endorsement Only option)

NEIU's Teacher Leader Endorsement (only) program allows those teachers who have a Master degree and an Illinois teaching license to increase their leadership roles and job responsibilities by earning the Teacher Leader Endorsement as recognized by the lllinois State Board of Education. The Teacher Leader Endorsement program will build upon the teacher's own classroom experience, knowledge, and skills to further develop the teacher's leadership and mentoring capacity that may be used school or district-wide (but not in the capacity of a school principal). The program builds leadership skills by using research and data to improve educational outcomes, by increasing digital literacy and learning, and by fostering collaborative relationships within the school and community. These leadership skills will help to promote the understanding of diverse student populations in schools so as to develop personal and school-wide success that will ultimately improve the classroom, curriculum, student learning, and school culture.

Major in Community Health

Major in Community Health for the Bachelor of Science Degree

The Community Health degree prepares students for careers in community health education and programming, public health policy, health-related research, or healthcare administration in a variety of government, non-profit, healthcare-service, and industry settings. Graduates use their knowledge and skills to focus on how best to reach vulnerable community members and to better allocate resources to under-served populations. They may initiate wellness programs, write policies, implement educational activities, or create resources to promote healthy living. Examples of job titles might include, but are not limited to, healthcare administrator, health educator, or community health worker. The degree is also a launching pad for a graduate education in a number of health-related fields.

Community students complete an internship. The internship is comprised of a semester-long fieldwork experience and a weekly seminar with assignments. Beginning Fall 2014 new Community Health students complete 200 clock hours of work (typically unpaid) in a community health related agency. Community Health students must be admitted to the College of Education to start the internship. Moreover, it is highly recommended that Community Health students gain admission to the College of Education early in the program, as some courses require admittance to the College of Education.

Major in Special Education

Major in Special Education for the Bachelor of Arts Degree

The major in Special Education is designed to meet state teacher licensure requirements by training students to be knowledgeable and skilled regarding the education of all school aged children and adolescents with disabilities. Majors are selected during October to begin studies during the following Spring semester. Majors progress through the program as a cohort. Most coursework is offered during daytime hours.

Admission Requirements

Prospective students apply for admission during Fall semester and must be fully admitted to the University at that time. Minimum admission requirements include:

1) Minimum GPA of 2.75 based on all undergraduate work. New students must have successfully completed 12 credit hours at NEIU with a 2.75 or greater GPA if their previous work falls below 2.75.
2) One of the following: A passing score on the ILTS- Test of Academic Proficiency (TAP), or a composite ACT Plus Writing score of 22 and a minimum 19 in combined English/writing, or a composite SAT score of 1030 and a minimum 450 in writing.
3) A spontaneous writing sample and/or interview required at the discretion of the Department.
4) A minimum of 20 hours working, volunteering or observing students with disabilities.

Documentation must be on agency letterhead
Within one semester of admission, students must be admitted to the College of Education. See College of Education admission requirements in that section of the catalog. No more than two grades of " $C$ " or less in professional sequence coursework is allowed. A grade of " $D$ " in any required Special Education course will not be accepted toward the Special Education major. The student may repeat a " D " course once, dependent on departmental review (see program maintenance criteria). If a student fails to get a "C" or better, the student will be dropped as a Special Education major.

All students must maintain a 2.75 GPA. To be entitled for licensure a student must earn a grade of " B " or better in Student Teaching. A 2.75 cumulative G.P.A. is required for graduation.

Program Maintenance Criteria

Students must maintain a minimum 2.75 grade point average every semester. Should the candidate's GPA fall below 2.75 in any semester or the cumulative GPA falls below 2.75 , the student is allowed one semester to raise the GPA back to 2.75 or will be dismissed from the program. Education courses completed with a grade less than a " $C$ " must be repeated and the candidate must earn a grade of "C" or above. Education courses refers to any NEIU courses with the following prefixes: EDFN, SPED, ELED, SCED, BLBC, or LTCY.

The candidate must obtain permission from the department's Professional Standards Committee to retake the education course for which a grade lower than "C" was earned.

No more than two grades of "C" are acceptable in professional sequence courses (i.e., any course required for the special education major). If the student earns more than two grades of " $C$ " in professional sequences courses, the student must re-take those courses, no more than once, until grades of " B " or better are earned, or leave the program. The candidate must obtain permission from the department's Professional Standards Committee in order to retake these professional sequence courses.

Students may only repeat a course one time.
All coursework including the removal of incompletes must take place prior to student teaching.
Any course that has been repeated with a final (second) grade of " C ," may not be repeated again.
Students must maintain acceptable ratings on all key program assessments in order to progress without interruption through their program. Students who do not meet an acceptable or above rating on any key program assessment must obtain permission from the Program Facilitator to retake the course in which a key program assessment is embedded or to revise the assessment, no more than one time, in order to meet an acceptable rating.

Students must receive acceptable evaluations of their dispositions and professional behaviors in order to progress without interruption through their program. Failing to demonstrate acceptable dispositions and professional behaviors may be grounds for program removal.

Transfer Students

Students transferring to Northeastern Illinois University must have a minimum 2.75 GPA based on a 4.0 system. If the transfer student's GPA is below 2.75 , the student must establish a minimum Northeastern Illinois University GPA of 2.75 based upon 12 credit hours. All majors progress through the program within a cohort. The cohort model fosters professional development. For this reason transfer students must begin the major in January as part of an entering cohort. Advanced standing within the major is not provided.

Master of Arts in Teaching in Language Arts: Elementary Education

This program is undergoing curricular revision. Please contact the department for program status.
The Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/departments/teacher-education) in Language Arts: Elementary Education program is designed for students with a Bachelor's degree in a field other than education and who want to become elementary school teachers. Upon successful completion of our MAT program and passing scores on all required state proficiency tests, students will obtain a graduate degree and State of Illinois K-9 teaching licensure. All MAT courses meet in the late afternoon and evening with a pre-set class schedule and sequence to allow students to complete the program in six semesters.

Each semester has students focusing on a specific educational theme: Teacher as Learner; Literacy Across the Curriculum; Teaching for Human Diversity; Curriculum \& Schooling Past, Present, and Future; and Inquiry Through the Content Areas. For three semesters, students are connecting those themes to their clinical teaching experiences inside K-8 classrooms. In total, the MAT program includes 200 hours of clinical teaching prior to a full-term of full-time student teaching within a grade level range of their choice ( $\mathrm{K}-2,3-5,6-8$ ).

The MAT program is designed to prepare teachers with the knowledge, skills, and dispositions to create dynamic, student-centered classrooms for the 21 st century. As designers of creative and critical curriculum, students will learn to truly engage their students in an exploration and understanding of our fascinating, complex, and diverse world. The MAT program has an emphasis on teaching for cultural diversity, teaching diverse students, projectand inquiry-based teaching, authentic literacy across the curriculum, technology integration, and 21 st century skills.

Master of Science in Teaching & Inquiry

The Master of Science in Teaching & Inquiry (MSTI) Program is designed for licensed teachers with a minimum of two years of successful K-9 teaching experience in their own classroom. This program has five key features:

- Students design half of their program to focus on the areas of professional growth they are most interested in pursuing.
- The program takes five terms to complete. Each term students take one required core course and one elective. (Term 4 also includes a required 1 credit hour research seminar.)
- Upon acceptance into the program, students meet with a program advisor (http://neiu.edu/academics/college-of-education/departments/teacher-education/contact-us) to create an Electives Plan based on their professional goals. This plan may change as students progress through the program based on their evolving interests.
- One elective can be a general education course in the College of Arts and Sciences to improve content knowledge in a subject the student teaches (i.e. history, writing, math, etc.)
- Students will design and implement an original action research project in their classroom based on a specific research/education interest that is developed with program faculty.

The MSTI program is designed to cultivate teachers who are critical and creative educators, connect theory to classroom practice, develop a $21^{\text {st }}$ century classroom curriculum for the success of all students, understand $21^{\text {st }}$ century teaching methodologies, and becoming educational change agents. The program core courses have a focus that includes: critical thinking, human diversity, teaching diverse students, teaching 21st century skills, inquiry- and project-based curriculum design, and action research.

Nontraditional Degree Programs provide expanded opportunities for quality education in two baccalaureate degree completion programs. These programs are self-paced and involve university faculty and individualized academic advising to support students' degree attainment.

Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (http://catalog.neiu.edu/archive/2016-2017/nontraditional-degree-programs/bachelor-arts-interdisciplinarystudies) offers students a variety of options to complete graduation requirements, including prior learning assessment for credit.

University Without Walls (http://catalog.neiu.edu/archive/2016-2017/nontraditional-degree-programs/university-without-walls) is a competency-based program that leads to a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree. Students in this program are highly motivated, self-directed, and have clear academic goals.

Competency-based Credit Policy

Nontraditional Degree Programs (NDP) award credit for prior experiential learning in order to acknowledge and validate college level learning that occurs outside the classroom. The Prior Learning Assessment (PLA) option for students who major in the degree completion program Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (BAIS) helps students determine, demonstrate and document such learning with integrity and rigor through a Prior Learning Portfolio submitted for assessment by faculty evaluation.

Course/Credit Based Approach

The program uses the credit equivalency model of PLA in which students identify an existing credit-bearing course (offered by a regionally accredited American institution of higher education) that states learning outcomes consistent with those of the student's prior experiential learning. The student demonstrates through a portfolio how and when the course-equivalent learning occurred and requests an award of credit. A credentialed faculty member with expertise in the relevant academic area evaluates the portfolio and makes a determination regarding the award of credit. The amount of credit awarded through PLA is limited to 36 credit hours for each student and may be applied to any BAIS degree requirement except Northeastern residency.

University Without Walls

In addition, NDP offers University Without Walls (UWW) degree program. This program awards the bachelor's degree based on demonstrated competencies as determined by Northeastern's faculty. Each competency is assigned a proportional share of the 120 credit hours required of a traditional Northeastern bachelor's degree.

| UWW Competency/Component | Equivalent Credit Hours | Percentage  of $\mathbf{1 2 0}$  Credit |

Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (BAIS) is a degree completion program designed to meet the undergraduate needs of experienced adults in a manner compatible with career and family responsibilities. Students complete graduation requirements through an alternative, self-paced approach to higher education.

Application Procedures

Before applying to the program, prospective students attend an information meeting during which the many options of the program are described, application materials are distributed, and further application procedures are described. A schedule of meetings is available in B-147, by calling (773) 442-6030 or on our website (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/nontraditional-degree-programs/prospective-student-meetings) .

Admission Requirements

Applicants must have a high school diploma or the equivalent or special permission granted by the University Provost. An adult holding a baccalaureate degree from a regionally accredited college or university will not be admitted to the Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies Program.

Program Options

The unique structure, flexibility and availability of the Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies Program offers students a variety of options to complete graduation requirements. In addition to taking courses at Northeastern Illinois University and other universities/colleges, students may use a combination of transfer credits from regionally accredited institutions and credits earned through standardized college level proficiency examinations. Students also have the option of applying for academic credit through the assessment of a prior learning portfolio , which describes and documents college equivalent learning acquired outside the traditional college classroom. BAIS students who submit a portfolio are charged a fee equivalent to the cost of tuition for two credit hours.

Bachelor of Art in Interdisciplinary Studies Concentrations

Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies (BAIS) Program may elect to complete a concentration. The BAIS Program offers seven concentrations that maintain the flexibility of the Interdisciplinary Studies degree, while helping students to frame the choices they have made regarding course of study. The seven areas are: Fine Arts, Humanities, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Leadership, Community Development and Multicultural Studies, and Professional Studies. To fulfill a concentration in any of the first four areas (the traditional general education areas), students must complete 18 upper division hours ( 300 -level) from the relevant departments. To complete a concentration in any of the other three areas, students must complete 18 upper division (300-level) hours of approved courses from relevant departments and fill out a form in consultation with an Interdisciplinary Studies advisor.

Graduation Requirements

To graduate, students must successfully complete the following requirements:

- 120 total semester hours
- Flexible 36 -hour general education requirement (12 semester hours each in the humanities and fine arts, the social sciences and the natural sciences/mathematics)
- minimum of 40 semester hours at the upper division (junior/senior) level
- minimum of 24 semester hours of course work at NEIU
- English 101, Grade of "C" or better
- Writing Intensive Program course
- Math/Quantitative Reasoning requirement
- Improving Human Relations course

Students must have an overall cumulative " $C$ " (2.0) grade point average for all work applied toward meeting degree requirements.
More information can be obtained in B-147, by calling (773) 442-6030, or by visiting our website (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/nontraditional-degreeprograms).

University Without Walls Program

The University Without Walls (UWW) Program is a competency-based, self-paced program that leads to a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree. Requiring strong motivation, self-direction, maturity, self-sufficiency and clear academic direction on the part of the student, UWW is geared to meet the adult student's learning needs and long range goals through a course of study that allows for curricular individuality.

Admission

Prospective student meetings are held each semester to explain the program and answer questions. All prospective students are strongly encouraged to attend a prospective student meeting prior to submitting an application. A schedule of prospective student meetings is available in the Nontraditional Degree Programs Office in B-147. You may also obtain a schedule by visiting our NDP website (http://www.neiu.edu/academics/nontraditional-degree-programs/prospective-student-meetings) or calling (773) 442-6030.

UWW applicants design their own applications: addressing their need for UWW, outlining their prior learning, proposing new learning goals and identifying human resources. All previous college work must be verified by submitting official transcripts and if the applicant has earned less than 24 semester hours, an official high school transcript or General Educational Development (G.E.D.) test scores must be submitted.

Program Participation

Each student, with an Academic Advisor (a Northeastern faculty member), a Community Advisor, and a UWW Faculty Advisor, develops a Learning Contract which outlines the student's individualized curriculum: prior learning experiences and new learning goals. The UWW student's individualized curriculum has three program requirements: depth, breadth, and effective communication. These three elements provide an organizational structure for the Learning Contract.

Students register for UWW Independent Study hours each semester. At the end of every semester, students submit a Semester Report that specifies learning activities and accomplishments of the semester in relationship to the learning outcomes identified for receiving Independent Study credit hours. Students who make satisfactory academic progress in the program receive a designation of Pass for the Independent Study credit hours in which they are enrolled. To ensure that UWW students make sufficient academic progress, UWW students are expected to meet with their academic and community advisors regularly during the semester in accordance with the University's Credit Hour Policy.

Graduation Requirements

The student's program is monitored closely each semester and upon meeting the Learning Contract terms, the student convenes a Graduation Review Board that has the sole authority to authorize graduation. In addition, students must also fulfill the Writing Intensive Program requirement, the Improving Human Relations requirement and the Math/Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Further details regarding these graduation requirements can be found under the heading "Bachelor's Degree Requirements" elsewhere in this catalog.

More information about the University Without Walls can be obtained in the NDP office, B-147, by calling (773) 442-6030, or by visiting the NDP website

This course fulfills the Writing-Intensive requirement for the Anthropology major.
Corequisite: ANTH-200 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-200).

ANTH-356. Human Variation. 3 Hours.

People look different from each other. Can we be classified into races or do we follow other patterns of variation? This provocative course will examine the role of heredity and environment in determining the world distribution of human biological traits. Students will study the adaptive significance of observable phenotypic differences in skin, hair, and eye color, facial features, and body proportions. Less obvious traits such as blood type and differential adaptation to disease and diet will also be explored. Finally, students will learn about and critically analyze the history of race studies and their far-reaching social and political implications. (B).
Prerequisite: ANTH-215 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-215) minimum grade of C or BIO-303 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=BIO-303) minimum grade of $C$.

ANTH-357. Economic Anthropology: Shells, Pigs, And Gold. 3 Hours.

Is greed simply a part of human nature? do all humans simply have endless wants and desires for material goods? More than a century ago anthropologists began questioning assumptions of classical Western economics, and began to show that societies have diverse values as people pursue wealth and the good life. The course design gives students insights into the variety of economic systems by tapping into ethnographic literature that has overturned mainstream economic wisdom. Take a look at economics from a fresh and intriguing micro-level perspective that incorporates many other aspects of cultural life, including marriage and ecology. (C).

ANTH-359. Museum Studies. 3 Hours.

This class will take the student on a tour of some of the world's most fascinating institutions, and teach the history and theory behind their development. The course will also focus on many of the activities that take place in museums that make them such a valuable asset to the scientific and educational communities. (C).

ANTH-364. Culinary Anthropology. 3 Hours.

Anthropologists and historians research behaviors, origins, and traditions of human association with a variety of foodstuffs and foodways. We do so all in an effort to answer the "when", "how", and "why" questions connected to particular foods and the contexts in which eating them became appropriate and sought after. In this course we explore eating, foodstuffs, and cookery from nutritional, artistic, sensual, political, socioeconomic, and popular perspectives, among others. Students also explore Chicago's world cuisines by dining in and out in a variety of symposia, combining good eating and good thinking. (C).
Prerequisite: ANTH-212 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-212) minimum grade of C or HIST-111 minimum grade of C .

ANTH-365. Anthropology Of Islam. 3 Hours.

Do all Muslims practice their faith in the same way? Is there really only one type of Muslim society? Based on consideration of major Islamic beliefs, the history of Islamic expansion and civilization, and the cultures of contemporary Muslim societies, the thesis of this course is that there are numerous cultural approaches to Islam. Students learn by reading within and outside of anthropology to better inform themselves of contemporary issues and understandings of the dynamism that characterizes Islamic cultures. (C).
ANTH-366. Mesoamerican Continuity And Change. 3 Hours.
Mesoamerican peoples of Mexico, Belize, Guatemala, Honduras, and El Salvador can claim a heritage that reaches into antiquity. This course examines the beliefs and practices of the cultures of Mesoamerica from the Prehispanic past into the 21st century, including events that have eliminated, modified, or introduced new elements to Mesoamerican cultures and transformed their peoples. An element of this course includes how peoples originating from Mesoamerica may or may not maintain continuities after relocating to the United States. This course serves as an elective for the Latino and Latin American Studies minor. (A or C).

ANTH-368. Primate Biology And Adaptation. 3 Hours.

The primate adaptive radiation is over 50 million years old and exhibits some of the most striking anatomical adaptations found among mammals. This course focuses on the morphological diversity of primates. We will first examine the evolution of traits that distinguish primates from other mammals, and will then shift focus to features that differentiate species and lineages within the Order. Specifically, adaptations related to diet, feeding, foraging, communication, predator avoidance, positional behavior, habitat, reproduction, among others, will be highlighted. Students will work extensively with scientific literature and the bone and cast collection. (B).

ANTH-371. Forensic Anthropology. 3 Hours.

Forensic anthropology is an applied science that uses the methodology of biological anthropology to evaluate human skeletal remains in a medico-legal context. This course focuses on the theory and practice of building biological profiles and analyzing circumstances surrounding human death.
Students will review the current state of forensic anthropology using published studies on estimating age/sex/ancestry/etc., identifying bone trauma and the postmortem interval, and applying methods of individuation (facial reconstruction, odontology, X-ray, DNA, etc.). The course also highlights the ethics and cross-disciplinary nature of forensic anthropology, and its central role in mass/natural disasters and worldwide human rights violations. (B).
Prerequisite: ANTH-215 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-215) minimum grade of C or ANTH-302 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/? $\mathrm{P}=\mathrm{ANTH}-302$ ) minimum grade of C .

ANTH-373. Urban Anthropology. 3 Hours.

Urban anthropology is the holistic study of human beings in cities. This course addresses various aspects of the broad sweep of urbanization, from the ancient urban revolution of the present shift to a majority of people living in cities, focusing especially on the urban United States. We will engage with anthropological work that balances social theory with rich ethnographic portraits, opening debates on the meanings and values of urban life. We will examine race, gender, inequality, institutions, and case studies on immigration, gentrification and sustainability, and using Chicago as our laboratory, students will conduct and write ethnographies of their own. (C).
Prerequisite: ANTH-212 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-212) minimum grade of C.

ANTH-374. The Maya. 3 Hours.

The course reviews chronologies, geography, and time periods used by Mayanists to help understand larger trends in Maya society. You will also evaluate issues and debates that currently exist within Maya studies. These include questions of economy, politics, social organization, religion, and ideology. Finally, the decipherment of the Maya script is examined. You will have the opportunity to critically examine a specific topic during the semester. (A).
Prerequisite: ANTH-213 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-213) minimum grade of C or ANTH-250 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/? $\mathrm{P}=\mathrm{ANTH}-250$ ) minimum grade of C .

ANTH-375. Anthropology Of Globalization. 3 Hours.

The course will address social forces, practices, and experiences related to the ever-increasing transnational interconnectedness of societies across the world. Through readings from the anthropological literature on globalization and related issues, we will critically address the ways "globalization" is conceived and theorized by contemporary scholars; its effects on the construction of identity; the roles of commodities, consumer culture, and the media; and the ways in which the processes referred to as globalization both broaden and expand notions of "community" and "culture", and present new varieties and intensities of difference, disjuncture, and marginalization. (C).

ANTH-376. Primate Behavior. 3 Hours.

One of the evolutionary hallmarks of being a primate is sociality and primates exhibit a diverse array of behavioral adaptations for navigating complex social groups. Primate behavioral ecology is a fascinating field that informs our understanding of primate interactions and the origins of our own behavior. This course will highlight how primatologists study behavior and how evolution and ecological variables shape primate sociality in the contexts of group structure, male/female dynamics, reproduction, feeding, predation pressure and social learning, among other topics. Students will examine the diversity of primate sociality using current primatological literature, discussion, video, assignments and zoo visits. (B).
Prerequisite: ANTH-215 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=ANTH-215) minimum grade of C.

ANTH-377A. Anthropology Of Television. 3 Hours.

Cultural anthropologists have long trained their sights on the ordinary practices of everyday life, understanding that careful study of mundane activities yields insights into the weightiest questions of human experience. However, despite its ubiquity in popular culture and centrality as a form of representation and forum for cultural debate, anthropologists have only slowly come to the study of television. This course addresses the relatively recent but burgeoning anthropology of television and suggests that attention to the ways people around the world make, watch, interpret, discuss, and critique television programs provides an important vantage on the workings of culture, power, and knowledge in the contemporary world.

ANTH-378. Anthropology Of Power. 3 Hours.

The study of politics concerns who gets what, why, and how in societies. Anthropologists study political systems by examining the varieties of human practices involving rules and laws, persuasion and coercion. This course surveys how politics have been studied by anthropologists for the past 130 years, from indigenous North Americans to Trobriand Islanders and especially how anthropologists increasingly became political themselves as more and more peoples began living under the authority of modern nation states. (C).

Students will gather oral narratives from family members, community members, political and religious leaders, and educators with the goal of analyzing how stories both reveal and construct personal and social identities.

LING-337. Ethnography Of Communication. 3 Hours.

This course adopts ethnographic methodology to explore the acquisition and performance of communicative competence in a variety of professional settings. The concept of communicative competence has its origins in the field of sociolinguistics - the branch of linguistics that studies the relationship between language and culture or, as sometimes defined, language in society. Key to one segment of sociolinguistic research and practice is the field of ethnography of communication, initiated by anthropological linguist Dell Hymes and John Gumperz. Ethnography of communication focuses on identifying and analyzing "the situations and uses, the patterns and functions of speaking as an activity in its own right" (Hymes 1974). In so doing, the theory and application of this field focuses on identifying the norms of appropriate language use in interaction in given social domains.

Students are introduced to scholarship from a range of fields including linguistics, cognitive science, philosophy, anthropology, primatology and evolutionary biology to address questions including: What is language? What cognitive and social preconditions underlie it? What are the similarities and differences between human language and other animals' communication systems? What language-specific biological wiring may exist at the core of the human language faculty? How was language adaptive for those humans? Did language emerge relatively recently and suddenly, or gradually over millions of years? Permission of instructor required.

The study of literary language, most typically the domain of courses in literature, is also undertaken by linguists for the obvious reason that literature, as language, is composed of the structures and used for the functions that are the focus of formal and applied linguistic analysis. Linguistics and Literature focuses on the stylistic use of phonological, morphological, syntactic and semantic features; paralinguistic features of intonation, pitch, rhythm, stress, loudness, and speed; and speech acts and pragmatic conventions of indirectness; entailment, presupposition, implication, and persuasion. This course will also give a historical overview of the field of linguistics. Other topics may include historical linguistics, language typology, pragmatics, sociolinguistics, the brain and language, and computational linguistics. By permission of instructor.

LING-405. Typology. 3 Hours.

Typology studies the similarities and differences among human languages. We observe which categories (such as noun, verb, past) and which structures (such as questions, passive, causative) are universal, common or rare among the world's languages and how they are crosslinguistically similar and different. We then ask why languages seem to prefer some categories and constructions over others and what that might say about the human capacity for language. Through reading, problem solving and fieldwork, students learn about these language structures and discuss proposed explanations for why languages are the way they are.

LING-422. Phonetics & Phonology. 3 Hours.

This class provides a foundation in the acoustic and articulatory properties of the sounds used in human languages and introduces theories about the systematic variation of sounds in ordinary speech. Through reading, problem solving and class discussion, students become familiar with basic phonetics, the analysis of sounds into features, both rule-based and constraint-based theories of sound variation, and the structure of sound at the segment, syllable and phrase levels. By consent of instructor.
Prerequisite: LING-401 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-401) minimum grade of C.

This course introduces the basic principles of semantics and how they are applied to a scientific analysis of meaning in language. Topics covered include the components of word meaning, the composition of words into sentence meaning, logic and truth conditions, lexical semantics, formal semantics and the pragmatic effects of context on meaning.

LING-437. Introduction To Generative Grammar. 3 Hours.

This course introduces the study of sentence structure in natural language, with a goal of characterizing the unconscious knowledge that speakers have for recognizing, producing and interpreting any sentence in their language. Working within a Chomskyan generative approach, students analyze data in English and other languages to become familiar with issues such as constituent structure, argument structure and theta roles, case, movement and empty categories. Emphasis is placed on theory building and generalizing particular solutions to what might be universals about sentence grammar.
Prerequisite: LING-401 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-401) minimum grade of C.

LING-438. Syntax. 3 Hours.

This advanced course builds on Ling 437, reviewing basic principles of syntax and investigating them in greater detail. Students are introduced to recent literature on syntax, mostly within a generative perspective, but the strategy of the class is also to have students explore issues, analyze data and come up with their own proposals to various problems under Minimalist assumptions. The class also emphasizes theory building and justifying many assumptions that underlie syntactic theory. Topics include clause structure, noun phrase structure and the interface between syntax and semantics.

LING-447. The Origin Of Language. 3 Hours.

The course introduces theorizing about how, when and why language appeared in humans, by considering evidence from linguistics, anthropology, cognitive science, philosophy, primatology and evolutionary biology. The course asks four broad questions: Did language appear gradually or suddenly? Did it appear recently or millions of years ago? How was language adaptive for the individuals who had it? What conditions were necessary for language to appear? Caution: this course is NOT about historical linguistics, the study of language change through time. This course looks at how language evolved in the species.

Theory and research focus on gathering and analyzing naturally-occurring texts to gain understanding of the patterns of social action they respond to and initiate. Research explores spoken, written, and visual texts and sociolinguistic aspects of the relationship between languages, cultures, and individuals. Students will come to understand that identiy - personal, social, national - as well as ideology - are constructed by and, in turn, serve to construct interactional discourse.
Prerequisites: LING-401 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-401) minimum grade of C and LING-437 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?
$P=$ LING-437) minimum grade of $C$ and LING-446 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-446) minimum grade of $C$.

LING-449. Anthropological Linguistics. 3 Hours.

Combining the theory and methodology of the ethnographic analysis of culture with the theory and methodology of the sociolinguistic analysis of contextualized talk and text, this course examines the social practice of language in use within and across cultures. Through collection and analysis of naturally-occurring culturally-grounded data, students will identify and come to appreciate how language structures and reveals the systems that both influence and expose cultural knowledge. Students can apply their awareness to culturally-bounded events in settings such as education, corporations, families, and the world at large.
Prerequisites: LING-401 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-401) minimum grade of C and LING-437 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/? P=LING-437) minimum grade of C and LING-446 (http://catalog.neiu.edu/search/?P=LING-446) minimum grade of C.

PHIL-210. Writing Intensive Program: Arguing Philosophically. 3 Hours.

For as long as people have reasoned philosophically, they have noticed that there is something about successful arguments which compels any rational listener to either embrace the conclusion or, barring that, to offer equally compelling reasons for rejecting it. Indeed, what makes for a compelling reason is a matter worthy of careful investigation. Compelling reasons come in various forms-from the extremely compelling deductive arguments of formal logic, to the comparatively weak forms of everyday presumptive reasoning. While we will cover some of the former, we will focus our study of philosophical argument on the various forms of non-deductive argument-inductive, presumptive, and defeasible argument. While our aim is to participate in the exploration of argument, our goal will be the decidedly practical one of analyzing actual arguments in ordinary language.

PHIL-364. Critical Race Theory. 3 Hours.

This course begins with the recognition that racism is prevalent in the United States. Critical Race Theorists confront the historical centrality of white supremacy and the complicity of the law in upholding, indeed constructing, racism. Following the challenge to ahistoricism and acontextualism embedded in standard legal practice brought by Critical Legal Theorists, Critical Race Theorists address racism as embedded in U.S. legal structure. We will examine the law's role in the construction and maintenance of social domination and subordination in order to understand and articulate a critical race theoretical approach to the intersections of race, gender, class and the law.

While there have been many empires which have plundered pre-existing cultures and civilizations, modern colonialism did more than extract tribute, goods and wealth from conquered countries. It restructured economies, societies, languages, histories. Postcolonial theorists write from the margins of and in resistance to reverberating colonial cultural productions.

PHIL-388. Philosophy Of Language Seminar. 3 Hours.

This course focuses on language use and begins with theoretical challenges from both the analytic (Wittgenstein) and continental (Derrida) traditions in philosophy to idealized theories of language, particularly the reference theory of language as well as the idea that language is a pure and formal unity. We will explore strategies of using language to construct consensus through both syntax and semantics, generating commitment to particular and tacit understandings. We will also work on theories of metaphor and performatives to become skilled in articulating practical complexities of language use.

PHIL-389. Foucault Seminar. 3 Hours.

Michel Foucault is and will remain one of the most influential thinkers of the 20th century. His work is influential not only in philosophy, but in history, sociology, gender studies, justice studies, art, and literary theory. We will focus on the shorter works and interviews found in Dits et Écrits both because they are often easier to read than the books, and because Foucault presents his philosophical conclusions most succinctly there.

PHIL-390. Classical Political Theory. 3 Hours.

In this course, we will study ancient political thought to gain a critical perspective on the politics and ethical practices of our own time. But to do so is not to bow to the present. This approach guided the Medieval Era's study of classical philosophy and the Modern Age's study of classical history. And thus, to ask what the ancients teach us about ourselves is to ask a question that is both contemporary and traditional. It is also to ask a question that requires respect for antiquite's distinctiveness.
All political philosophy is an inquiry into how we should live and how we should live together and this is especially ture for the ancients. Throughout the semester, we will be attentive to how their understandings of these dimensions of human existence are sometimes quite different from our own. This course will introduce you to some of the dominant texts and concepts of "Western" political thought drawn from the Mediterranean region and originally written in Hebrew, Greek and Latin. Some of our readings will challenge the centrality of these texts--they will force us out of the frame-- and we will take the fact of this centrality in this liberal arts and sciences as a problem for thought and discussion.

Europe itself was divided between supporters of the United States (UK, Spain, Italy, Poland) and opponents (Germany, France, Belgium). The severe strain in diplomatic relations did, however, little harm to the important trade relations. While differences in values between Americans and Europeans should not be marginalized, shared values significantly outnumber values that divide them.
