It is wonderful to do big things, heroic things, like commanding an army; circumnavigating the globe on the water, under the water, or above the water; leading an expedition to Mars; and hitting the game-winning home run in the last of the ninth. We all dream of doing things like this and of having our name and picture before the public's eye. But, the important advances in history are not the battles, the treaties, the rise of this or that celebrity. It is man continuing to adapt his life to his own small successes.

The world is actually kept on its way by a series of small pushes in the right direction. This is the chief value of a long life. For fifty years and plus Dr. Harry E. Paisley has been pushing each day, every day, Ursinus College and a fair-sized corner of the world along in the right direction. He has never confused bigness with goodness or power with righteousness. Ursinus and Paisley are almost synonymous terms, and both are venerable and vigorous.

Continuity is important in any organization. It is especially significant at Ursinus College. Through the influence of Dr. Paisley and men like him a stability has been provided which has kept the College academically strong and remarkably free from educational fads. A generation which ignores its continuity with the past is incapable of understanding its relation to the present and renders itself sterile for participating in the future. It is important in this age of breathless change in educational procedures for us to remember the past.

Time will bring us many things. Some of them will be important things—big gifts, big responsibilities, and the big opportunity for every alumnus to give Ursinus big pushes in the direction of its historic purposes.

Dr. Paisley Completes Fifty Years As President Of the Board of Directors

On January 22 Harry E. Paisley was 95 years old. This alone sets him apart from most men. But even more significant is the fact that on June 6 Dr. Paisley completed fifty years as president of the Board of Directors of Ursinus College. It is only natural that this issue of the Journal review the life and achievements of this man who spans a century and who has served as president of the Board for over half the life of the College.

In a recent interview Dr. Paisley divulged his reticence in accepting election to the Board of Directors. "I had never gone to college and was unacquainted with college administration. To be elected to the Board was a surprise to me, and I immediately consulted some of my friends. It was Dr. Omwake, then dean but later president of the College, who persuaded me to accept. He said that the Board of Directors wanted three kinds of individuals; those who had ideas about education, those who had control of money, and those who had business experience. He made it clear to me that I fitted into the third category. This was in 1907, and I've been on the Board ever since."

Dr. Paisley was born in Philadelphia in 1865, four years before Ursinus was founded. His father came from Ireland although the family had originally been Scottish; his mother's family had roots in Germany. In 1888 he was married to the former Carrie J. Strassburger, a cousin of the late Ralph B. Strassburger, the owner of the Norristown Times Herald. Mrs. Paisley died in 1947. Ellwood, an only child, now retired after working forty-three years with the National Drug Company, was elected to the Board of Directors of the College in 1959.

After completing a two-year course beyond the eighth grade, Dr. Paisley, as a youth, held a succession of jobs in Philadelphia firms. He first worked in a law office on Walnut Street, only to leave that work shortly because his employer "wouldn't let me read his law books. I left when I discovered that he wouldn't let me learn." He moved to Young Smithfield and Co. and worked in their Foreign Hosiery Department; later he spent four years in the office of a stock broker on Dock Street.

In 1883 he began work, at $30 a month, for the Reading Railroad. By 1904 he was made assistant treasurer, and in 1908 he became treasurer of the company. He was retired in 1938. Asked to what he could attribute his successful rise within the company, he replied, "They knew they could trust me; I'd keep secrets and confidences." Even more revealing was the following story which Dr. Paisley related.

"When I was office boy at the Reading the summer of 1883, other workers took advantage of me. I was asked to 'double up' at desks made temporarily vacant by those employees on vacation. At the time I didn't know that I was not supposed to substitute for every one as he took his summer holiday. Thus, unknowingly, I was given much more work than I was supposed to have. But this put me in good stead; for that summer I spent some time at every desk in the treasurer's office. I had first-hand experience with all aspects of that department's work. Maybe that's why I was promoted to assistant treasurer of the Reading Company before I was forty."

Asked about his philosophy of life, that principle which guided him in his work, he promptly replied, "I have always wanted to be useful. I've seen many who have missed the mark, never doing one thing more than was asked. I was generous that way; I wanted to do more than I was asked to do."

Dr. Paisley, when quizzed about any "blunders" or mistakes which he could remember having made, with emphasis and gestures said, "I never allowed them to conquer me; I'd get rid of them—overcome them."

When queried about where he felt he made his greatest contribution to society without hesitation he responded, "In and through the church." Investigation soon confirms this statement. At his home church, Trinity United Church of Christ (formerly German Reformed), Broad and Venango Streets in Philadelphia, he has served on the church board since his election at the age of 21. He has been president of the Consistory since 1932. For fifty years, 1899-1949, he was superintendent of the Sunday School. He has taught the Men's Bible Class continuously for sixty-two years and presently has a class of about fifty. The Sunday School and Dr. Paisley have such an inseparable history that for several years it has observed the Sunday nearest his birthday as "Paisley Day."

The "Pattern Club," was founded in the Church School upon a statement he once made in one of his many speeches. "Every boy," he said, "has picked out some man as a pattern for his life.—Fellow man, are you a good pattern for that boy?"

Although most of the results of Dr. Paisley's efforts in the fields of education and religion are beyond statistical measurement, there are some concrete facts which give evidence to his vigor and leadership. When he came to Ursinus, or instance, Freeland, Olevian and Tomberger were the only substantial buildings on the campus. Now the hundred-acre campus is graced with a dozen major halls and buildings, one of which bears his name. During his tenure in office the "worth" of the College has risen from $434,244 to $7,595,565. The enrollment of the College has risen from 150 to 900.

His inspiration and influence, together with his power of persuasion and pertinacity, have been potent factors in convincing many to be benefactors to the programs and institutions in which he has been interested. He has been largely responsible, for instance, in founding and finding support for twenty-three different funds, now totalling over $221,000 in his local church. The interest from these funds is given to specified projects: Ursinus, Homes for the Aged, Children's Homes, and Missions, for instance.

Persistence, tenacity, and continuity are characterized Dr. Paisley's life and efforts. For further proof of this we need only note that for over fifty years he wrote and had printed his own church paper and news-sheet, "Once a Week," which was distributed to Trinity members every Sunday. Tuesday of each week he hand-addressed over one hundred envelopes and sent the paper to friends and former members of the Church and the Church School.

Dr. Paisley's contributions to the religious and educational life of his community, state, and nation have not gone unnoticed. He was cited as "Layman of the Year" in 1952 by the National Council of Churches (Division of Christian Education).

We note here a few of Dr. Paisley's activities which are included in that citation: President, 1930-47, Pa. State Sabbath School Association; President, Council on Christian Education, Phila. Council of Christian Educators; Member, Board of Directors, Y.M.C.A. of Phila.; Member, Board of Directors, Salvation Army (Phila.); Member, Board of Directors, Christian Association (U. of P.); President, Board of Directors, Tennent College (now merged with Princeton Seminary); Member, International Council of Religious Education and American Section, World Council of Christian Education; Vice-president, Board of Directors, Good Will Industries. — And, so the list could continue.

Even the bare outline of Dr. Paisley's activities indicates a man devoted to the cause of learning and goodness. The length of his life is exceeded only by the breadth of his interests. His life is and has been one of service. For his dedication and devotion Ursinus can be thankful. "There were giants in the earth in those days."

Alumni will recall his floppy black bow tie, white wavy hair, nose glasses, and the twinkling smile as fresh and fair as his smooth, clear complexion. He is a part of Ursinus and we are a part of him. By his participation in Ursinus and by our graduation from Ursinus we are inextricably bound up in and with each other. Dr. Paisley is a part of the personal history of every living Ursinus alumnus. Indeed, he has seen over 98 percent of us graduate!

Dr. McClure Salutes Dr. Paisley

Dr. Harry E. Paisley completes this year a half-century as president of the Board of Directors of Ursinus College. That is a record of service probably unequalled in the history of American higher education.

It is not my present purpose to write of the many facets of Dr. Paisley's full and rich life as the head of a happy family, as a successful business man, as a leader in many religious and civic activities. I have known no man whose achievement has been more varied and more nearly complete.

For more than fifty years Ursinus College has been one of Dr. Paisley's primary interests. Throughout a half-century as head of the governing board of Ursinus College he has done more than any other man to shape the history of the College. During those years the College has grown immeasurably in strength, in influence, and in reputation.

Dr. Paisley is a man of great strength of body, mind, and character. He is an idealist insistent on the need of facing facts. His associates remember with admiration and affection his sound judgment, his cheerfulness, his kindness, his invincible faith in the providence of God. Through the years he has been staunch and steady in counsel, generous in thought and action, a mirror of courtesy, a tower of strength.

Now at the age of ninety-five years Dr. Paisley's enthusiasm and zeal for Ursinus College remain undiminished. He is still active in the work of the College, and at the meetings of the Board of Directors he still presides with conspicuous skill, patience, and wisdom.

To have been closely associated with Dr. Paisley in the work of Ursinus College for twenty-four years has been a great privilege, a privilege for which I shall never cease to be grateful.

At Ursinus College Dr. Paisley has built on a firm foundation. He has built wisely and well. His work here will live in the future of the College and in the lives of thousands of students long after those who knew him and admired him are gone.

Senator Hugh Scott Speaks At Commencement

"All of our efforts to form opinions about public affairs are constantly frustrated by a lack of information and by deliberate misinformation," said Senator Hugh Scott, speaking at the annual Commencement program at Ursinus on Monday, June 6.

Citing the U2 incident as an example, Scott demonstrated how public opinion constantly changed as new pieces of information regarding the plane and its mission were revealed. Therefore he urged his listeners to form opinions cautiously, and said, "Challenge the obvious. Ask why."

He concluded that "The greatest weapon in the American arsenal is compassion."

Mrs. Linda Wolf MacFarland, of Camden, New Jersey, was valedictorian of the class of 153 seniors who received diplomas during the ceremony. Mrs. MacFarland completed requirements for her degree in January. She was co-captain of the women's varsity swimming team and took part in many other campus activities. Salutatorian of the class was Mrs. Beverly Garlick Koch, of Graterford, formerly of Norristown. Both of these women were graduated magna cum laude.

Four of the graduates were awarded their degrees cum laude. They were: Mrs. Alice Mills Dempsey, Drexel Hill; Robert H. Kreisinger, Jr., Wyomissing; Miss Marla Joan Shilton, Philadelphia; and Miss Nancy C. Springer, Linden, N. J. Miss Sara Leshner, Lebanon, completed her degree with departmental honors in psychology.

Senator Scott, elected to the U. S. Senate in 1958 after having served in the House of Representatives for sixteen years, was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree. Dr. Douglas Horton, retired dean of the Harvard University Divinity School, received a doctor of humane letters degree. The Reverend George Ambrose Stauffer, retired minister, after whom Stauffer Hall (the women's dormitory) is named, was given an honorary doctor of divinity degree.

President Helfferich, flanked by Dr. Douglas Horton and Senator Hugh Scott, both of whom received honorary degrees at the June commencement.

The Rev. Dr. George A. Stauffer, '94, recipient of an honorary degree in absentia at the June commencement. Stauffer Hall is named in his honor.

Mrs. Omwake Honored

A silver samovar and tray for use in the many social events on campus has been presented to the college in honor of Mrs. George Leslie Omwake, whom alumni will remember as the gracious wife of Dr. Omwake, president of the college from 1912 to 1936.

At the suggestion of Joan Mirza Maxfield, '30, who lived at the Omwake home during her college years, those who stayed at Super House or were closely associated with Mrs. Omwake while on campus have contributed this gift as an expression of their appreciation of her many kindnesses.

The samovar will be used for the first time at the Founders' Day reception in the fall.

Horton Preaches Baccalaureate Sermon

The Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, retired dean of the Harvard University Divinity School, delivered the baccalaureate sermon on June 5.

Using as his text the verses in Ecc. 9 which speak of "a great king" and "a poor wise man," Dr. Horton commented in the regal yet humble wisdom which college education gives to the inquiring and industrious student.

"Education," he said, "should teach you something about everything and everything about something. Be broad and deep. Take a bird's-eye view and also have a worm's-eye view. Use the telescope and the microscope. Like the king, know a little about a lot; like the poor wise man, know a lot about a little."

Dr. Horton was graduated from Princeton University and the Hartford Theological Seminary. He was ordained into the ministry of the Congregational Church, served as a U. S. Navy chaplain, and taught practical theology at Dover Newton Theological Seminary before going to Harvard in 1955.

He is married to the former Mildred McAfee, a distinguished educator, who, during W.W. II, was Director of the WAVES. The Hortons have four children.

Dr. Boswell Retires

Dr. James L. Boswell, for the past 37 years head of the Economics Department, will retire this year.

Dr. Boswell, born in Carroll County, Kentucky, received his early education in a one-room country school there. He completed high school in the preparatory department of Georgetown College, Georgetown, Kentucky, and remained there for his undergraduate work.

Dr. Boswell

During World War I, he was a member of the Pioneer Infantry, and saw action on three fronts in France in the course of 13 months of overseas duty.

Under the guidance of a former faculty friend from Georgetown, he enrolled for graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, and supported himself by teaching mathematics in the preparatory department of Temple University. He earned the master of science and Ph.D. degrees with a major in economic theory and minors in finance and political science.

He joined the Ursinus faculty in 1923 as assistant professor of economics and political science. He was the only faculty member in the department, which had been started just a year before. He became a full professor in 1927, at which time economics was made a separate department.

The author of one book, "The Economics of Simon H. Patten," he has also written articles for the American Economics Review and the Wall Street Journal. He is a member of the American Economics Association, and a former member of the American Political Science Association.

Commenting on his service at Ursinus, Dr. Boswell said, "I've enjoyed these years. I've had fine colleagues to work with, and the students have been challenging. It has all been very pleasant."

Mrs. George L. Omwake, wife of the late president of Ursinus.

1960 Loyalty Fund

Ursinus ranked fifth in the nation among the large, co-educational, liberal arts colleges for its record of percentage participation of its alumni in the annual giving campaign of 1959-1960.

This announcement was made public by the American Alumni Council.

Four Professors Given Bear Awards

It is customary each year at the annual banquet of the Men's Faculty Club to award "Bears" to those members of the faculty who have served the College for twenty-five years.

Four bears were awarded this year. Short biographies of Messrs. Bailey, Philip, and Miller appear with their pictures. Dr. Wilcox, who was to have received the fourth bear, died on March 17. (See the March issue of the Journal, page 29.) Along with his picture are recorded the "memorial minute" adopted at the regular meeting of the Faculty on April 6 and the poem, "In Memoriam," written by his colleague, Dr. Donald Baker.

Memorial Minute

In the death of Alfred Miles Wilcox the College, the community, and the church have suffered a great loss. Born and reared in another state, educated in another college, confirmed in another denomination, he became an adopted son of Ursinus, a citizen of our town, a member of the United Church of Christ, and served all three with loyalty and devotion seldom matched by those who by birth or original ties owe their best efforts to them.

For a quarter of a century he labored among us as a scholar and teacher. To his zeal for education in his own discipline and for liberal education as a creative force we can attest. Devoted as he was to the culture of France and the Latin countries, he had a clear vision of the broader horizon of Christian higher education. Rigorous in his standards, thorough in his scholarship, he stimulated his students and colleagues alike to the unceasing pursuit of truth, the arduous goal of all our labors. He was a good teacher.

Ursinus can ill afford his untimely passing. We shall miss his creative energy, his inquiring intellect, his Anglo-Gallic wit. With gratitude for all he accomplished in the unceasing work of building a more enlightened, civilized, Christian world, we record our deep sorrow that a life devoted to all that Ursinus holds dear is ended.

IN MEMORIAM A.M.W.

Fellow-laborer in the vineyard, fare you well.
 Much yet remains to do. We could have used
 Your courage, faith, and natural sense of right
 To help us with our tasks, your ready wit
 To lighten them. It leaves the tasks
 Unchanged with which we're charged
 But fewer hands to do them.
 Yet two-fold grace there is,—memory
 Of thought and song and labor shared in joy,
 And certainty that others will take up
 The cause of truth and right. These move
 Forever calling to their service volunteers.
 Earlier or now, you did not wait long
 When the Master called.

D.G.B.

Dr. Miller

Eugene H. Miller was graduated from Ursinus in 1933, the valedictorian of the class. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Clark University and has been head of the political science department for the past eighteen of his twenty-five years of teaching at Ursinus.

In 1946-47 as a Penfield Traveling Scholar (U. of P.) he toured Latin America to study Canadian-Latin American relations. In 1954-55 he was a Fulbright Lecturer at Tokyo University of Foreign Studies. He has also been a visiting professor at the University of Connecticut, Lehigh University, and the University of Hawaii. From 1950 to 1957 he represented Ursinus as a lecturer on the University of the Air (WFIL-TV).

He is the author of Strategy at Singapore and numerous articles in American and Canadian scholarly journals.

Competent, witty, popular, Dr. Miller is a valuable member of the Ursinus community.

In 1938 he was married to the former Jessie Ashworth, at present a lecturer in sociology at Ursinus. They have one child, Judy, a sophomore at Colby.

Dr. Philip

Dr. Philip, born in upper New York state, where he received his early education, came to Ursinus as Director of Music in 1935, after extensive experience in professional and educational fields. He earned his Master and Doctor of Music degrees at the State Academy of Church and School Music in Berlin, Germany.

In addition to founding the Meistersingers, Dr. Philip also originated the "Messiah Chorus" here at Ursinus. His conducting work away from the college has been varied and multiple. He was the choral conductor at the New England Music Camp for 15 years, where he conducted a chorus of 125 for eight weeks during the summer season. Pleasant, agreeable, and cooperative, Dr. Philip has had a wide and deep influence upon the generation of Ursinus students whom he has served.

Mr. Bailey

Everett M. Bailey, director of athletics since 1944, came to Ursinus in 1935 from the faculty at Columbia University. Prior to that time he taught at private schools in Cleveland and Baltimore.

Mr. Bailey, a graduate of Rogers High School, Newport, R. I., received his B.P.E. and B.S. degrees at Springfield College. Columbia awarded him an I.A. in 1936. Later, he did further graduate work at Johns Hopkins.

Among important posts he has held since coming to Ursinus are the following:

1. President of the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.
2. President of the Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic Basketball Conference.
3. Secretary-treasurer of the Middle Atlantic Wrestling Association.
4. Member of the Board of Directors of the Middle Atlantic Track and Field Association.
5. President of the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Football Association.

Known and respected at Ursinus and in the Middle Atlantic Conference, "Ace" has wisely and well guided the course and destiny of athletics in this school and in the conference of which we are a part.

He is married to the former Ann Richter, of Springfield, Mass.; they have two children: Carol, 14, and Everett, Jr., 10.

Faculty Notes

Three Ursinus science professors have recently been honored with grants which will allow them to participate in research projects relating to their specific fields this summer. Two of the professors, Dr. Roger P. Staiger, associate professor of chemistry, and Dr. Evan S. Snyder, associate professor of physics, will study at Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Dr. Paul R. Wagner, professor of biology, will undertake work at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Dr. Staiger has received his grant to participate in a six weeks institute in radioisotope techniques from July 25 to September 2 at Oak Ridge. Dr. Staiger's studies will include laboratory work, lectures, tours, and seminars related to nuclear chemistry, with special emphasis placed on laboratory work. Dr. Snyder, who will also be at Oak Ridge, will participate in a three month program from June 13 to September 6. His work will concern research in physics.

The summer institute program at Oak Ridge is conducted by the institute's Special Training Division and is sponsored by the United States Atomic Energy Commission and the National Science Foundation. It is open to college and university teachers of chemistry and physics in order to introduce them to the most recent advances, research techniques, and projects in nuclear studies.

Dr. Wagner is one of forty university and college professors from all over the United States who will participate in a six weeks institute in genetics at North Carolina State College sponsored by the Genetics Society of America and the National Science Foundation. This program, which began five years ago, is rapidly expanding and is designed to inform college teachers of the research, advances, and teaching methods in the field. Two years ago, Dr. Wagner had the privilege of participating in an institute to study embryology at Williams College under the direction of the Society of Embryologists.

The American Chemical Society recently announced that Dr. Roger P. Staiger has been awarded a grant of $4,000.

The grant has been made for the support of a research project entitled "Isotopic Anhydride V", which is being directed by Dr. Staiger. Isotopic Anhydride V is an analytical reagent in the qualitative identification of amines, alcohols, phenols, mercaptans, thiophenols, and active methylene groups. The grant provides for a Perkin-Elmer Infracord double beam spectrophotometer and cells. These funds supplement an earlier grant of $2,300 from the National Science Foundation for the same project.

This grant was made possible through the Petroleum Research Fund which provides for fundamental research by undergraduate students. The grant will cover the period from February 1, 1960 to August 31, 1961. This is the first grant made by the American Chemical Society in support of this research at Ursinus.

Dr. Staiger graduated from Ursinus College in 1943 with a B.S. in chemistry and received his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. He has been teaching at Ursinus since 1943. He acts as a consultant for the Maumee Chemical Company in Toledo, Ohio, doing research for Maumee in the college laboratories.

Dr. Eugene H. Miller, chairman of the political science department, recently was elected to two new offices. He has been named third national vice president of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, and a member of the council of the Pa. Political Science Association.

Dr. William T. Parsons, assistant professor of history, read a paper entitled "The Lives and Interests of Isaac Norris I and II" before the Spring Meeting of the Historical Society of Montgomery County.

Dr. Parsons distinguished himself on Isaac Norris I, the Councillor (1671-1735) and his son, Isaac Norris II, the Speaker (1701-1776). Isaac Norris I purchased from William Penn the lands comprising present-day Norristown, East, and West Norriton Townships.

Dr. Elizabeth Read Foster, associate professor of history, contributed an article entitled "Procedure of the House of Commons Against Patents and Monopolies, 1621-1624" in a book of essays, Conflict and Crisis in Stuart England, published in honor of Wallace Notestein, professor emeritus of history at Yale University.

Raymond L. Rafetto, Jr., assistant professor of economics, has been awarded a General Electric grant for college teacher training in economics.

This summer the Graduate School of Business at the U. of Chicago will conduct the program which is oriented to "Recent Developments in Applied Economics."

The purpose of the program will be to provide an opportunity for forty faculty members of institutions of higher learning which do not give doctorates in economics to examine important developments and applications of concepts in two major areas: Monetary and Cycle Theory and Policy, and Cost and Demand Theory.

Marla Shilton, '60, pictured here, has written the article which appears below. Miss Shilton, editor of the Weekly during her senior year, was elected to the Whitians and to Who's Who. She is pursuing graduate study at Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

A Student Reviews The Past Year At Ursinus

Numerous and notable scholars visited Ursinus College during the 1959-60 academic year and lectured on the many phases and pursuits of an educated man's life.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, Professor Emeritus of Harvard, renowned astronomer, and former President of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, initiated the fall Forum program with a discussion of "Galaxies and Mankind". Dr. Shapley's lecture centered on his theory of the evolution of the expanding universe and featured slides illustrative of many of the studies necessary to the science of astronomy. A scholar of diversified talents, Shapley also reflected his close acquaintance with the classics and with one of his favorite poets, Frost. Shapley is soon to publish another of his numerous books, Of Stars and Man, which deals with the relationship of religion to science.

One of the more outstanding events of the fall season at Ursinus was the hosting of the Middle Atlantic Conference of the National Renaissance Society. Several noted scholars addressed the conference. Dr. Rudolph Hirsch of the University of Pennsylvania discussed printing in early Renaissance France. Our own late Dr. Alfred M. Wilcox lectured on "An Unknown Admirer of Ronsard", and Dr. Robert M. Walker of Swarthmore College delivered an address on the engravings used in a book of statutes of a monastic order. Dr. Elizabeth R. Foster of the Ursinus History Department coordinated the program, luncheon, and tea for the annual conference.

Outstanding leaders in church work and religious education also spoke to the Ursinus student body. Among them was the Rev. Dr. Harold Wilke, Executive Secretary of the Commission of the Church and Ministry of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. Dr. Wilke spoke in chapel and also met informally with the pre-theological students of the E. and R. Church. Miss Barbara Hall of the Presbyterian Commission on Ecumenical Missions and Relations addressed the International Relations Club on the Brazilian Student Christian Movement. She also discussed the involvement of the Christian on the campus and in the life and work of the church.

The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association of Ursinus was responsible for bringing outstanding men and women to the campus to acquaint the students with the many varied opportunities for social welfare work. Mrs. Clarice G. Herbert of the YWCA spoke to the Ursinus women in regard to their obtaining employment with the National Board of the YWCA. Dr.

Dr. Helfferich, having "entered" into the presidency in 1958, is shown receiving from Cal Griffin, the president of the sophomore class, a certificate making him an honorary member of the Class of 1962. Howard Friend and Barry Francis, the other officers of the Class of '62, look on.

Reginald Helfferich, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Church World Service, enlightened the students with a sketch of his immense responsibilities and the scope of his work. Raphique Ali Khan, a Pakistani student studying in the United States, revealed some of the major problems of his fellow countrymen and students. Mr. Philip L. Turner, Director of Careers in Social Work, and Dr. Richard Lodge, of the University of Pennsylvania, held a forum under the auspices of the YM-YWCA on careers in social work.

The language clubs on the campus were responsible for a not inconsiderable number of cultural programs this past year. A "Schiller Abend" was presented by the German Club to commemorate the 200th birthday of Friedrich Schiller. Students presented various pieces by the author, and Mr. Horst Pelckmann of the German Consulate attended and made the introductory remarks.

The Spanish Club sponsored a film in Spanish, "Mexican Bus Ride", and had Mrs. A. Batista and Mrs. E. Bauer, residents of the Republic of Colombia, discuss the life, politics, and customs of the people of their country.

Through the sponsorship of the French Club, Madame Helene Jacquemin presented a program of French art songs, whose dates ranged from the thirteenth to the twentieth century. Another guest of the club was Mrs. Jacqueline Gourevitch from the Philadelphia Museum of Art, who discussed the French impressionist painters.

For the November Forum, Mr. Eugene Jemison, a talented and versatile artist who is a painter, folksinger, and printmaker, discussed the growth of the American folksong and illustrated his presentation with his own rendition of many of our favorite American folksongs. A faculty member of the Kansas

URSINUS COLLEGE BULLETIN

City Art Institute, Mr. Jemison, in explaining his versatility, stated that "It is difficult to separate art and music—or almost any field, for that matter—from a tangle of related subjects. The time as come to reconsider the boundaries of specialization, not at the expense of specialization, but rather by working on the orders of each subject and finding out where it touches, penetrates, or supplements another."

In February, Dr. John H. Powell, author, historian, and playwright, addressed the college community on "Twelve Days to Destiny", a colorful, ramatic, and factual narration of the journey of Abraham Lincoln from Springfield to Washington. Dr. Powell's amous book is Bring Out Your Dead. He has also written several important studies on the revolutionary and early eriods of American history.

For three days, Dr. S. Young Tyree, under the program of Visiting Scientists in Chemistry, sponsored by the American Chemical Society, visited the Ursinus campus. Dr. Tyree lectured to chemistry classes and held seminars to discuss the latest developments in chemical research. His address to the Forum audience concerned itself with the topic of "Who is Well-Educated Today". Dr. Tyree listed five basic skills which should be acquired in becoming an educated man. They are the following: 1. The study of the culture of the English-speaking world; 2. The study of some other culture; 3. A basic introduction to mathematics and science; 4. A good introduction to the history of civilization; 5. A consideration of personal goals.

Dr. Norman D. Palmer, Professor of Political Science at the University of Pennsylvania, discussed "Nationalism and African Unity" with Ursinus students. Dr. Palmer pointed out that there are many problems to be faced by Africa in the near future. His definite observations are that Africans wish to make their own future, are definitely anti-colonial and are anti-imperial. Dr. Palmer made these observations following a year of travel in Africa. He serves as coordinator of the U. of P.'s public administration program at the University of Karachi in Pakistan.

Visiting Ursinus from India was Mr. Acharya Kripyani, a leading socialist member of the Indian parliament. His conversation with the students stressed the need for America's more thorough acquaintance with India's present-day problems and for America's continuing evaluation of her policy toward India.

The "Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System" held an industrial conference panel on Monday, November 16. Panel members were Richard Schweiker, Vice-president of Sales at American Encaustic Tiling Co., Inc.; Hugo Hanson, Chairman of the Board at Hamilton Paper Co.; Gerald M. Anderson, President of Montgomery County Bank and Trust Co.; and John Curtin, Jr., President of Warner Co. These "ACES" panel members discussed the three following major topics: 1. whether the Russians can overtake us in production; 2. whether automation, in the long run, creates or displaces jobs and penalizes small business; 3. whether inflation represents a present danger to our economy.

Among the musical events on campus were visits by the Westminster Choir and the Abyssinian Baptist Choir. Ursinus' own talented musical groups, however, were responsible for additional programs. A mid-winter program was presented by the Ursinus Concert Band on February 11. The twenty-eight band members, led by student conductor, Laverne Joseph, featured pieces ranging from marches to polkas to works like "Victory at Sea." The band presented another concert program on May Day, as is its custom.

The twenty-second Annual Messiah Program took place on Thursday, December 10. Once again under the direction of Dr. William F. Philip, the chorus of over 200 students rendered its annual presentation of Handel's Messiah. Soloists were Doris Bergey, Soprano; Frederick Mayer, Tenor; Gladys Kriese, Contralto; and Edwin Steffi, Bass.

The Curtain Club continued its list of fine performances with the presentation of Shaw's Major Barbara as the fall production and John Van Druten's Bell, Book, and Candle as its spring undertaking. Several short pieces were also performed, among them a scene from The Heiress (from Henry James' Washington Square) and Parting at Innsdorf.

At the level of not-so-serious dramatic production was the Senior Show "Old Spice". Featuring a cast of approximately 50 amateur seniors, a variety show full of humor and clowning was the result of the efforts of the Class of '60.

This year the Campus Chest set as its goal $1750.00 and succeeded in surpassing this figure by $100. The four charities chosen were World University Service, the American Friends Service Committee, the Heifer Project, and the Pennhurst State School. Dormitory solicitation and usual, as well as new original, events helped bring the total to over the goal set. Among the special events was a Chinese Auction which featured the sale of items sent from famous people, such as Hubert Humphrey and Senator John Kennedy. Professors and members of the administration competed in the bicycle race. Pennies were lined from Freeland to Eger Gateway. The usual fraternity Ugly Man contest was held. And the sororities held auctions and shined shoes to raise money. Once again the annual student-faculty show was held, this year in the guise of "The Minstrel in '60". The drive with its varied events proved to be one of the most successful in recent years.

Two new student projects were the publication of a "new look" Lantern (campus literary magazine) and the operation of the campus radio station, WRUC.

The Lantern came out in a new, smaller, blue book style. It featured good poetry and prose and gives signs of becoming an even better literary magazine.

WRUC started in April. Plans for the fall give every indication of a well-balanced and cultural program schedule.

Throughout the year, several Ursinus students earned recognition for themselves and for Ursinus. Among them was Robert Hunsicker, a senior history major, who delivered a talk to the Historical Society of Montgomery County on his identification of the grave of Christopher Dock, early Skippack schoolmaster. Bob's talk was taken from research he had done in preparation for a seminar paper in American history.

Helmut Behling, a senior pre-mediator, won the Dr. Lewis C. Scheffey Award. Dr. Scheffey, an alumnus of Ursinus and former professor of Jefferson School of Medicine, offers this award to the student who has been accepted for admission to Jefferson and has been nominated by the Dean of Ursinus and the adviser to the pre-med students. The award covers the tuition for the last semester of work at Ursinus.

Outstanding ability and interest in science earned a summer of scientific training at a Bar Harbor, Maine, biological research center for Lynne Habel, a junior biology major from Allentown. Lynne will participate with 23 other college students in the college training course at the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory.

Mr. John Innes, a senior chemistry major at Ursinus, was the recipient of the American Institute of Chemists award to the top senior student in the Department of Chemistry for this academic year. The American Chemical also presented John with an award for being the top student in the Department of Chemistry at Ursinus.

Permanent officers of the Class of 1960 as they were "shot" at the Junior Prom: Lin Drummond, reunion chairman; Helen Pearson, secretary-treasurer; John Forrest, president; Joe Lutz, loyalty fund chairman.

Faculty children were among those who enjoyed riding the ponies on alumni day. Shown here are Karen Wagner and Mary and Philip Creager.

Alumni Day

Two hundred and twenty-five adults and fifty children enjoyed the Smorgasbord luncheon in Freeland Hall on Alumni Day, June 4.

All afternoon, even during most of the rain, two ponies provided free rides for the children, as they were lead back and forth between the Library and Bomberger. This innovation—having children and ponies at Alumni Day—was applauded by all who love either, or both! Five baby sitters efficiently cared for the needs of the young fry when the rain dampened their out-door-activities.

The Class of '40, under Dave Hartman's direction, had fifty adults and thirty children return. Part of its reunion consisted in hearing an informal talk given by the Director of Admissions, Mr. Geoffrey Dolman.

The fifty year class (1910) had eleven of its fourteen living members present. Miss Florence Place, a member of the class, entertained them for lunch.

The Class of '20 had thirty-two present at the home of Mrs. D. L. Helfferich.

Paul Levingood, general chairman for the day, entertained forty-five of his classmates at his home on Main St.

In the evening, forty-seven from the class of '45 and twenty-six from the Class of '30 dined at the Bridge Hotel. At noon the Class of '30 had fifty attend its luncheon at Woodside Manor.

Alumni Elections

Results of the recent balloting by members of the Alumni Association were announced as follows on Alumni Day: Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Charlotte Witmer, '42; Faculty Representative, Roger Staiger, '43; Alumni-at-Large, Chester Albright, '34; Evelyn Hoover Peiffer, '35, and Louise Borneman Beardwood, '51; Alumni Director, Muriel Brandt Pancoast, '38.

Thompson Receives Award

The Montgomery County Medical Society announced that it awarded its first medical school scholarship to C. Frederick Thompson, '60, of Royersford. Mr. Thompson has been accepted by Hahnemann Medical College.

Formal award of the scholarship was made at the regular meeting of the Society held June 1 in Norristown by Dr. Manuel A. Bergnes, President of the Society.

In making the award, Dr. Bergnes said, "This represents the beginning of what we hope will be a nationwide movement designed to help young men and women meet their medical school expenses. The study of medicine has become so expensive that interested young people are turning elsewhere for graduate work. This is the first time in America where doctors have voluntarily undertaken to help such people through medical school. Scholarship help from industry, foundations and government is common in chemistry, engineering and similar professions, but medicine has no such resources."

"The Montgomery County Medical Society expects to award such a scholarship annually to a resident of the county and the society has recently been commended by the A.M.A. for its pioneering action. Other county societies in Pennsylvania and nearby states are working on similar programs."

Mr. Thompson is a lifelong resident of Royersford, where his father is employed as a clerk for the Pennsylvania Railroad. A graduate of Spring-Ford High School in 1956, Thompson has helped finance his education by working at the Diamond Glass Co., Royersford.

Admissions' Problems

H. LLOYD JONES

There was a time when anyone who wanted to go on to college and who could afford to do so could be granted that privilege. Those days are past. The Committee on Admissions at Ursinus College has had the extremely challenging and difficult task of selecting from a very large number of applicants those students who will comprise the entering freshman class. The Committee must decide which applicants are best prepared, best equipped, most deserving, and most likely to contribute something to their college. This task is not an easy one; it requires many hours of careful, painstaking, thoughtful consideration on the part of the members of the Committee on Admissions.

Many qualified students must be refused in favor of those who are better qualified; many young men and women with potential as yet unrealized must be refused in favor of those who have been living up to their potential. There is no such thing as a quick and easy decision except in the case of the obviously outstanding or the hopelessly unqualified student.

There will be about 280 new students entering the College this year. These young men and women have been selected from a total of about 1500 applicants. This year's entering class will include some of the finest young men and women in the country. We congratulate those who have been chosen and we regret that we could not choose them all. To be denied admission to the college of one's choice is not in any sense a reflection upon the applicant or his family. It is simply an indication that in order to be fair to all, we have had to disappoint some.

We thank our alumni for their loyal support and for the very helpful information which they have been giving us concerning prospective students. Such information is always very welcome and deeply appreciated, particularly when it arrives early enough to become a part of the material which the Committee on Admissions uses in its deliberations.

Ursinus Experiments In Swedish

Dr. Allan Lake Rice, professor of Swedish and German at Ursinus College, and author of a recent streamlined grammar of the Swedish language, attended the 50th annual convention of the Society for the Advancement of Scandinavian Studies, held May 6-7 at Chicago University.

Dr. Rice took part in a panel discussion on the future of the Scandinavian languages in America, and his paper on the unique Swedish course offered at Ursinus attracted such attention that it was decided to devote one of the three sessions of next year's convention exclusively to discussion of and plans for duplicating the 'Ursinus Experiment' on a number of other American campuses where Scandinavian courses have not previously been offered.

The novel feature of the 'Ursinus Experiment' is that here for the first time a Swedish course is not dependent on Swedish ancestry in either students or teacher, nor on Swedish traditions at the college. It is, however, appropriate, though purely coincidental, that the Experiment should have been successfully made within the area where the earliest European settlers were Swedes.

A native Philadelphian of non-Swedish ancestry, Dr. Rice had revived the teaching of Swedish at the University of Pennsylvania, where it had lapsed during the War, and on moving to Ursinus in 1947, introduced his Swedish course here for the first time.

Dr. Rice's wife, Mrs. Rigmor Rice, a native of Sweden, is well known in the Schuylkill Valley for her lectures on Swedish customs. The Rice family is visiting in Sweden this summer.

Commencement Day

Commencement Day at Ursinus in the year 1884 was unique. That year, for the first time in its history, Ursinus graduated women, two lone coeds, of whom I was one. On that fact rests my only claim to fame in the college's history, although the fact that I am now the oldest living graduate may have some temporary interest. Dr. Bomberger, the first president of the college, could not be present at my graduation exercises, not because he was still a little uncertain as to the "practicability" of co-education (a year later he stated that he had been "converted"), but because he was on a trip to Europe. European travel was rare in those days, and sorry though we were not to have him with us, we felt proud to know that he was having this exceptional experience in foreign lands. Mine was the thirteenth Ursinus commencement. Whether the unlucky thirteen was the cause I do not know, but torrential rains the night before graduation exercises washed out the old Perkiomen Railroad so badly at some points that the Allentown Orchestra was not able to be present. Nor could all the guests attend. But for me the presence of two distinguished gentlemen, Dr. J. C. Clapp, President of Catawba College, North Carolina, and Dr. Adam Fetterolf, President of Girard College, Philadelphia, offset the lack of the orchestra. Dr. Super, the Vice President of the college, was in charge of commencement ceremonies. Before guests, relatives, and friends I delivered my oration on "The Beautiful and the Useful" and received my B.S. degree . . . Incidentally, when Dr. Bomberger on his return from Europe greeted me with a kiss, this overwhelming distinction from our dignified, rather austere president more than compensated for his absence on my graduation day.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Mrs. Wehler, the first woman to be graduated from Ursinus College, was, until her death on May 19, the oldest living graduate of the College.

The editor of the Journal, several months ago, asked Mrs. Wehler to write of her memories and recollections of Ursinus. A week after her death, this manuscript was received from her daughter, Miss Katherine Wehler, who wrote, in part, as follows:

"I must explain the sad associations which these reminiscences will always have for us. My mother worried considerably about the fact that we kept working and talking instead of getting off to you a finished product. Margaret and I each wrote up the facts she had given us. We read each version to her; she made many suggestions for changes or revisions. Then on Sunday, May 15, she said to us 'I'll die before you finish that article.' So we devoted an entire Sunday morning to combining our two stories as she desired. Then finally we read aloud the finished product, and she liked it.

Before we could type it, she was stricken with her fatal illness—that same Sunday night. On Thursday, May 19, she died—a little more than a month short of her 96th birthday. What a blessing we finished this while she could still pass judgment upon form and content!"

But my connection with Ursinus dates back to its very beginnings, beyond my college years. I was truly a "child of Ursinus", for my maternal grandfather, the Reverend Abraham Hunsicker, was founder of Freeland Seminary, the forerunner of Ursinus; my uncle Henry Hunsicker was principal and owner of Freeland Seminary; my father, the Reverend Joseph H. Hendricks, taught mathematics in the Seminary and later became Pastor of Trinity Church, the college church. Even my father's home, "646 Main Street", where I was born and lived until my marriage, is now owned by Ursinus and used, I am told, as a residence hall for young women.

Our faculty consisting of Dr. Bomberger, Dr. Super, Professor Weinberger, Professor Van Haagen, and Professor Ruby was small in numbers but powerful in its influence upon the students. Perhaps the most beloved and influential of all was Samuel Vernon Ruby. The catalogue listed him as Professor of English Literature and Belles Lettres. But that brief statement does not tell half of the story. He inspired us with great literature. He thrilled us in written and spoken English according to the principles set forth by Richard Grant White. He taught Elocution and Oratory emphasizing good diction, clear articulation, and appropriate gestures. But he did far more than this. He tactfully instructed the young men in social behavior, covering every topic from table manners to drawing-room deportment. My daughters always enjoyed watching their father demonstrate how Professor Ruby taught young men to adjust their trousers at the knee before sitting down, how to sit gracefully in a chair, and how to cross their feet sedately, then how to rise easily. To the young women he was an example of courtesy and genuinely good manners which we never forgot. When my husband and I returned to college for his 50th Class Reunion we were really touched by the numerous affectionate references to "Professor Ruby". And when we were both well advanced in our eighties we made a pilgrimage to his grave in a beautiful country church-yard near Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania. To us he was the epitome of the true Christian gentleman and great teacher.

All college activities were centered in Freeland Hall. There our classes met; in the left wing of the building was also the chapel where daily religious services were held the first thing each morning. Dr. Bomberger always conducted the worship which consisted of a hymn, riptide reading, and a prayer. My husband used to say that Dr. Bomberger made beautiful prayers which left a lasting impression upon his students. As there was no musical instrument at that time, Dr. Super led the singing. I remember one morning Dr. Super started a hymn in a key much too high for us. Up and up we soared, until Dr. Super stopped us, saying, "I had two ones in my mind. We'll begin again", then he started another hymn in which we heartily joined.

Every student was required to write and deliver a number of orations before the faculty and student body. No subject was too abstract or erudite for us to attempt. I still have one of my orations written in longhand on the subject of "Personal Freedom". For some, delivering the oration was a genuine ordeal. When my brilliant classmate, Inevra Weinberger, rose to give her first, she was so overcome with stage-fright that she gasped, "Oh, Papa, I can't." Professor Weinberger, dignified professor of Latin and Greek, rose, and taking his daughter's hand, reassured her efficiently for her to finish the oration. He overcame her early timidity and became quite a poet and orator, and on commencement day it was she who delivered the Valedictory Oration for our class.

It never occurred to us to be bored with our social life. "Going steady" had not been heard of, and we few girls reveled in being escorted to college affairs by a variety of young eligibles. We boated on the Perkiomen on spring and summer evenings; in winter we skated on its frozen waters by moonlight. Commencement was a gala occasion for more than the graduates. Festivities lasted for almost a week and attracted so many guests that the Philadelphia and Reading and the Perkiomen Railroads gave special excursion rates to commencement visitors. The social climax of the week was Dr. Bomberger's Levee, as his reception was called in my day. He and Mrs. Bomberger entertained throughout the year at occasional receptions, small dinner or supper parties where good food, good conversation, and good music provided the entertainment.

Other activities during the year included picnics at Glen Farm, the home of Professor and Mrs. Weinberger before they moved to Collegeville.

The literary societies met a social as well as an academic need. Orations, eulogies, debates, and music made up the programmes. Music played a great part in my college life. The young man who later became my husband and I sang duets, one of which appears on an old programme I own under the Victorian title, "Oh tell us, Merry Birds". Then while I was at home waiting for my fiancé to finish his work in the Ursinus Theological Seminary, Mrs.

Valentine, Charles Wehler, Ralph Royer, and I formed the Bellini Quartet which sang at YMCA receptions and Literary Society anniversaries. Judging by the capacity audiences which attended these special meetings, one concludes they must have provided real entertainment.

It was at Ursinus that I met Charles Wehler whom I later married. He spent four years earning his B.A. and two more years in the Theological Seminary. We were the first two graduates of Ursinus to marry; so it was fitting that our wedding ceremony was performed by my father, at the time a member of the Board of Trustees, assisted by Dr. Bomberger. Throughout our 62 years of life together we never lost interest in our Alma Mater. We shared college friends and memories and returned whenever possible to the "green-swarded campus".

I'm spending my latter years as I spent my early ones, within the shadows of a college. Our home here in Frederick, Maryland, adjoins the beautiful campus of Hood—a sister college of Ursinus. As I approach my 96th birthday (in June of this year) I marvel at the vast changes 76 years have made in college customs and costumes, equipment and curricula. But I believe that the real purpose of the college today is to train students to meet with intelligence the problems of their world, just as my Alma Mater, many decades ago, prepared me for the world in which I have been living.

Colonel Campbell, '60

James D. Campbell, Colonel, U.S.A. (Ret.), is by far the most interesting and unusual graduate in the class of 1960. And, at 58 years of age, he is also the oldest, the only grandfather among this year's graduates.

Born in Glenside, having attended elementary schools in Jenkintown, he enlisted in the Army at the age of 15, served as a private during World War I, and, after distinguished service, was retired as a Colonel USA (reserve) in 1954. Last month he was elected by the Ambler School Board to teach social studies in the high school in that community.

Mr. Campbell's army service was as interesting as it was varied. After receiving his commission in 1927 he spent seven years in Pennsylvania with numerous C.C.C. units.

As a major, stationed at Wheeler Field in Hawaii, Mr. Campbell was among those who suffered in the surprise attack of the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941. The Commanding Officer of Wheeler Field, in a letter dated 11 Jan. 1942, commended him in the following words: "Your uniting efforts in connection with the supervision of ground defense activities at Wheeler Field, both before and after the attack of Dec. 7, 1941, were, without doubt, primarily responsible for the rapid organization of an efficient defense against air-borne units or saboteurs at this station. The qualities of leadership, courage, and patience which you displayed under trying circumstances were most creditable to you and to the Military Service, and I am pleased to have this opportunity to commend you for them."

At the conclusion of World War II Mr. Campbell spent three years with the Army of Occupation in Germany, and, as Executive Officer of the Rhine-Main Air Force Base, participated in the Berlin Air-Lift. From 1949 to 1952 he served as Director of Instruction on the staff and faculty of the Army General School at Fort Riley, Kansas.

During the Korean War Mr. Campbell was stationed with the Korean Military Advisory Group, orienting and training the army of the Republic of Korea. It was during his service in Korea that he was promoted to Colonel (a most unusual attainment for a man who was without even a high school diploma). Proudly, he can present citations from the Chiefs of Staff from both the R.O.K. and the U.S.A. armies.

For his outstanding record in Korea, Mr. Campbell was awarded the Bronze Star early in 1954. In part, his citation reads: "As Senior Advisor to the Commanding General of the Central Security Command, Republic of Korea Army, Colonel Campbell was responsible for advising on all phases of anti-guerrilla and anti-bandit operations. He was required to travel many miles each week over crude roads, under adverse weather conditions, and through portions of South Korea infested with armed bandits and guerrillas to obtain first hand knowledge of the areas of operation and of the troops involved. His professional skill, sound judgment, tireless efforts, and forceful leadership were greatly responsible for the successful operations conducted by the command. The meritorious service rendered by Colonel Campbell throughout this period reflects great credit on himself and the military service."

After serving for two years as the Senior Unit Advisor of the 77th Division, U.S.A.R. in New York City, Mr. Campbell was retired in 1954. After a year of study he received his diploma from the High School of Temple University. He began his studies at Ursinus in the Fall of 1956.

Mr. Campbell and his wife, the former Ruth Koehler of Donora, live in Blue Bell. They have one son, a graduate of P.M.C. and now working for DuPont, and three grandchildren.

The Generous American

"Total philanthropy in the U. S. in 1959 may be conservatively estimated at $7.8 billion," writes the American Association of Fund-Rising Counsel in its recently published pamphlet, "Giving USA." When estates are settled, and the bequests are known, the total philanthropy in 1959 may exceed $9 billion.

The sources of this giving are individuals (over $6 billion), corporations ($½ billion), known bequests ($½ billion), and foundations $700 million).

Fifty percent of this money went toward religious projects, fifteen percent (more than $1 billion) was given for educational purposes.

1960 Loyalty Fund Breaks All Records

The Loyalty Fund receipts on June 23, one week before the close of the 1960 Campaign, totaled $32,246.00. This figure exceeds by over $2,000 the previous high, set in 1959. The total number of contributors in the 1960 campaign was 2,018 or almost 45% of our solicited alumni.

The November issue of the Journal will carry a full account of the campaign, which, at this writing, has a week to go until it closes.

Lost Alumni

The following list of graduates all have one thing in common: We (in the alumni office) don't know where they live! If you know the address of any of the alumni listed below, by class, please send it to us. We won't pay you for the information, but we'll be eternally grateful.

And please, too, when you move, send us your address; we don't want to see you end up in our "lost" file.

The Alumnus / Alumna

The sixteen page supplement which begins on the following page is specifically designed for and written about you, the alumnus/alumna. Over 350 colleges and universities bought approximately 3,000,000 copies of this article to send to their graduates.

In this profusely illustrated and well-written document you will find your position as an alumnus/alumna clearly defined and described.

There is no doubt in our minds that you are interested in the progress of higher education. As a graduate of Ursinus, the positive role you play in furthering this cause will probably be done through your interests in and support of your alma mater. Here is where you became involved in higher education. Here is where you will doubtless make your greatest contribution to higher education. Here is where your influence will be felt.

As you once looked to Ursinus to prepare you for the future, so now Ursinus looks toward you to help her prepare for tomorrow.

The following article is condensed from a talk which he delivered at the Lehigh Valley Regional meeting on April 22 at Easton.

A Defense For The Alumni Association

I wonder if you have ever reflected upon what it means to be an alumnus. Isn't it like being the heir of an estate? Isn't that which unites you and me the act that we have the same heritage? As alumni we are the beneficiaries of an estate—Ursinus College. She belongs to us no less than do we belong to her. Consider some of the "wealth" that has come to us as Ursinus alumni.

Zacharius Ursinus, from whom our College derived its name, was one of the great Germanic Reformers who lived from 1534 to 1582 and is chiefly remembered for his contributions to the theology of the Reformed Church as co-author of the Heidelberg Catechism, which he drafted while acting as the director of the theological seminary at Heidelberg. The College bearing his name was founded in 1869 by German Reformed Church people living in Pennsylvania following the traditions established by Ursinus and others. Through the years this influence has been present at the College and is a very real part of our inheritance.

Another part of this heritage is the great succession of splendid professors, many of them no longer alive; their estates have descended to the present faculty—and to us. The informative, inspirational and provocative manner in which they imparted knowledge will always be a part of what we have received.

Still another facet of this heritage is the great company of former students, many of whom we don't know personally, but with whom we have a relationship, a common bond, woven of the association with the college, the professors, and the whole community of ideas and ideals which comprise Ursinus.

There are many other precious things: friendships, memories, incidents, inspirations, challenges and hopes. These, too, are our heritage as alumni.

Having an inheritance or heritage is not enough. Even though an educated person must rely in part upon the learning and ideas of the past, he must also seek to relate his knowledge to the present and translate it into the future development of civilization.

This brings me to the immediate subject of "The Idea of A College Alumni Association." More than a century ago Cardinal Newman wrote The Idea of a University. Quite recently Dr. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College in Indiana, has published The Idea of a College, which grew out of an address he delivered before the Association of American Colleges.

In writing of The Idea of a College Dr. Trueblood says, "A college may profitably be compared to a pumping station on a pipe line, the pipeline of civilization." He goes on to say that "a college needs its graduates just as profoundly as it needs its students. The need is mutual."

For instance, the College and its alumni ought to recognize the need for new college buildings, facilities and faculties, and the means by which to provide them.

The need and values of older traditional means of education must be clearly understood.

The need and value of exercising critical judgment on the college to preserve what is good and to decide what needs development must be recognized. For example, Amherst College has published "Amherst Tomorrow, A Report of the Alumni Committee on Post War Amherst College". Alumni must see the need to enlist others and to continue their own support of Ursinus in order that the college may always be of service to God and man.

John Adams, the country's second President, in writing of the widespread American respect for education, said:

"It is remarkable that they have left among their posterity so universal an affection and veneration for those seminaries and for liberal education that the meanest of people contribute cheerfully to the support and maintenance of them every year."

Ursinus Alumni have "contributed cheerfully" to the college's ever increasing budget. During 1959 Ursinus alumni contributed $30,232 to the college. For six years the alumni have sponsored this annual campaign and during this period have collected $155,746 for the school.

The Alumni Association is important because men and women work best in society and not alone. In the Association and through the Loyalty Fund we can continue to love and support the college which has nurtured us.

That our contributions can be significant is all the more apparent when we realize that although we all have a common educational background—Ursinus college—many of us have been broadened by graduate work in many universities or by a lifetime of experiences in business, education, or the professions.

It must be obvious that from the alumni of a college can be drawn those persons of achievement and experience who, as college trustees, can guide and counsel the administration, faculty and students. The whole destiny of the College can be protected by the selection of alumni devoted and suited to the task. Dr. Trueblood has pointed out that men of retirement age, whose years of greatest activity have passed, can devote the time and their accumulated great wealth of experience to this worthwhile task.

Dr. Trueblood expresses the thought that the small liberal arts college is the one place where the ideal in education comes closest to fulfillment, and its genius lies in its ability to hold students, faculty, and alumni together.

We of Ursinus and this Association are all graduates of the ideal college. While we are of different years and experience, we represent the gross product of education at the college, achieved by working, thinking, playing and praying together over a period of years, unified by the particular influence of one very good small college with a dedicated faculty, student body and Alumni Association.

To the left is pictured Edward L. French, '38, his wife, Jean Wingate French, '38, and their three children. Their home, at Valley Forge, was built in 1711 and served as the headquarters for General Pulaski during the Revolutionary War.

Edward L. French '38

Edward L. French, Ph.D., '38, is the senior author of a new professional "best seller." The book, published by J. B. Lippincott, is entitled CHILD IN THE SHADOWS and is co-authored by Dr. French and J. Clifford Scott, M.D. A copy is in the Ursinus Library.

The book, which has been hailed by authorities as "one of the most practical and helpful volumes which has been written in this field," is a non-technical manual for parents of retarded children. It is based on Dr. French's many years of work in the psychology and education of atypical (mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed) children.

The book covers such topics as the emotional reactions of parents; "What Is Mental Retardation?"; "What Is the I. Q.?"; "What Is Social Maturity?"; "What Is Being Done About It?"; and many others.

Dr. French's interest in atypical children began shortly after his graduation from Ursinus (where he majored in English and minored in Education), through his having become a remedial reading teacher at Chestnut Hill Academy. After his service in the U. S. Army during the war, he received a Master's Degree in Psychology and his Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology from the University of Pennsylvania.

His recognition as a leader in the field culminated in 1957 when he was elected Director of The Devereux Foundation, the world's largest private, nonprofit organization working with both emotionally disturbed and retarded children. Its headquarters is in Devon, Pa., and it has branches in California, Texas and Maine.

The Devereux Foundation was founded in 1912 by Helena T. Devereux. It was upon her retirement as director that the Board of Trustees elected Dr. French as her successor.

Under his direction, The Foundation is involved in three main areas of work: (1) Through Devereux Schools, service to children and families needing the specialized help of the organization, service to physicians seeking a treatment program for their patients, and service to communities to help them care for their weaker members are offered. (2) Through the Devereux Institute for Research and Training, research into the causes and treatment of the childhood problems observed among the patients is pursued. (3) Training of personnel to serve in the field is constantly carried on.

The Foundation serves emotionally disturbed children of normal or superior intellectual capacities (including delinquent and pre-delinquent juveniles) who have had difficulty adjusting within the conventional school setting; children diagnosed as pre-psychotic or in transitional states, and psychotic children at all levels of intellectual capacity; children who suffer from aphasia, specific reading disabilities, or who have normal or potentially normal strength in performance as contrasted to verbal intellectual function and skill potentials; brain injured children with or without motor involvement, behavior deviations or speech problems; and mentally retarded children with or without emotional difficulties as well as those who have an educable or trainable mental retardation, borderline mental retardation or syndromes of functional intellectual impairment. The number of student patients approximates 1,000 and the total staff exceed 1,100.

The Foundation strives for complete rehabilitation of its students. Since its inception, it has helped more than 8,000 boys and girls overcome their handicaps to a degree that enabled them to return to study, work and live in their own communities. The curricula include courses from nursery through senior high school. To meet the individual needs of the students in the high school alone, five

Paul E. Elicker, '14

Recently, Paul E. Elicker, '14, announced his retirement as executive secretary of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, a department of the National Education Association. He held this post for twenty years.

The December issue of the Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals was devoted to Dr. Elicker and his contribution to education and the NEA.

Among the tributes honoring him are these sentiments which Ursinus is proud to have applied to one of her sons: "Paul Elicker has the courage to stand alone, if need be.—He knows what goes on in the world—Despite his dedication to the job, his interests are wide and diverse."

As evidence of his dynamic leadership, these statistics indicate the growth of the NASSP during his twenty years of service: Membership—6,500 to 20,000; full-time staff members—5 to 35; increase in capital assets—$154,000 to $900,000.

At present Dr. Elicker is acting as Educational Consultant to several organizations, including the United States Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. In September he will become editor of The Clearing House, a professional magazine for junior and senior high school teachers.

This Spring Dr. and Mrs. Elicker spent several months touring Europe and the Near East.

Prior to joining the NEA staff in 1940, Dr. Elicker served for seventeen years as teacher, assistant principal, and principal of Newton High School, Newtonville, Mass.

He holds the A.B. from Ursinus, A.M. from Columbia, Ed.M. from Harvard, Sc.D. in Education from Boston U., and the LL.D. from Ursinus.

Warren K. Hess, '31

Judge Warren K. Hess, '31, marked two milestones in his life on January 4. He became president judge of the Berks County Court of Common Pleas and also started his fifteenth year on the bench. At fifty, he is one of the youngest resident judges in the state.

Since his graduation from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1935, Judge Hess has had a successful career in both law and politics. He has been a member of the State House of Representatives, assistant district attorney, and judge of the Berks County Court of Common Pleas.

Judge Hess has gained a reputation as a friendly and accessible person who is also a hard worker and a perfectionist. His associates look upon him as an impartial judge. The Reading Eagle quotes a local attorney as saying, "I've known Warren Hess on and off the bench, and he's a good judge. But more than once he's been pretty tough on some of my clients."

The Judge is active in the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation, the Berks County Defense Council, the Reading Hospital, the Children's Aid Society of Berks County, and the United Fund. These civic activities he regards as a hobby, and he is also fond of gardening and of traveling with his wife and daughter.

Ursinus Sends Morgan To NCAA Track Trials

At the time of this writing, Vernon Morgan, Ursinus' phenomenal track man, is aboard a jet plane bound for the University of California, for the NCAA track and field championships. Although entered in both 800 and 1500 meters, Morgan will run only the 800 meters if he qualifies in that race.

All the events will be run at the metric distances as this meet also serves as an Olympic semi-final. The first six American citizens who place in any Olympic event will automatically earn the opportunity to compete in the Olympic finals to be held at Palo Alto, July 1 and 2. Since Vern's 1:51.0 half mile was the 9th fastest in the country as of May 30, he stands an excellent chance to qualify.

Morgan will also compete in the 800 or 1500 meters in the A.A.U. championships to be held at Bakersfield, California, June 24 and 25. This meet also serves as an Olympic final.

According to Coach Ray Gurzynski, Morgan possesses every requisite except sufficient top flight competition experience to become Ursinus' first NCAA point getter and our first Olympian.

Running in a special Olympic half mile event held in conjunction with the I C 4 A track and field championships held at Villanova May 27, Morgan ran a sensational 1:51.0 half mile while finishing fourth behind Tom Murphy, Pan American champion (1:49.6) Mike Carafiti, nationally ranked middle distance man, and a half step away from Ed Moran, great Penn State alumnus.

On June 4, at an A.A.U. meet in Norristown, he established a new meet record as he won the mile in 4:16.6.

The following day, June 5, competing in the famous Boardwalk Mile at Atlantic City, Vern won a spectacular 4:05 mile while losing to Corporal Vic Swolsk, Marine 3000 meter and 5000 meter steeplechase champion who won in 4:03.0. Both times better the previous record time of Don Gekomann.

On Saturday, June 11, he won the mile in an AAU meet held at Harrisburg, in the time of 4:18.8.

Best Track Season In Ursinus History

Ray Gurzynski's cindermen had the best track season since the inception of that sport at Ursinus in 1928. After losing the first four dual meets, the thin-clads made a great comeback and won their last four dual meets, and placed second in the Dickinson and Johns Hopkins triangular meet. Counting that meet as a win and a loss, the season's record stands at 5-5.

Leading the scorers was the remarkable Vernon Morgan, Ursinus' greatest distance star, with 138 points. Vern was undefeated in the half mile, mile, and two mile, and ran all three with the exception of the Haverford meet, when he ran only the mile and the half mile, and the Swarthmore meet when he ran only the mile and the two mile.

Vernon Morgan, '61, Olympic Aspirant

Morgan established three new school records. At Haverford he ran a 1:55.3 half mile which he later brought down to 1:51.0. His split times were :54.5 and :54.5. A 1:51.0 half mile is equivalent to a 4:05.0 mile. In running this remarkable time, he competed in a special Olympic trial 880 held at Villanova in conjunction with the IC4A meet. Official timers caught him at that time as the event was won by Pan American Champion Tom Murphy. He definitely established himself as an Olympic prospect in that race.

Against Swarthmore he set two more school records as well as Swarthmore field records when he ran a remarkable 4:13.6 mile (splits — :59.0 — 2:05 — 3:11.0 — 4:13.6) and a 9:51.7 two mile (mile splits — 5:00 — 4:51.7). He established two new Patterson Field records in the 880 and two mile. He also set new meet records as follows: 880—Dickinson, Johns Hopkins, Haverford F & M, P.M.C.; Mile — Dickinson, Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore, Washington College; Two Mile — Albright, Dickinson, Johns Hopkins, F & M P.M.C., Swarthmore, Lebanon Valley. In the Penn Relays he placed ninth in a special three mile race—running in the good time of 15:05.5 (splits — 4:45.0, 5:10.0, 5:10.5).

Trying for an unprecedented triple in the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Athletic Conference Track and Field Championship at Gettysburg, Morgan broke his own mile record for that meet by coasting in at 4:21.9, won the two mile in 9:57.2, but the time element legislated against scoring in the 880.

One of the finest tributes that can be paid to Vernon Morgan is to say that he is a real team man, running in order that the team benefit. Unquestionably, he could have set new meet records on almost any occasion, but the team welfare was paramount with him.

Another man to be reckoned among Ursinus' all-time field men is Al Walton. Al scored 110½ points this year in the shot, discus, and javelin. He had a late start in training this year due to an operation. However, by the season's end he had established meet records in the shot and discus vs. Dickinson—Johns Hopkins, in the shot and javelin vs. Washington College, and in the discus vs. Lebanon Valley. Walton won the discus eight times, placed second on the other occasion, won the shot five times, placed second four times, took four firsts, two seconds, and three thirds in the javelin. Al tied for fifth place in the shot at the Middle Atlantic. His best efforts were: discus, 139'4"; shot, 45'9½" javelin, 170'1½".

A real "Cinderella" man was Denny Gould. Ordinarily a high jumper and broad jumper, Denny was pressed into the hurdles as the need became apparent. Starting from scratch, he worked hard and improved so rapidly that his season's record shows 67 points: three firsts, three seconds, and a third in the 120 yard high hurdles, five firsts and two ounds in the low hurdles—as well as 70 seconds in the broad jump and some high jump points. He also won a fifth place medal in the high hurdles and a fourth place medal in the low hurdles in the Middle Atlantic Championships. Much of the momentum gained in the latter half of the season came from his hurdle accomplishments. His best times were 15.9 for the high hurdles and 25.4 for the low hurdles. Gould established a meet record for the high hurdles against Lebanon Valley and in the low hurdles against Muhlenberg.

Running mate of Gould's in the hurdles was Pete Wise. He and Denny gave the Bears a solid hurdle duo. Pete scored 44 points in the hurdle and high jump.

Hank Freeland scored 42 points spread through the 100, 220, 220 LH and 440. His biggest day was his double in the 100 and 220 versus Lebanon Valley. Hank gave the team a lot of punch in the sprints.

After taking a third and a second in the broad jump in the first two meets, Dick Woodruff won the broad jump in the remaining seven meets. His best jump was 21'5½".

Captain Cal Fox gave the team a lot of leverage when he moved into the 440 and ran the 100 and 220 as well. He scored 35 points in these three events and filled a yawning chasm in the quarter mile. This was a big factor in giving balance to the team.

Judd Kinzley won or tied the high jump five times and placed second and third once each. Pete Petersen was another utility man but scored most of his 34½ points in the pole vault in which he placed first three times, second five times, and was third once.

Only two men, Captain Cal Fox and Bob Petersen will be lost through graduation. Thus a fine nucleus remains to continue the momentum achieved by this year's squad. For 1961 the team chose tri-captains: Gould, Walton, and Morgan.

The season's record was as follows:

Ursinus 43	Albright	83
Ursinus 49 1/2	F. & M.	76 1/2
Ursinus 50	Haverford	76
Ursinus 52	Swarthmore	74
Ursinus 76	P. M. C.	50
Ursinus 49 5/6	Johns Hopkins	47 5/6
	Dickinson	64 2/6
Ursinus 89	Washington College	37
Ursinus 71 1/2	Muhlenberg	54 1/2
Ursinus 90 1/2	Lebanon Valley	35 1/2

Ursinus placed sixth with 13½ points in the Middle Atlantic Championships at Gettysburg.

Baseball Review

The Ursinus baseball team completed another successful season compiling a record of 11 wins and 5 losses for a percentage standing of .687. Consistently good pitching and a team batting average that exceeded .300 for most of the season accounted for the team's success. Six squad members were graduated in June and their contributions to baseball victories at Ursinus over the past four years will be sorely missed.

Eight victories were recorded by seniors Elmer Haigh, Mt. Holly, N. J., (2-1), and Linwood Drummond, Pitman, N. J., (6-1). Haigh appeared in six games and although drawing several difficult assignments finished with a 2.9 ERA. Drummond completed four years of college pitching with only one loss charged against him. His college record was 15 wins and but a single loss. He began his senior year with a record of 9-0, won his first three games and, would you believe it, had to try twice for his 13th win. Two more victories followed in quick succession. This is an Ursinus record that will be difficult to equal for some time.

Captain James Wenhold, Sellersville, Pa., batted .328 from the number four position and continued to hold down the first base position in fine style. Wenhold was most deserving of the award made to him as the outstanding athlete in the Senior Class at the annual Varsity Club banquet in May. George Armstrong, Pottstown, Pa., batted .350, had three home runs including a grand slam, and led the team with 14 RBIs.

Graduation of Theodore Kershner, Schwenksville, Pa., and Edward Savastio, Upper Darby, Pa., will leave another void that will be difficult to fill when next Spring rolls around. Kershner's timely hitting for 11 runs batted in brought victory more than once to the team. Savastio led the team in batting with a .370 average, the most hits (24), and the most runs scored (17). As a Junior, Savastio made only one error playing centerfield and this season fielded 1,000 in his 36 chances afield. If you know centerfield at the Ursinus park, you know Savastio had a lot of room to roam—and he did. Many thrilling catches were made as he played his position flawlessly. The team members voted Savastio the most valuable player.

The 1960 record continues baseball as the College's "winningest" sport for men. The record of Coach Pancoast for the past fourteen seasons now stands at 126-83-2.

Varsity Club News

Under the leadership of Bob Turnbull, the Varsity Club climaxed its year with a banquet in Freeland Hall. The high-light of the evening came when Jim Wenhold was awarded the James P. Armstrong Memorial Trophy as the Most Valuable Senior Athlete.

Jim captained the basketball team to one of its finest seasons in years and, in the words of Coach Fry, "was a dream to coach." For three years Jim has been known as one of the finest first basemen in the Middle Atlantic Conference. His power hitting and sparkplug play have been largely responsible for the past several successful baseball seasons.

Ursinus Faces Rebuilding Job

New head football coach, Richard J. Whatley, will face seven of last year's opponents this fall. Dickinson, one of the Bears' two victims last fall, has been temporarily dropped from the schedule.

Most of Ursinus' opponents suffered little from graduation losses while Coach Whatley faces a rebuilding job by losing eight regular starters.

To develop his Split T Multiple Offense Coach Whatley will have to rely heavily on his eleven returning lettermen and incoming freshmen to fill major gaps in the line as well as in the backfield.

Co-captains Jerry Leatherman, full-back, and Holly Fitts, guard, will lead the returning lettermen who will try to replace graduated letterwinners such as ends Jon Myers, Clem Anderson and John Forrest; guards Bob Petersen and Keith Moyer; center Tony McGrath; and backs Ted Kershner and Dick Boggio.

GIRLS' SPRING SPORTS

The girl's basketball team won all of its games except one, suffering its only defeat at the hands of East Stroudsburg State College. ESSC was the sole team to beat the girls in softball, too.

Led by co-captains Sandy Rinehart and Jeanne LeCato, the tennis team completed its fourth consecutive undefeated season. In the Middle States Intercollegiate Tournament Carol Heffelfinger reached the finals, losing to Donna Floyd, the defending champion and ranked number eleven in the nation.

Betty Ann Claves Brown, '45, was this year's new tennis and badminton coach.

For the fifth straight year the lacrosse team has gone undefeated. These girls are under the tutelage of Marge Johnston Watson, '52. Lynne Crosley, a sophomore from Havertown, Pa., landed a berth on the All-American Lacrosse Team at the 29th annual National Tournament of the U.S. Women's Lacrosse Association.

Calling All Grumblers

I want to speak to those people who are constantly complaining about the lack of strong athletic teams at Ursinus.

Look at the record, or just re-read the three pages on sports in this issue of the Journal. The first fact: the best track season in Ursinus' history. Morgan is the first Ursinus student ever to come even close to winning a berth on an Olympic team. Who in the past at Ursinus has run a 4:05 mile and a 1:51 half? And next year, as a senior, he should surely chop seconds off these times.

Fact two: the baseball team won 11 out of 16. Three: the basketball team had its best season since 1946. Four: the wrestling team had a Middle Atlantic champion, a freshman. Five: the football team won more games this year than in the previous two seasons combined.

It all boils down to this: the "grumblers" are usually thinking only of football. Their generalizations just can't stand up against the specific facts of athletics at Ursinus.

special courses are offered. In addition, Devereux serves the community through diagnostic examinations of outpatients and recommends for these patients an educational and medical program to be pursued at home or in other institutions.

Dr. French has published many technical and non-technical articles in professional journals and is called on for many talks. Last year he produced and moderated a half-hour TV show over WFIL-TV in Philadelphia on the subject of mental retardation. This spring he was invited by Labor Secretary Mitchell, on behalf of President Eisenhower, to deliver one of the major addresses at the Golden Anniversary White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington, D. C.

Taking as his subject on this occasion "The Role of the Family in Knowing Understanding and Helping the Mentally Handicapped Child," Dr. French told the delegates that the role of the family is central in considering the retarded child and suggested that it assume even greater importance. Among many other points, he stated, "The first step in helping the child is to help the family achieve emotional maturity with regard to their acceptance of the child and his situation so that they can accept the child without wishing he were some one else."

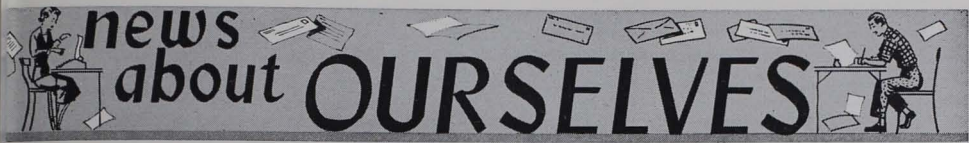

Dr. French was also selected as one of 100 psychologists to meet a short time ago for the Miami Conference on Graduate Training in Psychology—a conference which is expected to influence psychological training for many years to come.

Dr. French is a Fellow of The American Psychological Association, The American Association on Mental Deficiency, The Society for Research in Child Development, and The American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is listed in Who's Who in the East, Who's Who in American Education, and American Men of Science.

Dr. French took away from Ursinus more than a degree and fond memories for it was at Ursinus that he met Jean Wingate, also of the Class of '38. They were married in 1942. After a few years of teaching high school English, Jean settled down to family-raising. They have three children: Elizabeth, age 11; Jean, 4; and Edward, Jr. (Teddy), 3.

Dr. French was an active Ursinusite in the years '34 to '38. His clearest memories are of being an editor of The Lantern, but he was also on the soccer team, president of the Chess Club, and a Ruby staff member, among other activities. Jean was a hockey enthusiast, an ardent debater, an occasional participant in stage productions and a Lantern and Ruby staffer. She was also Sport Editor of the "Ursinus Weekly," and Assistant Manager of the May Pageant.

The Frenchs live on Walker Road, Wayne, Pa., on the edge of Valley Forge Park, in a lovely and fascinating old home (built in 1711) which served during the Revolutionary War as the Valley Forge headquarters of General Pulaski.

It has just come to the notice of the Class of 1915 that the American Legion Post of Sheffield, Pa., has been named after a member of that class. It is named "The Frank L. Max Jentsch, Class President, armed with what seemed a great sheaf of papers (much of it correspondence he has carried on with many members of the class) gave a brief but very thorough resume of the financial status of the class since graduation. There was $27 left in the treasury after all bills for the Ruby and other incidentals were paid. Max asked for a discussion of what the members thought should be done with this excess. Many ideas were forthcoming. Max finally suggested that Bob MacMurray investigate further two or three proposals for the class as a project. George Saurman, Reunion Chairman, thought perhaps we could increase class interest and contributions yearly to the Loyalty fund by earmarking our money for a project of our own choosing. It was generally agreed among the members present that it would be better to give any money which comes from future campaigns for funds to a definite and tangible goal. Meanwhile, the $27 will be placed in a savings account.

Send Us News and Views

The Journal is your magazine. It would be uninteresting and irrelevant were there no news of you—the alumni—in it. It would be sterile and flat were there no constant constructive criticism coming from you, our readers.

The Editor urges you to send in news about yourself and your friends. He further invites you to write letters suggesting ways in which the magazine may be improved.
