Taking up the reins: James Corden is the newest addition to the late-night roster

By Jacqueline Spendlove
TV Media

When Jay Leno handed the "Tonight Show" reins to Jimmy Fallon a little over a year ago, the late night talk show realm began to undergo a marked transformation. A new generation of besuited funnymen is in the process of being phased in, and "The Late Late Show's" own newbie is about to hit the ground running. Actor, comedian, singer, writer, producer and all-around swell guy James Corden ("Begin Again," 2013) makes his debut behind "The Late Late Show" desk Monday, March 23, on CBS.

While his contemporaries Fallon, Seth Meyers ("Late Night with Seth Meyers") and soon-to-be new "Late Show" host Stephen Colbert ("The Colbert Report") all made a name for themselves on American television prior to joining the talk show ranks, Corden is not nearly as well known to U.S. audiences. Like his Scottish-born predecessor Craig Ferguson, the English jack-of-all-trades hails from across the pond, where he's been consistently making a name for himself with British audiences.

His rise in prominence began in the early 2000s when he starred in the British drama "Fat Friends." He and co-star Ruth Jones went on to write and star in the BBC Three breakout hit "Gavin & Stacey," which became the most nominated show at the 2007 British Comedy Awards. The sitcom has won several awards, and Corden, among his numerous accolades, took home a BAFTA for Best Comedy Performance and a British Comedy Award for Best Male Comedy Newcomer for his role as Smithy in the series.

The well-rounded actor's lengthy resumé also includes a number of theater productions, and he boasts a Tony Award for his performance in Richard Bean's play, "One Man, Two Guvnors." He also hosts "A League of Their Own," a comedy/sports panel quiz show airing on Sky1. BBC reporter Natalie Jamieson wrote back in 2010, when the show was just kicking off that "the decision to become a TV host isn't a conscious career move for Corden. The actor and comedian admitted that he's just choosing whatever jobs he thinks will be a laugh."

Little did he know then that, just five years later, he'd be following Tom Snyder, Craig Kilborn and Ferguson as the fourth host of "The Late Late Show's" 20-year-old franchise, and it's safe to say he has some big shoes to fill.

During his 10-year stretch as host, Ferguson drew the highest ratings in the show's history and earned a prestigious Peabody Award for Excellence in Television for his episode featuring social rights activist Archbishop Desmond Tutu. Following his announcement that he'd be stepping down as host, CBS Entertainment chair Nina Tassler said in a statement that, during his tenure, Ferguson "infused the broadcast with tremendous energy, unique comedy, insightful interviews and some of the most heartfelt monologues seen on television."

People have high hopes for Corden, however. When he visited "The Late Late Show" two days before Ferguson's last broadcast, the latter declared that he was "delighted" for his successor, whom he sized up and comically grilled.

As a guest on "Late Night With Seth Meyers," Corden admitted that he was daunted by his new gig, but expressed how thrilled and honored he was to be sitting among the ranks of so many men that he admires. He also revealed that Meyers, who will be one of

James Corden hosts "The Late Late Show with James Corden"

Corden's time-slot competitors, was the first to email him with his heartfelt congratulations before his hosting announcement was even made official.

So what exactly will Corden be bringing to "The Late Late Show"? For starters, he'll stand out as the show's first host to have a house band. Meyers has The 8G Band, Fallon has The Roots and Conan has the delightful Jimmy Vivino and the Basic Cable Band, but "The Late Late Show" has always differed from other late night talk shows in its lack of a house band — but no more.

Comedian and musician Reggie Watts will grace the stage as the show's very first band leader. The German-born, Afroed goofball is probably best known as the co-host and bandleader for IFC's talk show spoof, "Comedy Bang! Bang!" Watts brings an extensive career in music and comedy to the table; he makes regular performances on television, radio and live theater, so he's more than comfortable in front of an audience.

Music and comedy are obviously important to Corden, who is looking forward to bringing fresh performances to the "Late Late Show" stage. When asked at a Television Critics Associate press panel what he wants to do with the show, he answered that he "would love to introduce lots of people to American audiences. There are brilliant bands here that haven't been on TV that I would love to give a platform to. There are great comedians here that I would love to introduce to an audience."

He also stated in the panel that "in this current climate, in this time, we want to make a warm show. Because so much of what you see and read is not pleasant now, I feel like we should make a warm show that is really funny." Add that to the laughs and tunes, as well as Corden's general jolly persona, it sounds like "The Late Late Show with James Corden" will definitely have a positive vibe to it.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to do amazing things," the host-to-be added. "I feel like the luckiest man on Earth."

Don't miss James Corden's triumphant ascension into the world of late night when he makes his hosting debut on "The Late Late Show with James Corden" Monday, March 23, on CBS.

Highlights this week

Sunday

Bob's Burgers

32 6:30 p.m.

When the kids are "sentenced" to Saturday detention at the restaurant, they'll do almost anything to get out of it so they can go to the Cotton Candy Festival. Meanwhile, Bob and Linda believe a young girl is trying to scam them.

The Good Wife

2 3 8:00 p.m.

On Election Day, Peter (Chris Noth) jeopardizes Alicia's (Julianna Margulies) political future when he gives an interview that could influence voter turnout. Also, Diane (Christine Baranski) has a lead on a prosperous new client. Oliver Platt guest stars.

Monday

2 Broke Girls

2 3 7:00 p.m.

Aspiring cupcake queens Max (Kat Dennings) and Caroline (Beth Behrs) lean on each other when the going gets tough. The unlikely friends work together at a diner where they're surrounded by their colorful "work family."

The Returned

A&E 9:00 p.m.

Jack (Mark Pellegrino) and Claire (Tandi Wright) want to move so Camille (India Ennenga) doesn't have to hide, but Camille just pretends to be a cousin to get out of the house. Meanwhile, Lena (Sophie Lowe) finds a mysterious scar on her back.

The Late Late Show With James Corden

2 3 11:35 p.m.

James Corden takes the reins from Craig Ferguson as the new host of this acclaimed late-night talk show. In addition to interviewing celebrities and presenting musical guests, Corden will dazzle audiences with unusual comedy skits.

Tuesday

The Flash

9 7:00 p.m.

When Captain Cold (guest star Wentworth Miller) and Heat Wave (guest star Dominic Purcell) return to Central City, Cold brings along his sister Lisa (guest star Peyton List) to help them wreak havoc. Grant Gustin stars as The Flash.

Dance Moms

LIFE 7:00 p.m.

Abby's dancers head to Philadelphia, armed with a non-lyrical routine. While Nia, Maddie and Kendall feel serious pressure because of their solos, Nia is singled out when Abby delivers an ultimatum. Also, Holly makes some unlikely allies.

One Big Happy

6 8:30 p.m.

Lizzy (Elisha Cuthbert) is thrown for a loop when Prudence (Kelly Brook) moves into the apartment in this new episode. With Prudence's boxes and belongings piling up, Lizzy is pressed to clean her ex's things out of a closet.

Wednesday

Nashville: On the Record 2

7 9:00 p.m.

Get an intimate look at the song writing process in this one-hour special. The program began as a web series that examined the original songs performed on the popular drama "Nashville." Learn about the life they took on after premiering on the show.

Big Time in Hollywood, FL

com 9:30 p.m.

Aspiring filmmakers and brothers Jack (Alex Anfanger) and Ben (Lenny Jacobson) find out that their parents are planning to kick them out of the house. This new comedy follows the brothers as they learn to fend for themselves.

Thursday

Bones

32 7:00 p.m.

The murder of a local psychic sends the Jeffersonian team spiralling into the world of fortune tellers in this new episode. Bones (Emily Deschanel) and Booth (David Boreanaz) look to a psychic, Avalon Harmonia (Cyndi Lauper), for help in solving the case.

fx 9:00 p.m.

Archer and his colleagues prepare for a fantastic voyage in the first part of this two-part special edition. The critically acclaimed animated series follows a group of spies who constantly try to undermine one another.

The Slap

6 9:00 p.m.

Rosie (Melissa George) alienates herself from her husband, Gary (Thomas Sadoski), and the few sympathizers she has left in this new episode. Later, however, Gary comes to her defense when Thanassis (Lucas Hedges) rips her testimony to shreds in court.

Friday

Hart of Dixie

9 7:00 p.m.

Zoe (Rachel Bilson) makes a life-altering decision in this season finale, and Wade (Wilson Bethel) does everything in his power to please her before their baby is born. Elsewhere, a guilty Lavon (Cress Williams) wants to make things right.

Disney Dream Cruise

food 7:00 p.m.

Four intrepid hosts band together to go where no cameras have gone before in this one-hour special. Melissa d'Arabian, Amanda Freitag, Katie Lee and Jeff Maura bring viewers into the Disney Dream cruise ship's galleys and kitchens.

12 Monkeys

syfy 8:00 p.m.

Q&A hollywood

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Is A&E's "Rodeo Girls" toast? I used to run the barrel races as a kid and really enjoyed these ladies and all their drama and adventures.

A: It's a little hard to say, but it's looking like "Rodeo Girls" has taken its last trip around the barrels.

The show's long-term prospects were muddy to begin with. Though A&E officially announced it as a "six-episode series" before its premiere in December 2013, the show's official website lists those six episodes as being part of season 1, suggesting that there was at least the possibility of a season 2.

That possibility, however, has become less and less likely as the months have passed. The sixth, and so far final, episode aired back in January 2014, and A&E hasn't even mentioned the show since.

Other people have, though. Just a few weeks ago, Marvel Murphy, one of the five "Rodeo Girls" referred to in the show's title, offered a tiny bit of hope on Twitter.

"For those of you asking about a new show ... we are working on it!"

Of course, that could mean a lot of things. "Working on it" could just mean the cast is lobbying A&E for a renewal, and "a new show" doesn't necessarily mean another season of "Rodeo Girls." It could be something else altogether.

The series was (or is) about wealthy socialite Darcy LaPier's attempt to break into the world of barrel racing, a female-centric rodeo event. It also followed four of her rodeo colleagues: Murphy, Barb West, Megan Etcheberry and Jessica Holmberg.

Q: Why are all the hosts of BBC's "Top Gear" wearing flags on their lapels? It looks like the flag of Texas but not quite.

A: You must have been watching the first episode of season 22, when all three hosts wore lapel pins of the Chilean flag.

There was no official announcement, or even an unofficial one from notoriously loose-lipped host Jeremy Clarkson, but the pins were likely a subtle thank you to Chile, which helped the "Gear" heads out of a significant jam back in October.

Clarkson and the show's crew had their car convoy pelted with rocks and other projectiles as they drove through the Patagonia region of Argentina.

The minor riot seems to have been sparked by the license plate on Clarkson's car, H982 FKL, which was thought to refer to the Falklands War, which Britain fought with Argentina in 1982.

The crew was allowed to flee to neighboring Chile, which seems to be the reason for the pins, worn on the show's first episode since the incident.

Clarkson claimed in an interview with "The Daily Mail" that Argentina wanted to arrest him and his crew, and that Chile had refused an official diplomatic request to turn them away at the border.

Argentina's ambassador to Britain later called for an official apology from the show's network, the BBC.

"Top Gear" has been a magnet for controversy, with Clarkson specifically getting into constant trouble, frequently for making racially insensitive comments.

ABC's 'Nashville' concert special sings its sophomore tune

By Rory MacDonald-Gauthier
TV Media

There are certain cities in this world that are inherently defined by a specific culture and lifestyle. Given the nickname of Music City, U.S.A., by many who have experienced its vibrant music scene, Nashville reigns king as the country music capital of the world.

In 2012, ABC launched its own musical drama series "Nashville," a show that revolves around the passion of country music and the cutthroat business behind it. Now in its third season, the show has garnered widespread attention to the point where live concerts are being held to highlight its musical scores. Catch "Nashville on the Record 2" when it airs Wednesday, March 25, on ABC.

Now in its sophomore stage, the special follows the same format as it did with its previous program. Set in the world-renowned Grand Ole Opry, the one-hour show provides exclusive and candid backstage interviews with the stars of "Nashville," who also take the stage to perform songs from the series. With the Grand Ole Opry boasting slogans such as "the show that made country music famous" and "country's most famous stage," the Opry is the perfect location for this soul-filled special.

Country icon Reba will take the stage to perform her latest single, "Going Out Like That," which nabbed the No. 1 spot on iTunes' Country Top Songs in the U.S.A. and Canada upon its release. Last-minute addition Deana Carter will sing "I Know How to Love You Now" as a duet with Charles Esten, with whom she co-wrote the song.

Featured cast members set to perform include Clare Bowen, Chris Carmack, Will Chase, Charles Esten, Jonathan Jackson, Sam Palladio, Aubrey Peeples and Lennon and Maisy Stella. With the special now serving its second course and the third season of "Nashville" underway, cast members Bowen, as Scarlett O'Connor, and Palladio, as Gunnar Scott, are now able to fully flourish in a familiar environment.

"The Opry has been the place that I've tried out brand-new songs that I've written that week," said Palladio in an interview with "The Tennessean," Nashville's primary daily newspaper. "I've finished writing songs in Opry dressing rooms, which is kind of great. You come down after a show, and I have some of my songwriter friends with me. I say, 'Hey, let's finish that song and say we finished it at the Opry.'"

Outside of the show, the two are moving at a rapid pace towards their next career milestones — both Bowen and Palladio are working on debut solo albums. With the city of Nashville and its plentiful resources at their fingertips, the two have made plans to grow with the city itself — Palladio plans to use it as a base out of which to work and Bowen has bought a little farm just outside of town.

Bowen and Palladio's attitudes towards growing and evolving with the city of Nashville is something that can be seen with ABC's "Nashville" as well. While the show has seen much success, winning the Critics' Choice Television Award for Most Exciting New Series in 2012 and series star Hayden Panettiere ("Heroes") being nominated for two Golden Globe Awards, the show refuses to remain stagnant.

Pop icon Christina Aguilera will make a multi-episode appearance in season 3 of "Nashville," playing a familiar role as a character who is a pop superstar. Once she arrives in Nashville, however, she suddenly realizes that her heart and soul are in country, which causes an immediate inner conflict. This won't be the first time Aguilera has appeared on a television series, as she's been a recurring coach in NBC's "The Voice" and appeared once upon a time in "The Mickey Mouse Club."

"I'm excited to try something different, as I do think in life, and in music, experience just adds to the creative process," she told "Billboard" magazine. "I can say that my character is a successful pop singer who desperately wants to move into the country world, as that is her true passion. But she is caught between her passion and what the label wants her to do."

If you're itching for a behind-the-scenes look of how the music is made, the artists interact and the actors develop that candid chemistry, you won't want to miss "Nashville on the Record 2," when it airs Wednesday, March 25, on ABC.

Into the Woods

Based on the award-winning Broadway musical of the same name, a star-studded ensemble cast brings classic fairy tales to life. A villainous witch (Streep) offers to remove a wretched curse from a baker (Corden) and his wife (Blunt), but only if they retrieve four special items for her. Their quest brings them to meet some of the most legendary fairy tale characters, including the beanstalk-climbing Jack (Huttleston), Cinderella (Kendrick), Little Red Riding Hood (Crawford) and Rapunzel (Mauzy).
Director: Rob Marshall. Stars: James Corden, Emily Blunt, Meryl Streep, Daniel Huttleston, Lilla Crawford, Anna Kendrick, Mackenzie Mauzy. 2014. 125 min. Fantasy.
