Highlights this week

Sunday

Sister Wives

TLC 6:00 p.m.

Gear up for a new season of the popular reality TV series, which follows polygamist Kody Brown and his four wives. By the time last season ended, Meri, Kody's first wife, had decided to divorce him so that he could adopt Robyn's children.

Fear the Walking Dead

AMC 8:00 p.m.

Travis (Cliff Curtis), Liza (Elizabeth Rodriguez) and Chris (Lorenzo James Henrie) seek refuge with the Salazar family after they escape from a violent riot in this new episode. At the same time, Madison (Kim Dickens) is forced to defend her home.

The Strain

FX 9:00 p.m.

While Eph (Corey Stoll) and Dutch (Ruta Gedmintas) join forces to thwart the Master's greatest ally, Justine (Samantha Mathis) runs into trouble with the Mayor (Ron Canada). Also, Setrakian (David Bradley) seeks the real owner of the Lumen.

Monday

American Ninja Warrior

6 7:00 p.m.

The top finishers from the regional finals converge in Las Vegas for the ultimate competition for $1,000,000 in this special three-hour season finale. They tackle Mount Midoriyama, which features such obstacles as Roulette Row and Psycho Chain.

Scorpion

2 3 8:00 p.m.

With one week to go before the season premiere, CBS gives viewers the opportunity to catch up with Team Scorpion in this rebroadcast. Concerned about their future, the team members attempt to save Walter's (Elyes Gabel) life as he teeters on a cliff.

Uncommon Grounds

TRAVEL 10:00 p.m.

In this premiere, Todd goes to Japan after inventing a revolutionary new brewing device. If he wants to keep up with demand, he'll have to do business in the sometimes eccentric country. In Tokyo and Osaka, Todd tries to close a cross-cultural deal.

Tuesday

Labor Games

TLC 7:00 p.m.

Host Lisa Arch brings this unique game show right into a delivery room in this new episode. As Kristi battles contractions, she and her husband Blake try to answer trivia questions in the hope of winning life-changing prizes.

Face Off

SYFY 8:00 p.m.

The nine remaining artists are put to the ultimate test in this new episode. They face The Gauntlet: a gruelling set of three increasingly difficult challenges. Actress McKenzie Westmore, a member of the legendary family of makeup artists, hosts.

The Bastard Executioner

FX 9:00 p.m.

A medieval warrior is compelled to lay down his sword after receiving a divine message in the premiere of this new drama. Set in northern Wales during the early 14th century, the series stars Lee Jones, Stephen Moyer, Katey Sagal and Kurt Sutter.

Wednesday

The Middle

7 7:00 p.m.

ABC kicks off another Wednesday night of comedy with this rebroadcast in which Sue (Eden Sher) worries that "the year of Sue" may end on a sour note. Meanwhile, Brick (Atticus Shaffer) is offered a chance to skip the eighth grade.

America's Got Talent

6 8:00 p.m.

The moment fans have been waiting for finally arrives as the winner is crowned in this season finale. Host Nick Cannon reveals the results of the final vote and the winning act will walk away with the $1 million prize.

Moonbeam City

COM 9:30 p.m.

Rob Lowe and Will Forte lend their voices to this new animated series, which pokes fun at '80s crime dramas. In the debut, a new crime lord threatens Moonbeam City, but Dazzle Novak is more concerned about losing his No. 1 Cop mug to rival Red Cunningham.

Thursday

NFL Thursday Night Kickoff

2 3 6:30 p.m.

CBS brings NFL football back to Thursday evenings, kicking off with this new episode. Jim Nantz, Phil Simms and reporter Tracy Wolfson bring fans all of the action as the Denver Broncos take on the Kansas City Chiefs.

Mat Franco's Got Magic

6 8:00 p.m.

Cameras follow magician Mat Franco — winner of season 9 of "America's Got Talent" — as he travels from his hometown in Rhode Island to Las Vegas in this premiere special. Along the way, he wows celebrities and performs street magic.

Geeks Who Drink

SYFY 10:00 p.m.

Actor Matthew MacCaull and his team, Beer the Reaper, challenge comedian Andrew Daly and his team, Monty Python and the Holy Ale, in this new episode. They compete in group challenges and bar games as they try to answer nerdy trivia questions.

Friday

Meat Loaf: In and Out of Hell

SHOW 7:00 p.m.

This premiere documentary takes a look at the rise of American rock legend Meat Loaf. Featuring family, friends and fellow musicians, the film traces his life, from his troubled childhood to years of rejection by record companies to international fame.

Hawaii Five-0

2 3 8:00 p.m.

In anticipation of next week's season premiere, CBS presents a rebroadcast of this season 5 finale. As Kono (Grace Park) prepares for her wedding day, the team learns that a stolen nuclear bomb is somewhere on the island.

Continuum

SYFY 10:00 p.m.

Kiera (Rachel Nichols) attempts to negotiate with Kellog (Stephen Lobo), who's using Emily (Magda Apanowicz) to get to Alec (Erik Knudsen) in this new episode. Elsewhere, a frustrated Alec impulsively decides to save Emily on his own.

Saturday

NCIS: New Orleans

2 7:00 p.m.

3 11:35 p.m.

The NCIS team investigates when a Navy recruiter is the victim of a lethal hit and run in this rebroadcast. Pride

(Scott Bakula) and the team try to determine if the murder was related to her career or her role as the foster mother of two brothers.

Undercover Boss

TLC 7:00 p.m.

A boss who used to be an FBI agent is surprised by what he sees when he goes undercover in this rebroadcast. John Hartmann, the President and CEO of True Value, gives up his office job to work at one of the hardware stores.

Criminal Minds

2 8:00 p.m.

Kate's (Jennifer Love Hewitt) niece, Meg (Hailey Sole), and her niece's best friend, McKayla (Taylor Mosby), have both gone missing. As a result, the BAU races to track down an online predator posing as a teenage boy in this rebroadcast.

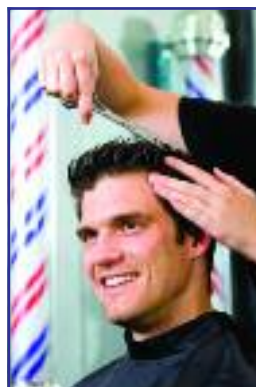

Tuesday

6 9:00 p.m.

Q&A hollywood

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I saw a TV episode about people who went back in time to take Hitler right after he was born and to throw him in a river. But there was a twist ending, which I forget. What show was it?

A: There was always a twist ending with "The Twilight Zone." The episode, titled "Cradle of Darkness," was part of the less-remembered third version of "The Twilight Zone," which aired on the now-also-forgotten UPN network from 2002 all the way to 2003 (it was canceled after just one season).

In the episode, as you say, a young woman travels to 1889 to kill Hitler as a baby. That young woman was played by a very young Katherine Heigl, who would become famous a few years later for saving lives as Izzie Stevens in "Grey's Anatomy."

I don't want to give away the twist ending in "Cradle of Darkness" because it's still available on DVD for anyone who wants to catch up. I will say, however, that her plan to kill Hitler and prevent the Holocaust doesn't work out. Because it never does. The TV website TVTropes.com has named a whole law after this fact, "Hitler's Time Travel Exemption Act," pointing out that attempts to kill Hitler appear frequently in film and television and never succeed.

Oddly enough, the episode could have been based partly in fact. It is believed (the historical records aren't clear) that, when Adolf Hitler was four years old, he fell into the River Passau in Germany and nearly drowned, before being rescued by a priest.

Q: Is it true that the TV show "MASH" had a spinoff?

A: It is indeed true that "MASH" had a spinoff. What is not true, as established in law, is that it had two.

"MASH," one of the most beloved sitcoms of all time, about a group of doctors and nurses running a mobile army surgical hospital (hence the acronym) during the Korean War, ran on CBS from 1972 to 1983.

The same year it left the air, the obviously named spinoff "After MASH" debuted on CBS, but only lasted a year. It featured Harry Morgan (as Dr. Sherman Potter), Jamie Farr (Max Klinger) and William Christopher (Father Francis Mulcahy) reprising the roles they played on the original series, while Gary Burghoff (Walter O'Reilly, better known as Radar) put in a few guest appearances as well.

However, four years before that, while the original "MASH" was still on the air, CBS premiered a show called "Trapper John, M.D.," based on the "MASH" character of the same name, but with a different actor in the role (Pernell Roberts instead of Wayne Rogers). Producers of the original series sued for royalties, but while it was without doubt the same character, a court ruled that it was not actually a spinoff of the show. Rather, "Trapper John, M.D." was a continuation of the film, which pre-dates all of them.

The original 1970 film had yet another actor in the Trapper role (Elliott Gould). And to make things more confusing, even it was based on a book from 1968, "MASH: A Novel About Three Army Doctors" by Richard Hooker.

The third doctor referred to in the book's title was Duke Forrest, who appeared in the film (played by Tom Skerritt), but not in the series — let alone any spinoffs.

Anthony Anderson hits the road in carnival food series

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

If there's one thing America does that's just as big and exciting as our food — and boy oh boy, do we do food well — it's our summer carnivals. Whether it's a small-town festival or a massive state fair, our carnivals are almost always big, loud and overflowing with succulent goodies.

Anthony Anderson, the star of ABC's "Black-ish," has spent the summer with the enviable job of traveling around the country and trying out all of the deep fried or bacon-wrapped goodies that he can find — all with Food Network's team of cameras in tow, of course. The result is "Carnival Cravings with Anthony Anderson," which airs Wednesday nights on Food Network.

That's right, it turns out that Anderson is a bit of a foodie. He first started cooking at the age of 13 and learned a lot of his techniques from TV chef Julia Child.

Of course, the tarragon fingerling potatoes and truffle mac and cheese that he loves to cook at home are a far cry from the fried turkey legs and funnel cakes that he'll find for sale at summer carnivals. That hasn't been stopping him from digging in, though, and despite having a love of fancier fare, he's been attacking the carnival foods with great gusto.

So just where has Anderson been stopping to test out his taste buds and fill up his stomach? The premiere episode last month saw him swinging by the Got to Be NC Festival in beautiful Raleigh, North Carolina, where he chomped down on some redneck egg rolls and an amazing bacon-wrapped dessert. He has also jaunted across the country to Sacramento, California, for a bacon-topped cinnamon roll sundae; Oswego, Illinois, for a Chicago crab dog; and this week, he stops by Pleasanton, California, for a lobster dog and mac and cheese-stuffed burger.

Carnivals aren't just about the food — there's fun to be had, too! In between meals, Anderson's been betting on pig races, milking cows, riding the midway rides and even entering a bubble gum-blowing contest.

In the end, though, the focus is on the great American foods on display, and that's the way it should be. Carnivals and food go hand in hand, and Anthony Anderson is trying them both out in "Carnival Cravings with Anthony Anderson," airing Wednesday nights on Food Network.

Fifty-two young women compete for the 'Miss America 2016' title

By Jacqui Wiens
TV Media

Elegant gowns, sultry singers and batons twirling through the air are only a few things to look forward to at this year's milestone 95th anniversary of the Miss America pageant. Originating from the 1920 Fall Frolic on Atlantic City's boardwalk, the pageant has undergone many changes from its humble beginnings to today's cultural phenomenon. Don't miss the glitz when the "2016 Miss America Competition" airs Sunday, Sept. 13, on ABC.

The Fall Frolic didn't look very much like "Miss America" does now, resembling a parade more than anything else. In an effort to draw more customers to the boardwalk after Labor Day, the Businessmen's League of Atlantic City arranged to have 350 young women pushed down the boardwalk in rolling wicker chairs in late September.

The inaugural event was such a success that the Fall Frolic returned in 1921 with five days of activities. Festivities included the Inter-City Beauty Contest, which was advertised as a "bather's revue." Leading up to the competition, newspapers across the country held mini-pageants to send representatives to Atlantic City.

While the term "Miss America" was coined by a local Atlantic City journalist prior to the 1921 pageant, the title wasn't officially applied to that year's winner. Sixteen-year-old Margaret Gorman of Washington, D.C., was crowned the "The Most Beautiful Bathing Girl in America," only coming to be known as Miss America the following year when she competed in defense of her title.

The "Miss America Competition" ran into trouble less than a decade after it was instated, facing financial problems and criticisms of loose morals, which led to the eventual suspension of the event between 1929 and 1933. After it was reinstated, the 1930s brought a lot of change to the pageant. Rules were added, including age restrictions (originally 18 to 26, now 17 to 24) and the requirement that contestants represent an entire state instead of a city or business.

In further steps to reinvent "Miss America," a talent portion was added to the pageant in 1938. The grand prize — previously consisting of "furs and movie contracts" — was changed a few years later in 1944. This made Bess Myerson, Miss America 1945, both the first Jewish winner and the first title holder to receive a scholarship from pageant organizers. The Miss America Organization has continued to promote higher education ever since, requiring that all competitors either graduate high school or achieve their GED prior to participating.

The current Miss America has always been expected to travel the country making appearances, but Kaye Lani Rae Rafko Wilson, Miss America 1988, was the first winner to use those appearances to advance a particular platform. Trained as a nurse, Rafko Wilson used the publicity to advocate for hospice care for the terminally ill. The following year, a rule was added requiring all "Miss America" contestants to select a social issues platform to advance during their reign.

These platforms can be very personal and tend to skew towards education, health, children and women's issues, such as "Healthy Children, Strong America" promoted by this year's Georgia representative, Betty Cantrell. Many also focus on empowerment, including Miss Arkansas Loren McDaniel's platform, "Confidently You," and Miss Indiana Morgan Jackson's "Project Impact: If Not You, Then Who?"

The "2016 Miss America Competition" will consist of 52 contestants representing each of the states, as well as the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. It wasn't until 1959 that every state was represented at the "Miss America Competition," and there are still 19 states and two participating territories — Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands (which won't be participating this year) — that have never seen their representative crowned Miss America.

Six titles each have been claimed by women representing California, New York, Ohio and Oklahoma — although two of Ohio's wins came from Miss Columbus Mary Catherine Campbell, who was crowned in 1922 and

Chris Harrison hosts the "2016 Miss America Competition"

1923. After Campbell placed as the first runner-up in 1924 as well, the rules were changed so that each contestant was only permitted to be Miss America once.

The northern states are conspicuously absent from the list of Miss America titleholders, with Washington state, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas forming a large block of winless states. A large number of winners come from the area surrounding the Great Lakes, with Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York accounting for 22 of the 90 title holders.

Miss America also gives contestants the opportunity to showcase a talent. In what's become a somewhat predictable move, most state champions selected either a music or dance routine, with Miss Colorado Kelley Johnson and Miss Vermont Alayna Westcom standing out for their selections of "monologue" and "dramatic science experiment," respectively.

From a boardwalk parade to a beauty contest to a high-profile talent competition, the "Miss America Competition" celebrates the 95th anniversary of the original Fall Frolic this year from its historic home of Atlantic City. Don't miss the excitement when the "2016 Miss America Competition" airs Sunday, Sept. 13, on ABC.

Cinderella

The classic fairy tale comes to life in this live action retelling of the classic tale by Disney. After her mother passes away, young Ella's (James) father (Chaplin) remarries, giving the young lady the gift of two stepsisters and a stepmother (Blanchett). When her father dies, though, her step-family reveals its true colors. Forced into servitude and tormented by her family's cruelty, the girl despairs at the turn that her life has taken. When she meets a man in the woods (Madden) who claims to be an apprentice in the nearby castle, she falls in love. Not long after, the king announces that he's throwing a ball and Cinderella is overjoyed that she may get to see the handsome man again. Her stepmother and sisters, though, have other ideas.

Beltone

Helping the World Hear Better - Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

I went to Beltone for my hearing problem. I received good service and support. I forget I have my hearing aid in once I get it in place. I really like my hearing aid and I love Beltone!

Love & Mercy

The Beach Boys were the hottest band in the world in their heyday, and member Brian Wilson's unique and unconventional song-writing was a huge element of that success. This biographic drama delves into the shadowy downside of the enormous pressure that this put on him, as his mental state deteriorated and he fell under the thrall of an ethically suspect psychologist (Giamatti). Director: Bill Pohlad. Stars: Paul Giamatti, John Cusack, Paul Dano. 2014. 121 min. Biography.
