Foreword

The Columbia University Libraries LGBTQ project emerged as a response to the onset of the Russia-Ukraine war. Given Russia’s recent history of anti-LGBTQ legislation, including its recently expanded anti-“gay propaganda” law, we recognized the vulnerability and precarity of openly LGBTQ persons in areas affected by the war. As human rights scholars, and members of the LGBTQ community ourselves, we felt compelled to take action.

Along with the war, a surge of “far right narratives” has recently spread throughout Eastern Europe and the Balkans. Waves of rhetoric against migrants, Roma people, and the LGBTQ community have accompanied pro-authoritarian messaging. Meanwhile, Russia continues to play a corrosive hand in the Balkans by exploiting ethnic, political, and religious tensions in the region for geopolitical gain. This phenomenon has not only contributed to the near-cancellation of EuroPride in Belgrade in 2022, but also escalated attacks on queer people throughout the region.

As Russia’s war in Ukraine continues, it is of increasing importance to protect the safety and freedom of the LGBTQ community. To this end, we have developed the following library guide, as well as a separate annual report on the status of LGBTQ rights and issues in Ukraine, Russia, and Eastern and Central Europe. We hope that these publications can serve as a resource for researchers and policy practitioners to better understand the lived lives of the queer community, and safeguard LGBTQ rights and freedoms in the region.

Compilers' Introduction

By way of background

This checklist of LGBTQ+ materials—archival, serial and monographic—held by The New York Public Library, Columbia, Cornell, Harvard and Princeton was one component of a project funded by the Columbia University Libraries' Anti-racism, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Program.

The first part of the project involved a survey of the current status of LGBTQ+ communities in various countries of Eastern and Central Europe.

The second component of the project, presented here, grew out of the compilers' efforts to establish a web archiving site for the Ivy Plus consortium. Establishing a desiderata list of LGBTQ+ organizations in Central and Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia for regular crawling and archiving led to our collective realization that, while we had established collecting policies for current LGBTQ+ materials with vendors in the many countries in our purview, we had never performed a “stock-taking” of those efforts. Where were our successes? Our shortcomings? What are the contours of our holdings? What could we do going forward to adjust profiles, or pursue the services of supplemental vendors in our efforts? Given the enormous—and intensifying—pressures facing LGBTQ+ communities throughout the region, what will be possible in the months and years to come? So began our efforts to compile the present list.

One observation is how unbalanced the list seems, from a language/geopolitical standpoint. Russian and Polish materials, for example, are abundant, while other countries and languages are far less well-represented. Some countries, in fact, are not represented at all, or appear in the Non-Fiction works but not in Fiction section (and vice-versa), as you will see. Spot checks of holdings beyond the institutions covered here suggest that the issue may not be entirely our fault—that this accurately reflects what is available in print or electronically for the areas in question—or not!

It is also unquestionable that many in-country vendors face the kind of persecution encountered by the communities themselves just by providing access to these materials. Suffice it to say that we are re-examining the performance of approval plans on a case-by-case basis in the months ahead, and trying to formulate alternate routes for obtaining relevant materials.

In the meantime, I am happy to report that new materials relevant to the LGBTQ+ communities in Eastern Europe arrive at our libraries regularly, and are processed on a rolling basis. By way of example, after we had already completed the index, Harvard added a collective cataloging record for LGBTQ+ Materials from Russia, a non-circulating (i.e., you must use them on-site in Cambridge) 84-piece collection of printed ephemera. Duplicates from the collection have been acquired by NYPL, where they will be added to the circulating collection.

Why are you listing holdings only for Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, The New York Public Library, and Princeton?

In 2000, facing enormous book storage issues, Columbia, NYPL and Princeton agreed to construct and maintain a purpose-built, climate controlled, high-density storage facility—Research Collections and Preservation Consortium (ReCAP)—across Route 1 from Old Nassau. Books would be barcoded, and delivered to the respective holding institutions daily. More recently, our records became “visible” in each-other’s online catalogs, and affiliates/cardholders could request delivery of physical volumes or scans of chapters owned by other institutions with the click of a button. Then, in 2017, Harvard joined ReCAP and began sending materials to offsite.

Today, ReCAP holds 17 million volumes, and receives more than 250,000 borrowing requests per year. Bottom line: we collectively have easy access to an unrivalled collection of materials assembled by the ReCAP partners over the centuries.

It must also be mentioned that these partner libraries have effectively leveraged our resource-sharing agreements by closely coordinating collection development in these languages, beginning in 2010, dividing responsibilities for languages and regions so that we maximize our collective acquisitions funds. This has proven critical, as we face rising costs and burgeoning publishing industries throughout the region.

Where does Cornell fit? It isn’t a ReCAP library...

Thanks to a 2009 agreement between Cornell and Columbia, their respective libraries share a Slavic selector and reference librarian. Cornell is a member of BorrowDirect, and therefore any student or faculty member has access to any borrowable titles there. More than this, Cornell is home to a non-circulating Human Sexuality Collection—part of their Rare Book and Manuscript Library—that has few rivals anywhere. And while you can't just click and wait for delivery (although you can obtain circulating material held by Olin Library via BorrowDirect), you should be aware of this fantastic storehouse of material documenting the LGBTQ+ community. Certainly worth a visit to beautiful Ithaca.

One should also note that while The NYPL is a ReCAP library, it is NOT in BorrowDirect. However, there are Interlibrary Loan Services options for titles that are not in the shared ReCAP collection.

So, how do our respective libraries obtain new materials?

Research libraries maintain so-called approval profiles with an international, often in-country, network of vendors. These approval profiles describe the kinds of material we want to be acquired in a given language from a vendor on our behalf. So within a broader approval plan, we specify that we want materials from LGBTQ+ communities in, say, Albanian. We instruct our vendor in Tirana to supply such materials in upcoming shipments

What does the checklist include? How is the checklist organized?

The principal focus here is on monographs, serials, and web-based materials in the vernacular languages of Eastern Europe. We do not include, for example, the vast number of individual articles on, say, the human rights abuses of Eastern European LGBTQ+ communities that one could find in, say, HeinOnline, or one of the other databases emphasizing English-language material. We do include a number of monographs in English that deal either wholly or in part with LGBTQ+ communities in Central and Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia. For example, titles on these communities containing, say, a chapter on one or other country.

We also include archived websites from within the countries themselves. Through the IvyPlus group web archiving program, we currently archive some seventy-five LGBTQ+ sites in the region on a regular basis, preserving web-based content from the vagaries of censorship.

The Checklist is divided into three core sections:

Section I: CROSS-REGIONAL WORKS consists of printed works, and websites that cover multiple countries within the region. Included here are some of the most important subscription databases available to affiliates at several of the libraries represented here (for example, EastView Universal Databases, on page 13).

Section II: NON-FICTION MATERIALS BY COUNTRY includes (in some cases) archival holdings, as well as print material (serials, monographs), videos, and citations to databases which may or may not be accessible to all affiliates, based on whether your institution subscribes. Other resources are web-based and freely-accessible. In the checklist, only Archival is separated out; all other formats are in one alphabetical sequence.

Section III: FICTION BY COUNTRY. In compiling the list, we debated whether to include fiction. This is a tricky category: E.g., how do you handle works by known homosexuals that may not be specifically about their experiences or sexuality? We ultimately included only cases where the subject headings specifically indicated that the content concerned LGBTQ+ communities or individuals. In some cases, where we knew of a particular author who was part of these communities, and whose themes often touched on their identity (see, for example, the entries for Lida Merlinova, author of the first Lesbian novel in Czech) we looked beyond the established Subjects to provide as much of their oeuvre as possible. Yet in others, we didn't—for example, we could have filled multiple pages with works relevant to the creative work of, say, Serge Diaghilev, or Vaslav Nijinsky—but their work and sexual identities are well-known.

Works of fiction in English that are set in countries of the region are included.

Finally, there are two Indexes that are keyed to PAGE NUMBERS, not ITEM Numbers. One is an index of titles (italicized), personal and organizational names. The other is by Library of Congress Subject Headings as assigned when the materials were processed.

As is always the case with research materials, the checklist includes both works sympathetic to—and critical of (perhaps even hostile to) the LGBTQ+ communities. .

What database did you use for identifying holdings, and what methodology did you use for searching in compiling this checklist?

First, we searched the OCLC WorldCat bibliographic database, which includes materials held by participating libraries throughout the world. We looked at the most most-frequently encountered Library of Congress established subject heading (e.g., Homosexuality/Homosexuals, Gay/Gays, Lesbian/Lesbians, Bixsexual/Bisexuals, Transgender/Transsexuals, Queer), as well as more specific headings (e.g., Gender non-conformity, Coming out (Sexual orientation), Sexual Minorities, etc.). We limited our search to specific languages (Albanian, Bosnian, etc.), and to the holdings of Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, NYPL, and Princeton. As a further check, each compiler searched their respective local online catalogs (OPACS, such as Hollis, CLIO, etc.).

What do the individual entries contain?

Each entry consists of Author (meaning responsible party—an actual author, editor, compiler, or principal contributor; Title or Uniform Title (in cases where a work consists of reports of a conference, or is a translation from another language), Place of Publication, Publisher name, date, and collation (i.e., pagination, whether it has illustrations, and size of volume). For example, on page 195:

Author: Rotikov, K. K. (Konstantin Konstantinovich). Title: Drugoi Peterburg. (Sankt-Peterburg: "Liga Plus", 1998). 574 pages; 17 cm

The Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH) that the original cataloger assigned:

Subjects: Male homosexuality - Russia (Federation) - Saint Petersburg - History. || Gay men - Russia (Federation) - Saint Petersburg - History. || Saint Petersburg (Russia) - Description and travel.

Sometimes, a brief Summary is included:

Summary: Periodicals, pamphlets, and photocopies of articles on gays, lesbians, AIDS, and other human sexuality-related topics, collected in Moscow in the early 1990s.

There is a bookmark link to the record of one of the holding institutions (if print) or to multiple institutions if the item is held electronically by more than one institution. This is necessary because for purchased electronic resources, only affiliates may view and use that specific resource:

Format: Online resource. AFFILIATES ONLY. Bookmark as:

COLUMBIA: <https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/16976309>

Format: Book.

Bookmark as: <https://clio.columbia.edu/catalog/law129444>

Location: Law (Columbia) and Law (Cornell) and Firestone (Princeton) K3254 .B45 2013

Finally, as you can see from the sample record above, Locations are provided, indicating which library (e.g., Firestone), at which institution (Princeton), holds the title, followed by the Library of Congress or Dewey classification number. In the case of NYPL, which uses a unique classification system, their call numbers are indicated separately. No Offsite (ReCAP) materials have a classification number given, as everything is shelved by barcode, and must be requested online rather than in person.

Is everything available to me?

In principle, yes. How something is available - whether in person, remotely, or electronically is determined by:

a) The rarity of the item. The separate category “Archival” includes documents, ephemera, manuscript, and other materials that are exceptionally rare and in some cases unique. Material in these collections will not circulate beyond the walls of the rare book and manuscript reading room of the holding institution, and must be viewed by appointment with the holding institution’s special collections sections. The same holds true for rare books: for example, any title held by the Karl A. Kroch Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Cornell won’t circulate. You will need to visit Ithaca to consult these

b) Whether it is part of a purchased electronic resource, which carries certain vendor-imposed restrictions on usage (generally, current affiliates only). Electronic Subscriptions can include commercially-provided (i.e., a given institution pays for access for affiliates only) databases, streaming movies, or periodicals. These are ONLY available to affiliates of the subscribing institution. In cases where multiple institutions subscribe to a resource, an institution-specific book link is provided. You would then have to authenticate via your home institution (university ID and Password) to use it.

c) Whether (in the case of a video, e.g.,) it is designated non-circulating beyond the walls of, say, Butler Library. Videos are a hybrid. In some cases, they are non-circulating except within an institution. In other cases, they may be in the ReCAP shared collection, and therefore can be checked out like a ReCAP book.

And finally,

d) whether the item is ONSITE or OFFSITE. In the latter case, if the record appears in your library's OPAC, it should be requestable for delivery (or, if you know a specific chapter/article, via a scan). If the former—books or serials held by, e.g., Butler, Olin, Widener, Firestone, etc.)—you would need to request via BorrowDirect. As NYPL is NOT in BorrowDirect, you would need to visit 42nd Street to consult onsite materials, or arrange to register for their Interlibrary Loan Services.

It IS complicated! Our best advice is to consult with your respective Slavic & East European Studies librarian:

I. Cross-Regional Works

Listed below are titles that include content covering LGBTQ+ issues/communities in more than one country. The majority are in English, but please note also in this section the presence of several online databases with extensive Slavic and East European vernacular language content. These are marked with a double asterisk ().

Country-specific English-language titles are integrated into the specific country lists.

Summary: “The purpose of the Digital Transgender Archive (DTA) is to increase the accessibility of transgender history by providing an online hub for digitized historical materials, born-digital materials, and information on archival holdings throughout the world. The DTA uses the term transgender to refer to a broad and inclusive range of non-normative gender practices. We treat transgender as a practice rather than an identity category in order to bring together a trans-historical and trans-cultural collection of materials related to trans-ing gender. We collect materials from anywhere in the world with a focus on materials created before the year 2000.” Overview, Digital Transgender Archive.

Subjects: Lesbians – Balkans – Surveys. || Gays – Balkans – Surveys. || Bisexuals – Balkans – Surveys. || Transgender people – Balkans – Surveys. || Intersexuality – Balkans – Surveys.

Summary: This survey was conducted to better understand the lives of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and intersex (LGBTI) people in seven countries in Southeastern Europe: five in the Western Balkans - Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo, FYR Macedonia, and Montenegro; as well as two European Union (EU) member states, Croatia and Slovenia. The research adopted and adapted a 2012 survey of LGBT people carried out by the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights (FRA) in 27 EU countries plus Croatia (which joined the EU in 2013) (the "FRA survey"). The FRA survey set a benchmark for understanding the lives of LGBT people. In addition to the FRA survey, this current survey also gathered specific information on the lives of intersex people.

Summary: This database provides full-text coverage for the most important literature regarding lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender issues. Offering a variety of scholarly, popular and regional resources, it includes journals, books, magazines and more. It also includes a specialized LGBTQ+ thesaurus containing thousands of terms.

It includes full text of many early core publications The Ladder (1956-1972), One (1953-1969), The Advocate (indexed 1966-present; full text 1996-present) as well as popular magazines and academic journals. Includes LGBT Life with Full Text.

Coverage is international, though the articles are mostly in English. It indexes journals that are not strictly LGBTQ, e.g., Archives of Sexual Behavior, so not all articles in the database have a specific LGBTQ focus.

Summary: Gaining its independence in 1991, after having been included in socialist Yugoslavia for more than four decades, the Republic of Macedonia has struggled to consolidate its democratic system and independence, and to gain admission into the European Union and NATO, against dogged opposition from Greece. One of the central challenges facing Macedonia, along with other Yugoslav successor states, is to develop civic values and to combat such uncivic values as ethnic intolerance, religious bigotry, and homophobia.

Subjects: Gender identity – Political aspects. || Sexual minorities – Political activity.

Summary: Examining wins and losses in elections and assessing accountabilities in those results this broad and international collection analyses how the issue of gender and LGBTQ identity is both factored into, and determines electoral success, not only in consolidated democracies such as the United States, New Zealand, and Norway, but also in a country facing an undemocratic turn such as Poland. Does raising the subject of gender and LGBTQ issues affect electoral processes? Are there countries where gender and LGBTQ issues are more likely to be instrumentalised in the electoral process? Can common patterns between countries be detected?

Summary: Many Polish gay men and lesbians remain in the closet for fear of being ostracized from family and friends, and in some cases losing their jobs. The film offers a rare look into the lives of out gay people in Poland. Despite cultural homophobia, Polish gays and lesbians are finding more and more friendly clubs to attend, and there is a determined core of activists pushing for gay rights at the national level. Poland's admission to the European Union will continue to have a significant social and economic impact, for better or worse, over the next years.

Subjects: Polish literature – 20th century – History and criticism. || Polish literature – 21st century – History and criticism. || Homosexuality in literature. || Gender identity in literature.

Summary: "The subject of the book is the metaphorical nature of gender discourse (gender, gay, lesbian, queer criticism and (about) masculinity studies) in Polish literary studies after 1989. Assuming that these trends constitute separate fields in national literary studies, the author argues that figuratively they significantly contribute to the specificity of the research perspectives discussed" – English translation of publisher's description

Summary: In 2014, Cold Fear: Gay Life in Russia revealed shocking footage of a man hunted, trapped, then beaten and humiliated by a group of 30 anti-gay activists in Russia. It was just the tip of an iceberg. Across the world, there is a growing move to halt the advance of gay rights by direct persecution and support for anti-homosexual laws. The movement has created some unlikely International allies. Now, the team behind Cold Fear: Gay Life in Russia investigates the groups and individuals coordinating the campaign. The investigation team crosses continents as it tracks the money, political campaigns and secret meetings to piece together the network. From the anti-gay agenda spreading across Europe from Russia to the extreme homophobia in Africa sponsored by western evangelists and right-wing Christians – this film reveals that far from the hatred originating from rogue extremists, it is an organised movement with a shared source of funding. The trail ends in the United States.

Subjects: Tchaikovsky, Peter Ilich, 1840-1893 – Correspondence. || Composers – Russia – Correspondence.

Summary: "This fascinating collection of letters, notes, and miscellanea from the archives of the Tchaikovsky State House-Museum sheds new light on the world of Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky. Most of these documents have never before been available in English, and they reveal the composer's playful and unabashed sense of humor, private thoughts and daily concerns, and devotion to the Russian monarchy. Often intimate and sometimes bawdy, these diverse materials also offer a fresh perspective on Tchaikovsky's upbringing, his relations with family members, his patriotism, and his homosexuality, collectively contributing to a greater understanding of a major artist who had a profound impact on Russian culture and society. This is an essential compendium of substantial interest to cultural and social historians as well as to musicologists and music lovers." - Provided by publisher.

705. Title: To Russia with love / directed by Noam Gonick. (Tel-Aviv, Israel: Cinephil, 2014). 1 online resource (80 minutes).

Language Note: In English and Russian with English subtitles.

Summary: Leading up to the Olympics in Sochi, a law banning “propaganda of non–traditional sexual relations to minors” was passed in Russia. Gay Olympians were confronted with a tough decision: whether to protest in defense of their Russian comrades or compete in silence. Popular figure skater Johnny Weir was challenged to come out against the country he'd loved since childhood. Narrated by Jane Lynch, To Russia with Love takes viewers inside the Russian Open Games – a daring gay sports tournament held in Moscow three days after the Olympics – which was thwarted by authorities at every turn. Tennis champ Billie Jean King meets teen activist Vladislav Slavskiy who lives a besieged life in Sochi.

Subjects: Homosexuality – Religious aspects – Christianity – Pictorial works. || Bible and homosexuality.

Summary: Ecce homo was a controversial exhibition of 12 photographs of different biblical situations, in modern surroundings, taken by the Swedish photographer Elisabeth Ohlson Wallin. The first vernissage of the exhibition was in Stockholm, July 1998 and attracted much attention. When the exhibition was shown in the cathedral of Uppsala in September it caused a national debate. The reactions was often very emotional, and both positive and negative. The photos portrayed Jesus among homosexuals, transgender people, leatherpeople and people with AIDS. The exhibition toured Scandinavia and continental Europe between 1998 and 2004.

The exhibition opened in October 2012 in the Belgrade Pride festival in Belgrade, Serbia, and was guarded by a number of riot police, due to rioting in the ensuing controversy

Summary: Directed by Dalibor Matanic. A report of a kidnapped child triggers an investigation that uncovers nightmarish conditions in a seedy apartment building in Zagreb: none of the residents are as they seem and when they learn the truth about each other, the pervasive climate of mistrust in the building explodes into violence. The hostility and misery of the characters' lives project vivid echoes of Croatia's recent past, as the country slowly emerges from years of ethnic violence during the Balkans war. Language Note: This edition in Czech with English subtitles.

Summary: A gifted and well-qualified young teacher takes a job teaching natural sciences at a grammar school in the country. Here he makes the acquaintance of a woman and her troubled 17-year old son. The teacher has no romantic interest in the woman but they quickly form a strong friendship, each recognizing the other's uncertainties, hopes and longing for love. When the teacher's ex-boyfriend comes to visit from the city, he quickly realizes that nobody in the village knows that the teacher is gay and harbors a secret affection for the teenage boy. His jealous actions set in motion a series of events that will test the inner strength and compassion of the teacher, the woman and her son to a breaking point. A beautifully shot, powerfully acted, profoundly moving story of desire, responsibility, forgiveness and the need to belong, from the internationally-acclaimed director of Something Like Happiness and Wild Bees.

Summary: “1980s Prague. For Jana, childhood means ration queues and the smell of boiled potatoes on the grey winter air. But just before Jana’s seventh birthday, a new family moves in to their building: a bird-eyed mamka in a fox-fur coat, a stubble-faced papka and a raven-haired girl named Zorka. As the first cracks begin to appear in the communist regime, Zorka teaches Jana to look beyond their building, beyond Prague, beyond Czechoslovakia, and then, Zorka just disappears...”

901. Author: Prime-Stevenson, Edward. Title: Imre: a memorandum. (Peterborough, Ont.: Broadview Press, 2003). 192 p.: port.; 22 cm.

Summary: "Imre is one of the first openly gay American novels with a happy ending. Described by the author as "a little psychological romance," the narrative follows two men who meet by chance in a cafe in Budapest, where they forge a friendship that leads to a series of mutual revelations and gradual disclosures. With its sympathetic characterizations of homosexual men, Imre's 1906 publication marked a turning point in literature in English." "This edition includes material relating to the novel's origins, contemporary writings on homosexuality, other writings by Prime-Stevenson, and a contemporary review."

Summary: Strong and disciplined Kuba is sideswiped by the feelings unearthed when he meets handsome Mikal. Their connection is instantaneous and intoxicating, leaving Kuba to grapple with conflicting emotions. Suddenly his comfortable life with his girlfriend Sylwie is less interesting, and after training for fifteen years, his motivation to compete as a top-tier athlete dissipates. Unable to deny himself any longer, Kuba begins a relationship with Mikal. As Sylwie's dreams of a life with Kuba slip away, Kuba accepts who he is and what he wants, only to find himself drowning in the destruction of his desires.

Subjects: Catholic Church – Clergy – Drama. || Priests – Poland – Drama. || Gay clergy – Poland – Drama.

Summary: Adam is a Catholic priest who discovered his calling as a servant of God at the relatively late age of 21. He now lives in a village in rural Poland where he works with teenagers with behavioral problems who fight and yell abuse. He declines the advances of a young blonde named Ewa, saying he is already spoken for. However, celibacy is not the only reason for his rejection. Adam knows that he desires men and that his embrace of the priesthood has been a flight from his own sexuality. When he meets Lukasz, the strange and taciturn son of a simple rural family, Adam's self-imposed abstinence becomes a heavy burden.

Language Note: In Russian, with English subtitles.

Summary: After taking a wrong turn in their car, a young gay Russian couple witnesses what they believe is a vicious gay bashing; their quandary over what to do about it propels them – and this suspenseful drama – into ever more dangerous territory. For Anton, the burden of what they may have witnessed outweighs Vlad’s fear of probing too deeply into the incident. Convinced of the police’s indifference – recent events make this a terrifyingly plausible scenario – Anton talks his skeptical lover into launching their own amateur investigation into the hate crime. Their risky search for the truth has unexpected and grim consequences.

1062. Title: Eastern boys / a film by Robin Campillo. (New York, NY: First Run Features, 2013). 1 online resource (129 minutes).

Language Note: In English, French, Russian, and Ukrainian; with English subtitles.

Summary: Arriving from all over the Eastern Bloc, the men who loiter around the Gare du Nord train station in Paris are scraping by however they can, forming gangs for support and protection, ever fearful of being caught by the police and deported. When the middle-aged, bourgeois Daniel (Olivier Rabourdin) approaches a boyishly handsome Ukrainian who calls himself Marek for a date, he learns the young man is willing to do anything for some cash. What Daniel intends only as sex-for-hire begets a home invasion and then an unexpectedly profound relationship. The drastically different circumstances of the two men's lives reveal hidden facets of the city they share. Presented in four parts, this absorbing, continually surprising film by Robin Campillo (director of the 2004 film Les Revenants and a frequent collaborator of Laurent Cantet's) is centered around relationships that defy easy categorization, in which motivations and desires are poorly understood even by those to whom they belong.

Section V: About the Compilers & Contributors

Compilers

Robert H. Davis, Jr. has served as Librarian for Russian, Eurasian and East European Collections at Columbia University since 2008, and has held a joint appointment since 2010 as Slavic & East European Studies Librarian at Cornell University. He began his library career in 1987 at the New York Public Library, serving as Assistant Chief from 2004-2008.

Mr. Davis holds degrees from Columbia University (1983, 1987), Queens College (1989), and a certificate from the Harriman Institute (1987). He has authored or compiled six monographs and checklists, and many articles, reviews, and referred conference papers at numerous regional, national, and international meetings. Mr. Davis has authored or coauthored and directed nineteen grants funded by various federal, state and private entities, including the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Department of Education.

Bogdan Horbal has served as the Curator for Slavic and East European Collections at the New York Public Library since 2018. He began his library career in 1997 at the NYPL, working at the Slavic & Baltic Division, and later in Acquisition, Cataloging as well as Science, Industry, and Business Library. He holds degrees from the University of Wrocław, Poland (1996, 2005) and Queens College, CUNY (1999), authored four monographs, many articles and reviews as well as presented papers at numerous conferences, <https://nypl.academia.edu/BogdanHorbal>

Thomas Keenan joined the Princeton University Library as Slavic, East European and Eurasian Studies Librarian in 2013. He holds a Ph.D. in Slavic Languages and Literatures (Yale), an M.A. in Italian Literature (Middlebury College), and a Master of Library and Information Science (Pratt Institute). Dr. Keenan has chaired professional bodies such as the East Coast Consortium of Slavic Library Collections and the Slavic and East European Section and European Studies Section of the Association of College and Research Libraries. He has published and spoken on Soviet illustrated literature for children, Soviet visual culture, the publishing and media spheres in the post-Soviet Russian Federation, and on “RuNet”—the Russian zone of the Internet.

Brenda J. Marston. With a background in history and library and archival studies, Brenda came to Cornell to launch its Human Sexuality Collection. As its inaugural curator, she has collaborated with many people to assemble and make accessible a deep primary source collection that has been used by international scholars.

Anna Rakityanskaya is the Librarian for Russian and Belarusian collections at Harvard Library. She holds degrees in library and information science (University of South Carolina) and Slavic anthropological linguistics (Lomonosov Moscow State University). Ms. Rakityanskaya manages collection development, acquisitions and metadata for materials from Russia and Belarus at Harvard Library. Her special professional interests include contemporary ephemeral and non-traditional primary source materials in both physical and born-digital formats.

Sarah Witte is a Research Collections and Services Librarian at Columbia University. She has been the liaison librarian and selector for gender, sexuality and women's studies since the Institute for Research on Sexuality and Gender was founded at Columbia in 1989.

Contributors

Caro Bratnober is the Public Services Librarian at the Burke Library at Union Theological Seminary in New York. She completed a Masters degree in Library & Information Science at the Pratt Institute, then a Master of Arts at Union Theological Seminary. Their library and archival work is informed by her research in gender and sexuality studies, (dis)ability studies, ethics and religious studies, along with digital-media and information-literacy studies.
