

2023-08-31

(Im)mobilising Youth Citizenship / Youth Citizenship (im)mobilities

Holton, M

<https://pearl.plymouth.ac.uk/handle/10026.1/22000>

All content in PEARL is protected by copyright law. Author manuscripts are made available in accordance with publisher policies. Please cite only the published version using the details provided on the item record or document. In the absence of an open licence (e.g. Creative Commons), permissions for further reuse of content should be sought from the publisher or author.

(Im)mobilising Youth Citizenship / Youth Citizenship (im)mobilities

RGS-IBG Annual Conference 2023

Mark Holton – University of Plymouth

Suzanne Beech – Ulster University

Sara McDowell – Ulster University

Bordered Youth

Analysing Citizenship and Identities in Post-Brexit
Northern Ireland

Mobilising youth citizens

The background of the slide is a dense collection of colorful wooden human figures, similar to the classic 'family' figurines. The figures are in various colors including red, orange, yellow, white, grey, blue, and dark brown. They are scattered across the entire frame, creating a textured, multi-colored background. The lighting is soft, highlighting the natural wood grain and the smooth finish of the paint.

- Why youth mobility citizenship?
- Young people as citizens ‘in becoming’.
 - Youth as betwixt – between ‘childhood’ and ‘adulthood’ (Mills, 2013).
- Young people as citizenship holders in their own right.
 - Citizenship as relationally produced (Wood, 2016).

(Im)mobilising youth citizens

Liminal life-course mobilities?

- Life-courses as linear or non-linear?
 - Transitions, trajectories, biographies?
 - Cartographies, constellations, assemblages?
- Life-courses as liminal states?
 - ‘in-between’, ‘betwixt’, ‘borderline’?
- Liminality as an apparatus of social positioning – to impose barriers or limits on to others.
- Liminality as an agentic state of being – to 'be', 'act' or 'think' in liminal ways.

Mobile citizenship capitals

- Mobility capital that privileges / disadvantages experiences – cosmopolitanism, entrepreneurialism, creativity etc. (Haldimann et al., 2022).
- Learning citizenship through mobility (HE, gap years, internships, graduate schemes etc.).
- Risks associated with im/mobility – ‘stuckness’, and the ‘left behind’.
- Produces fragmented, particular and temporary forms of citizenship necessitated by frequent mobilities.

Mobile citizens – ‘footloose’ and fancy free?

- Multi-locational citizenship/s (Spinney et al., 2015)?
- ‘Footlooseness’ – cosmopolitanism or structures aimed at maintaining youth mobility?
- Precarities and temporalities of being mobile citizens.

Immobilising youth citizenship?

- Geopolitical impacts (Brexit, Trump, nationalism etc.).
- Discourses of borders and bordering.
- Political contestations surrounding good / bad mobilities and what it means to 'be' a mobile citizen.

"If you believe you're a citizen of the world, you're a citizen of nowhere."

Theresa May
(Prime Minister)

A framework for youth citizenship (im)mobilities

1. Liminal life-courses – social positioning / agentic opportunities.
2. Mobility / citizenship capitals – (re)producing citizenship inequalities.
3. Everyday precarity – normalising uncertainties and weak ties.
4. Structured mobilities – ‘good’ and ‘bad’ citizenships.

Future research on age, ageing and the life-course

Extended
in[ter]dependencies

Multi-generational homes

Life-course uncertainties

Thank you

@the_bordered_youth_project

@BorderedYouth

borderedyouth@ulster.ac.uk

<https://www.ulster.ac.uk/research/topic/environmental-sciences/projects/bordered-youth.ac.uk>

