

1983

Office Work

Michael Pfeifer

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/ijls>

 Part of the English Language and Literature Commons

Recommended Citation

Pfeifer, Michael. "Office Work." Iowa Journal of Literary Studies 4 (1983): 60-60.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0743-2747.1060>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in Iowa Journal of Literary Studies by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

OFFICE WORK

Michael Pfeifer

First, I translate for the center of the ocean,
where the tide is still a white rose.
Afterward, I write letters for the simpleton
handcuffed to my bed, answering correspondence from a city in a volcano.
I take dictation for the birds that survive their own music.
Later, I answer the phone ringing in the empty office of dreams.
I lie and say I am the janitor
in a building of blinding light.
I leave a memo that says the poor have been waiting and waiting in their burning limousine.
I juggle the books everyday before I leave for the night.