

Masthead Logo

The Iowa Review

Volume 3
Issue 1 Winter

Article 17

1972

Breaking Ground

Ross Talarico

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Talarico, Ross. "Breaking Ground." The Iowa Review 3.1 (1972): 16-16. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.1302>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

BREAKING GROUND

And now it has risen,
The shovel,
Out of the earth.
And now it has fallen
Out of my hands.

This is the first shovelful
I have taken
From this, the first planet
I have inhabited.

The architect comes up
And points to nothing but empty space.
Does he see the skyscraper
The rest of us imagine?

I don't know,
But the ground has been broken,
And a window appears
From nowhere, alone in the sky,
And through it
I can see the sun rising.

There is even
A small round of applause
As I step into the hole I have dug
And spread out my arms
To provide what shade I can
For those
Who are gathering around me.