Change

“Academic libraries are currently facing their greatest challenge since the explosion in tertiary education and academic publishing which began after World War II..... Retaining and growing their customer base, and focusing more energy on meeting their customers’ expectations is the only way for academic libraries to survive in this volatile environment.” (pp. 662-663)

Cullen, Rowena. “Perspectives on User Satisfaction Surveys.” Library Trends, 49 (2002): 662-86.

Rethinking: Change

- It's all about the students, staff, and faculty.
- It's not about the library; it's all about the university.
- Accountability is key.
- Change is constant and the rate of change is immense.
- The university's strategic priorities are the library's strategic priorities.
- This IS the new normal for libraries.

Responding to Change: A User Centered Focus

- Why not say yes?
- What do users want and need?
- How do we use assessment to find out?
- Using strategic planning to focus on meeting the needs of the university as a priority.
