Graduation Plans All Set

BOISE, IDAHO

Boise, Idaho, May 25, 1954

This Week Last Chance for Caps-Gown

This week closes the school year 1953-54. After the examinations are completed Thursday, sophomores will begin to give more thought to the graduation activities.

Last week, all sophomores met with Mr. Gottenberg, chairman of the graduation committee, to receive preliminary instructions on the closing events of the year.

They are reminded that this week, on Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday, between the hours of 9:15 to 10:15 in the morning and 1:30 to 3:30 in the afternoon, they must pick up their caps and gowns in the bookstore, at which time they will pay the graduation fee and cap and gown rental fee. The first commencement event will be the graduation formal Saturday evening in the Student Union ballroom.

Sunday, May 30, all the graduates will meet at 2:00 p.m. in room 110 for the purpose of practicing for the service which will take place at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Eugene B. Haynes, pastor of the Wright Community Congregational church, will deliver the main address, entitled, "The Way to Affirmative Living." Invocation and benediction will be pronounced by the Reverend E. H. Edwards, pastor of the First Nazarene church of Boise. The special music will be furnished by the Boise Junior College a capella choir, directed by C. Griffith Bratt. The two numbers will be "Sanctus et Hosanna" and "Send Out Thy Spirit." Mr. Bratt will also play the processional march "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar, and the recessional march "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell.

Boise Junior College's 21st commencement will take place Monday Morning, May 31, at 10:00 a.m. All graduates will assemble in room 110 at 9:00 a.m., and the faculty will assemble at 9:30. Promptly at 10 minutes before the hour, the procession will start from the main building, and will enter the auditorium to the "Coronation March" from the Prophet by Meyerbeer, played by the Boise Junior College concert band, directed by John H. Eest. After the singing of the national anthem, the Reverend V. L. Meyer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will pronounce the invocation. The address of the day will be given by Doctor G. B. Wood, head of the department of agricultural economics at Oregon State College, and will be entitled, "If I Were In Your Shoes." Two of the graduates, Allene Siebe, lyric soprano, accompanied by Helen Bullock, and Marga Lindemann, pianist, will furnish music. The review of the year by Eugene B. Chaffee, president, will be followed by the presentation of the diplomas by E. D. Baird, chairman of the board of trustees. With the completion of the singing of the college hymn by the audience, the faculty and graduates will leave the auditorium to the strains of the March from Tannehauser by Wagner, played by the band.

Directly following the close of the commencement, all graduates, their parents and friends, and faculty members will attend a tea in the Student Union ballroom given by President and Mrs. Eugene B. Chaffee. Some 110 students, or approximately 10 per cent more than last year, will be graduated.

By Hewlett To Leave

U. of Michigan Study

Letoy Hewlett, assistant librarian and cataloguer for the library, is leaving Boise just to commence exercises for Artor, Michigan. For the next years he will continue work towards his Ph.D. in library school at the University of Michigan. On request, Mr. Hewlett is making this statement:

In parting, I wish to thank all faculty, students and office for their fine fellowship and management, but my special thanks goes to President Chaffee for his excellent support; to Mrs. Ford and Mrs. McBurney for their guidance during the period of my study; and to Mrs. Conard for her never-forgotten friendship.

Mr. Hewlett has formulated no definite plans for the future after he has completed his advanced study. He did, however, express a desire to go into some phase of research or bibliographical research.

Social Committee Plans Formal Dance

On Saturday evening, students will be treated to the music of Ray Crawford's orchestra at the annual graduation formal dance in the Student Union ballroom.

Maime Newton, general chairman, announced that invitations have been sent to all sophomores, faculty members and parents of committee chairmen.

The theme of the dance, "The Ivy of Ivy," will inspire the decorations for the affair. This is the only formal dance at which corsages are ordered.

Judy West, Lee Carter To Take Over Editorships Of Roundup and Les Bois

Publications adviser, Mr. W. L. Gottenberg, has announced the editors of the Roundup and Les Bois for next fall.

Judy West, present business manager of the Roundup, will take over as editor-in-chief next year. Judy was a member of the paper staff during her sophomore year at Rantoul, Illinois. Judy has fulfilled her office as business manager exceedingly well this past semester and is sure to perform her new duties with the same amount of responsibility.

Lee Carter, assistant editor of the 1954 Les Bois, will assume the editor's duties for 1955. As Mr.

G. says, she has had her "finger in the glue" this year, and is now "stuck up" enough for the editor position. According to Mr. Gottenberg and Helen McDaid, present editor, Lee has done an excellent job as assistant, and can be depended upon to do her next year's job well.

Mary Scholes has announced that she will leave for Seattle, traveling through Portland on June 2 and will have room for two passengers. Anyone interested can contact her at Morrison hall.

Faculty Plans Supper

BJC faculty members and their wives or husbands will hold a potluck dinner at the Student Union ballroom, Sunday, May 30, at 7:00 p.m.

The faculty social committee will furnish the meat and coffee for the affair.

Duane Hansen

BJC Men Chosen For Officer Training

Boise Junior College has been complimented by the navy, in that two of its outstanding students have been selected to take officers' training. Duane (Dewey) Hansen and Dave Whitehead will leave June 28, by private car, for the U.S. Naval Station at Newport, Rhode Island. After two summers of training and upon graduation from college, they will be commissioned ensigns in the navy or second lieutenants in the marine corps. They are the only boys attending from Idaho.

As Summer Approaches

Time to close up shop for this year. This issue marks the last time the Roundup will be put out by this staff. It's been hard work, but it's also been fun, and it seems sad that it's all over.

Thanks, students, for bearing with us when we printed errors. We sincerely hope that we have succeeded in meeting the student body's needs with this publication.

This year, the Roundup has had more pictures, thanks to Charlie's first semester work; and has grown from two pages to four.

Now from the strictly editorial point of view, I'd like to thank the members of the staff for their cooperation this past semester.

The kids have done a swell job... they got in my hair, I got in theirs, and together we added a few grey hairs to Mr. Gottenberg's head.

Special thanks to non-staffers Charlie Shangle, who took many pictures for which he received no credit lines, and Bob Van Buskirk, who acted as Roy Davis' private secretary and helped us out when the going was rough.

Credit is due, too, to the Mountain States Press, who did such a fine job of printing the Roundup, and to all other business firms who helped with its publication.

Next year, Judy West will take over as editor of the Roundup. Judy has done an outstanding job as business manager... such a good job, in fact, that the additional pages were possible through the increase of ads. In fact, the two pages were needed to accommodate all the ads she managed to sell.

Well, so long for this year, make the most of the summer!

GI's Urged To Attend Summer School

Summer school, starting within the next few weeks, will provide the last chance for thousands of post-Korean veterans to start in under the Korean GI Bill. Veterans Administration said.

The veterans who must act in a hurry, if they want GI schooling, are those who were discharged or separated from service before August 20, 1952, and who have not yet taken advantage of the GI training benefit.

SUMMER SCHOOL TO BEGIN

Summer school will get under way on June 7, and will feature three sessions, finally ending the summer term on August 13. Tuition is $6.75 per credit hour.

Session number one will run the full course of the summer term, beginning June 7 and ending August 13. The second begins the same date, June 7, and ends July 9. July 12 to August 13, are the dates of the third session.

Maximum credit load during the summer, is 12. The summer session, like the regular school terms, is fully accredited by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools and by the State

Semantics Problem

"De capito" Schwartz dropped by the office just now, wondering if he was remembering things he had forgotten to get or was forgetting to remember things he should have gotten. Finally he decided to go to his office and pick up the things he remembered he had forgotten to get, and forget that he may have been forgetting to remember things he should have gotten, or something like that.

We decided that it was not a tongue-twister but a mind-twister. That is something that comes from a twisted mind.

Whatcha Doin' This Summer?

By Bill Morrison

What are you doing this summer? This question was put before students and faculty members of the college, and the result was interesting.

Earl Mann: I plan to return to Birmingham and work with my father in the construction business.

Skip Urban: I'm going to work in the tall timber around McCall. Bob Fulwyler: Loaf every chance I get.

Jim Patterson: Work real hard and make enough folding stuff to be able to buy a red Oldsmobile convert with a moo horn.

Miss Conard: My plans are uncertain, but I will go to San Francisco for a few weeks.

Jim Jones: I will possibly work

Here's the Origin of Caps and Gowns

Ever wonder just why and how caps and gowns came to be worn for graduation exercises?

The cap and gown trace their ancestry to the middle ages, when scholars wore the garb for the sake of warmth, since they had to work in unheated, damp cells.

Gradually the cap and gown with the monk's hood became distinctive characteristics of academic achievement.

In 1893, a commission adopted standard regulations for academic regalia with specifications for bachelor, master, and doctor insignia. The first school in the United States to use caps and gowns was Bryn Mawr in 1885, followed by Harvard in 1886, until today they have become symbols of commencement week activities.

Outstanding Students Chosen From Class

Sophomores voted Friday to choose the most outstanding girl and boy of the sophomore class at BJC this year. The winners will be announced during intermission at the graduation formal Saturday night.

Those on the ballot were, for the most outstanding girl: Shirley Byrne, Bunny Kane, Jo Lizaso, Marjorie Newton, Kristin Mathews and Leone Sweany; for the outstanding boy: George Allen, Gerald Crandall, Bill Gardner, Don Jevons and Bill Wardle.

Funds Stolen

The Westminster club has worked hard this year to appropriate money for the underprivileged children in Garden City. A large quantity of this money has been taken from the candy box in which it was kept. The club feels that if the person who took the money had known the need for it, he would not have taken it. Would this individual please return the money by mail to the Westminster club in care of Boise Junior College?

for the railroad, unless my Uncle sends word that he wants me to start work for him next month. My Uncle is located at Fort Ord. Mona Johnson: Travel a little this summer, mainly to San Francisco, then home to work and slave until school starts again.

Mr. Hansen: I am going to complete the dissertation for my Ph.D. This work will cover the study of suffrage in the state of Idaho from 1886 to 1906. I will work with the state historical society, the Statesman, and with interviews and material found in the libraries.

George Merritt: I want to go to Chile with Bruce Brenn and Howard Barton to ski. I'll probably end up driving a truck. Romantic, huh? (Yes, Lover -- gl.)

Bob Eaton: I'll spend a lot of time hunting around West Mountain.

Max Goin: Play baseball with the Nampa Clippers and work. Marj Newton: I'll work at one of the Boise swimming pools, as a life guard.

Roy Arnold: That's too far ahead to be able to know.

Stan Kirkpatrick: Get lost in the woods and have to hunt bear with my javelin to survive.

Mr. Dahm: I'm going to work for the state highway department, plans division.

Jerry Hill: Play semi-pro ball at Idaho Falls, and lay asphalt tile for my dad.

John Fields: Go on a Sunday school picnic every weekend.

"Me slept with daddy last night," said the small child to the first grade teacher at Campus school. "I slept with daddy last night," the teacher corrected. "Well, then," said the child, "You must have come in after I went to sleep."

Studies Are Least Of Our Worries!

Note: The following are actual statements issued by those in the know about their lives with BJC teachers.

CoCo Spulalk: Boy! Do I have reason to complain! I come from an excellent family, Cocker Spaniels right down the line. But, between you and me, I lead a dog's life.

As you can see by the leash in the picture, I lead a test tube existence. My old man won't let me out of his sight for an instant. You'd think I was a mere puppy. And speaking of test tubes, I sometimes wonder if the stuff he feeds me isn't concocted by his chem students . . . the ones who are flunking.

Moral: Be careful what you put into those mixtures, he takes his wrath out on me.

Jeeves Burke: Whazzatcha say, Mac? What's life like with my foster mother? Well, far from what's it like in her classes, I'll clue you. Gees, have I got her buffaloe! Ever since I tripped her up last summer, she's been good as gold. She's even been feeding me egg-nogs lately for breakfast; she wants me to become an athlete. At first she wanted me to act as butler, but she gave up the idea when her friends began to dwindle.

Oh well, the lazy life is the greatest. D'ye think I'm gettin' fat?

Pogo Obee: You want to know what it's like, livin' with Doc, huh? Well, it's one big field day! Doc's a good guy, but there are plenty of skeletons in his closet. We won't go into that, now.

One day last summer, Doc promised to take me hunting. True to his word, he loaded me into the car one morning bright and early. Imagine my disgust upon learning that our only equipment was a butterfly net! And I had to stay in the car so I wouldn't scare 'em, as it were.

J. Brunhilde and J. Sighilde Schwartz: This is hardly the time to issue a statement, friends, since the gentleman of our discussion is approaching us now. Hum and his abominable verbs! Why, can you believe it, he requires us to bone up on conjugations constantly. He just can't seem to get out of his daily routine when he comes home in the evening. And he is much harsher with his punishment to us. Why, the other day, he kicked us out of the house for not having our assignments! Now I ask you, can you imagine anything so cruel? Oh! give, gave, given, sit, sat, lie, lay, laid, oops . . . yipe!, yipe! yipe! . . .

Toodles Hatch: My deah, we are the best of friends. Although she does keep me on my toes somewhat. But, really! Such tales she tells me about the younger generation of human beings at BJC ovah our afternoon tea! It's enough to curl one's hair. What won't these young scalawags think of next to drive their poor teachers to distraction?

Yes, my mistress is really quite nice. But quite unapproachable at the moment. She graded finals all night, and the poor woman is nearly out of her mind. That's the trouble with these English teachers, they let these things upset them so. I haven't even begun my term paper, and believe me, when she finds out, the world I'll want will be far from here.

The cow jumped over the fence. The fence was too high. Udder destruction.

Error

In last week's paper I stated that Lover Merritt had parked up in Hills Village. Apparently my informant had some wrong information, however, as Lover insists he parks only in the second gravel bed from the right on the Gowen Field highway.—Dan

Two partners got along well in business until one got sick and stayed home for a week. About the fourth day, the partner at work phoned the one at home ailing and said: "I found $6,000 missing from the safe. What shall I do?" Promptly and without deliberation the invalid counseled: "Put it back!"

Snell Appointed To Stadium Post

Recently announced was the appointment of Harold Snell to the position of assistant manager of the stadium by the executive board.

This position, which will be a new one next year, will include the responsibilities of seating, ticket sales, concessions and other details involved in handling the stadium. The assistant manager will be needed to fulfill these duties, since president of the student body Bob Fulwiler will be needed in quarterback position during the fall season.

Snell will attend all executive board meetings in his new capacity beginning with the first meeting September 15.

Bruce Brenn likes egg-nogs for breakfast.

Young lady recently acquiring an interest in botany asked a southern gentleman: "What kind of a plant is the Virginia Creeper?" "It's not a plant," was the sad reply. "It's a railroad."

"Papa," said the dotting mother, Robert's teacher says he must have an encyclopedia.

"Nonsense," grumbled Robert's father, "let him walk to school like I did."
