Digital Commons Annual Report

Project Name: Butler University Libraries' Digital Commons

Reporting Period: November 2008 – November 2009

Publication Date: 12.3.2009

Prepared By: Brad S. Matthies, Project Manager

PURPOSE

The Digital Commons Annual Report is a document that interested parties may use as a means of monitoring the yearly progress of the Butler University Libraries' institutional repository.

OVERVIEW

2008 – 2009 Year-in-review

In November of 2008, Butler University Libraries went live with DigitalCommons@Butler, the university's first institutional repository for Butler faculty and student scholarship and important historical campus documents.

DigitalCommons@Butler promotes select Butler scholarship and other Butler works by leveraging the power of 21st Century web technologies. These technologies are enabling Butler University Libraries to promote Butler scholarship to a global audience. Some of our notable successes in this regard are the following:

- Partnering with Notre Dame Press to help promote Dr. Marshall Gregory's new book. This experiment led to Dr. Gregory's book chapter having a record 104 downloads in three months.
- Faculty leveraging the power of Web 2.0 technologies to promote their own scholarship. Success here is seen by Dr. James McGrath's use of his professional blog. Due to Dr. McGrath's tireless promotion efforts, his blog consistently ranks as one of our top site referral sources.
- Partnering with Butler faculty to rescue unique Butler University scholarship. An outstanding example here is seen through our collaboration with Rebecca Dolan, Director of the Friesner Herbarium. Through this collaboration we digitized the Butler University Botanical Studies journal, a previously underutilized part of Butler history. Since making this journal available to the world, it has received 761 downloads in one year.

Our initial content for the period of November 2008 through February 2009 included the Butler University Botanical Studies journal, Word Ways magazine, Undergraduate Honors Theses, Graduate Theses, and Faculty Scholarship that primarily came from the Department of Philosophy and Religion.

Since February 2009 we have added content from such disciplines as Computer Science, Biology, English, and Political Science. We also started to add handwritten Manuscript Theses (1887 – 1911) from Butler's beginning days as a university.

What follows are some of the highlights from our first year of operation:

- 10,782 full-text downloads
- 1,575 items added
- Over 1,200 site visits by individuals in 35 countries
- Creation of five active Communities with 11 active Series
- Creation of 22 Selected Works profile pages for Butler scholars
- 106 student contributions
- 96 faculty contributions
- Faculty and student scholarship consistently ranking among our top downloads

The Digital Commons Team

Our accomplishments would have not been possible without help from the following staff and students:

Staff

- Kenetha Frisby, Selected Works Assistant (emeritus)
- Marcy Wilhelm, Electronic Publishing Assistant, Word Ways
- Laina Ridenour, Selected Works Assistant
- Pat Ward, Thesis Assistant

Students

- Mackenzie Szymanski, Scanning Assistant
- J.D. Gray, Scanning Assistant

Finally, a special thanks to the many faculty and staff who have contributed in some way to the Digital Commons. Without your participation this project would not have been possible!
