Search not Webster for "titwillow."
 Whose tail leaves tears upon our pillow?
 Try Gilbert's lyric suicidal
 Tom-tit, yearning for one bridal
 Night of bliss in sheltered eaves.
 Ah! spurned, he plunges to the waves!

Alas for him, a poet craven
 Fished him out and made him raven.
 Mikado's Titipu "titwillow!s"
 Rise still as sad songs from those billows.
 And though those beaks are filled with froth,
 Don't you think they're much better off?
