RAT SLINK TRESTLE

WILLIAM WEBSTER Carefree, Arizona

Editor's Note: Bill Webster wants to know if anyone else has written "stories" like the one below, in which each word can be transposed into another word to reveal a coherent story. In the August 2000 Kickshaws, Dave Morice exhibited an "anagrammatic sonnet" by Lewis Carroll in which each pair of words can be transposed into a word—a slightly different task. However, neither Carroll's sonnet nor its transposal makes much sense.

Het weest isms tasted, "Thaw era orad appels?"
