

216 S. KINGSHIGHWAY
ST. LOUIS 10, MO.

Vol. 11 — No. 3

SEPTEMBER, 1962

She's The Quiet Zone Belle

The face on posters planted throughout the hospital to encourage quietness is that of Miss Marge Hoffman head nurse, 2 South. "Sometimes 15 or 20 people a day stop me and ask 'Are you the girl on the picture?'" She said. A 1959 graduate of the hospital's school of nursing, she added, "it is sort of a shock to walk around a corner and see your own picture staring at you."

Parkway Job Nears Finish

Through traffic on Forest Park avenue between Kingshighway boulevard and Euclid avenue is scheduled to begin by mid-October, according to the St. Louis City Traffic Bureau. Opening date of the Forest Park Parkway is still undetermined.

Drivers will be able to turn left from Kingshighway south into Forest Park avenue and make a "U" turn from east to west on Forest Park.

No signal lights or traffic meters will be installed until after a study to determine traffic flow has been made.

The construction is part of the thoroughfare leading from downtown through Forest Park and out to Millbrook in University City.

Employee Flu Shots Again Available

Flu shots will be offered to hospital employees the week of September 24 through September 28, it was announced by Daniel M. Anzel, administrative assistant. "Immunization against the influenza virus is recommended at this time for hospital employees as a preventive health measure," he said.

Shots will cost $1.00 each and will be given at the ground-floor Employee Health Service between 12 noon and 2 p.m. daily. No appointments are necessary.

Second and final booster shots will be offered to employees between October 15 and October 19 at the Employee Health Service. Hours for shots will again be between noon and 2 p.m., with no appointments necessary.

United Fund Drive

It's Fair Share Time!

Nearly 80 team captains have been appointed to assist in the 1962 United Fund campaign at the hospital. The drive begins September 24 and ends October 12.

Mr. J. W. McAfee, president of Union Electric Co. and head of the United Fund professional division this year, addressed all team captains and division leaders, September 14 in Steinberg Auditorium.

The 1962 quota for hospital employees is $8,000. "I feel that we will so far exceed this quota as to nearly match last year's record campaign total of $12,500," said campaign chairman Robert Rubright.

Campaign workers will emphasize the United Fair Share method of giving—one hour's pay per month over a 12-month period—in campaign talks. The Fair Share plan is best accomplished through payroll deductions.

Campaign leaders and members of the administration will address employees in departmental rallies during the week of September 17 to 21. Pledge cards will be distributed at the rallies.

Employees will be able to keep abreast of campaign progress by studying the traditional ten foot United Fund thermometer which will be located near the Gift Gallery entrance in the main lobby.

William H. Chiles, personnel director, will serve as co-chairman of the campaign and Mrs. Judith Rebmann of the public relations staff will serve as co-ordinator. Division leaders will be Miss Edna E. Peterson, Mrs. Virginia Reisinger, Mr. Ray Highfill, Mr. Armand Jaquier, Mr. Daniel M. Anzel, Miss Marjorie Boulton, Dr. Daniel Rosenstain, and Mr. George Horne.

Young patients from the Ellen Steinberg Division of Child Psychiatry pick a pair of puppies during monthly puppy day. Field superintendent Robert Brandau of the Humane Society of Missouri holds the animals.

Once each month, April through October, a light yellow truck with a sign atop it reading "We are not the dog catchers" pulls up in front of Forest Park directly across from the hospital.

Out steps a field superintendent of the Humane Society of Missouri. In the park wait youngsters from the Ellen Steinberg Division of Child Psychiatry. In portable carriers, the superintendent carries half a dozen or so six-week-old puppies for a half-hour of frolicking.

"Jewish Hospital is the only institution in St. Louis where we transport dogs away from the shelter," said superintendent Robert Brandau, a six-year Society veteran. "The only other exception is that we take the dogs to Captain 11's Showboat on KPLR-TV."

The puppy visits began in April 1961, a brainstorm of Miss Sally Pugh, hospital recreation director. "The Humane Society hasn't missed a scheduled visit since then," Miss Pugh beamed.

Do the visits pay off? "Well," said Brandau, "it is a matter of scratching each other's back; the kids like the dogs and the dogs like the kids." It sounds somewhat sensible.

Thirty-five residents and four fellows began one-year appointments to Jewish Hospital's house staff July 1, 1962.

Ten of the new appointees will be "first-timers" at J. H. Following are their names and biographical information:

Arnold M. Goldman, senior resident in medicine, is a Clayton resident and graduate of Washington University School of Medicine. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he interned and served his first year residency at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and his second year at Barnes Hospital here. Single, he plans to practice internal medicine in St. Louis. Music and sports are among his hobbies.

GOLDMAN

REINKEMEYER

First year resident in surgery, Joseph A. Reinkemeyer took his undergraduate and M.D. training at St. Louis University. Prior to his appointment here, he served a medical residency at Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis. A native of Osage County, Missouri, Dr. Reinkemeyer received biochemistry fellowships, each of three months duration, in 1959, 1960, and 1961. Married, he plans to specialize in urology. Taxidermy and guns are among his hobbies.

Simon Spitzer, second year resident in medicine, is a 1958 graduate of the University of Zurich School of Medicine, Switzerland. A citizen of Israel, he has completed four years of graduate work in Swiss, United States, and Israeli hospitals. Dr. Spitzer's most recent training was at Hadassah Hospital, Tel Aviv as a fellow in cardiology. Further training in cardiology following his medical residency are part of his future plans. He is married, has two children.

SPITZER

STEIGER

Another second year resident in medicine, Barry W. Steiger received his M.D. in 1960 from Washington University School of Medicine. Dr. Steiger, who comes from Danville, Illinois, was the recipient of a research fellowship while in medical school. His internship and first year residency in medicine were served at the University of Minnesota Medical Center. He is married.

Constancio Tiglao, Jr., second year resident in medicine, was born and educated in the Philippines. He took his undergraduate and M.D. training at Sto. Tomas University, Manila. Dr. Tiglao's latest appointment was as medical resident at St. Mary's and Veterans Administration Hospitals, both in St. Louis. He is single and plans a sub-specialization in endocrinology.

TIGLAO

Miss Phyllis Griffith, instructor in the school of nursing since 1959, left July 3 for an assignment on a surgical nursing team in a tightly guarded hospital in the city of Algiers.

The project is sponsored by the American National Red Cross, which first contacted Miss Griffith's roommate about the job. She declined and suggested Miss Griffith for the job.

"It's something I want to do very much," Miss Griffith said.

A native of Covington, Virginia, she received a nursing diploma from Charleston, W. Va. General Hospital and a B.S. in nursing from St. Louis University.

Fellow in ophthalmology is the title of Neva P. Arribas, native of the Philippines and graduate of Manila Central University School of Medicine. She has had eight years of graduate training including a residency at St. Louis City Hospital. Dr. Arribas comes from a medical family — her father is a dentist; her mother, a pharmacist. Reading and traveling are included in her leisure-time activities.

Dr. Hiremath's most recent training was at Missouri Baptist Hospital here where he was a resident in pathology. Single, he plans to pursue post-graduate studies in internal medicine. His spare-time interests include sports and painting.

Married, she enjoys a variety of hobbies including music, reading, horseback riding, and ice skating.

Dr. Max Franklin Hits Hole-In-One

Dr. Max Franklin, a member of the medical staff, shot a hole-in-one September 5.

"I've never made a hole-in-one before and I never expect to again," Dr. Franklin joked.

The famous shot was made on the 187 yard, 15th hole, at Westborough Country Club, and was witnessed by Dr. Harry Rosenbaum, another medical staff member. This is Dr. Franklin's fifteenth year of golfing.

Anatomy of 2 Journal Clubs

On a given night at Jewish Hospital, you will find a group of young doctors seated around a long table in one of the hospital's meeting rooms, deeply engaged in what for them is to be a life-long process — the process of learning something more about medicine.

These men are attending a Journal Club, deriving its name from the medical journals which frequently provide the material for discussion. Held primarily for residents, Journal Clubs are conducted once a month by most medical departments of the hospital, part of the program through which young physicians are given an opportunity to study and learn, to discuss their own opinions on medical situations, and to test their opinions against those of older and more experienced men in their department.

Attending such a session is well calculated to make one feel more than ever that a doctor is indeed a trustworthy haven in time of illness. At an Ob-Gyn Journal Club seven residents and a regular staff member are seated informally around a table, discussing one of two topics for the evening: Is it safe to allow a woman who has undergone a previous caesarean section to have her current baby by natural means? Leading the discussion is Dr. David Rothman, head of the department.

With penetrating directness, he asks the residents for their opinions on the evening's subject, based on study they have been asked to do since the topic was assigned. Relentlessly he probes their answers, causing them to explain each generalization, to analyze each conclusion. Gradually a philosophy emerges: in medicine, each case is unique, because each case involves a unique individual.

Upstairs in another meeting room, residents in surgery are gathered for their department's Journal Club. Here the format is different, although the aim is the same. Each has brought with him to the meeting a few of the dozens of regularly published medical journals. Since the number of these journals is so great that no one doctor could possibly read them all, each student has been assigned to cover certain ones and to summarize worthwhile articles they contain. Subjects range from the rate of cure in operative breast cancer to the incidence of hepatic carcinoma in sewage-exposed rainbow trout.

A discussion follows each summary, as members of the group evaluate the research and analyze it against their own knowledge and conclusions. Some articles are lauded, others bring opinions of dissent.

Monthly Hospital Publication Makes Its Bow

This was the headline on Volume 1, No. 1 of 216 which first appeared in June, 1952. A front page editorial described the role of the new house organ as being a paper "that will not only interpret the hospital's operations, services, policies and its role in the community, but also will strive to get together the employees and staff by giving them the opportunity to learn about each other."

The 216 of 10 years ago was an eight page varityped publication that talked hopefully about the soon-to-be-started building program, the outlying institutions such as Miriam Hospital and the Jewish Sanatorium that would one day be merged with the hospital at the Kingshighway location. It further noted that renovations were being conducted in the Medical Record Room, the Admitting Office and the Nursing Offices.

The personality of the month was Peggy Murray who was just completing 24 years at the hospital switchboard. Since that time Miss Murray has added another ten years to this goal. She may not remember that she was described in the 1952 216 as "sexless, breathless, careless Peggy."

The reporting staff for 216 included a number of people who are still with the hospital such as Florence Ayata (nee Hoffman), Chris Youngerman, Ida Robinson, Marjorie Boulton, Beulah Sanders and David A. Gee, 216's first editor. Other familiar names in the news were George Horne who had just been elected president of the Hospital Pharmacists Association in Greater Saint Louis, Hepple Robinson who was celebrating his 25th anniversary with the hospital and Gilford Ashmore who caught a 14 pound buffalo fish during his vacation.

The Jewish Hospital Medical Center Auxiliary announced its beginning and set a goal for 5000 members.

Medical Staff Alumni Association featured a program of what Jewish Hospital would be like in 1982 with Dr. Leo Sachar as the Eviscerated Chairman of the Disintegrating Committee. Drs. Sidney Goldenberg and Marcy A. Goldstein staged a musical production entitled "When I was an Intern or Twenty Years Ago I Worked Harder than Youse Guys".

Happy Tenth Birthday, 216!

Coe Appointed Full-Time MCRC Project Director

Rodney Coe, who received his Ph.D. in sociology from Washington University in June, has become full-time project director in sociology at the Medical Care Research Center.

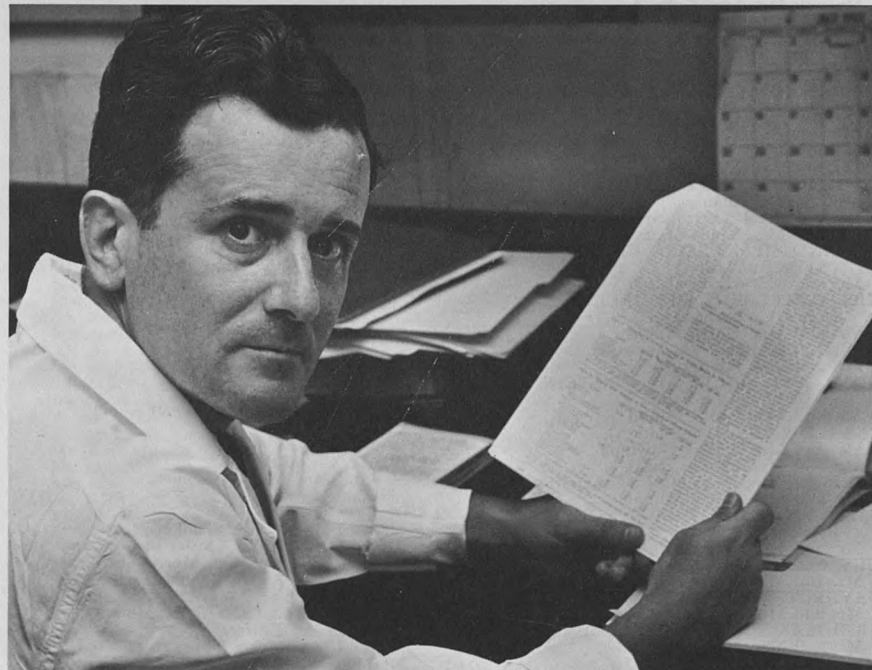

Dr. Coe will work on research problems in the Ellen Steinberg department of child psychiatry and on the chronic disease unit.

He will be a lecturer in sociology at Washington University.

He was the only graduate student at the university to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society.

Alex C. Sonnenwirth, Ph.D., director of the bacteriology division, has been elected chairman of the laboratory section, Missouri Public Health Association.

He's Chamber Music Man

Dr. Miguel Ficher of the endocrine research laboratory.

A budding composer of chamber and symphonic orchestra music has become the first director of the endocrine diagnostic laboratory of the department of medicine. He is Dr. Miguel Ficher, a Ph.D. in chemistry from Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Violinist Ficher has conducted numerous chamber groups in Buenos Aires as well as some symphonic orchestras. Last winter he played with the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra.

Now, he intends to concentrate on composing. "I am working on some chamber compositions but am also interested in trying my hand at symphonies."

His father is a famous Argentinian classical composer, with six symphonies and three operas to his credit. In 1948 he wrote Solemn Psalm, a cantata dedicated to the new state of Israel.

Dr. Ficher is a graduate of the University of Buenos Aires and has been in the United States one year. With him are his wife, who will soon be a Ph.D. candidate in psychology at St. Louis University, and his three daughters.

"I am helping to establish an endocrine laboratory for the use of the medical staff and other hospitals in the area," Dr. Ficher said. "I am also doing research on steroids and on other hormones."

Jewish Hospital facilities far outshine those of its Buenos Aires counterpart, Ezrah Hospital, which serves a Jewish community of 400,000. "You have a beautiful building and operation here," he said.

Central Supply Revisions Save Both Time and Supplies

A new Central Supply delivery service began August 20, when remodeling of the dispensary was completed, Supervisor Vernon Bean reported recently.

The new system will save the time and labor of nurses as well as Central Supply personnel, Bean said.

Each nursing station will receive up to five days' requirements of standard items such as needles and syringes. This will eliminate many of the 54,120 trips consuming 8,700 hours which nurses logged last year obtaining supplies.

"And it won't be necessary for Central Supply to remain open twenty-four hours a day," Bean commented. "The department will be closed at night for eight or possibly twelve hours," he said, "although there always will be an oxygen technician on duty."

The delivery system is a result of one and one-half year's study by the department of industrial engineering and Bean. The study also resulted in a complete remodeling of the department.

"Although we've lost 300 square feet of space, we actually have more workable space with the same amount of supplies," Bean remarked. "Things are much more organized, much neater, and it will be easier for employees to work around the supplies because they'll have everything at their fingertips."

Of the 1,500 items handled by Central Supply, approximately sixty per cent are disposable, that is prepackaged and sterilized, lowering labor costs. New disposable items under consideration include paper instead of linen operating room and delivery room packs.

Redesigning has brought Central Supply such new duties as the refrigeration of blood cultures and the handling of cleaning and disinfectant solutions.

Ocular Neurosis Gets "Once Over"

A relatively undiscussed concept known as "ocular neurosis" is reviewed by Dr. Alex H. Kaplan, director of the department of psychiatry and Dr. Benjamin Milder, director of the hospital's division of ophthalmology, in a two-part series on the psychologic aspects of ophthalmologic practice in recent issues of the American Journal of Ophthalmology.

Persons with recognizable ocular signs or symptoms with emotional cause factors instead of adequate physical cause may have ocular neuroses, the physicians reported. Comparing the symptoms with the examination findings can usually pinpoint the ocular neurotics, they said.

Blurred vision, hallucinations, and sensory disturbances such as pain, itching, burning, and headaches are often signs of ocular neurosis, the physicians wrote.

They warned that, "If the doctor dismisses the patient's problems as, 'just nerves,' he is endeavoring to make his own escape from the realities of a situation with which he is confronted."

"If symptoms of the eye are caused by psychologic reactions, one must not only look into the present circumstances which cause conflict but also into the reasons why the eye played such an important role in the psychologic development of the patient."

Emotional factors complicate rather than specifically cause eye disease, the physicians reported. Eye defects or eyeglasses may have a significant effect on the growing personality, they added.

Many persons emotionally resist wearing glasses, they explained, because glasses distort one's mental image of oneself, there is some natural hostility toward the eye doctor, and, in the case of children, there is a factor of parental rejection of glasses for his offspring.

The greatest resistance is among teen-agers, they said. "Here the growing ego strength of the patient, would-be development of a body image based on the teen-age ideals—movie and television stars and so forth—and placing a strong emphasis on beauty as a chief element, increases the resistance to spectacles."

The "largest single group of malcontents in an eye practice" are the early presbyopes, they said. In this fortyish age group, persons are first confronted with the possibility of bifocals.

"Granting the knowledge and skill of ophthalmologists, it is evident that much of spectacle acceptance depends upon how the physician can see himself, as well as how he can view the patient as a total psychologic entity."

Auxiliary to View Fall Style Show

The annual Volunteer Awards Program will be part of the Auxiliary's fall dessert tea, it was announced recently by Mrs. Robert L. Hausfater, program chairman. The function formerly was held in January.

The dessert tea will be held at 1 p.m., October 23 at Westwood Country Club. Twelve professional models from Montaldo's will preview fall and winter ensembles ranging from furs to casual clothes.

"The awards event was changed to October because of the numerous requests to hold the presentation at an afternoon rather than evening meeting," said Mrs. Lillian Brown, director of auxiliary services at the hospital.

She reminded the volunteers that "the change from January to October will necessitate closing our records on volunteer service hours on September 15 rather than December 31."

The awards portion of the program will be co-ordinated by Mrs. R. R. Zimmerman, Auxiliary vice president in charge of volunteer services, and Mrs. Norman Drey, chairman of volunteers.

Members of Mrs. Hausfater's program committee are Mrs. Harold J. Abrams, Mrs. Meyer M. Fishman, Mrs. Ralph Friedman, Mrs. Melvin Kirstein, Mrs. Harry J. Laba, Mrs. Max Librach, Mrs. Rodrick J. Mae Thomas' Family In Post Spotlight

Mae Thomas, daily discharge analysis clerk in the medical record department, was one eleventh part of the main subject of a Clarissa Start feature article in a recent issue of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Everyday Magazine. The occasion was the fiftieth wedding anniversary of her parents.

The article described anniversary plans as well as the lives and times of the two elder Thomases and their nine children—a close knit family of eleven.

Mae, third youngest, along with her brothers and sisters, have all been exposed to college. Only Mae and another sister didn't graduate. She studied elementary education two years at the old Stowe Teacher's College.

Mae's job at the hospital is compiling daily discharge facts. Her work is seen at the end of each month in a section of the Professional Services Report. She earned her five-year service award last year.

Mae sings in the choir of the Webster Groves Methodist Church and on her parents' anniversary sang a special hymn for them. About 500 persons attended the anniversary celebration in the

Dr. Jones recently came to the United States from his native England. He is director of research and education at Oregon State Hospital in Salem and clinical professor of psychiatry at University of Oregon Medical School, Portland.

He is author of a book entitled The Therapeutic Community as well as some 50 articles in professional journals.

backyard of her parents' home in Webster Groves. She lives with them.

"I play tennis and I like baseball," she said. "I also enjoy bridge. I'm a mediocre bridge player but a pretty good tennis player."

What she likes best is something she's close to, both at home and at the office: "People."

Mae Thomas, r., accompanies her blind colleague, of the Medical Records Room, back to work after a coffee break in the Auxiliary Coffee Shop.

The public and patient relations office has moved from its long-time headquarters in the Executive Offices to the first floor office recently vacated by the Gift Gallery business staff.

"We hope that our new location will make us much more accessible to staff members and patients," said Robert Rubright, director of public relations.

Joining the public relations staff in its new quarters is Mrs. Lynne Friedman Lamberg, who is a full-time writer for the department. Mrs. Lamberg former editor of the Washington University Yearbook will be editor of 216 which will soon be completely re-robed in modern dress.

Sanz Appointed Administrative Resident

William Sanz, candidate for an advanced degree in hospital administration from George Washington University, Washington, D.C. has been appointed administrative resident at the hospital.

Dietary Team Leaves; But Not In A Huff

Earl Huff and his wife, Cora, have resigned their positions at the hospital to return to their beloved Newport, R.I.

Earl was the hospital baker since 1957. Cora was chief cashier in the dining room for the same period. Both collected a multitude of friends and followers—Earl for his famed Nesselrode pies and other sumptuous baked goods and Cora for her sound business acumen and public relations smile at the end of the cafeteria line.

The Huffs first joined Bo Axelrod, food services director, in 1950 when Axelrod held the same position at Newport, R.I. Hospital. When Axelrod came to St. Louis in early 1957, the Huffs trailed shortly behind.

Now the Huffs—he's 62 and she's 72—want to slow down. He'll become a baker again at Newport Hospital and she's debating whether to work or just relax with her crocheting. "As soon as I get home, though," said Cora in a pre-departure interview "my mother-in-law is coming to visit us."

Earl loved his job here. "It's a beautiful bake shop and you're all alone with it. There's no confusion with the cooks as you have at smaller places."

He enjoyed making cakes and pies the best, although, he said "I haven't eaten a piece of pie in a year and a half."

Cora never really had any serious trouble in the cafeteria line. She did overcome a few stumbling blocks in the language as a new employee in 1957. "I had a little difficulty understanding people here. They pronounce words entirely different than we do in the East."

A Miami, Fla., native, Mr. Sanz received an undergraduate degree from the University of Miami in 1955.

He and his wife have two sons, ages 6 and 4.
