Lawrence Roos Named to Board, Wittcoff Is Vice Chairman

Lawrence K. Roos, former St. Louis County supervisor, has been elected to the Jewish Hospital Board of Directors for a three-year term. Raymond Wittcoff, a member of the board, was elected a vice chairman.

Other officers who were re-elected are Lee M. Liberman, chairman; Mrs. Morton D. May, Stanley M. Richman and Elliot H. Stein, vice chairmen; Norman Bierman, secretary; Harold G. Blatt, treasurer, and Elliot H. Stein, assistant treasurer.

Roos, who served as county supervisor for 12 years, is currently executive vice president and director of First National Bank in St. Louis.

Prior to his governmental career, Roos was president of Mound City Trust Company and chairman of the board of the First Security Bank of Kirkwood. Previous board memberships included Central Institute for the Deaf, Jewish Hospital and the Jewish Community Centers Association.

In addition to various presidential appointments, Roos has received the Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and was the recipient of Civic Service Awards of the Alpha Kappa Psi Business School Fraternity at Washington and St. Louis Universities and the Maryville College Award for Civic Service. He received the 1974 Civic Award of the Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and the B'nai Brith Torch of Liberty Award. In 1974, he was named St. Louis Globe-Democrat Man of the Year and has an honorary doctor of law degree from the University of Missouri, St. Louis.

Roos and his family perpetuate the Selma K. Roos Fund for Research at Jewish Hospital which was established by his father, Sol Roos, in 1954. The Roos Fund is one of the major funds restricted to medical research at the Hospital.

Roos and his wife, the former Mary Watson, have four children.

Hospital Receives Full Accreditation

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has again awarded Jewish Hospital full accreditation status. The commission is a national body charged with measuring quality performance standards in United States hospitals.

Accreditation is the result of completing a detailed questionnaire based on the JCAH standards for hospitals combined with a site visit by a survey team who physically inspect the hospital, its medical records and, indeed, every area of the hospital's activities. The team of physician, nurse and administrator also interview key people within the institution. The survey is repeated every two years.

Graduation Day 1975

After 27 months of diligent study, stringent schedules, intensive clinical training and -- pressure, it was triumph, excitement and relief for 97 students who were graduated from the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing in an early evening ceremony Sunday, January 12, at Temple Israel.

The 71st commencement exercise was opened with an invocation by Dr. Jerome Gilden, president of the Jewish Hospital Medical Staff Association. Lee M. Liberman, chairman of the Hospital board of directors, welcomed guests. A performance by the Shalom Singers, the student choir led by V.J. Dickson, preceded the graduation address given by Miss Betty Temples, R.N., B.S.N., coordinator of the second level at the school.

Susan Graves, R.N., M.A., director, School of Nursing, presented the graduates to David A. Gee, Hospital president, who awarded the diplomas to the largest graduating class in the school's history. Mary Jo McEnaney, a member of the graduating class, addressed the senior class.

Anneliese Pelech, Linda O'Loughlin and Janet Wittenbrink are the 1975 recipients of the three top scholarship awards. Miss Pelech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Pelech, received The Jewish Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship of $1,000 which is presented annually to the student ranking highest in the graduating class, based on scholastic standing in theory and practice, and potential for growth and development in nursing.

Miss O'Loughlin was awarded the $500 Hattie Waldheim Scholarship as the student ranking second in the class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William O'Loughlin.

Janet Wittenbrink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon D. Wittenbrink, received the first J.L. London Nursing Award as the third highest ranking graduate. This award was made possible through a bequest from the estate of Jack L. London, a St. Louis attorney.

Three Franc Honor Awards were also presented. Susan Totterer received a $100 savings bond given annually to the student who ranks first in the class at the completion of the first-level courses. She also received a Gold Key in recognition of her achievement.

A Franc Award of a $25 savings bond was presented to Linda O'Loughlin for outstanding kindness and consideration shown to patients.

Denise Martin also received a $25 savings bond for outstanding interest and participation in student activities as selected by the Student Association.

Graduate Scholarship Awards

As a traditional part of the ceremonies, scholarships were awarded to 12 graduate nurses to help further their nursing educations through advanced studies.

The Elsie Probstin Scholarship, given annually by Jacob G. Probstin, M.D., and his children to a graduate nurse to help further her education in surgical nursing, was awarded to Miss Eloise DeLap, R.N., coordinator, Level III at the School of Nursing.

Mrs. Mary Swatske, R.N., a staff nurse on Division 68, received the Lillie E. Green Scholarship, also awarded annually through the efforts of Dr. Probstin.

The Leo C. Fuller Scholarship, awarded each year to a graduate nurse for advanced education in her particular field of nursing, was presented to Miss Susan Parker, a nursing inservice instructor.

Head nurse Mrs. Betty Danzie, R.N., on Division 33, received the Norma and Jack E. Edlin Scholarship which is provided for advanced education.

Mrs. Pat Harper, R.N., a head nurse on Division 40, was awarded the annual Sam and Jeannette Koplak Scholarship, provided by Mrs. Sam Koplak.

Miss Linda Hlaca, R.N., an assistant head nurse on Division 68, received the Helen A. Salomon Scholarship which was donated by Mrs. Salomon prior to her death.

The Barney Fisher Scholarship Fund,

Mary Jo McEnaney, a graduate, was chosen by her peers to address the senior class.

The $1,000 Auxiliary Scholarship went to Anneliese Pelech, left, while Linda O'Loughlin received the $500 Hattie Waldheim Scholarship.

which was established by Mrs. Goldie Fishman in memory of her son, was presented to Miss Judith Hill, R.N., an instructor at the School of Nursing.

The Flora D. Freund Nurse's Scholarship was awarded to Miss Kathleen Lydon, R.N., a staff nurse on Division 31, who will continue studies toward her bachelor's degree in nursing. The scholarship was made available by S.E. Freund and the Harry Freund Foundation.

The first recipient of the Dr. Sidney Goldenberg Nursing Scholarship is Miss Janeane Divelbiss, R.N., a nursing inservice instructor. The fund was established in 1974 in memory of Dr. Goldenberg by the Sheridan Medical Group.

The Medigroup-Bernard Nursing Homes Nursing Scholarship was established in 1973 by Harvey Friedman for advanced training in rehabilitation nursing. Mrs. Ramona Gornet, R.N., an assistant head nurse on Division 22 is the recipient of this award and will attend a rehabilitation workshop during the year.

The Clara Monheimer London Scholarship, awarded through the interest of Mrs. Louise Monheimer Aronberg and other trustees, makes funds available for a graduate nurse to attend an advanced educational institute each year. Mrs. Victoria Poindexter, R.N., operating room supervisor, will attend a seminar on operating room management.

The Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Messing Jr. Nursing Seminar Fund this year provided monies for six registered nurses to attend seminars and workshops during the year. The fund also enabled the entire Nursing School faculty to take a course in "Techniques of Teaching" for one hour's credit on the master's level through the extension division of the University of Missouri.

This is the latest of many recognitions for Dr. Sonnenwirth throughout his 22 years with Jewish Hospital. Early in his career, he was instrumental in organizing the Hospital Infections Committee, one of the earliest of its kind in the country, and went on to coauthor the first Infections Control Manual written in the United States which was published by Jewish Hospital.

Dr. Sonnenwirth, associate professor in the Departments of Microbiology and Pathology at Washington University School of Medicine, has published more than 50 scientific papers and several internationally acclaimed books in the area of microbiology and laboratory medicine. His laboratory serves as a National Referee Laboratory for the National Laboratory Proficiency Program of the Center for Disease Control, U.S. Public Health Service, and is one of the 13 International Reference Laboratories for the International Committee on Gram-Negative Anaerobic Bacteria.

Pulmonary Division Relocates, Adds New Diagnostic Equipment

When the Shoenberg Pavilion opened, the Hospital quietly moved into Phase 3 of the current expansion program -- remodeling within the Kingshighway Pavilion. One of the first areas to move was the Pulmonary Disease and Respiratory Care Division which includes the William H. Schield Pulmonary Function Laboratory.

Pulmonary now occupies Division

4200 on the fourth floor of the Kingshighway Pavilion. What were formerly patient rooms are newly remodeled offices for the Pulmonary director, associate director, fellows and staff, and new quarters for the Pulmonary Function Lab. As part of the division, Respiratory Therapy will relocate to adjacent offices on Division 4300 when current work is completed.

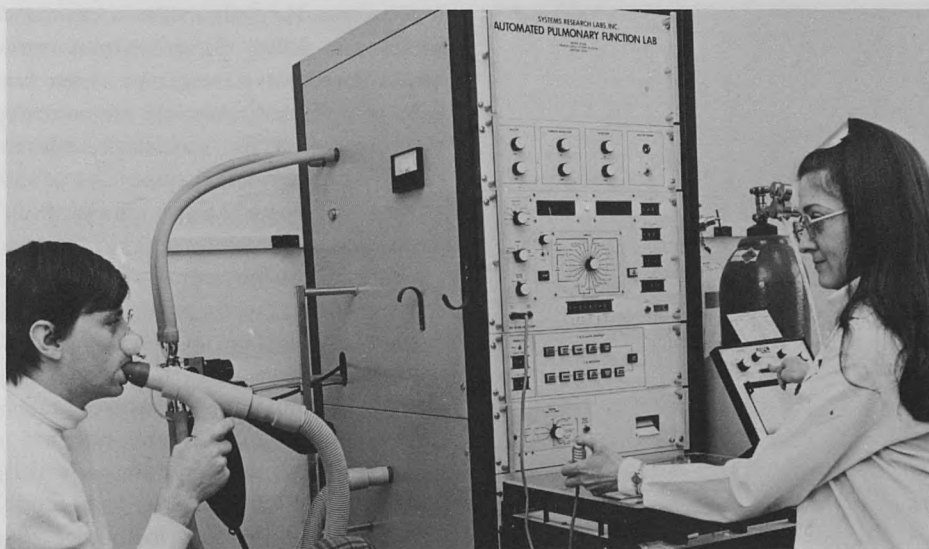

The division has also acquired two new pieces of equipment which make the Pulmonary Function Laboratory one of the most up-to-date in the area for lung function evaluation.

One new piece of sophisticated diagnostic equipment is the Automated Pulmonary Function Lab which permits rapid, accurate testing of pulmonary function. It is completely computerized to calculate results, compare those results to normal values and produce print-outs. The machine is equipped with a system sensitive to the early stages of obstructive lung disease, more so than equipment formerly used, according to Dr. Robert M. Senior, director of the division. It also gives the physician a basis on which to chart the progress of his patient's therapy through periodic retesting.

Another new diagnostic tool, the respiratory stress analyzer, tests lung function under stress "which may help us detect disease earlier and which will enable us to evaluate pulmonary gas exchange more accurately and easily," says Dr. Stephen Lefrak, associate director.

Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease affects possibly as many as 15 million Americans and presents one of the most rapidly growing health problems today. By maintaining an intensive diagnostic, therapeutic and rehabilitative pulmonary program, Jewish Hospital seeks to combat this disabling disease.

The bicycle ergometer allows a controlled amount of exercise while the stress analyzer records the lungs' ability to exchange gas during exercise.

Verla Taylor, pulmonary technician, operates the Automated Pulmonary Function Lab which is sensitive to the early stages of obstructive lung disease.

New Quarters for Radiology

For a division that performs 70,000 examinations a year, a long-awaited, much-anticipated move to an expanded facility was begun in mid-January. The Department of Radiology now occupies the entire second floor of the Shoenberg Pavilion, though the complete move will take several months.

This move immediately eliminated some and eased many of the difficulties formerly encountered by patients as well as staff in one of the Hospital's busiest departments.

Visible improvements include mini waiting areas spread throughout the floor which allow for greater patient comfort and privacy. A patient holding room staffed by a registered nurse now serves as an observation area for the more seriously ill patients prior to and following their examinations. For maximum efficiency, an outer corridor serves patients while an inner core corridor is reserved for staff use, which means less traffic congestion and noise in the halls.

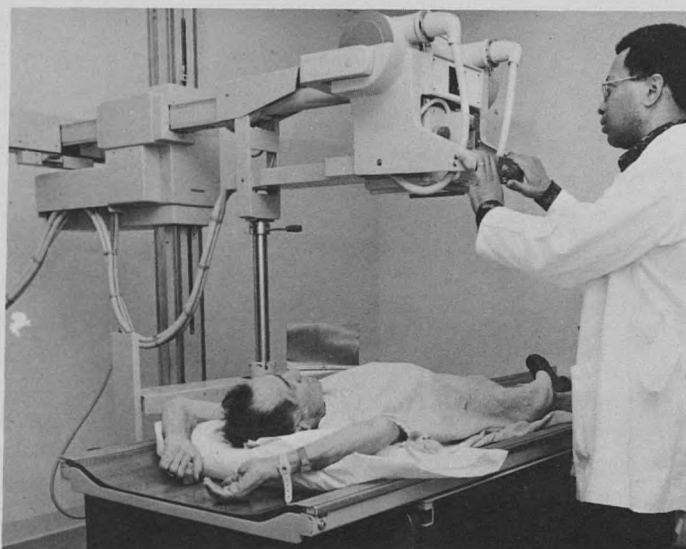

Active diagnostic rooms have been increased from eight to 13 with two additional rooms reserved for future expansion. The department has four rooms for upper GI procedures, two rooms for colon exams, two rooms for kidney and body section radiography and one room for special procedures such as diagnostic angiography. In addition, four rooms have been designated for general work.

Patient dressing rooms, film viewing and processing rooms, record rooms and departmental offices are located in the immediate area.

The radiology suite's sophisticated radiographic equipment has been augmented by new equipment which represents the most advanced and safest types available today, including:

... A fully automatic chest unit that not only exposes the film, but also feeds it directly into a film processor rendering films ready for viewing within 90 seconds.

. . . Two Multi-Planigraphic units which are able to do all types of body section radiography including kidney, lungs and skull exams.

. . . A new magnification unit which is being installed in the special procedures room, one of the best equipped in the area, to perform a multitude of special exams.

. . . A mammographic unit which is used for the detection of breast cancer.

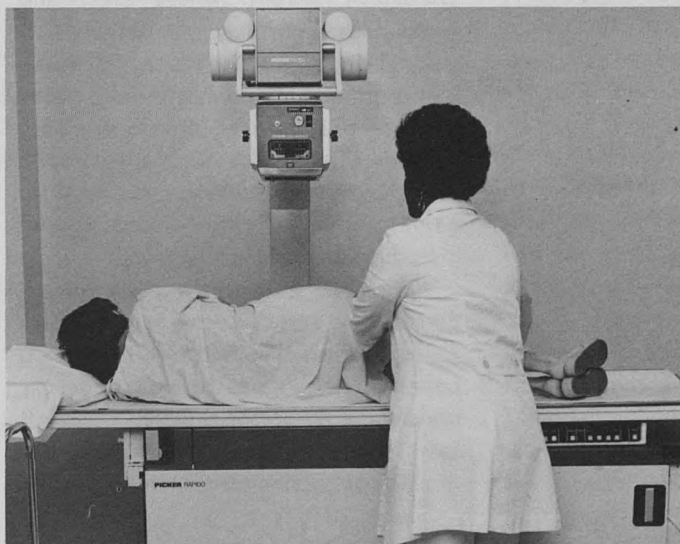

In addition, several other examination rooms have been equipped with the latest x-ray and fluoroscopy units.

The nuclear medicine division, which includes diagnostic ultrasound, now occupies a suite of seven rooms within the Radiology Department. This area utilizes the full spectrum of clinically accepted isotopes in the diagnosis and treatment of some 3,800 patients annually.

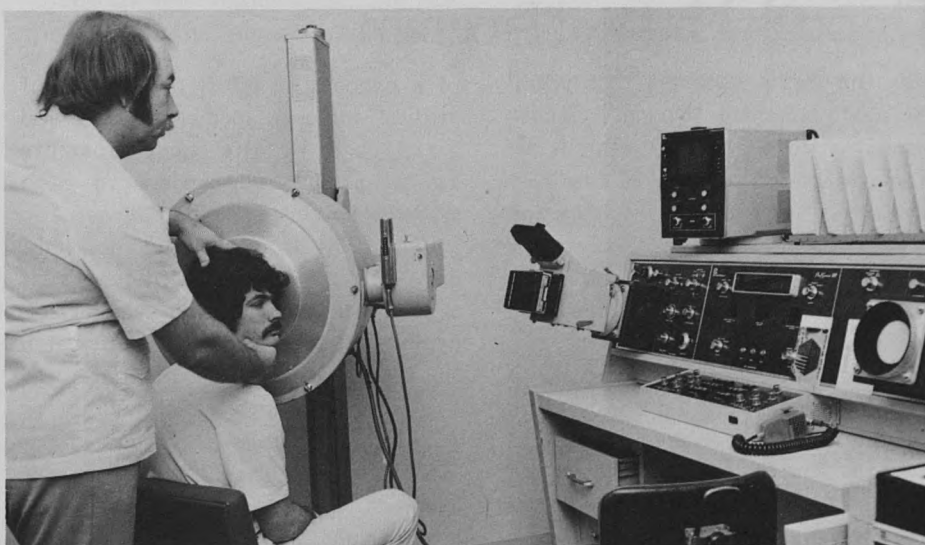

The radiation therapy division remains in special quarters in the basement of the Kingshighway Pavilion where approximately 7,000 treatments are given annually. This division provides Co 60 teletherapy in addition to superficial and orthovoltage x-ray therapy.

"The new facility has given a tremendous morale boost to our entire staff," says Dr. Noah Susman, director, Department of Radiology.

"Everyone is excited about the new department and especially proud of the new equipment and what it allows us to do in improving patient care. Thus far, our concept of how an x-ray department should be planned is living up to our requirements and expectations."

In this highly automated general room, after the technologist designates the film size, the film is advanced, exposed and fed to the processor within the unit automatically, ready for viewing in 90 seconds.

Rehabilitation Initiates Empathy Project

In an effort to improve patient care through a better understanding of the frustrations and anxieties of the disabled patient, members of the nursing staff on Division 2200, Rehabilitation, are participating in an empathy project through which staff members play the role of disabled patients.

Nursing feels that this type of project will also provide a means to evaluate the effectiveness of the rehabilitation team in meeting patients' physical and emotional needs.

The participant can choose one of six disabilities: paraplegia -- paralysis of the legs, and in some cases, the lower part of the body; hemiplegia -- (stroke) -- paralysis of one side of the body; quadriplegia -- paralysis of all four extremities; brain injury -- injury to the brain resulting from trauma or a disease process; arthritis -- a disease resulting in joint inflammation and limitations to joint movements; hemiplegia with aphasia -- (stroke) -- paralysis of one side of the body with an inability to speak or comprehend speech.

Each participant must lead the life of a disabled patient for a minimum of eight hours during which the "patient" actually receives treatments in physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech therapy. Nurses assist and instruct the role player in activities of daily living such as eating, dressing, bathroom activities, wheelchair and cart transfers, bed positioning and skin care for prevention of decubitus ulcers.

An evaluation form is completed by each participant to determine the effectiveness of the project.

"We hope that this experience will enable each member of the Rehabilitation nursing staff to provide better patient care through a deeper understanding of the disabled patient," says Beverly Ward, R.N., assistant director of nursing for Rehabilitation.

28 Interns, Residents Matched Through National Program

In the 1975 National Intern and Resident Matching Program, Jewish Hospital matched 100 per cent in the intern categories of Internal Medicine and Surgery, and in the Obstetrics and Gynecology first-year residency program. One of two positions in the first-year Pathology residency program was also matched. In addition, two unmatched interns were picked up in Internal Medicine, making a total of 20 new interns for that area; one additional intern in Surgery brings that total to eight. The number of house staff (interns, residents, fellows) for the coming year now totals 127.

The matching program is the result of a cooperative effort on the part of medical students, medical schools and hospitals in the best possible combinations according to both students' and hospitals' preferences.

Of 7,200 United States hospitals, only ten per cent have house staff educational programs. This year, 11,280 medical student graduates participated in the matching program for the available openings which numbered 15,691. The percentage matched for Jewish Hospital was 90.3; for St. Louis hospitals, 68.3 per cent; for Missouri hospitals, 71.0 per cent, and for all U.S. hospitals which participated, 72.0 per cent.

Postgraduate Course In Medicine, Surgery Scheduled for May

On May 1, 2 and 3, Jewish Hospital and Washington University School of Medicine will jointly sponsor the second Continuing Education Course in Medicine and Surgery, "Current Concepts in the Practice of Medicine -- '75." This postgraduate study was designed to share new concepts in medicine and surgery with the physician in private practice.

Enthusiastic response to last year's initial program encouraged the Department of Surgery to make this an annual event. The program, which will be held at Jewish Hospital, will provide an opportunity for physicians in surrounding communities to augment their diagnostic and therapeutic techniques.

The course is acceptable for credit in Category 2 for the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association and is approved for credit by the American Academy of General Practice. For further information, call the Waldheim Department of Surgery at Jewish Hospital, 367-8060, extension 4110.

Mrs. Henry L. Ettman and her son, Henry III, with Ettman Award winners John Wilson and Suzanne Sorenson.

Two Receive Ettman Award

Suzanne Sorenson and John Wilson, both graduates of the Hospital's School of Medical Technology, shared the sixth annual Henry L. Ettman Award, which was presented February 7 for the best paper written in clinical pathology.

Their paper, "A Comparison of Five Methods for Antimicrobial Susceptibility Testing of Anaerobic Bacteria," was done under the direction of Dr. Alex C. Sonnenwirth, director of Microbiology.

The School of Medical Technology, under the direction of Dr. John S. Meyer, encourages students to engage in independent projects. Each student presents a paper on a completed study which directly bears on current problems of laboratory diagnosis and contributes to the capabilities of the diagnostic laboratory.

The awardees have B.S. degrees in medical technology and are 1974 graduates of the Jewish Hospital program.

This award has been made possible through a donation by Lester Ettman in memory of the late Henry L. Ettman, who created a scientific division of the Aloe Company which he directed to the forefront among scientific supply houses.

Neal S. Bricker, M.D., chairman of the Department of Medicine and chief of Nephrology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, was the 16th Arthur E. Strauss Visiting Professor at the Hospital in February.

Dr. Bricker presented a lecture on "The Regulation of Sodium Excretion in Health and Disease: Search for a Natrietic Hormone" and spoke at medical grand rounds on "The Pathogenesis of Uremia: A New Perspective."

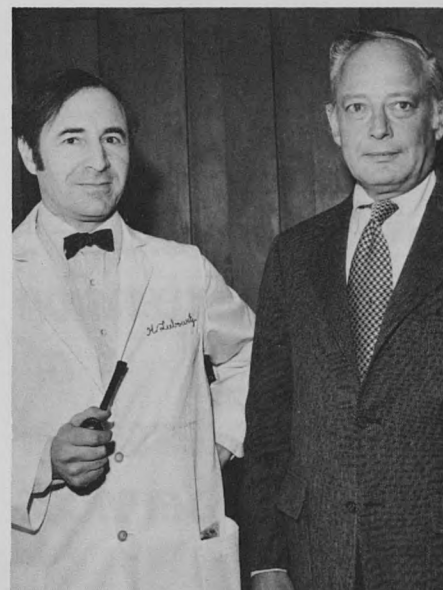

Dr. Bricker was formerly on the faculty at Washington University Medical School as head of the Renal Division before assuming his present position.

Dr. Bricker's contribution to renal pathophysiology resulted in formation of the Intact Nephron Hypothesis. He has done original work in the understanding of nephron function in polycystic disease, post-obstructive diuresis and is currently engaged in defining the control systems responsible for the maintenance of electrolyte balance. The framework which he developed for the pathophysiology of chronic renal disease has become a fundamental part of renal training programs.

One of the founders and the first president of the American Society of Nephrology, Dr. Bricker was also elected president of the Society of Clinical Investigation and currently serves as treasurer of the International Society of Nephrology.

Over 15 years ago, friends, patients and colleagues of Dr. Strauss decided to honor him for his sustained interest in heart disease and Jewish Hospital by establishing the first named Visiting Professorship at Jewish Hospital. This has enabled the Department of Medicine to invite a distinguished clinical scholar to St. Louis each year.

During his long association with Jewish Hospital, Dr. Arthur E. Strauss, who died last year at 86, was at various times head of the clinic, in charge of the heart station, director of the Department of Medicine and president of the medical staff. At the time of his death, he was assistant professor of clinical medicine emeritus at Washington University and had the special distinction of serving as a consultant in Cardiology and Medicine at Jewish Hospital.

Surgical Unit Opens For Intermediate Care

A four-bed Intermediate Surgical Unit was opened in January at the Hospital. The unit is designed for two types of patients -- those who require close observation but not intensive treatment for 24-48 hours postoperatively (cardiac monitoring, circulation checks, observation for obstructive edema), and those patients who continue to require more than average nursing hours, but are past their acute postoperative crisis and should no longer be confined to the Surgical Intensive Care Unit.

The unit is staffed by a registered nurse 24 hours a day.

HOME CARE— An Extension of Professional Services

In 1974, a total of 13,116 visits were made to patients who received professional medical services within their homes through Jewish Hospital's Division of Home Care. A new mode of health care? Hardly. The concept has been in existence since 1796. A substitute for hospital care? Definitely not, rather an extension of quality hospital services.

Coordinated home care is an alternative to high hospital costs — it provides comprehensive services in the home to patients who no longer need intensive medical supervision.

Jewish Hospital initiated one of the pioneer home care programs in 1953 and today is recognized nationally as an expert in the field. It wasn't until the advent of Medicare in 1966, however, that the home care concept began to be recognized as an effective mode of medical care. Before that time, the U.S. Public Health Service listed only 70 such programs; by 1969, more than 2,100 Home Health Agencies were certified to participate in the Medicare program.

A progressive administration and far-sighted medical staff initially backed home care at Jewish Hospital. Today, they continue to staunchly support a growing Home Care Division which is part of the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, directed by Dr. Franz U. Steinberg.

Dr. Aaron Birenbaum, a private physician, serves as medical director for the program and coordinates all clinical activities. Herman Litwack, A.C.S.W., is administrative coordinator for the home care team of physicians, nurses, social workers, and physical, occupational, speech and respiratory therapists, laboratory technicians and home health aides.

The advantages of home care are varied. "Patients really prefer the comfort of their own familiar surroundings," says Litwack.

"We have found that they tend to recover quicker due to such psychological 'positives' as privacy, freedom to dress and eat at will, freedom to sleep in their own rooms and to control the temperature, and the comfort of family members who understand the treatment and can help."

Home care may also effect earlier discharge from the hospital, may prevent hospitalization and prevent or delay the commitment of many chronically ill and physically disabled patients to nursing homes.

In addition, coordinated home care costs less than in-hospital care for the same illness.

It is important to note, however, that home care is not available to everyone nor is it best for every patient, Litwack emphasizes. A patient who needs intensive medical care and constant supervision, or one whose medical and psychological problems may be a burden to the family is clearly not a candidate.

Both service and private patients are accepted to Home Care only upon application from a member of the Jewish Hospital medical staff or ward services.

"A large number of private physicians on our staff now use Home Care," says Litwack, who predicts even greater use "due to the increased scrutiny of hospital bed utilization and greater acceptance of home care as more physicians and families become aware of the advantages."

With considerable interest aroused in home care over the past few years, the number of referrals to Jewish Hospital's program has increased substantially, according to Dr. Birenbaum.

Statistics point out the growth of the Hospital's home health division -- in August, 1966, 54 patients were cared for, while in August, 1974, that number had increased to 136; in December, 1966, 59 patients were seen as compared to 147 seen in November, 1974. And 170 received care in January, 1975.

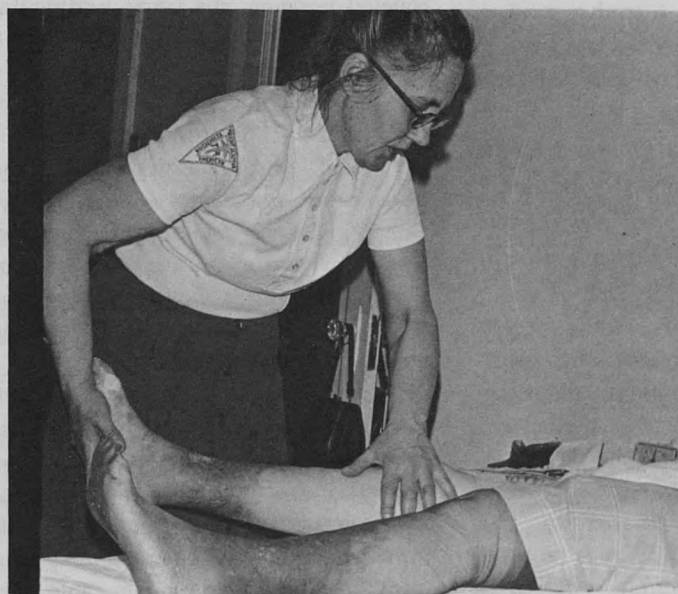

"Since Jewish Hospital has a long-standing reputation in this field and because of the current concern about delivery of health services, we have been approached frequently as a consultant in this area," says Dr. Birenbaum.

In the '60s, Jewish Hospital was chosen as a site for a five-year federally funded Home Health Training Institute for all disciplines involved or interested in home care. The groups who participated included hospital administrators, nurses, physicians, physical and occupational therapists and social workers.

In 1970, the Southeastern Kentucky Regional Health Demonstration, Inc. selected a team of home health care specialists from Jewish Hospital to evaluate their programming and development in a 16-county area in the Appalachian region.

"Most recently, we've been going into rural Missouri presenting workshops on home health services," Litwack says.

As home care continues to grow as a viable mode of medical treatment, representatives of numerous hospitals and independent health agencies throughout the country have come to learn from Jewish Hospital's successful formula for extending the highest quality of medical care into the home.

A nurse and a physical therapist are an integral part of the Home Care team. Susan Brothers, R.N., top, and Grace Sletten, R.P.T., perform their services within the home, scheduling visits according to each patient's needs.

Cosmetic Surgery Discussed At Associates' Gathering

Cosmetic surgery is only a surface solution to problems which may lie well beneath the surface and which cannot so easily be corrected. This is the contention of Dr. Thomas D. Hartnett and Dr. Joseph W. Eades, a psychiatrist and plastic surgeon, respectively, who spoke on "Body Image Surgery" to a group of Associates Wednesday, February 26, at the Hospital.

The doctors explored the psychological and physical aspects of cosmetic surgery, noting the many influences which affect the individual's self-appraisal, such as attitudes of parents and peers, and social dictates.

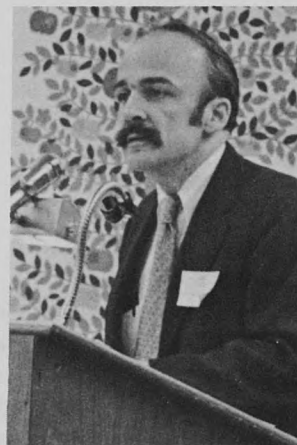

The program was preceded by a social hour and buffet dinner and was another service of the Associates, bringing to light topics of interest to its members.

Auxiliary to Feature Maxine Cheshire At Annual Spring Luncheon, Installation

Maxine Cheshire, noted and quoted Washington Post social columnist, will be the featured speaker at the Auxiliary Annual Spring Luncheon and Installation at noon Wednesday, April 9, in the Parisian Room of the Breckenridge Motor Inn.

At the meeting, Mrs. Gunter Schmidt will be installed as Auxiliary president for a two-year term. Other new officers are Mrs. Irving Goldstein, vice president, fund-raising services; Mrs. Earl Kessler, financial secretary; Mrs. Robert Wolff, assistant financial secretary; Mrs. Lee I. Kaufman Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. D. Bruce Vittert, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. David R. Smith, director.

Maxine Cheshire joined the Washington Post in 1955 as a reporter on the women's section. After her article detailing Jacqueline Kennedy's hitherto unrevealed plans for overhauling the White House set many tongues wagging, she began writing her own column covering Washington society. Her column appears locally in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Known for her many "exclusives" throughout the years, Mrs. Cheshire reports the news about the names . . . Kennedy, Onassis, Kissinger and other elegant, etc. One of her more amusing scoops was of Lyndon Johnson's explosion on seeing Peter Hurd's portrait of him: "It's the ugliest thing I've ever seen."

Maxine Cheshire and her husband, Herb, formerly a United Press International bureau chief and now a correspondent covering the Defense Department for McGraw-Hill publications, have four children, who must hear fascinating dinner table talk.

Coming Attractions

You who have been to the Hospital lately are quite aware of the work going on in the area of the coffee shop. Hopefully, by the time you read this, the Clover Buffet (nee Coffee Shop) will be a reality, and the saws, hammers, dust and noise will be but a fleeting memory.

Our name is new; our look is new. We've expanded the space and the menu for you. The Clover Buffet, which will be managed by Marilyn Chapnick, will be the perfect place to meet and eat.

All net profits realized from this project will be turned over to the Hospital to meet the Auxiliary's million dollar pledge to the building fund.

Hospital Groups Participate in Israel Expo '75

Israel Expo '75 -- a cultural and educational celebration of Israel which will touch upon every facet of Israeli life -- has been organized and developed by the Jewish Community Centers Association and the Jewish Federation of St. Louis and nurtured by the interest and efforts of literally hundreds of people who welcome the opportunity to share this experience with the St. Louis community.

Thousands of hours, untold effort and infinite pride are going into this production which is possibly the first of its kind in the country to be undertaken on such a large scale. Jewish Hospital-affiliated groups are indeed proud to participate in this community project. The Associates and Auxiliary have pledged volunteer workers to staff booths and displays on Wednesday, May 7, which we are calling Jewish Hospital Volunteer Day. Anyone who wishes to join us can call Jewish Hospital, 367-8060, extension 4181.

In addition, the Hospital will staff a first aid station.

The week-long event, from May 4-11, will be held at the Jewish Community Centers Association, 11001 Schuetz Road. During that time, the familiar center grounds will be totally transformed into Israel today, from an airport arrival to the site of an archaeological dig, and will feature Israel's cultural life, agriculture, history, religions and achievements in industry, technology and trade. An Expo '75 Bazaar will feature Israeli crafts, clothing and jewelry unique to the land.

Jeffrey J. Lefko has joined the Hospital administrative staff as associate executive director with responsibility for research coordination, the security program, communications, ambulatory care, food service, parking and the Central Medical Building. He was vice president of the Methodist Hospital of Indianapolis.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, he holds a master's degree in Health Care Administration from the Washington University School of Medicine. He has also served with the American Hospital Association-Blue Cross Association Advanced Fellowship in Health Administration which is designed to provide exposure to the process of development and implementation of national health policy. In 1974, he was listed in Outstanding Young Men of America.

Herman Litwack, A.C.S.W., has been named administrative coordinator for the Division of Home Care. He has been assistant director of Social Work--having joined the Hospital in 1961. Litwack, who has been involved with home care for 18 years, was previously with the City of St. Louis Department of Health and Hospitals as social work supervisor. He is also an instructor in Social Work at Washington University and St. Louis University.

Vincent J. Lovett Jr. has been named chief technician of the Department of Radiology. Recently retired from the Air Force, he was chief technician of nuclear medicine at Scott Air Force Base and has his registry in the American Registry of Radiographic Technologists. He is also a graduate of the Nuclear Technology and Instrumentation Course, has his Registry in Nuclear Medicine and is a member of the Society of Nuclear Medicine.

Mrs. Benay Ansehl LaRock has been named director of Development and Community Relations at the Hospital. She replaces Mrs. Barbara Janes, who has resigned to become director of Public Relations and Development at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Mrs. LaRock was with the United Way of Greater St. Louis for seven years, most recently as assistant campaign director. She was responsible for developing campaigns of the Community Divisions, coordinating the activities of 1,200 volunteers. Prior to that, she served as director of the Special Gifts and Metropolitan Firms Division.

Mrs. LaRock was formerly social director for the Barnes Hospital School of Nursing. She has served on the membership committee of Downtown St. Louis, Inc. and the membership development committee of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

Second and third graders at Glenridge School, Clayton, use their Friday afternoon creative time to make Valentine's Day tray favors for Jewish Hospital patients. Distributing meal tray favors on special occasions is an Auxiliary-sponsored activity, and according to Mrs. Robert E. Wolff, tray favor chairman, we use the creative talents of Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and senior citizens to produce these little remembrances on such noteworthy occasions as Mother's Day, New Year's, Thanksgiving, Chanukah, July 4 and during an election year.
