Childbirth at Jewish Hospital: A Shared, Family Experience

Life Seeker volunteer coach Vicki Tyler provides additional support and assistance to the woman in labor.

"The nicest thing about the Jewish Hospital obstetrical division is the personal care the staff gives you. They do their best to make each patient feel as if she is special."

So said a recent patient in the maternity division. The woman is an employee of another hospital in the St. Louis area, but she chose to come back to Jewish Hospital after having previously given birth both here and at the hospital where she is employed.

Her comments are not at all unusual. Women who have been patients in the maternity division often use the terms "personal care" and "special treatment" to describe their childbearing experiences at Jewish Hospital. The staff actively attempts to make each and every woman feel special. They believe childbirth should be a shared, family-oriented experience.

So, in addition to an excellent medical staff and the best and most modern facilities, including a High-Risk Obstetrical Unit funded by the Nashim Rachmonioth Mothers' and Babies' Welfare Society, the Hospital offers many special services for the benefit of maternity patients.

Sibling Visitation

"One of our newest projects is the sibling visitation program," says Irene Belsky, R.N., teaching nurse on the obstetrical division. "It was begun last November with the objective of further encouraging the family-centered approach to patient care."

Through the program, the mother is able to visit with her older children during her hospital stay and the older children are introduced to their new brother or sister before the infant is brought home.

"Sibling visitation has been well received and our patients are very cooperative," said Mrs. Belsky. "As one mother put it, 'As soon as my older son saw his new brother and Mommy, he became a much happier youngster and his behavior at home improved.' Actually, all of our nurses enjoy this opportunity to meet the rest of the family, too."

Volunteer Coaching

Another new help to expectant mothers is the volunteer coaching program, which was initiated in mid-December. At her request, a volunteer coach will stay with the mother-to-be during labor and through delivery.

"We have found that this service is also very popular with our patients," said

Barbara and Ron Legate have front row seats at the birth of their daughter Tanya, held by Dr. Robert Burstein, director of the Ob/Gyn Department.

The baby is placed on a temperature controlled table immediately after delivery.

The surgical mask cannot conceal the smile on the face of Dr. Robert Burstetn as he holds newborn Tanya.

Barbara and Ron are able to spend some time alone with their new daughter immediately after delivery through the Hospital's bonding program.

Mrs. Belsky. "The volunteer coach's job is to support the mother and to augment the professional nursing care she receives. All of our volunteers go through intensive training before they are allowed to coach and they must have had a baby in order to qualify for the program."

The volunteers are also available after delivery to assist mother in the care of her newborn.

Birthing Room

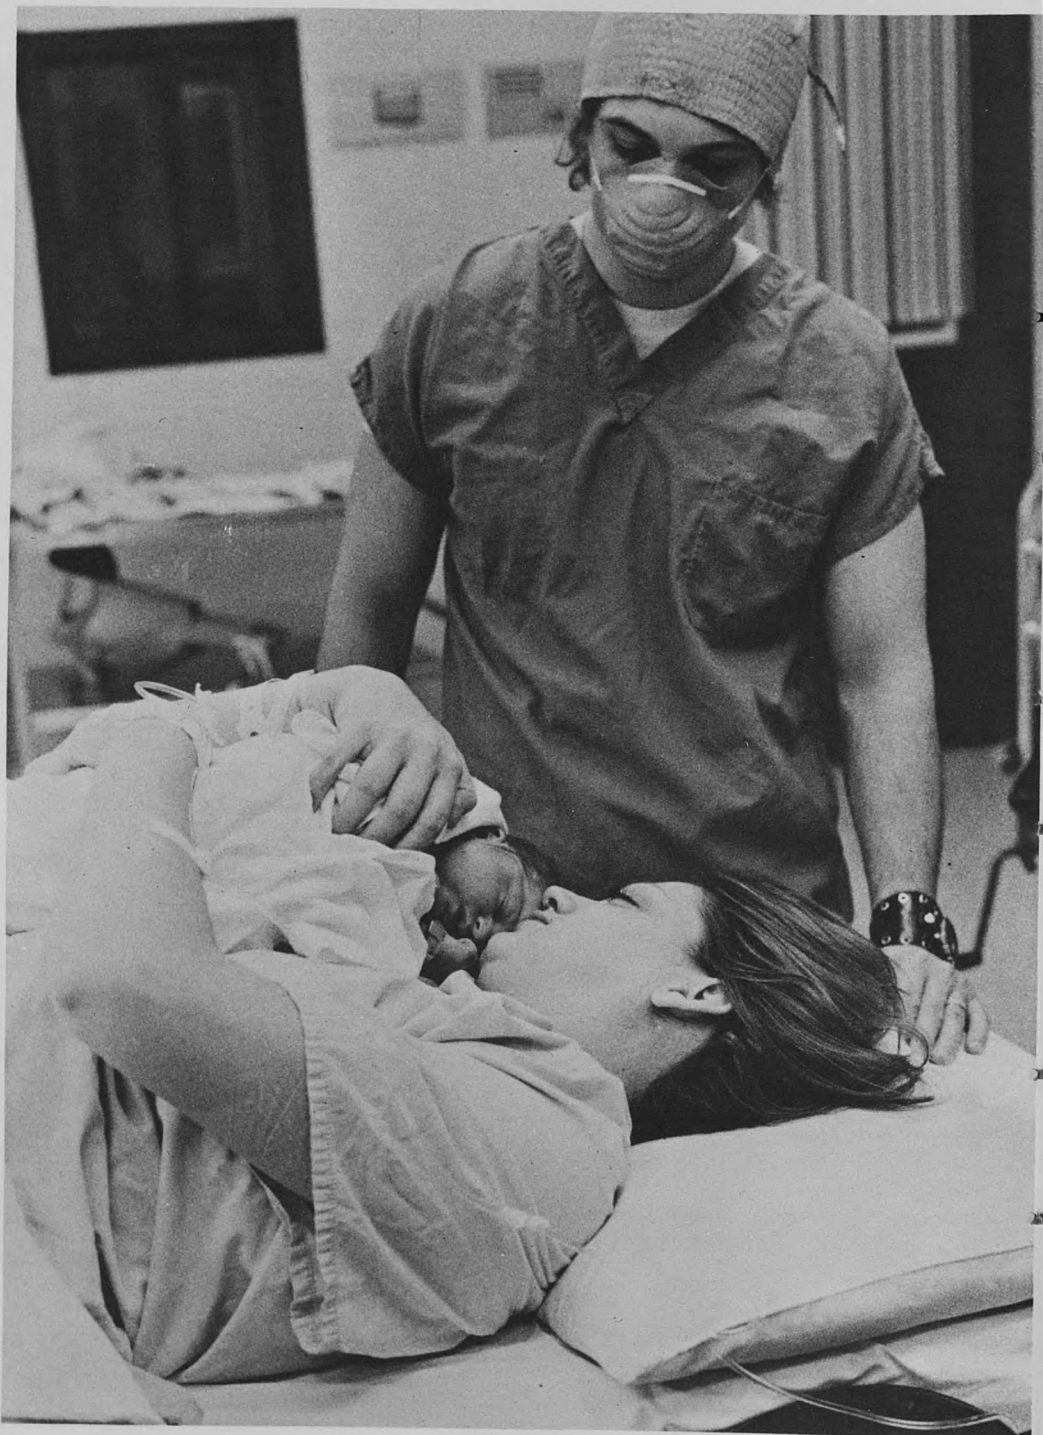

Another new attraction opened recently in the obstetrical suite is the birthing room. It is furnished like a bedroom in a private home and can be used by a maternity patient for labor, delivery and recovery. "The birthing room is equipped with the most up-to-date monitoring and emergency equipment," noted Vera Rust, R.N., head nurse of the delivery suite, "so the patient can safely go through the childbearing process without being moved from labor room to delivery room to recovery room."

The family approach to childbirth has been an evolutionary process at Jewish Hospital. Almost 28 years ago, the obstetrical division was one of the first in the city to start a rooming-in program. Through this program, still very popular today, the baby remains in the room with the mother, either on a 12-hour or 24-hour basis.

Role of Father

Over ten years ago, the Hospital established a "Preparation for Childbirth" course, and with it, began welcoming fathers into the delivery room, so that the maternity patient could better share this experience with her husband.

"We have progressed since that time and now allow father, mother and baby a private time immediately after delivery," said Ms. Rust. "We have come to feel that immediate bonding is very desirable for both the baby's and parents' emotional well-being."

Through the sibling visitation program, older brother Asa is able to see his baby sister Tanya and his mother while they are still in the hospital.

Fathers are encouraged to care for their newborns before the baby goes home.

Because of this special role for father, he is not considered a visitor but a part of the family unit and is allowed to be with his wife on the division from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., noted Mrs. Belsky. In addition, no other visitors are permitted on the floor during the Father's Hour, which begins at 8:30 p.m. every evening.

Childbirth Classes

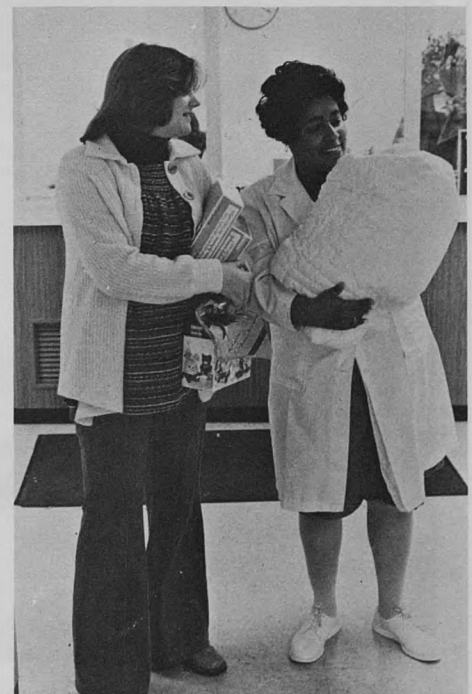

The "Preparation for Childbirth" course includes six two-hour classes on such topics as the breathing and relaxation technique, breast feeding, and the emotional changes and needs of the pregnant woman and the new mother. The course is offered several times each year with from four to six groups being taught concurrently. "We limit the number of persons in each group so that the classes are very personal," said Mrs. Belsky, course instructor. The classes are held at the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing, just across the street from the Hospital.

"We also offer a tour of the obstetrical suite for all of our prospective patients, whether or not they attend our childbirth classes, on the first Saturday of every month," she added. "If the parents are unable to attend at that time, a special tour will be arranged for them."

After the baby's arrival, various parenting classes are available through the maternity division. Classes are taught on bathing baby, breast feeding and other aspects of infant care. Filmstrips on many subjects are also offered.

And for the Jewish community, the Hospital provides at no extra charge the use of a meeting room for ritual circumcision and the party that follows. The Hospital also provides coffee for the party.

Through these many extra benefits and services, the medical and nursing staffs of the Jewish Hospital obstetrical division want the maternity patient and her family to know, "You are special."

Barbara, baby Tanya and a nurse aide await the arrival of the Legates' car to leave the Hospital.

Hospitals are a labor-intensive industry. There is no way to mechanize most of the human-to-human care that is the business of a medical center. So when salaries rise, hospitals feel the pinch more than most other industries.

Health Care Costs: How High Is Too High?

Health care costs have an impact on the lives of all of us.

Even if an individual is lucky enough to be blessed with perfect health, he will still feel the effect of price increases in hospitalization and health care services. Health care costs reach the consumer through insurance premiums that reflect the growth in the amount of health benefits paid, and also through taxes that pay benefits for those covered by Medicare and Medicaid. There is also direct payment for patient services to the extent that he is not insurance covered.

Because of the concern over escalating costs, President Jimmy Carter and various members of Congress have proposed the imposition of cost-containment ceilings on the annual rate of hospital cost growth.

A better understanding of hospital costs may put the cap proposals in perspective. The American Hospital Association contends that hospital charges seem to be rising at a faster pace than the rest of the economy because new developments in equipment and technology are figured into the health care portion of the Consumer Price Index while similar increases in other industries are factored out.

Of course, the American Hospital Association and health care administrators in general are also gravely concerned by the escalation in health care prices, but most favor voluntary cost-control measures.

Everyone agrees that health care costs must be contained; the question that remains to be solved is how this can best be accomplished. Before any solutions can be forthcoming, an understanding of the factors affecting health care costs is necessary. Those circumstances that have had the most dramatic effect on expenses in the health services field are increased utilization, general inflation and new technology and services.

Medication and Medicaid

Hospital costs began to increase sharply in 1966 when the federal Medicare and Medicaid programs went into operation. There was unprecedented creation and utilization of resources for the care of the aged and the poor. In addition, continuing a trend that started in the 1950's, there was an increase in the number of people covered by private health insurance. In 1960, only 20 percent of the national health care bill was paid by third-party payers. Today, almost 90 percent of hospital bills and almost two-thirds of doctor bills are paid by insurance companies or a government agency.

This trend, coupled with the growth in population and increasing consumer knowledge about the benefits of good health, has resulted in increased demand and utilization of hospitalization and health care services.

General Inflation

A factor that has had a profound effect on hospital costs is general inflation. The sting of the rapid inflation of the past several years has been felt by private individuals and national corporations alike. Hospitals have not been immune.

In 1970, the cost per patient for one day at Jewish Hospital was $99.47. Today, the cost is $200. Inflation — in items such as energy, labor, hospital supplies, malpractice and liability insurance, and the cost of complying with an expanding number of government regulations — causes a steady increase in hospital charges.

New Technology

New services and technology and patient demand for them account for one-third of the increasing cost of health care services.

Forty years ago, the average day of hospital care cost only $5 to $8. In that same year, however, more than half of the people who had heart attacks died. Today, more than 85 percent of heart attack victims recover. The equipment and procedures looked upon as representing the finest medical practice yesterday are outmoded today. Once the iron lung was replaced by improved equipment, no institution wanted it.

The Cardiac Catheterization Unit is one facility which the Hospital added as a result of technological advances.

A few years ago, there were no such things as cardiac catheterization, open heart surgery, nuclear medicine, renal dialysis or computerized tomography. Now Jewish Hospital has all of these programs, which in fact have become essential to enable the Hospital to maintain pace with the practice of medicine.

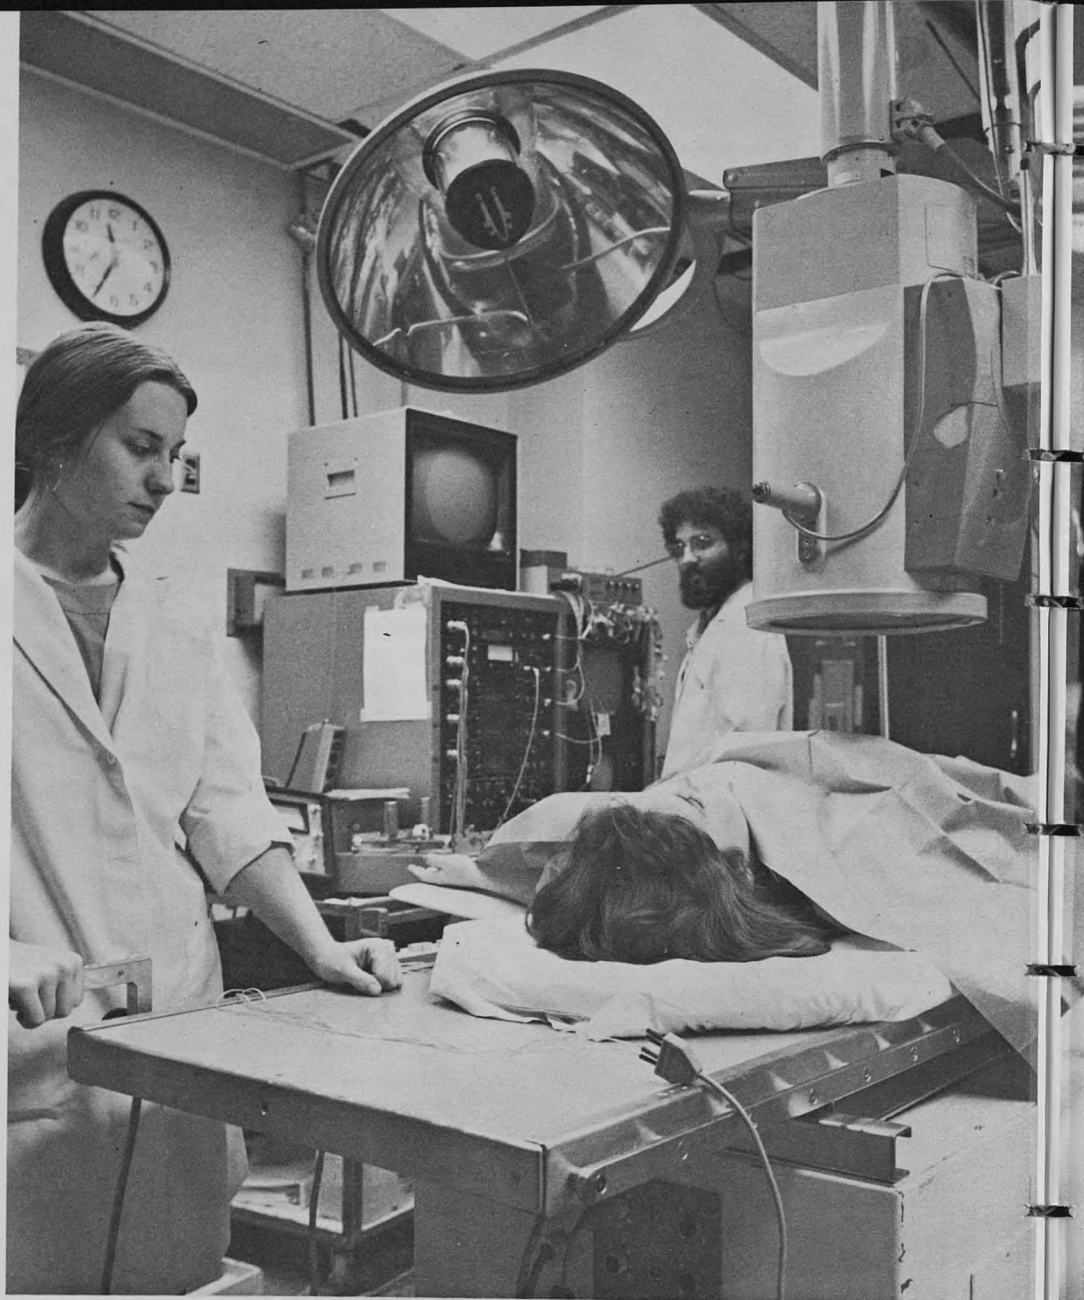

Patients have benefited substantially from these new services, but new technology costs money — regardless of whether it updates an older method or adds a totally new service. It is not just the cost of the new equipment that causes the impact. In industry, new technology is usually synonymous with greater efficiency, lower unit cost and/or fewer people needed to perform functions. Generally, the opposite is true in hospitals.

Since a hospital's product is measured in terms of service, a new piece of equipment usually means more services rather than greater efficiencies. A new machine to x-ray the entire body in little slices probably is not purchased with the primary intention of doing the old job at a lower cost or faster, but rather of doing additional jobs in greater depth.

Additional Personnel

Additional services mean additional personnel. Additional personnel and rising salary expenses are another reason for the high cost of hospital services.

Technology often adds totally new job areas to the hospital work force. Twenty-five years ago, there were only about 30 categories of hospital employees. Today, a modern medical center may have more than 200 different job classifications. As an example, the personnel needed to operate a computerized axial tomographic (CAT) head scanner includes one or two radiologists, three aides, three technicians and an active neurosurgical and neurological service with a board-certified neurologist and neurosurgeon. The CAT body scanner requires even more. Open heart surgery necessitates an operating room team of 20 to 22 highly skilled professionals.

Why are so many people needed to staff a hospital?

First, the product of a hospital is care — people taking care of people. There is no way to mechanize most of the human-to-human care which takes place in a hospital. Unlike most industries, when care is mechanized in some way, it frequently requires more people to use and maintain the equipment, relate the machine's services to the patient and maintain the new service.

Second, it takes an average of five persons to fill every job in the hospital. Unlike most businesses, hospitals operate 24 hours a day every day. Not only do hospitals need more employees than other businesses, they require a greater number of highly skilled employees. On the average, one in every three hospital employees has special training. In most other industries, only about one in seven or eight is specialized.

Hospitals are a labor-intensive industry. More than 52 percent of the cost of operating a hospital is expended for salaries. By contrast, wages account for about 25 percent of other U.S. industries' total expenses. Because of this high concentration of employees and payroll expenses, fluctuation in average wages brought about by inflation, wage and salary legislation, collective bargaining and any need for more personnel have a greater over-all impact on hospital costs than on the costs of other industries. A ten percent wage hike for all employees adds about six percent to a hospital's total expenses, while adding just three percent to the total expenditure of the average business.

Until recent years, health care employees were paid less than personnel in most other industries. This situation has been changing in recent years due to the desire of the health care industry to pay its employees equitably, and also because of minimum wage legislation and competition with other industries for personnel.

It is significant, however, that while hospital wages are increasing substantially, they make up a smaller percentage of total expenses than in previous years. In 1969, payroll costs accounted for 60 percent of total hospital expenses; by 1975, the salary portion of the budget had declined to 52.5 percent.

Malpractice Insurance

In the past few years, one of the most widely publicized factors contributing to high hospital charges has been professional liability (malpractice) insurance. Many stories have appeared in newspapers and newscasts about increased liability charges, threatened hospital closings and physicians strikes resulting from skyrocketing malpractice insurance costs or even total unavailability of coverage. The impact of the insurance increases and availability problems varies widely from state to state, but the national figures point out dramatically that the effect is great. The average hospital premium for liability insurance has risen over 750 percent from 1970 to 1975.

With the hike in the price of malpractice insurance and the growing number of physician malpractice lawsuits, some doctors practice "defensive medicine" — ordering diagnostic procedures to insure coming down on the safe side of medical judgments and to provide documentation of the patient's condition in the event of legal action against the doctor and/or hospital. Defensive medicine also adds to the over-all cost of hospitalization.

Because of the increase of malpractice suits, physicians are practicing defensive medicine, such as ordering additional tests, in order to protect themselves against lawsuits. This has added to the over-all increase in the hospital bill.

Energy Consumption

Another circumstance that has had a striking effect on the total hospital bill is the unprecedented burgeoning of the price of energy. Energy is one of the major life-giving forces in today's modern hospital. Without it, hospitals could not function. Because of the unique nature of their business, when energy prices increase and fuel becomes scarce, hospitals are hit much harder than many other businesses. Hospitals must be open 24 hours a day every day of the year. They must provide an atmosphere that is physically comfortable for sick people and they must rely heavily on energy-dependent technology.

At present, energy costs comprise up to five percent of the total budget of hospitals. The problems they face with increasing energy prices are compounded because budgeting for energy consumption is becoming almost impossible. Even the energy producers cannot accurately predict their costs.

Goods and Services

By the standards of the Consumer Price Index, the cost of fuel oil and coal, gas, electricity and utilities has risen at a much greater rate than the cost of medical care. The energy crisis has heightened this inflationary process because of the ever growing cost of plastic and plastic substitute products, which are being used more and more in hospitals in sound sterile technique.

In purchasing goods and services, hospitals must contend with inflation as passed along by their suppliers. Therefore, any changes in the prices that hospitals pay for food, equipment maintenance and all types of supplies and services will have an effect on patient charges.

Government Regulations

Compliance with changes in laws and regulations is a significant element in the cost of running a medical center. Few people realize that Jewish Hospital is subject to 90 federal and state regulatory agencies that monitor everything from patient care to environmental safety. The Hospital recently identified $6 million in capital expenditures that such agencies would like it to undertake at the present time.

New technology means better care. It also means additional personnel.

One of the ironies of government regulation is that some of the programs drive up costs to patients because the cost to the hospital cannot be met in any other way. For instance, Medicare and Medicaid pay hospitals for less than the full cost of the care rendered. The cost of "writing off" Hill-Burton charity cases must also be passed along to paying patients, in what has come to be called the subsidy effect.

What's Being Done

Hospitals across the country are taking a very hard look at their operating expenses and instituting stringent utilization review procedures in an effort to trim the budget. Additional steps have already been taken. The trend in Missouri hospitals, according to a recent Missouri Hospital Association report, is to offer services on an outpatient basis whenever possible. If tests can be done or treatment given in the outpatient setting, without the patient being admitted to the hospital overnight, the cost to the patient is significantly reduced.

Hospitals in Missouri are involved in other efforts to keep the cost of hospitalization as low as possible. They have initiated group purchasing plans, energy conservation programs and arranged for shared services. Jewish Hospital has participated in all of these activities.

Of course, hospitals could cut their costs further if they reduced their nursing staffs, or if they eliminated departments which lose money, or if they lagged several years behind advances in technology and medical knowledge.

Hospitals are not in business to provide the cheapest possible health care, but the finest. So long as consumers continue to demand the best in health care, hospitals will strive to provide it at the most reasonable price.

Auxiliary Sparkles At 'Diamonds In The Clover'

The work began more than two and a half years ago on the project that culminated in "Diamonds in the Clover," the charitable ball sponsored by the Jewish Hospital Auxiliary in mid-November.

On the evening of Nov. 19, more than 1,000 persons filled the Khorassan Room of the Chase Park-Plaza Hotel to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis and the 25th anniversary of the Hospital Auxiliary.

These two special anniversaries were excellent reasons to throw a party, but the Auxiliary as usual combined business with pleasure. And the business of the Auxiliary is to provide service and raise funds to benefit the Hospital and its patients.

As a result, "Diamonds in the Clover" had a very humanitarian purpose. Proceeds from the gala event were used to help pay for the Hospital's recently acquired computerized axial tomographic (CAT) scanner, the latest development in x-ray technology.

A pronouncement from the Board of Directors perhaps sums up the ball best:

"The Jewish Hospital Auxiliary deals only in superlatives. Not satisfied with its annual virtuosity in volunteering, operating shops and doing a whole host of patient and community services, the Auxiliary — once each five years — caps its achievements with the Clover Ball.

"This is the fourth ball in 20 years, a double decade of accomplishment for the Hospital, aided at every step by the Auxiliary. The ball's tradition builds expectations and enthusiasm and serves to remind the community of the health care programs that the Hospital provides.

"Purely aside from the fun and psychological uplift which the Clover Ball affords, there is a very tangible benefit from the ball. This year, the funds from the ball have helped to purchase an EMI computerized axial tomographic full body scanner, which is already in use by the Hospital's patients.

"The Auxiliary has had an unparalleled success story; the Board of Directors of the Jewish Hospital congratulates the Auxiliary on this achievement."

Fourth Clover Ball

As was mentioned, "Diamonds in the Clover" was the fourth in the Clover Ball series. The first ball was held in 1962 and $65,000 was raised to benefit the Department of Psychiatry. The second ball in 1967 raised $110,000, which was used to establish a Medical Intensive Care Unit. The 1972

Clover Ball's proceeds of $120,000 were used to pay for construction of the Emergency Room's Observation Unit.

1977's "Diamonds in the Clover" took place in a Khorassan Room transformed into a glittering wonderland. In keeping with the anniversary theme of the ball, the decor was sparkling with mirrored light, thanks to the ingenuity of Mrs. Arnold (Jackie) Dankner and the Decorations Committee. The walls were draped with silver lame and each table was bedecked with a frosted silver tree complete with birds' nest. Roseland Ballroom-style mirrored globes were suspended from the ceiling and complemented an enormous mirrored "diamond" that rotated above the bandstand.

Music and entertainment for the evening was provided by Peter Duchin and his Orchestra. From the first number to when the music stopped five hours later, guests crowded the dance floor. Duchin's band provided an ample sample of why it is the hottest society band in the country. To keep everyone's toes tapping, Duchin and his band played a wide variety of music that ranged from 1930's swing to more traditional ballroom dancing to 1977 disco.

Between the dancing and the socializing, guests at "Diamonds in the Clover" dined on an elegant repast that included Vichyssoise Moscovite; pumpernickel and iced vodka; Sole Veronique; Sorbet Au Citron; Filet Mignon Perigourdine; Riz Sauvage; Tomatoes Farcies aux Broccolis, Sauce Hollandaise; Omelette Norvegienne au Chocolate et aux Fraises and cafe.

The wines that accompanied the dinner were donated by Mr. and Mrs. David Sherman Jr.

Clover Surprises

In addition to a wonderful evening, several of the guests had the extra pleasure of being selected to receive one of the Clover attendance prizes that were awarded. Mrs. Melvin Schloss received a ring of diamonds framed in gold, which was donated by Simon's of Plaza Frontenac to commemorate the dual anniversaries. Dr. and Mrs. Ira J. Kodner were awarded an original sculpture in bronze, "Woman in Skirt" by Alan B. Lewin, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Lewin.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Siegel won a Waterford Crystal bowl from Nieman-Marcus. Fruit baskets from Flotken's Market were won by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Muskin, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mohrman and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fishgall.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald J. Dickler.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Smith with Peter Duchin.

Kudos to the Committee

Without a doubt, 1977's "Diamonds in the Clover" was a success. But the evening could not have been the success it was without the hard work and dedication displayed by those who organized and made the ball a reality. CAT Scanner

DIAMONDS IN THE CLOVER

The Jewish Hospital Auxiliary commended the Diamond Ball of the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis with Diamonds in the Clover. The event was held at the St. Louis Sheraton Hotel on November 10, 1977. The proceeds from the event will be used to purchase the Jewish Hospital's Computerized Axial Tomographic Scanning unit (CAT).

The Auxiliary also commended the Jewish Hospital for its contribution to the community. The Auxiliary is proud to be able to support the Jewish Hospital's efforts to provide the best medical care possible for its patients.

The CAT scanner is a new development in x-ray technology. It enables radiologists and physicians to examine areas of the body without exploratory surgery. The CAT scanner is capable of producing highly accurate and detailed pictures of internal organs and tissues, including visualization of soft tissues such as the brain, liver and pancreas.

The equipment is so sensitive that differences in tissue density below one per cent are revealed, allowing physicians to see abnormalities too subtle to be seen by conventional x-rays. For the patient, a CAT scanner examination is simple and painless. He simply reclines on an adjustable couch which passes through an aperture at the center of the system's scanning unit.

Shirley Cohen and Judy Smith were the cochairmen of the 1977 Clover Ball, "Diamonds in the Clover."

Clover Ball: What All The Glitter Adds Up To

The $120,000 raised by the Auxiliary's "Diamonds in the Clover" has been used to help purchase the Jewish Hospital's Computerized Axial Tomographic Scanning unit (CAT).

CAT scanning is the latest development in x-ray technology. It enables radiologists and physicians to examine areas of the body without exploratory surgery.

The CAT whole body scanner is capable of producing highly accurate and detailed pictures of internal organs and tissues, including visualization of soft tissues such as the brain, liver and pancreas. The equipment is so sensitive that differences in tissue density below one per cent are revealed, allowing physicians to see abnormalities too subtle to be seen by conventional x-rays.

For the patient, a CAT scanner examination is simple and painless. He simply reclines on an adjustable couch which passes through an aperture at the center of the system's scanning unit.

During the scan, a frame inside the scanning unit containing an x-ray tube and an array of highly sensitive detectors performs a rapid series of linear traverses across the patient's body, moving around ten degrees between each traverse. The scan is completed when the frame has moved through 180 degrees (half a circle), making 18 linear traverses. This takes approximately 20 seconds and produces 300,000 readings of tissue density from which the system's computer generates the picture.

The CAT scanner gives physicians diagnostic information of unprecedented detail, accuracy and definition. Each scan can be immediately studied, photographed or stored on magnetic tape for later review and analysis.

This clarity and detail of picture greatly improves accuracy in diagnosing such conditions as tumors, cysts, blood clots and aneurysms. Thus, the scanner often eliminates the need to employ other, more painful and possibly dangerous diagnostic procedures.

Auxiliary to Present First Family Health Fair

The excitement had hardly died down after "Diamonds in the Clover" before the Auxiliary was announcing its latest and perhaps most ambitious project to date.

The Jewish Hospital Auxiliary will present St. Louis' First Family Health Fair on Sunday, Oct. 22, at Clayton High School.

The health fair will include a series of stimulating seminars and displays geared to appeal to people of all ages. The Auxiliary is very ambitious about its newest project and plans to cover topics and questions of interest on virtually every health and medical subject. The seminars will be conducted by prominent physicians and health professionals from Jewish Hospital and the St. Louis area.

Some of the tentative topics include: "You Are What You Eat," "About Faces — A Lifting of Spirits," "Depression — A Problem for All Ages," "Life and Its Living for the Terminally Ill," "The Tell-Tale Heart," "For Men Only," "Cancer — Can You Avoid Getting It?" "Allergies — It's Nothing to Sneeze At," "Genetic Counseling," "I Like Me — Developing a Good Self-Image," "Developmental Patterns in Children," "Over-Parenting," "Single Parenting," "The Agonies of Adolescence," "Sex and Teens in the 70's," "Where Am I and Where Am I Going?" "Is Your Friend into Drugs and Drinking?" "Active Sports — Injuries Can Be Avoided," "How Old Is Old?" and "Parenting Your Parent."

Mrs. Harry T. (Barbara) Schukar has been appointed chairman of the Health Fair project. Serving on her committee are Mrs. Donald J. (Lillian) Dickler, program co-chairman; Mrs. Barbara Newmark, arrangements co-chairman; Mrs. Lawrence (Barbara) Poger, publicity co-chairman, and Mrs. Robert E. (Marcia) Shapiro, volunteers co-chairman.

Auxiliary Underwrites Intermediate ICU

The Auxiliary has also notified the Hospital that it will provide a grant of $150,000 to pay for construction of a new Intermediate Surgical Intensive Care Unit on the third floor of the Steinberg Pavilion.

The unit will contain 15 beds, eight of which will have telemetry monitoring devices especially designed for use with the convalescent heart surgery patient.

Work on the project began recently.

Security Cameras Provided By Auxiliary

The parking garage and several Hospital areas are now equipped with security cameras thanks to another $10,000 gift from the Auxiliary.

Cameras have been installed on every level of the parking garage, in the Central Medical Building, Gift Gallery, Pharmacy and Receiving Dock. Through the television surveillance program, these areas are now monitored 24 hours a day by members of the Communications Department.

Auxiliary President Mrs. Irving M. (Helene) Goldstein said the gift is just one more service that the Auxiliary has provided for the benefit of patients, their families, volunteers and employees.

Keith Callahan, assistant executive director, noted that the security cameras have helped the Security Department staff keep the monitored areas safe for visitors at all hours.

Jewish Hospital Auxiliary President Helene Goldstein stands next to the security surveillance monitors recently presented by the Auxiliary to the Hospital.

Attending and full-time physicians on the Hospital staff had the opportunity to brush up on their cardiopulmonary resuscitation techniques when the Department of Education held several CPR seminars. In the photo, Dr. Aaron Birenbaum gets some helpful hints from Education instructor Pat Ugo, R.N., while Dr. Melvin B. Kirstein, lab technician Annette Schieber and Dr. Phillip E. Korenblat look on. The Medical Staff Association donated several pieces of instructional equipment, including the Resuci Anne shown, to the Department of Education recently to aid in the instruction of Hospital personnel in CPR.

Triage Program Instituted In Emergency Room

The Ambulatory Care Committee has announced the establishment of an Emergency Room triage system to facilitate patient care in that area. The program was initiated in January.

The triage function involves initial assessment of all patients who come to the Emergency Room and assignment of priority for care.

If a patient is diagnosed as an acute case, he will be triaged into the Emergency Room for immediate treatment. If his condition is non-acute, the patient will be referred immediately to the Minor Illness Area, located in the Surgery Clinic. The patient will be examined and treated in both locales by the appropriate house and nursing staff.

As under the existing arrangement, attending staff will be notified of their patients' arrivals and triage dispositions.

The triage area will be staffed by registered nurses who have had extended training in critical care. Susan Zimmerman, R.N., has a master's degree in cardiovascular nursing and has been employed as a cardiovascular clinical nurse by University Hospital in Seattle & Barnes Hospital. Dawn Meyer, R.N., has had three years of experience as a full-time staff nurse in the Jewish Hospital Emergency Room.

Initially, the system will be in effect from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily, which is the busiest time of day for the Emergency Room. During all other hours, patients will be seen in the Emergency Room.

The establishment of the triage program is the culmination of efforts extending over one year on the part of attending, full-time and house medical staffs, and Emergency Room and Clinic nursing staffs. The system was designed to facilitate the care of all patients who come to the Emergency Room by aiding to direct priority for treatment and improving communication with patients and attending staff. In addition, the triage nurse will have increased responsibility in the area of patient instruction.

The triage area can be reached at 454-7906. The Emergency Room number is 454-7900.

Researchers Evaluate Prostatic Cancer Test

A blood test for early detection of prostatic cancer is being studied at The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis.

The project is being conducted under the aegis of the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society by Gerald Sufrin, M.D., director of the Division of Urology at Jewish Hospital and associate professor of urology at Washington University School of Medicine; Harry Margraf, Ph.D., associate in surgery at Jewish Hospital, and William R. Fair, M.D., professor of Urology at Washington University.

Gerald Sufirin, M.D.

The Hospital is one of 25 medical centers throughout the country selected to evaluate the prostatic cancer screening test, which was developed at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.

The test measures the level of acid phosphatase, an enzyme characteristic of prostatic cancer, present in blood samples. The acid phosphatase level is determined by gel electrophoresis and radioimmunoassay, two laboratory processes used to identify specific proteins or enzymes through their capacity to act as antigens.

"Immunologic tests have been developed previously to measure acid phosphatase. However, this new method is more sensitive in detecting lower levels of the enzyme, and it is hoped that this will allow earlier diagnosis of prostatic cancer and enable physicians to ascertain the effectiveness of treatment protocols in patients who already have the disease," noted Dr. Sufirin.

"Preliminary results appear to indicate that this assay will be more effective," he added.

Prostatic carcinoma is often diagnosed when it is too late to do more than give palliative treatment. "This new method of early detection will be used to screen populations at special risk of developing the disease and to ensure better follow-up of present cancer patients," said Dr. Sufirin, whose research interests are diseases of the prostate and cancer. He was previously associated with the National Cancer Prostatic Task Force.

Men at risk of developing prostatic cancer are those over age 55 and those who have a family history of the disease.

Jewish Hospital Establishes Enterostomal Therapy School

Jackie Bangert, R.N., M.S., E.T., instructor of the Enterostomal Therapy School, instructs the program's first class, which consists of R.N.'s Arlene Klostermann, Judith Schaffer, Janet Palumbo and Mary Tucker.

An Enterostomal Therapy Educational School has been established at Washington University Medical Center. The program is sponsored by The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis in cooperation with the other institutions in the medical center complex. It is the first such school available in the Midwest and only the 11th throughout the United States and Canada.

The program, accredited by the International Association for Enterostomal Therapy, will educate and certify nurses as enterostomal therapists upon satisfactory completion of the eight-week course, which will be given four times annually.

The first eight-week course was recently completed.

Enterostomal therapists care for patients who have had surgery resulting in the construction of an abdominal stoma because of cancer, trauma or inflammatory disease of the intestine. A stoma is an artificial opening constructed in the abdominal wall after the removal of part of the intestinal or urinary tract.

The Enterostomal Therapy Educational School was established by the Jewish Hospital Enterostomal Care Center because of the growing number of ostomates, patients who have a stoma. Recent studies based on population indicate that there is a great need for qualified professionals trained in the care of stomas, noted Dr. Ira J. Kodner, medical director of the center. "It is estimated that in the St. Louis area alone, there are over 30,000 people with ostomies."

Dr. Kodner said statistics have shown that 50 percent of these patients consider themselves to be partially handicapped due to the ostomy itself and problems related to the stoma. "But with proper physical care and psychological counseling, 80 percent to 90 percent of these patients can be returned to full and productive lives."

Enterostomal therapy students learn about ostomy supplies from Elnore Sturm, LPN, E.T., who supervises their clinical practice at Jewish Hospital.

"It is estimated that in the St. Louis area alone, there are over 30,000 people with ostomies." (Dr. Ira J. Kodner)

The Enterostomal Therapy Educational School is just the latest step in Jewish Hospital's commitment to provide adequate care to the ostomate. The Enterostomal Care Center was established in the Department of Surgery four years ago to provide total physical and psychological care for stoma patients as well as educational programs in ostomy care primarily for health care professionals at the community hospital level.

"We have evolved to the point where ostomy care in the St. Louis area is probably as good as the care available anywhere," noted Dr. Kodner.

In addition to its newly instituted school, the center operates the Dr. Sam Schneider Stoma Clinic, conducts five one-week workshops each year to educate registered and licensed practical nurses in the basics of ostomy care, and provides continuing education programs to health care groups and institutions throughout the area and state.

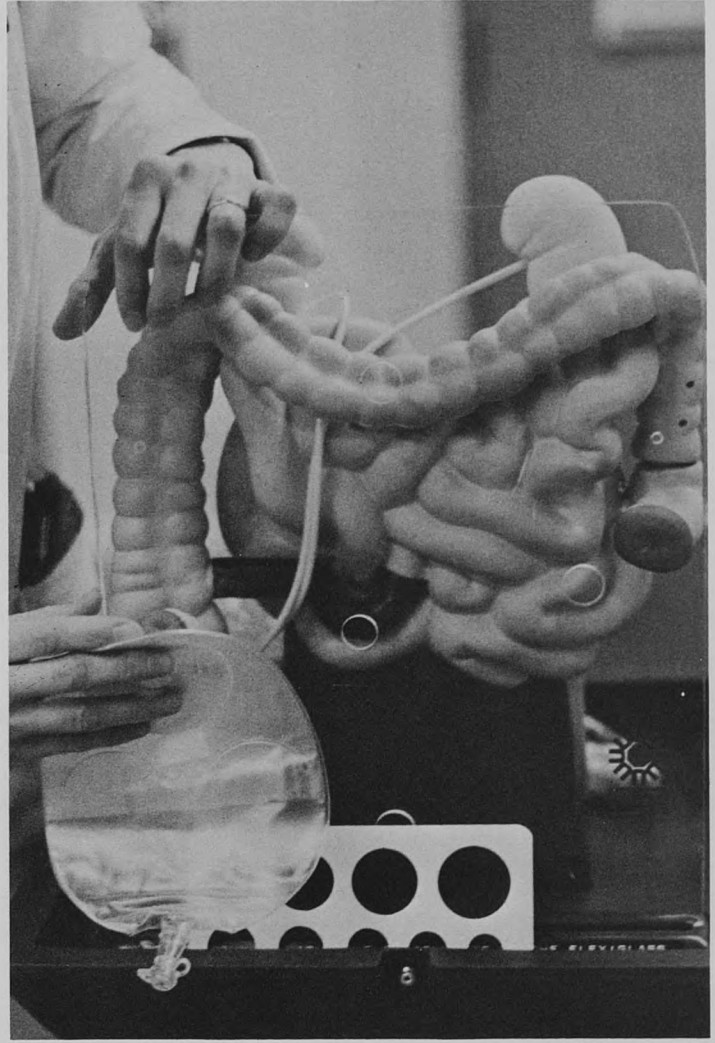

"During the last year, approximately 325 patient visits were made to the Stoma Clinic, which is staffed by three full-time enterostomal therapists, a colorectal surgeon, a general surgeon, a urologist and an oncologist," said Dr. Kodner. "Patients are also referred to specialists in the fields of gastroenterology, psychiatry, social work, diabetes and pediatric stoma care as well as to home care facilities, equipment suppliers and the Ostomy Association of St. Louis.

Also within the past year, members of the center's staff conducted 50 continuing education programs and lectures that reached approximately 3,400 health care professionals.

Ninety nurses representing 42 hospitals and health care institutions have participated in the week-long ostomy workshops during the past three years. "Surgeons at these institutions report that this training has markedly improved the care received by stoma patients," Dr. Kodner said.

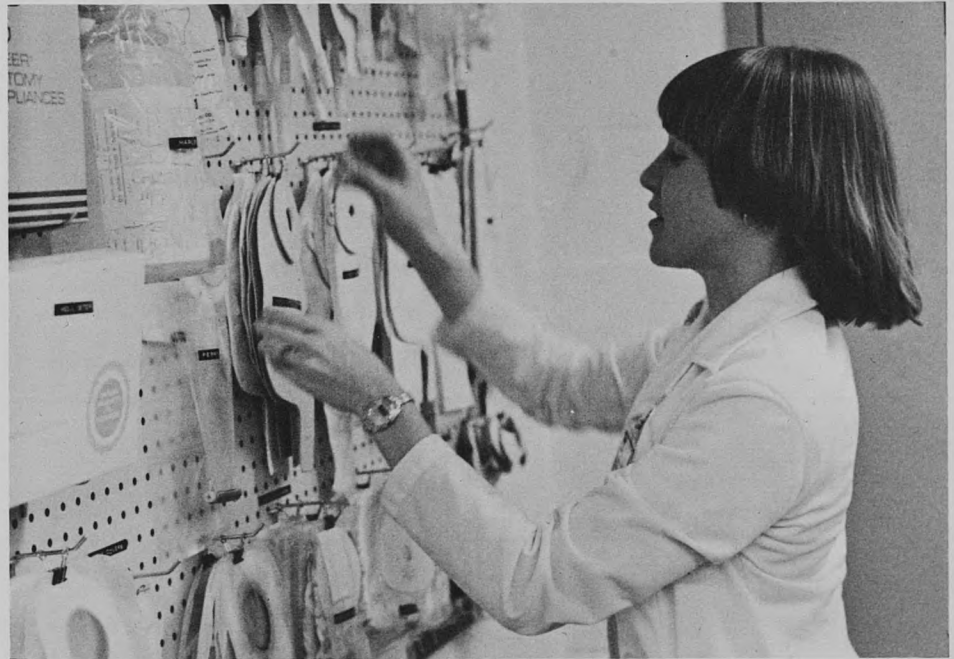

Jackie Bangert discusses stoma coverings with student Mary Tucker.

The enterostomal school consists of 320 hours of formal lectures and supervised clinical experience in the care of stoma patients. Classes focus on all aspects of ostomy care, including psychological, physical, social, sexual and rehabilitative problems.

The program receives some financial support from the American Cancer Society. For more information, contact the Jewish Hospital Enterostomal Care Center at 454-7177.

The Shopping List

Gifts to Jewish Hospital, whether large or small, are very much appreciated because they aid the Hospital in maintaining the highest standards of health care.

The Shopping List is a special feature listing particular items and their approximate costs for which various Hospital departments have indicated a need.

This list is published to give the community an idea of the many different pieces of equipment every department requires to function efficiently, and also to allow prospective donors to choose a specific gift if they so desire.

Remember, your generosity might help save a life. A contribution used toward the purchase of a fetal heart monitor, for example, might mean it is more readily available when an emergency situation arises in the labor room. The early warning of any problems during labor that it provides might mean the difference between life and death for a newborn infant.

For more information on The Shopping List, contact the Development office, at 454-7280.

The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis Annual Report 1977

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

The Year 1977 was the first full year of renewed programs developed by the chiefs in Medicine, Surgery, Pathology and Psychiatry who arrived during 1976. These programs have been complemented by the recruitment of Norman Druck, M.D., as director and Laurence Levine, M.D., as staff associate in the Department of Otolaryngology, and Thomas Deuel, M.D., as director and Scott Hickman, M.D., as staff associate in the Division of Hematology/Oncology.

James Jenkins, M.D., previously associate director of the Department of Anesthesiology, was appointed director of that department. Thomas H. Covey Jr., M.D., associate director of the Department of Surgery, was additionally appointed medical director of the Emergency Room. His leadership and medical expertise have brought additional strength to this vital component of our ambulatory care services. In 1977, the Dept. of Neurosurgery was established with Robert Grubb, M.D., as director.

Franz U. Steinberg, M.D., director of the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, received the Health Care Leadership Award from the Hospital Association of Metropolitan St. Louis for his distinguished service in health care. Dr. Steinberg also received the Metropolitan St. Louis Geriatric Award for his work with problems related to aging.

David A. Gee, Hospital president, was installed as chairman of the board of the Missouri Hospital Association and became regent of the American College of Hospital Administrators for the state of Missouri.

Four new members were elected to the Board of Directors of the Jewish Hospital. They were Messrs. Alfred J. Fleischer, Harris Frank, Meyer Kopolow and Mrs. Louis I. (Mary) Zorensky. Mrs. Harry L. Franc Jr. and Mr. Stanley Richman were elevated to life membership on the Board.

Under the leadership of Martin Bergmann, M.D., the medical staff grew with the addition of 43 superbly qualified physicians to the voluntary, consulting and full-time staffs.

Mr. Richard Meyerhardt was elected as president of the associates in medicine and during his first year of office, has continued the excellent community educational program of that organization. Also installed during this year was Mrs. Irving (Helene) Goldstein, as she assumed the presidency of the Jewish Hospital Auxiliary. Not satisfied with completing its $1 million Building Fund Pledge during the year, the Auxiliary sponsored the Clover Ball to celebrate the Hospital's 75th anniversary. The proceeds from the successful affair were applied toward the purchase of a computerized axial tomographic full-body scanner for the Hospital's Department of Radiology.

The building program continued with major renovation in the Emergency Room and Pathology laboratories. The Department of Obstetrics' labor rooms and delivery room suite have undergone extensive face-lifting. The new OB area now offers a most attractive facility, and combined with the advances in medical care, nursing and technology, enables the Hospital to provide superb obstetrical care. The Associates contributed to this advancement in medical technology by purchasing an ultrasound fetal monitoring system for the unit.

The newly created Health Systems Agency, which reviews all major changes in health care locally, approved the Hospital's plan to relocate the Medical Intensive Care Unit to the eighth floor of the Shoenberg Pavilion as well as the completion of Shoenberg's seventh floor as a surgical division, the construction of a post-surgical cardiovascular intensive care unit and a step-down surgical care unit.

A major grant from United Order True Sisters, Inc., Miriam No. 17, will enable the Hospital to establish the Miriam Spinal Cord Unit on the second floor of the Kingshighway Pavilion as part of the Division of Rehabilitation Medicine.

Lee M. Liberman

It was during 1977 that the Jacob G. Probstein Chapel was dedicated in honor of Dr. Probstein's association of more than half a century with the Hospital. The chapel, located near the Roswell Messing Jr. Lobby of the Shoenberg Pavilion, was made possible through the financial support of Dr. Probstein's family and friends.

Significant work in medical research continues to be evidenced by the topping of the $3 million budget mark. The full support of these activities comes from a variety of government agencies and our many private benefactors.

The continued expansion of the medical research program was enhanced by the completion of research facilities on the seventh floor of the Steinberg Pavilion. These facilities, an extension of those in the Yalem Research Building, house the activities in Metabolism and other basic science research within the Department of Medicine. Additional renovation was done to accommodate the research programs in the Department of Pathology and in the Hematology/Oncology Division on the second, third and fourth floors of the Yalem Research Building.

A major step forward in communications was accomplished with the conversion to the Centrex Telephone System. This system allows direct dialing to departments and patient rooms without the requirement of passing through a central station.

Despite the many significant and outstanding strides made by the Hospital during the past year, we have—along with other hospitals locally and nationally—experienced a decline in utilization of the Hospital. After a steady growth in patient days of care, the effects of increased, federally induced utilization review resulted in a reduction of length of stay and some fewer admissions. While this posed some financial problems for the Hospital, it nevertheless does cut costs to the community without sacrificing the quality of care.

As the nation moves toward extension of health care through proposed national health insurance on the one hand and attempts to curtail it through rigid cost constraints and regulations on the other hand, the Hospital will face a variety of problems and challenges which we are confident we can successfully meet.

School of Nursing Holds 74th Annual Commencement Exercise

Graduation ceremonies were held for 84 students of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing at Temple Israel on Jan. 22. It was the school's 74th annual commencement exercise.

During the ceremonies, nursing pins and diplomas were presented to the graduates, and several students and Jewish Hospital staff nurses received special scholarships and awards. Five members of the graduating class and two undergraduate students were recognized for outstanding achievement. Thirteen registered nurses on the Hospital staff received continuing education grants.

Graduating seniors and students who received individual honors are listed below:

Barbara Dormuth, of St. Louis, was the recipient of the $1,000 Jewish Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship, awarded each year to the highest-ranking student in the senior class.

The $500 Hattie Waldheim Scholarship went to the student rated second in the class, Donna S. Finer, of Chesterfield.

Both awards are designated for advanced preparation in nursing.

Karen Gratza, of Marthasville, received the J.L. London Nursing Award, presented annually to the third-ranked student. She also was chosen by the Nursing Student Association to receive a Franc Honor Award, which is accompanied by a $50 U.S. Savings Bond, for outstanding interest and participation in student activities.

The Franc Honor Awards were presented by Mrs. Harry L. Franc Jr. The two other recipients were graduate Jan Kosmal and second-level student Ruth Bowenschulte. Ms. Kosmal was chosen by the faculty to receive the Franc award and $50 savings bond in recognition of outstanding consideration and kindness to patients. Ms. Bowenschulte was the recipient of the Franc Honor Award which is presented each year to the student who has demonstrated outstanding scholastic and clinical ability during the first year in school. Her award included a gold key and a $100 savings bond.

The diplomas were awarded to the graduates by Hospital President David A. Gee following addresses by Dr. J. Lester Zeffren, commencement speaker; Dr. Arthur H. Gale, president-elect of the Jewish Hospital Medical Staff Association; Brenda Ernst, R.N., associate executive director of Jewish Hospital; Mrs. Stanley (Shirley) Cohen, member of the hospital Board of Directors, and graduate Karen Gratza.

Forty-four members of the class have been employed as staff nurses at the Hospital.
