J.N. Hawkins Inspects Engwicht Labs, Is Impressed

Says Vacuum Tube Engineers Needed, Get Good Pay

Pointing to the Radio department of San Jose State college as a fine laboratory for developing research workers and technical assistants in the growing field of radio engineering, J.N.A. Hawkins, radio engineer of Eitel-McCullough, Inc. in San Bruno, California, Friday told visiting members of State radio organizations of employment prospects in this field.

The principles of the operation of vacuum tubes and their associated circuits, and of sound engineering and television are emphasized in the courses under the direction of Instructor Harry Engwicht. Of this aspect of radio Hawkins said:

"Vacuum tube design and manufacture is an extremely specialized field, and there are probably not 50 men in the whole United States who have given enough thought to the problem to qualify them as experts. This situation is unparalleled in any other similar industry, and it can be expected that any engineer who specializes in electronics will be able to command a large salary for several years to come."

It is customary for men with five year's of work at a university to be placed in plants such as that of Eitel-McCullough as technical assistants. Mr. Engwicht points out that of a class of 20 here at State, three or four men have sufficient background and experience in radio to command similar positions.

"Radio engineers are extremely scarce now and the demand is constantly increasing," Hawkins further elaborated. "Due to the fact that most of the really important patents covering the construction and operation of radio tubes and circuits either just have or are just about to run out, we can expect to see a large number of independent radio manufacturing and communications companies spring up during the next ten years."

"With the growth of the field of industrial electronics the uses for vacuum tubes are growing every day."

Art Department Shows Exhibit Paintings Of Indian School Children

Paintings done by children of various tribes attending the Santa Fe United States Indian school are now on display in room one of the Art building.

Mr. John French declares that the exhibit is an interesting one because, "Miss Dorothy Dunn, the instructor of these Indian children, has not attempted to Americanize her pupils but has encouraged, rather, the use of the subject matter and the techniques of their various peoples. A fine sense of pattern is shown by these Navajo, Sioux, Hopi, and Zuni children."

This work was shown at the recent Pacific Arts association meeting in San Francisco and at the annual meeting of the similar Western Arts association in Chicago.

Many Passengers Booked To 'Rock And Roll' Aboard The S. S. Serenade Friday

Vera J. Bright, Art Dealer, To Talk Wed. Noon

Vera Jones Bright, San Francisco art dealer, will give a talk Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in room 1 of the Art building on "Prints and Their Use In The School Room".

Next week an exhibition of reproductions of modern masters from Mrs. Bright's studios will be on display here from the 13th to the 17th.

At the invitation of Miss Estella Hoisholt of the Art faculty, Mrs. Bright will sell some of her small two and three cent reproductions of prints and paintings of all periods that are especially suitable for visual education.

Conflict Causes Shift In Picnics

Because the originally scheduled date, May 23, conflicted with the All-School picnic, Commerce students have changed the day of their annual picnic at Seaciff to Thursday, May 16.

All Commerce classes will be dismissed after 10 o'clock on the day of the picnic, which was attended last year by 150 students.

George Harrison, general chairman, will meet with his committees at 12:30 Wednesday in room 139 to complete preparations for the picnic. Alberta Jones is heading the food committee; Mel McDonald, entertainment; Ferne Hall, publicity; and Jack Bowers, transportation.

Humboldt Choir Gives Musical Program Here

The Humboldt A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Edmund Jeffers, presented a program of a wide variety of numbers yesterday morning in the Little Theater. The group was accompanied by the president of the college, Dr. Arthur Gist.

The choir presented sacred music of all types, including Gregorian chants, negro spirituals, English madrigals, and a Christmas carol, and other numbers.

The choir is on its annual concert tour, and was presented here by the Music department of San Jose State.

Members Of College Symphony To Play In Hollister

Members of the San Jose State symphony orchestra will appear in a concert Thursday evening in the Hollister High School auditorium. Mr. Adolph Otterstein, has chosen favorite selections from the last two concerts of this organization and is rehearsing a picked group of symphony members for this program.

Four hundred students are expected to "rock and roll to the rocking rolling rhythm of the sea" Friday evening aboard the S. S. Serenade, when the freshman class will pull anchor for a four hour cruise in musical waters, piloted by Carmen Dragon and his crew.

Life savers for all will be provided as the dancers enter the ship by the gangplank, and as no shipwrecks are expected, the life savers will be in the form of candy. As the ship's officers are slightly inexperienced, there has been some argument as to just where the steering wheel is to be placed, but at least there will be a steering wheel, whether on the quarter deck or the poop deck, or some other deck.

A KFRC singer will entertain the dancers, as will Marcella Brachhi from Palo Alto, who will give some tap dances. It has been decided to abandon the traditional ship fare (Continued on Page Four)

Phi Mu Alphas Get Very Scarlet Around The Face, Shoulders

Phi Mu Alpha adventurers returned from their excursion at Seaciff Sunday with red faces and touchy shoulders.

Our well-known reed instructor, Mr. Thomas Eagan, was bereft of his necessary equipment, namely, a bathy suit, while swimming in the ocean, and much to his embarrassment and chagrin was forced to keep company with the ocean while the rest of the party enjoyed their lunch on the beach.

The day's festivities were enjoyed by about fourteen fraternity members and their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Otterstein accompanied the group.

Plans are now being made by the fraternity for a week-end trip to the Pinnacles in the near future.

Otterstein Is Judge At California State Band Concert in S.F.

Mr. Adolph Otterstein, head of the Music department, acted as judge for the California State Band Tournament in San Francisco last Saturday in which twenty-three state bands participated.

Martin Pihl, vice-president of the Pacific Bandmasters Association and director of music in a San Francisco school, was general manager of the tournament.

Mr. Otterstein noted especially the number of San Jose State graduates who attended the tournament as directors of school bands. Among these were Mert Carlyon, director of the Watsonville High school band, Harold Bartlett, director of Tulare Grammar school band, Conolly Plumber, director of College City band, and Chester Mason, director of Rippon Band.

Other San Jose graduates attending were Forrest Baird, Leroy Deeg, and Bob Cantu, all former music students.

Attendance At Summer School Recommended

Dr. Freeland Explains Value Of Finishing College Early

Students who desire to complete their college career two or three quarters earlier are advised to attend several summer sessions and be ready to apply for a position a year before the regular time, by Dr. George Freeland, head of the Education department and Dean of Summer Session at San Jose State college.

A student of superior ability, he declares, should not be forced to take four or five full years of work if he can complete the same amount in three years and a few summer sessions.

"If you are likely to finish in December or March," he illustrates, "it is usually impossible to secure a position until the next fall. For this reason it is better to plan ahead and, by going to summer school, graduate with the June or August class, a year ahead."

It is advisable also to lighten up a program that is too heavy in regular sessions and attend a summer session to make up the other courses, Dr. Freeland states.

Students may secure more than one credential by attending summer school, which offers regular work in all departments and towards education credentials. Nine units may be earned with the possibility of adding extra work to complete requirements. Summer session this year will begin June 24 and end August 2.

Bullard To Officiate as Students Fete Faculty At Y Dinner Tonight

One hundred guests, among them a number of outstanding faculty members, will attend the Y.W.C.A. Student-Faculty Dinner to be held at Schofield Hall at 6:00 tonight. Every member of the Y.W. and Y.M. is entitled to bring one faculty member to the dinner as his guest. The banquet is being given primarily to stimulate a closer friendship between students and instructors, as was stressed at the recent "All-Campus" meeting.

Dr. Tully Knowles, president of the College of Pacific, will be the guest speaker of the evening. His topic will be "Recent Developments in Europe". Entertainment for the evening will consist of readings by Faracita Hall and vocal selections by the men's quartet.

Muriel Bullard is general chairman for the affair. Committees are as follows: decorations, Oriel Isham, Willa Johnson; entertainment, Lillian Ray; food, Vina Grimshaw; serving, Eleteth McQuillein.

Hostesses for the evening will be Helen Aihara, Catherine Gunn, Margaret Jones, Winifred Butler, Betty Foster, Bertha Fauquet, Oriel Isham, Gladys Neely, Barbara Wood, and Helen Tracy.

Tickets may be secured in the Y' room or from any Y' member. Those interested in attending the Student-Faculty dinner should sign up before noon today.

NEW SIDELIGHTS

Gillis To Impersonate Lincoln In Vachel Lindsay's Poem

Dramatization and picturization of poems will be two of the important new developments of the Verse Speaking choir in its spring concert Thursday and Friday in the Little Theater.

"The Golden Journey to Samarkand", by Flecker, will be acted partially in costume by the choir, its leader, Miss Elizabeth Jenks of the Speech Arts department, revealed today. This poem has an introduction especially written by Joel Carter, State student, and an additional section written by Dr. Carl Holliday, of the English department.

The poem relates the start of a trip from Bagdad to Samarkand by merchants and pilgrims. The women, who must stay in the city, (Continued on Page Four)

Cash Qualifies As Expert Shot

Earning a score of 232 out of a possible 250, George Cash, instructor of Gunnery classes at San Jose State college, maintained his expert rating with the war department and passed the Army Qualification Course "D" with high honors Sunday at Leona Heights Range.

The test included a possible score of 50 on the rapid fire stage. Mr. Cash was required to shoot from a distance of 200 yards with a 30.06 calibre rifle, using all positions—standing, sitting, kneeling, and prone.

In order to hold Army marksmanship rating, a requalification is necessary each year, and Mr. Cash, who has instructed classes in gunnery here for the past two years, has kept consistently in the expert class.

Studio Atmosphere To Prevail At Smock And Tam Dance Saturday

A studio idea will prevail at the Pall-et Smock and Tam dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 in Room 1 of the Art building, it was decided at a meeting of the women's art society last week.

Art majors, minors, and technicals with their guests are invited to attend and a ten-cent admission charge is payable at the door, according to Dorothy Nelson, general chairman.

A popular orchestra is being scheduled for the evening and will be announced later in the week.

Maryann Rucker and Marion Calker are also on the dance committee and are assisting with arrangements.

Just Among Ourselves

By DR. T. W. MacQUARRIE

Note: This column is personal between the president and the college. Outsiders are requested not to make use of the material.

It is easy to assume a relationship between our economic situation and a breakdown of character, but the shock is none the less severe when we find a student stealing from his fellows and well along the road to a career of common thievery. It's such an insidious sort of a thing. One copies a notebook or cribs an examination, picks up a stray fountain pen, fails to report the finding of a purse, and finally refuses to play the game according to the rules. Inhibitions break down one after another and more elaborate plans are necessary for further attacks upon society. Very soon innocent, hard working students, most of whom can not afford the losses, are reporting money gone, books taken, and jewelry snatched. Then we know another crook has come into the college.

GOOD CITIZENS

Of course, we say, "But you shouldn't leave your things around". Still, decent people, because of their very decency, assume that others have like standards and can not realize that every-day acquaintances may be predatory in the worst sense of the word. Some one who claims to be a good citizen is taking advantage of the good citizenship and of the innocence of his fellows. It's just sickening, so we set traps and finally pick out the twisted one. The college just completed one case of the kind last week. It was distressing in the extreme, but decency is entitled to protection and we had to ask the poor creature to leave the campus.

I was interested in reading the answers Mr. Robinson received to his questionnaire on American ideals. The letters ranged all the way from the intemperate and ignorant response to the fanatic to the most interesting, delightful, inspiring, and scholarly discussions of many of our outstanding citizens. What struck me particularly was the fact that many of the writers went back to the old-fashioned traits of good character. The American ideals of freedom, of tolerance, of majority rule, of service to the community, and all those fine principles of the fathers depended really upon the personal characters of the citizens. Honesty, fairness, decency, moral courage, all of the old-fashioned traits of good character are still the true foundation of American ideals.

WEST POINT IDEALS

If college does not give the student a chance to develop and establish high personal ideals there is not much hope for our national standards. It has been said that one can bank on the word of a West Pointer. My experience with many graduates of West Point makes me believe that the statement is true. The West Pointer expects to tell the truth, no matter what the consequences. He is not maudlin about it, but if he makes a statement at all, it is probably true to the best of his knowledge. If he is in doubt about his knowledge, he will insist upon an investigation before he hazards a statement.

Wouldn't it be great if the public could know that the San Jose State graduate was a person of character, could be depended upon to tell the truth, to work hard on his job and to conduct himself from day to day in fairness to his fellow men. I have often had a feeling that there should be some way of recognizing the fine quality of the student who must meet severe economic restrictions, but who still retains his self respect. Of course, it is true that the man of character needs no public recognition since his own personal satisfaction is sufficient reward, but a little pat on the back once in a while makes the days brighter.

NOTEBOOK NOTES

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What are you doing?" "I am waiting for a streetcar so that I can get home when the mail man arrives."

Randy Smith caught the idea. He asks the reader if he would care to join the chain gang. Why shouldn't he? Everybody and his brother asks the same question.

Tho those considerate critics, who took exception to my views on pacifism, might get a slant on human psychology in this send-a-dime craze. Most people do not really believe in the idea, but it might work. That just about brings home the bacon: "But it might work."

IS MY FACE CRIMSON !!!

My mother has just brought in the mail, and my foolish brother has received three letters with a dollar bill in each. Go on, tell me there is a stork.

Another week of this and they will have me believing in pacifism.

"Go Into Your Dance" came to town last Saturday, and it is getting considerable play. Al Jolson works plenty hard to put the show over, but in spite of his efforts, the show drags at times.

In Hollywood they have an idea that a musical comedy should have elaborate sets to decorate the show. It is on this point that a few people disagree. Personally, more simplicity with more emphasis on the song and dance would take those boring routine minutes out of the show.

"About a Quarter to Nine" still seems to be the money. It has what it takes to go into the dance folios.

Mae West's press agents succeeded in making May 1st, Mae Day.

WHAT'S THE REASON, SIR

Just about the time when one believes he is all set for a grade that will put a smile on Mother's tired face, the professor runs in an examination that would send the Brain-trust back home. And blue cards come out next week.

Oh, well, grades are not everything.

A story that came this way laid a certain typewriter pounder in the aisle. It goes something like this. A Sunday School teacher asked her class to bring a nickel next Sunday for the foreign missions, and each member should have an appropriate Bible verse ready when he dropped his nickel into the box.

On the appointed Sunday, most of the class brought their offering. Percy Smith said, "The Lord loves a cheerful giver," as he dropped his nickel. Algernon Schmaltz contributed, "He who gives receives three-fold." (Please do not write in and tell the editor these quotations are not found in the Bible. They may have come out of the Police Gazette.)

Angus MacPherson was the last to reach the collection box. He stepped up, dropped five pennies and said, "A fool and his money are soon parted."

Fresno Relays Next Big Track Event

Once again it looks as if the West Coast Relays, Fresno State college's annual spring track and field festival, will see one or two world's records go down before the efforts of the competing athletics. At least one or two, maybe more.

The Relays, with an enviable record of past performances, will feature the work, among others, of a couple of Stanford weight men who last week, in practice tossed the discus 170 feet and better. Inasmuch as the world's record in this event is 169 feet, it is not too much to suppose that both of the boys may crack the old mark.

Phil Levy, who is more or less of a newcomer to the ranks of the athletic 400, as it were, and Gordon "Slinger" Dunn, the Indians' mammoth shot putter, discus thrower, and all-round strong man, are the two athletes in question. Up against competition of the calibre furnished by men like Ken Carpenter, for instance, of U.S.C. who has been threatening all year to hurl the platter a record distance, the two sons of Stanford should be forced to do their best work in order to win. And their best, as practice throws during the past week have shown, is a championship performance.

Entries have been coming in regularly, with high school, junior colleges, colleges, and what have you expressing a desire to compete, and by the time the meet is under way it is expected that a record number of participants will be run- (Continued on Page Three)

EX-GRID STARS AIDING DEGROOT WITH PRACTICE

Five Weeks Remaining For Spring Football

With only five more weeks of spring practice in which to get a team that will win the Conference championship this year, Coach Dud DeGroot is now putting on the pressure, to find out who will represent the Spartans on the gridiron. A Chalk talk yesterday was the beginning. This meeting outlined the next five weeks work, and the Spartan gridders were told of what paces they would be put through.

The climax of Spring Practice will be a full-length game to be played June 8 in honor of Home Coming Day. This show will give the fans a good line on the future of the DeGroot organization that will be put into real action next fall. Also the alumni will be present at this game, and the improvement of the Spartan football organization should gather the admiration of said alumni. In building up to this game, Coach DeGroot will give the men a line on what is to be expected next fall.

The next five weeks will also find DeGroot's coaching staff hitting the five mark. Now that track season is over, the gridders will find Coach Hubbard telling them new tricks of how to get the pigskin over more chalk lines. Along with Bill Hubbard pushing the backfield men along, another Hubbard will be giving the ends the benefit of his experience as a Spartan and Olympic Club wingman. This young man has been roaming around the country for the last few months playing exhibition ball, and is now going to settle down each afternoon on the San Carlos turf to see what he can do to the Spartan ends. In case you don't know who this is by now, his name is Wesley "Bud" Hubbard. Then there is Ex-Captain Simon who will go to work on the tackles. "Si" has used up his four years of competition for the Spartan Varsity, and will now taper off his college football career with a job of helping Dud. The other two coaches to make up the five are of course Head-man DeGroot and Freshman Coach Portal.

So far during the last five weeks of Spring Practice, Coach DeGroot has just been trying to get a "line" on his charges for the coming season. All workouts were in fundamentals with special emphasis on the finding out of what can be expected of each man. There are those men who did not make their letter last year as a member of the squad and have the stuff this season to make the grade. And then there are those men who graduated from the Frosh squad of last year who will try for a varsity berth this year. The third group is the set of Junior college transfers who have come to finish their football careers at San Jose. All of these men must be segregated in the mind of the Head man. This was the fundamental reason for Spring practice, and reports have been quite encouraging as to the '35 edition of Spartan pigskin toters.

All of which brings up the ques-

State Net Team Fails To Break In F.W.C. Win

Not faring so well on the wind-swept courts of the Sutter Lawn Club in Sacramento, the Spartan netmen were unable to reach the finals in the Far Western Conference tournament held over the week-end.

George Rotholtz and Fred Keeble made a great bid for title honors, but were defeated in the semi-final round by the Fresno State team of John Boone and Bob Phelps. After winning the first set 7-5 the San Jose team dropped the next two sets 6-2 and 6-4. The final series of games kept the gallery on edge throughout as the local team was always within striking distance of the clever Fresno combination.

In the singles division, Bob Smith dropped a hard-fought match to Bob Herz of Nevada. The match went three sets with the hard-hitting Wolf just able to outlast the Spartan representative.

ROTHOLTZ OUTSTANDING
Officials of the meet were almost unanimous in naming Rotholtz the most accomplished player in the tourney. It was thought by the opponent's coaches that he would have been a top-notch contender for the singles championship which was finally won by another Fresnan, Earl Shalley.

Specs Expects To Be Seen By SKD Rick Spectators

By heck . . . THE PROFESSOR LOOKED OVER HIS SPECS for the last time this morning . . . because Sigma Kappa Delta is going to check . . . the good ones and the wrecks . . . And 11 o'clock is the deadline for turning in YOUR mentally-manipulated masterpieces of limericks.

The feature desk this week is absolutely overwhelmed with entries who gave limericky reasons why the prof looked over his specs, and the entries entered up to 11 this morning will be winners tomorrow.

tion of what and who is going to be in the headlines of this paper next fall. In answering this question DeGroot said that as yet everybody on the squad has been doing well, and no one person has been completely outstanding. Another question that was to give an inkling as to the effectiveness of the four Junior College transfers was put to the football chief. His answer gave all indication that these boys were doing right well for themselves which should be good news to all the Spartan supporters.

Intramural Activities

Today's baseball schedule finds the undefeated sophomores meeting seniors, who have yet to register their first win. If the seniors can get all their men to show up for this game there is a chance that they might upset the title-minded sophs.

In the other game on the schedule for this noon, the freshmen and junior teams, which are tied for second place, will meet in what should be a hotly contested game.

Thursday's games found the freshmen mopping up on the short-handed seniors by a 5-1 score. The sophomores were just able to stave off the late rally of the juniors to eke out a 9-7 victory.

Kelly's pitching featured for the Frosh, with good work in the outfield, particularly in left. Sweezey, soph pitcher, although hit hard at times, held the junior sluggers in bay at opportune times.

Following are the matches which must be played this week:

- Lanphear vs. Brown
- Higashuichi vs. Wetterstrom
- Felse vs. Schaeffer
- Collins vs. Himeda
- Hill vs. Kershner
- Hickman-Lindner vs. Wetterstrom-Koshenta
- Rhines-Partner vs. Lanphear-Fencil
- Hickman-Watson vs. Rader-Snell
- Lanphear-Wetterstrom vs. winner Edmonds-Cramer and Brown Salameda

But a squad of 25 athletes, one of the biggest ever sent to the Relays by a junior college, will be coming up from Los Angeles J. C., and a number of other institutions are sending sizeable delegations of athletes to the meet.

Alpha Pi Omegas Annex Inter-Frat Track Meet Easily

Der Deutsche Verein Entertains Candidates

Prospective candidates to Der Deutsche Verein, German honor society, were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Newby by members of the society.

Gertrude Brekelbaum, president of the society, explained the aims and purposes of Der Deutsche Verein, and Walter Rezhiek entertained the group with violin selections.

Several plays, one of which will be presented by the society in German, were discussed.

The remainder of the evening was spent in singing German songs after which refreshments were served.

 try to prolong their stay as long as possible. This part of the poem, known as the women's lament, was written by Dr. Carl Holliday. Abraham Lincoln will be impersonated by Hugh Gillis, also of the Speech Arts department, in the background as the choir recites Vachel Lindsay's poem, "Abraham Lincoln", Miss Jenks stated.

NEW SIDELIGHTS

These two new sidelights have never been attempted by the choir before, but were suggested by audience members of previous concerts to Miss Jenks.

Tickets for both performances at 25 cents each may be obtained from 11-2 in front of Morris Dailey auditorium, or from 9-4 in room 57. Those who expect to attend should get their tickets early, although there will be no reserved seats.

Everything that Science really knows about making cigarettes is used in making CHESTERFIELDS

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

The cigarette industry could never have been what it is except for these modern cigarette machines . . .

They make good cigarettes and smokers know each individual cigarette receives the most careful inspection.

You'd hardly believe such attention to detail possible unless you could see it with your own eyes.

When the Chesterfield tobacco comes to the cigarette making machines it has been blended and cross-blended.

Then it is cut into long even shreds just the right size to smoke right and burn right.

Every Chesterfield Cigarette has to be perfectly made to get by our inspectors.

Until you open the package yourself the cigarettes are scarcely touched by human hands.

Mild ripe tobaccos, skilled workers and the most modern up-to-date machinery all help to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.
