

High: 77°
Low: 51°

Ramen house
a 'noodley' affair

PAGE 6

Whitney Ellard:
Perils of a curvy
bottom

PAGE 7

Follow us on Twitter
@spartandaily

Become a fan
on Facebook
facebook.com/
spartandaily

SPARTAN DAILY

Serving San José State University since 1934

Monday, May 2, 2011

spartandaily.com

Volume 136, Issue 47

U.S. forces kill Osama bin Laden

Staff Report

Osama bin Laden, the mastermind behind al-Qaida and the world's most wanted terrorist since the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, was killed by a U.S. operation, President Barack Obama announced on Sunday.

In an address to the nation, Obama said bin Laden was killed in a "targeted operation" in Abbottabad, a highland town north of Islamabad, Pakistan.

The operation started with an intelligence lead last August, and culminated in a firefight during which bin Laden was killed.

The U.S. is in the possession of Osama's body, according to initial reports from multiple U.S. television networks.

Students at SJSU were quick to react to the breaking news.

Alex Moreno, a senior cultural anthropology major, reflected on the impact of bin Laden's death.

"I just have mixed feelings about it. It's like 'Wow, after 10 years he's been found,'" Moreno said. "I question is it really relevant? Because of the time span, is it really a big deal? I'm interested in what's going to happen next with the war in Afghanistan. Is the war going to end?"

Bin Laden, 54, was a member of a wealthy Saudi family and was on the FBI's Most Wanted Fugitives List since 1999.

Al-Qaida has taken responsibility for the bombings of U.S. embassies in 1998 in Tanzania and Kenya. More than 200 people were killed in the attacks.

Al-Qaida has also claimed responsibility for other attacks on other symbols of U.S. power around the globe. It has spawned local organizations in hot spots from Iraq to Afghanistan.

Bernard Lachmann, a graduate student in urban planning, said bin Laden was an international figure and that his death impacts the whole globe.

Photo Courtesy: McClatchy Tribune

Osama bin Laden from FBI's top 10 most wanted list.

"In Europe, of course we have to deal with this topic, it's a safety topic," he said.

In a televised address, Obama said, "justice has been done" as he disclosed that American military and CIA operatives had finally cornered bin Laden, who had eluded them for nearly a decade, and shot him to death at a compound in Pakistan.

"For over two decades, bin Laden has been Al Qaida's leader and symbol," the president said. "The death of bin Laden marks the most significant achievement to date in our nation's effort to defeat al-Qaida. But his death does not mark the end of our effort."

Gina Leone, a credential/masters student in critical research academy, said she was unsure about what bin Laden's death means after all these years.

"I think that people wanted him (bin Laden) dead just because it makes them feel safer," she said. "I feel like there's a lot of other people that did the same thing he does, so I don't how much of an impact it will have."

FOOTBALL

New talents tested in spring scrimmage

Photo: Jesse Jones / Spartan Daily

Two San Jose State football players jump for the ball during the 2011 San Jose State University Spring Football Game on Saturday.

see SPORTS page 5

OBITUARY

Former softball pitcher: Passionate athlete, loving friend

Whitney Ellard
Staff Writer

To her former SJSU softball teammates, Deanna Mauer was the free-spirited and go-to friend everyone loved to be around and to her coaches, a valued player.

Mauer, 23 year old 2010 SJSU graduate, died after being rear-ended during a multi-vehicle crash on Interstate 405 in Westminister, Calif., last Wednesday, according to Orange County Coroner's Office Officials.

According to the Orange County Register, Mauer and a driver of a Porsche both slowed to stop because of a backup on the freeway. A driver of a third vehicle failed to stop, hitting the back of Mauer's Hyundai, forcing it into the Porsche. Mauer's Hyundai and the third vehicle ended up on the center divider.

Mauer was pronounced dead around 6 p.m. after being taken to the UC Irvine Medical Center.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation.

Mauer's mother, Dawn, described her daughter as a "passionate, dedicated and full of life" individual.

Deanna was born on June 14, 1987 in Long Beach, Calif. Her mother described her as a fun-loving person with a huge heart, saying she was "very strong willed and energetic."

According to the SJSU athletics website, before coming to SJSU, Mauer attended Central Arizona College where she played two seasons. She was named to the All-Conference team in 2007 and also played on the USA National Junior College Athletic Association All-stars in Bangkok, Thailand.

Deanna came to SJSU in the Fall of 2007 as a health science major. She began her SJSU career as a pitcher and was one of women's softball coach Peter Turner's first recruits.

"It just saddens me," he said. "It breaks my heart."

Turner called Mauer "little one." Saying she was "small in stature but huge in heart when she competed."

Photo Courtesy Spartan Athletics

see MAUER page 3

Former pitcher Deanna Mauer died at the age of 23.

Longer library hours extend to City College students

Whitney Ellard
Staff Writer

Students may find themselves spending more time searching for a quiet place to study in the King Library.

This semester San Jose City College's Associated Students entered into a contractual agreement with the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Library that allows its students access to extended study hours along with SJSU students.

"We've had numerous requests from individuals as well as representatives from different community colleges wondering if there was some way we could allow students who are part of their institution access to the study hours," said Ruth Kifer, dean of the university library.

Like SJSU students, SJCC students must present ID cards to King Library security upon entering or staying after hours.

Senior science major Diamond Cook said she is open to sharing extended hours with SJCC students.

"I actually don't mind it at all," she said. "I think they should have a place to study late at night just like state."

Kifer said the payment is comparable because of the fact that the library's extended hours are supported by student fees.

"It's Associated Student fees from other colleges," Kifer said.

Linda Meyer, director of San Jose City College Library, said because of the time-consuming nature of the payment process and invoicing, SJSU extended the courtesy to allow SJCC students to enter the King Library for free during extended hours.

"Students were really excited about the 24-hour privileges," Meyer said.

According to Meyer, San Jose City College Library's hours will be reduced.

The library will close earlier in the evenings and will be closed Saturdays during the fall semester.

"It is helpful for community college students to get used to a four-year school atmosphere," Meyer said.

Students also expressed concern about allowing access to additional colleges.

"I'm not sure we should open it up to all colleges because it could impact us negatively," Cook said.

Meyer said she believes the access SJCC students will have at the King Library is a big benefit.

"There are databases there that we would never in a million years be able to carry," she said. "They have access to a quiet, safe study area and to a lot of our students, that's important."

KING LIBRARY EXTENDED SPRING SEMESTER HOURS

Monday - Thursday:
9:00 p.m. to midnight

Sunday:

7:00 p.m. to midnight

The King Library's full schedule for finals week is expected to be released in early May.

Financial literacy is vital for the future, professionals say

Leo Postovoit
Staff Writer

SJSU students brought 17 financial institutions and organizations to campus to educate the community about finance last week.

As a part of "Financial Literacy for the Community," workshops were held every hour-and-a-half, aligned to class periods, in Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Library and Clark Hall.

Sociology lecturer Michael Fallon was the lead organizer, combining efforts in his Contemporary Issues course and SJSU's Center for Community for Learning and Leadership to organize a finance event for the community.

"We're disappointed more students didn't take advantage of this opportunity," said Fallon, co-director of the Center, in response to the estimated turnout of 100 to 150 students and community guests.

Fallon said the locations probably kept attendance down, and that if the event was to happen next year he'd want it outside near more foot traffic.

"Financial literacy should be important to the community," he said. "It is to us."

Fallon and his students, including senior sociology major Katie Louey, fundraised for marketing and food to support the event.

"A lot of my friends say they know how to budget," Louey said. "I don't know if they really do."

Students were outside the King Library, in the main area on the first floor handing out flyers, encouraging library guests to attend seminars and meet with financial professionals.

One of these professionals, Greg Meyer, Meriwest Credit Union community relations manager, directed a financial information session titled "Know Credit, No Problems: A guide to understanding credit reports and credit scores."

Meyer's presentation brought a tangible understanding of how interest rates and credit reports work, complete with color handouts paid for by the organizers.

"Our parents didn't teach us everything about money," Meyer said. "You have to learn it somewhere."

"Financial education is important in a time like this," said Neil Hopper, a Wells Fargo personal banker and credit product specialist. "After the whole financial collapse, it's important for SJSU students to have the skills to succeed and not fall into that same trap."

Hopper described the crowd that attended his seminar, "Hands on Banking," as eager to learn.

"Students that attended today were more than cheeks in a seat," he said. "They actually took notes. It's nice to know that people care about their future."

The FICO Score

Getting a loan depends on this algorithm first established by the Fair Isaac Corporation in 1956. The credit reporting bureaus use software that use the same algorithm.

Typical Student Loan

$20,000 — $5,000 a year for supplies, tuition with other aid x 4 years
+ 6.8% Annual Percentage Rate* ($9,598 of interest over life of loan)
At $200/month it would take 148 months (12 years) to pay off loans
Interest is 32.4% of the loan

Extreme Student Loan **

$82,656 — Estimated on-campus attendance cost for 2011 ($20,664) x 4 years
+ 6.8% Annual Percentage Rate* ($42,020 of interest over life of loan)
At $800/month it would take 156 months (13 years) to pay off loans
Interest is 33.7% of the loan

Paying for most of school via Credit card

$65,000 — $16,250 x 4 years
+ 18% Annual Percentage Rate ($182,765 of interest over life of loan)
At $1000/month it would take 248 months (21 years) to pay off loans
Interest is 73.7% of the loan

* 6.8% is the unsubsidized Stafford loan APR rate. Most of the loans are subsidized, as low as 4.5% APR, according to staffordloan.com. Actual cost and time to pay it back is likely slightly lower.

 Stafford Loans have a maximum loan amount for dependent students of $31,000. Students in need of this amount of money would need to seek a private student loan, which can range from 6% to 13.5%, according to finaid.org. Actual cost and time to pay it back is likely slightly higher.

 Average credit card APR is 14.67%, according to creditcards.com. Students are likely to get higher rate. Similarly, the credit limit isn't likely to be higher than $1,000 for students. Scenario is unlikely. Figures above assume a student completes his/her education in four years (typically longer) and the cost of attendance of 2010-11 over the four years (which increases annually).

Illustrations: Leo Postovoit / Spartan Daily

How long bad credit items stay on your record

Heads of corporate giant eBay visit SJSU

Nate Morotti
Staff Writer

In the last decade or so, people have had a chance to see firsthand the rise of a company dedicated to giving people the ability to sell their old junk to other people online — a company called eBay.

The Engineering Auditorium hosted 80 people on Wednesday who had come to listen to Mark Carges, chief technology officer and senior vice president for eBay's global products division.

Carges, who has been with eBay for the last two years after leaving his position as the executive vice president of the business interaction division for software company BEA Systems Inc, was educated at UC Berkeley and New York University.

Carges was showcasing the way eBay works as well as new features from eBay.

"We at eBay are all about thinking in the local, the global and the mobile," he said. "If a guy wants to sell his car on eBay he can post it online from his house, check its status on his phone and sell it to another person across the globe. This is the world's largest marketplace."

One of the new features from eBay that was being showcased was a new function for smartphones called "RedLaser," an application that lets you scan the barcodes on items in stores and immediately find better deals for the same item online.

Other upcoming features from eBay are a program called "Milo," which lets you look up your favorite stores

"This is the world's largest marketplace."

Mark Carges
Chief technology officer and check their in-store inventory, and "Where," a program which locates shops and restaurants in your town based on criteria that you search for.

"eBay is one of the world's largest economies," says Raji Arasu, eBay vice president of trading product development. "We have 94 million active customers, 25 million sellers with 200 million items for sale in 50,000 categories. It's what we are all about, connecting buyers and sellers."

Another new feature from eBay is the company's label printing service, which lets sellers print labels for outgoing items right from the website, Carges said.

"It's really cool, the way they keep finding ways to improve the users experience and make it more convenient," said Matt L., a student who attended the presentation. He refused to give his name for confidentiality reasons.

BRING US YOUR WOMEN'S & MEN'S CLOTHES :: CURRENT STYLES
NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY :: CASH ON THE SPOT :: FRIENDLY BUYERS

Bring Your Fashion

CROSSROADS TRADING CO.

SAN JOSE: 1959 west san carlos 408.292.6100
SAN JOSE: 1008 blossom hill rd #e 408.269.1000
www.crossroadstrading.com | www.facebook.com/crossroadstrading

Q&A with LA Times columnist, SJSU alum

Leo Postovoit
Staff Writer

As a columnist for the Los Angeles Times, Steve Lopez has written about hundreds of subjects over the years, but none more potent than the story of Nathaniel Anthony Ayers, Jr., a musician from Ohio who dropped out of the famed music school at Juilliard. The relationship between the two was the subject for Lopez's book, "The Soloist," which was made into a motion picture in 2009. Lopez, an SJSU alumnus, returned to his alma mater last week to speak to the School of Journalism and Mass Communications, which showed his film, and to deliver the keynote address at the Honors Convocation. Lopez received a Honorary Doctoral degree for his legacy as a journalist, winning dozens of awards, including the DuPont award for public service reporting from Columbia University.

Can you tell us how Dwight Bentel inspired you in terms of finding stories?

Some lessons are obvious, but sometimes we walk right past them. Some of the most obvious are the best. We've got an assignment and then we forget to do the most basic thing — keep your eyes and ears open and follow your instincts.

Dwight Bentel told a story here about a Spartan Daily sports writer who went off to Hawaii to cover a football game. The bombing of Pearl Harbor breaks out, and Bentel says, "We've got our man on the scene!"

When he shows up a week or two later, he asks the writer where is the story.

"There was no story on account of the war," he (the writer) said. It was hilarious. Everyone cracked up.

Similarly, a lot of people walked past Nathaniel Anthony Ayers. It's a street musician — big deal. This guy looks like he's got issues, and do you really want to get sucked into that? You start asking questions and they lead you to a place they never imagined they would.

Did you really roll Ayers' cart from Skid Row to the outdoor theater at the Walt Disney Concert Hall?

No. (laughs) We rolled it to the Los Angeles Times garage (located one block from the concert hall) and walked up. In the process of writing the movie, you take a 300-page book and create a 120-page script. You need more dramatization. The characters need to develop. They start lower and finish higher. That's how movies go.

They dramatize reality, but I still felt they said all the things I wanted them to say. It didn't matter to me that I ended up divorced. What mattered to me was that they saw a kind-of-scary-looking guy on the street, helping him, and getting helped along the way. It goes both ways, it's gratifying.

Since the movie was released, you have been in an active role advocating on behalf of mental health rights. You're clearly advocating on behalf of something, which breaks the rules that most journalists follow. How did your editors at the Los Angeles Times treat this?

I'm a columnist, so the rules are different to begin with. Even as a columnist, I broke some of the rules, but not without the permission of the editors. I said, "Look, I have to get more personally involved with this guy, because we owe it to him. I can't just abandon him. I've got to try to help him get help."

They understood, and said don't pull back. If anything, they said, "You have an obligation. We have someone who has learned about this field. Why shouldn't you go and speak and write about it in an opinion that is well-informed about your experiences?"

It's not something I would want the reporter to do at San Jose State that's covering administration. It's why you have different departments at a newspaper — you have someone digging up the details, and then someone else writing an opinion on it.

You, though, could write about the impact about an issue and get a more personal perspective that helps get the point across. It doesn't mean you surrender your objectivity.

If the administration does something that people are going to be screwed by, you have got to go and tell the story.

What's next?

I'd like to keep writing columns for the Los Angeles Times, and do what I've always done for the past 15, 20 years — write a book on the side. I'd also like to keep doing a bit of television. I'm now doing a weekly TV commentary for an Los Angeles station. I like all of that, and there's nothing I'd rather do. I couldn't see myself in a desk job or a government job.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY ...

On May 2, 1983
Spartan Daily reported that ...

- (Above) The Student Union hosted a preview of the theatre arts department's production of "Fiddler on the Roof," set to open Friday of that week.
- A hostage hoax prompted a 20-minute evacuation of Sweeney Hall after an anonymous caller said he was holding a prisoner hostage and made a series of demands.
- Counselor Wiggys Sivertsen accused the Army and Air Force ROTC of discriminating against homosexuals.
- Demolition of Spartan City, a housing complex for married students at 10th and Humboldt Streets, began to make room for new student housing units.

MAUER From Page 1

Later in her career, Turner said Mauer suffered arm issues.

Turner said he was most proud of Deanna for receiving her degree.

After college Mauer planned to pursue a career in cosmetology, but Dawn said it was a career she did not pursue.

"She didn't go into cosmetology although she had more hair styles and colors than most people we know," her mother said.

Mauer worked at Whole Foods after she graduated, and her mother said she liked to mentor children and was helping her former coach, Carey Baker, with the softball team at San Juan Hills High School where she was a four-year letter winner.

Former softball teammate Nicole Luna-Pickens said Mauer was a great friend who always made herself available regardless of what she may have been going through personally.

"There was never a dull moment with her," Luna-Pickens said. "Her personality and sense of humor will not easily be forgotten."

Danielle Brown, an SJSU alumna and former softball teammate, described Mauer as a nonjudgmental person who always knew how to make someone feel better.

She said upon meeting Mauer, she made her feel as if they were old friends. Brown also reflected upon a time she and Deanna were in her car and it lost control.

"It was raining and my car spun out and we did about two doughnuts and neither of us said anything," Brown said. "When we stopped she just said 'Whoa, we just walked away from that with a flat tire.'"

"She was very dedicated and loyal. She was one of the most confident people I knew."

Former teammate Alissa Murphy said she is heartbroken to have lost an amazing friend.

"I knew, as both a teammate and friend, that I could come to Deanna whenever I needed a shoulder to cry on or just smile," she said. "She was there for anyone and everyone who needed her."

Outside of softball, Murphy said Mauer also enjoyed crocheting.

"I remember taking trips with her to Michael's (Craft Store) to get yarn so we could just sit on the couch like old ladies making blankets and scarves," Murphy said.

Close family friend Colleen Krueger said she is grateful to have had Deanna in her family's lives.

"I never heard anyone say a bad thing about her," Krueger said. "Every girl I know who played with her and every coach I know who has had her on their team have spoken highly of her since she was 6 years old."

Mauer is survived by her mother Dawn Mauer, father Howard Mauer, brothers John and Mark Minnott and sister Christy Mauer.

Funeral arrangements have been made by Deanna's family. The viewing will be held on Wednesday at Dilday Funeral Home in Huntington Beach, Calif., from 5 p.m. - 9 p.m.

The funeral will be held Thursday at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in Huntington Beach at 2 p.m. The burial will follow at Good Shepherd Cemetery.

SJSU women's softball will honor Mauer on Friday and Saturday at the SJSU softball at the games against Hawaii. Deanna's parents Dawn and Howard Mauer are expected to be in attendance.

Let Spartan Daily know what you want to read about for the chance to win a $25 Yard House gift card.

Contest Rules:

1. Find Spartan Daily on Facebook and look for the status labeled CONTEST on May 5, 2011.
2. Comment and tell us what you would like to read about in the paper.
3. 13 winners will be chosen at random from the list of eligible comments.

Contest open only to current SJSU students (excluding Spartan Daily staff). Current SJSU ID required to claim prize. Winners will be notified via Facebook. Limit one entry per person.

NEWS BRIEFS

International

NATO doubts Libyan claim that airstrike killed Gadhafi's son

Compiled From
McClatchy Tribune

BENGHAZI, Libya — NATO has found no evidence to support claims by the Libyan government that an airstrike in Tripoli killed Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi's youngest son and three grandchildren, two military officials said Sunday.

What the Libyan government called a residence — where Gadhafi's son, Saif al Arab, and three grandchildren lived when the structure was struck Saturday night — was, in fact, a command and control center with a bunker underneath, the NATO and U.S. officials said on the condition of anonymity because they weren't authorized to speak publicly about NATO's findings.

The officials also rejected suggestions that the attack targeted Gadhafi. Regime officials said that Gadhafi and his wife were at the Tripoli home of their son when the airstrike took place; both escaped unharmed.

"We have seen no evidence of civilian casualties," the NATO official said. "We do not target individuals and have no real way of knowing who is inside."

The officials said they couldn't say the regime was lying, simply that they couldn't confirm the claims. Privately, however, officials at the Pentagon suggested that the regime claimed that civilians and children died by a NATO strike to divide an already conflicted international community over its effort here. In Benghazi, the rebel capital, residents were dubious, noting that Gadhafi has said family members have died at the world community's hands before.

After the U.S. attacked the regime's military headquarters in 1986, Gadhafi said his adopted daughter had been killed. Even now, Libyans aren't certain whether that's true.

NATO refused to say what kind of aircraft was involved in Saturday's attack, saying it didn't want to link the attack to one country.

Western officials have been divided in recent weeks over whether Gadhafi is a legitimate military target under the U.N. Security Council resolution that authorized the air campaign to protect civilians.

U.S. Defense Secretary Robert Gates said last week that NATO was "not targeting Gadhafi specifically" but that his command-and-control facilities were legitimate targets.

Libyan crowds attack British, Italian embassies; U.N. compound looted

Compiled From
McClatchy Tribune

BENGHAZI, Libya — Enraged crowds attacked the embassies of Britain and Italy in the Libyan capital of Tripoli on Sunday after an international airstrike that Libyan officials say killed the youngest son of President Moammar Gadhafi and three of the dictator's grandchildren.

The United Nations compound was reportedly looted and the agency was said to be planning to move out its remaining personnel.

The intensified bombing campaign by NATO warplanes appears to have accelerated the pace of developments in Libya, where rebels backed by NATO air power are fighting to oust Gadhafi after 40 years as the nation's absolute ruler.

NATO defended Saturday's airstrike after criticism from Russia and Venezuela, among others, that the alliance was overstepping its mandate to protect Libyan civilians and may be targeting the Libyan leader.

On Sunday, NATO officials said their attacks targeted "a known command and control building" and were not designed to assassinate the Libyan leader. Targeted assassination would violate both international and U.S. law.

However, a NATO official noted that "command and control centers don't operate themselves," suggesting some ambiguity in the defining of targets.

Washington and several European allies have said Gadhafi must step down, but that the bombing strikes are strictly meant to protect civilians, not target him.

In the past two days, Gadhafi has reportedly twice been close to locations where NATO missiles struck.

Britain's Foreign Office on Sunday announced the expulsion of Libya's ambassador after news that Libyans had attacked the British Embassy in Tripoli. Foreign Minister William Hague said Ambassador Omar Jelban "had 24 hours to leave the country," saying the Libyan regime "had failed to protect diplomatic missions in Tripoli."

"I condemn the attacks on the British Embassy premises in Tripoli as well as the diplomatic missions of other countries," Hague said.

He said the Vienna Conventions required Gadhafi's regime "to protect diplomatic missions in Tripoli. By failing to do so that regime has once again breached its international responsibilities and obligations."

"The attacks against diplomatic missions will not weaken our resolve to protect the civilian population in Libya," Hague said.

Libyan authorities said a NATO strike hit a house where Gadhafi, his wife, and other family and friends were socializing. They said Gadhafi and his wife survived, but Gadhafi's son, Seif Arab Gadhafi, 29, and three of the leader's grandchildren were killed.

SPARTA GUIDE

Sparta Guide is provided to students and faculty, free of charge. The deadline to submit is at noon, three working days prior to desired publication date. Entry forms are available in Spartan Daily, DBH 209. Entries can be emailed to spartandailyeditorial@sjsu.edu titled "sparta guide." Space restrictions may require editing or exclusion of submissions. Entry is not guaranteed. Entries are printed in order of which they are received.

Tuesday, May 3

7 p.m., Engineering Auditorium

Arab Revolutions teach-in

Contact: Sharat Lin @ 408-297-2299

Wednesday, May 4

5:30 p.m. - 7 p.m., A.S. Child Development Center

A.S. Child Development Center Art Faire & Silent Auction

Contact: Analisa Perez @ analisa.perez@sjsu.edu or 408.924.6988

Thursday, May 5

Noon - 1:30 p.m., Mod A

Obtaining a Part-time or Seasonal Job Workshop

Monday, May 9

1 p.m. - 3:00 p.m., Career Center

Drop-in hours for part-time/seasonal job counseling

Tuesday, May 10

10 a.m. - noon, Career Center

Drop-in hours for part-time/seasonal job counseling

Saturday, May 14

6 p.m. - midnight, Fourth Street Summit Center

A Wish Come True gala by Delta Sigma Pi — Theta Chi chapter

Contact: Arleen Cantor @ 650-740-5660

LIVING INVESTIGATOR. UNDEAD CLIENTS. ZOMBIE PARTNER.
NO PULSE? NO PROBLEM.

BASED ON ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST POPULAR COMICS

BRANDON ROUTH SAM HUNTINGTON ANITA BRIEM PETER STORMARE TAYE DIGGS

DYLAN DOG
DEAD OF NIGHT

WRITTEN BY KEVIN MUNROE

PG-13

WWW.DYLANDOGDEADOFNIGHT.COM
WWW.FACEBOOK.COM/DYLANDOGDEADOFNIGHT

STARTS FRIDAY, APRIL 29 AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU!
CHECK LISTINGS FOR THEATRES AND SHOWTIMES

COMMENT ON THESE STORIES AT
SPARTANDAILY.COM

WORRIED? STRESSED OUT? DEPRESSED?
There are answers in this book.

BUY AND READ
DIANETICS
THE MODERN SCIENCE OF MENTAL HEALTH
BY L. RON HUBBARD

May you never be the same again. PRICE: $20.00

HUBBARD DIANETICS FOUNDATION
1865 Lundy Ave., San Jose (408) 383-9400
www.dianeticsanjose.com

FOOTBALL

Fresh, familiar faces shine in Spring Game scrimmage

Ron Gleeson
Staff Writer

Spartan blue and gold scattered both sidelines at Spartan Stadium on Saturday as the SJSU football team held its annual Spring Game.

The White squad out-dueled the Blue squad 21-7 behind touchdown passes by each of the three candidates vying for the starting quarterback position when the football season begins in the fall.

Head coach Mike MacIntyre said he was pleased with what he saw from his team on Saturday.

"It went about how I hoped it would," he said. "The game told us we can run the ball a little bit, our quarterbacks can hit the open receivers, our secondary and defensive backs and linebackers are able to make some plays."

The scoring started off when the White squad's sophomore quarterback Dasmen Stewart connected with junior tight end Ryan Otten for an 11-yard touchdown pass.

Redshirt freshman quarterback Blake Jurich was heard from in the second quarter when he connected with senior wide receiver Josh Harrison on a 67-yard touchdown pass down the middle of the field.

The reception was the game's longest play, stretching the White squad's lead to 14-0.

Senior quarterback Matt Faulkner, who is the only candidate with playing experience at SJSU, hit sophomore wide receiver Chandler Jones for a 5-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter to close out the scoring for the White squad.

Jurich's 4-yard touchdown run in the second quarter was the only score for the Blue squad.

Following the game, MacIntyre said all three quarterbacks competing for the starting role made great plays on the field Saturday, which has come from their work output this spring.

"I am pleased with what they each did all spring," he said. "They have all improved tremendously from last year."

MacIntyre said each candidate brings his own style of play to the table and the offense is prepared to conform and tweak itself to his strengths.

"That's one of the beauties of our offense," he said. "We are able to be pretty balanced. We can open it up with our receivers. Our running backs will do a lot better and our line is better coming off the football."

Faulkner ended up with the most the passing yards and completions on 10-15 passing for 128 yards and a single touchdown.

However, Faulkner threw two interceptions, one to senior defensive back Alex Germany and the other to sophomore linebacker Keith Smith, who was named Western Athletic Conference freshman of the year in 2010.

MacIntyre said Smith has become bigger, stronger and has elevated his game since last season and expects even bigger plays out of Smith this season.

Photo: Jesse Jones / Spartan Daily

Senior quarterback Matt Faulkner looks downfield during the Spring Game on Saturday.

"He is starting to become much more comfortable out there," he said. "I expect him to not just make tackles, but interceptions, sacks and caused fumbles. He has developed to that stage and I am pleased where (Smith) is going."

Smith said he was pleased with his play Saturday, but said he is never satisfied.

"I have been working on a lot this spring," he said. "I have been focusing on pass drops and getting out concepts down more. That comes with experience and it is starting to come together. I'm always working on my game and there is always room for improvement."

Jones finished second-highest in receiving for the afternoon with 43 yards on three catches and a touchdown.

Jones said it was a solid performance all around by the Spartan football team on Saturday.

"It felt like we all clicked and made good plays out there," he said. "The defense was all in their right spots. They were out there making plays when they had to."

MacIntyre said he saw his offensive and defensive line's hard work during the spring pay off.

"The physicalness of our lines has improved tremendously," he said. "We've really been trying to make a hard push of low-man wins and coming of the football defensively and offensively."

MacIntyre said most importantly he feels the depth of the team this spring is much improved from 2010.

"Everybody should be back at training camp, which is a great thing for us," he said. "This was not the case last year. We lost three or four men for the season last spring and that has not happened this spring. We credit that to a few more bodies we have this year."

Adding to the Spartans' depth are defensive seniors Duke Ihenacho and Pompey Festejo, who are returning from injuries last season. Smith said he is looking forward to playing with these two leaders on the Spartan defense.

"Adding these guys to the lineup is going to be great for our team," he said. "Freshmen like myself have not gotten the chance to play with them and everyone talks about how enthusiastic they are. I know I can feed off them and they can feed off me because we are emotional players."

Smith said he is mostly looking forward to getting back onto the field in game situations, especially the opening game against Stanford, but said his WAC freshman of the year award last season means nothing now.

"This is a new year, a new game," he said. "I have to be a better player, and a better team player to help lead my team to victories."

Photo: Jesse Jones / Spartan Daily

Freshman running back Ben Thompson looks on while on the sidelines Saturday. The Blue squad won the annual intersquad matchup 21-7.

SPRING GAME STATS

PASSING:

Matt Faulkner: 10-15, 128 yds., 1 TD, 2 INT

Blake Jurich: 2-5, 76 yds., 2 TD (1 rushing)

Dasmen Stewart: 7-13, 79 yds., 1 TD

RUSHING:

Ben Thompson (Blue): 9 rush, 23 yds.

Brandon Rutley (White): 4 rush, 15 yds.

RECEIVING:

Josh Harrison: 3 rec, 81 yds., 1 TD

Chandler Jones: 3 rec, 43 yds., 1 TD

Ryan Otten: 2 rec, 17 yds. 1 TD

DEFENSE:

Keith Smith (Blue): 1 INT

Alex Germany (White): 1 INT

Vincent Abbott (Blue): 2 sacks

Attend Summer Session!

SAN JOSÉ STATE UNIVERSITY

INTERNATIONAL AND
EXTENDED STUDIES

It's Easy!

You can enroll, whether you are a current SJSU student or not!

Choose from three summer sessions and hundreds of courses. No formal university admission required.

Session I: (Five-week)
June 6 through July 8

Session II: (Five-week)
July 11 through August 12

Session III: (Ten-week)
June 6 through August 12

Advanced Web Registration

Begins Monday, April 11 and ends Wednesday, May 25.

Open University Students

Registration begins Monday, April 25.

Course Listings Available Online

summer.sjsu.edu

Email info@ies.sjsu.edu or call 408-924-2670

■ RESTAURANT REVIEW

Ramen house serves up the whole kit 'n' ca-noodle

Nestled in the heart of Japantown, this hole-in-the-wall satisfies soupy cravings

Donovan Farnham
Senior Staff Writer

Cheap, interesting and tasty food close to Downtown San Jose and SJSU: the ultimate combination for a college student.

It sounds like a stretch, but there is life beyond orange sauce and carne asada burritos, and one of those options is the Kumako Ramen in San Jose's Japantown.

Kumako is a small noodle shop tucked away on the main drag of Japantown that serves up some of the best ramen this side of the Pacific.

When I say the shop is small, I mean it can be easily passed by without being noticed.

It seats roughly 25 people at any given time, so large groups wouldn't be recommended and I have seen the restaurant fill up quickly on weekend nights.

But when you can find a seat, it's worth the wait.

The shop offers a variety of Japanese dishes ranging from soups to rice and curry dishes, but the best meal is the gyoza and ramen.

The gyoza, fried Japanese pork dumplings offers a great combination of salty and savory flavors.

After the small platter of gyoza comes the soup. I had the stir-fried ramen, which had a mixture of cabbage, carrots and other vegetables in pork broth served with noodles.

It may not sound like much, but the portions are out of control in the best possible way.

The soups come in huge, gallon-size-looking bowls that would be almost impossible to walk away from feeling unsatisfied or like you're not going to fall into a food-induced coma.

The price of the food is OK, but it could be seen as a bit pricey for college students — the average price of a meal runs about $11 and a dinner for two can be about $30, consisting of two bowls of ramen and an order of gyoza.

They're that good so it is mandatory to order them with your meal.

The biggest disadvantage of Kumako Ramen, besides the physical size of the restaurant, are the operating hours, which are odd.

From Monday to Friday the shop is open from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and then opens again for the dinner rush from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Photo: Donovan Farnham / Spartan Daily

The stir-fried ramen at Kumako Ramen is a mixture of cabbage, carrots and other vegetables in pork broth served with noodles.

Kumako Ramen at a Glance

Cuisine: Traditional Japanese

Location: 211 Jackson St., San Jose

Hours: Mon-Fri 11 a.m. - 2:30 p.m., 5 p.m. - 9 p.m.
Sat 11 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sun 11 a.m. - 7 p.m.

On Saturday, the restaurant is open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

These hours are a bit inconvenient, especially since it's down the street from watering holes such as 7 Bamboo Karaoke Lounge and Hukilau San Jose.

Kumako Ramen would be the perfect sobering meal on Thursday nights and weekends if it was open later, but unfortunately it's only an option if the night ends rather early.

CLASSIFIEDS

EMPLOYMENT

CAMPUS JOB FOR FALL 2011
SPARTAN DAILY DELIVERY POSITION. Student needed 6:30am-8:30am, Monday-Thursday on school days to deliver Spartan Daily to campus newsstands. Must have current driver's license with clean record and be able to pass safe driving online course requirement. Student must be able to lift bundles of newspapers. Living on or near campus and classes after 9:00am essential. Must be on time and dependable. Paid training will be completed before the end of this semester. APPLY NOW! Spartan Daily Business Office, Dwight Bentel Hall Room 203 Mon-Thur 10:00am to 3:00pm.

Earn Extra Money
Students needed ASAP.
Earn up to $150 per day being a Mystery Shopper.
No Experience Required.
Call 1-877-241-3376

ARE YOU READY TO CUT THROUGH THE CROWD?
To stand out?
To show the "real world" what you're made of?
Working with VECTOR can offer you REAL pay, flexibility, and opportunities for advancement.
No cubicle, no copy machine.
Just the chance to earn professional experience in a rewarding environment that offers you the flexibility you need and the responsibility you deserve.
CALL 866-1100 9 am - 5 pm
www.workforstudents.com/sjsu

Food Service/Espresso Bar/Host
PT positions in S'vale Restaurant.
Flex hrs.
$11.50 to start.
Call Wendy @ (408)733-9331

WANTED

HOTEL FRONT DESK AGENT P/T-MILPITAS. LOOKING FOR WEEKDAY AFTERNOONS/ WEEKENDS. 20-30 HRS/PR/WEEK. $11.00 PR/HR EMAIL RESUMES TO MLP@EXTENDEDSTAY.COM. NO PHONE CALLS

$$ SPERM DONORS WANTED $$
Earn up to $1,200/month.
Give the gift of family through California Cryobank's donor program
Apply online:
SPERMBANK.com

HOUSING

South SJ. 2 bd.rm. @ $475 ea. Shared house near lightrail. Call Kathy (408) 227-1823

SJSU INTERNATIONAL HOUSE
One block from campus.
US & International Students
Safe. Friendly. Homelike. Intercultural experience. Wireless Internet Access. Computer lab. Study room. Student Kitchen. Assigned parking (fee). One semester contract. Apply Now!
360 S. 11th St. 924-6570 or <http://sjsu.edu/ihouse>

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wt. Loss Challenge. GET LEAN for the summer! To register call 408-390-7935 - Jana

408 924 3270
www.spartandaily.com

TODAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

- ACROSS
- Fishing float
 - Not chubby
 - Cite
 - Earthen pot
 - Maui neighbor
 - Pitch-black
 - Total
 - Urban greenery (2 wds.)
 - Small parachute
 - "Harper Valley ___"
 - Egg-grading org.
 - Big Dipper bear
 - "___ cost you"
 - Bug catcher
 - Trawler nets
 - Huntsville loc.
 - Sound reasoning
 - Passed out cards
 - Do horoscopes
 - Kind of pool
 - Oblong tomato
 - Kuwaiti leaders
 - Four-door model
 - Kiosk buy, slangily
 - Battle of Marathon loser
 - Road crew's task
 - Fringe ___
 - Long ___ no see
 - Becomes baggy
 - Naval off.
 - Signed over
 - Cheesy treat
 - Shuttle launch sound
 - Foul-smelling
 - Sly look
 - Miscalculates
 - Copy a drawing
 - Move in the breeze
 - Tierra ___ Fuego
- DOWN
- Become fuzzy
 - Melange
 - First-rate (hyph.)

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

```

SELF REBAR LEGS
OREO EXILE ORAL
IGOR MALTA LATE
LOSTTIME RAISED
    UHS TWIT
URANUS RAMADAS
NICER SEAR RIO
PCT APHID IDA
ECO FIST SHEEP
GIRAFFE SHARDS
    ARID LOY
SIPHON CHIPMUNK
COLI ISAAC OLIN
ALAN TULLE WANE
TANG YELLS SNOW

```

3-21-11 © 2011 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

- Bone of contention (2 wds.)
- Thai language
- Hotcake letters
- Civilian clothes
- Sine ___ non
- Naughtier
- Mercury rival
- Neck and neck
- Vulcan's forge
- O'Hare code
- Pistols, once
- River to the Caspian
- Sponsorship
- Was in front
- Confronted
- Pack animal
- Mr. Arafat
- Policy addendum
- Supermodel Campbell
- Jazz trumpeter Ziggy
- Inventor of the huddle
- West Point student
- Period of the first dinosaurs
- Gem cutter
- Big ____, Calif.
- Moniker
- Acorn, to an oak
- Swerved
- Indigo plants
- House meas. (2 wds.)
- Comic actor Mischa
- Japanese club
- Large number
- Gilded
- "Fatha" Hines
- Rx givers
- Lemon cooler
- Open meadow

TODAY'S SUDOKU PUZZLE

8	4	5	3	1	9	6	2	7
3	6	1	7	2	4	5	9	8
2	9	7	6	8	5	4	3	1
1	3	8	5	9	6	7	4	2
5	7	4	8	3	2	1	6	9
9	2	6	4	7	1	3	8	5
7	1	3	9	4	8	2	5	6
4	5	9	2	6	7	8	1	3
6	8	2	1	5	3	9	7	4

PREVIOUS PUZZLE SOLVED

DISCLAIMER
Spartan Daily makes no claim for products or services advertised nor is there any guarantee implied. The classified columns of Spartan Daily consist of paid advertising and offers are not approved or verified by the newspaper. Certain advertisements in these columns may refer the reader to specific telephone numbers or addresses for additional information. Classified readers should be reminded that, when making these further contacts, they should require complete information before sending money for goods or services. In addition, readers should carefully investigate all firms offering employment listings or coupons for discount vacations or merchandise.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13			14				15
16			17				18
19			20		21		22
23			24		25		26
27	28	29		30		31		32	33	34
35			36			37		38
39		40		41		42		43
44			45		46		47		48
49			50		51		52
53			54		55
56	57	58		59		60		61		62	63	64
65			66			67		68
69			70					71
72			73					74

amazonbuyback

Get up to

70% Back

for used textbooks

No Matter Where You Bought Them

visit amazon.com/buyback