Remember the old tune "Roll back the carpets, push back the chairs. Get some music on the radio---"? That's what they did in the Student Union Friday, but what looked like the beginning of a killer-diller jam session was cut short when the arena was roped off and entrance forbidden.

The reason? We-ell, it sort of rained Friday and the Student Union roof couldn't resist, so the moisture descended on those esconced within. And the beautiful expanse of hardwood floor was covered with pans and buckets to receive the flood!

Student Music Group On Air Today At 4:30

Time: 4:30 p.m. today.

A light will flash on and off quickly from the engineer's booth of station KGO, Miss Frances Robinson, music instructor here, will signal her students of advanced chamber music, and San Jose State college's representatives will go on the air!

This broadcast will highlight the four-day convention of the California Western Music Educators, which opened with registration in the local Civic auditorium at noon Sunday.

Special 25-cent membership cards for persons who wish to attend single sessions of the conclave will be on sale at registration booths in the auditorium lobby. These tickets will be collected at the door of the session for which they were purchased, declares Adolph Otterstein, music head and vice-chairman of the gathering.

Included on the list of delegates will be 600 faculty and 5,000 student representatives from Utah, Arizona, California, Nevada, Alaska, the Philippine Islands and Hawaii.

Local committee members are coping with housing problems, presented by the increased population. Cots have been set up in the four local junior high schools for the visiting students, while advance reservations were made in hotels for faculty delegates. Men's physical education activities of this institution will be dismissed today, tomorrow and Wednesday, and women's classes will not meet tonight or tomorrow, because both gymnasiums are to be used to present some programs of the music conference.

Activities for the week will include combined orchestras, bands and choral concerts. Clinical work, (Continued on Page 4)

HOUSING FOR DELEGATES IS MAJOR PROBLEM

Housing and transportation are the main problems that are confronting the AWA cabinet members and committee chairmen for the coming AWA convention April 18, 19, and 20 at San Jose State college, states Mary Ellen Ward, head of the meet.

With over 150 delegates attending, the housing facilities have become an important problem and women students are being urged to make every effort to help provide lodging for those attending the convention. Those who have facilities should contact Audrey Edna Abbott as soon as possible.

Students who have cars available for either days should see Juanita Murdock or Winifred Rice, members of the transportation committee.

Delegates are expected from all junior colleges, colleges and universities in Northern California, to attend the thirteenth annual convention held at San Jose State for the first time.

Less Gripe Before The Trial . . . .

Comments pro and con are flying thick and fast concerning the 16 1/2 unit limit put on student's programs' this quarter by the administration.

Reasons for instituting the restriction were given in Dr. MacQuarrie's column last quarter, but practically ignoring these statements, students raised a hue and cry before the plan was tested.

Comments made by the president were in part: "A good many students have a tendency to register for too many units of work. There are no simple, natural laws that govern load, but we must have some way of measuring, and experience in American colleges seems to indicate that a study load of 15 to 16 1/2 units is about all a good student can handle when he is free to put all of his time on it."

Student's wails rose loud and long because the personnel committee would not

Should A Queen Be Elected?

This corner takes the decision to ELECT the Spardi Gras queen with just a bit of a grain of salt.

In the first place queens are not elected; they are born, named or chosen, if history serves me correctly.

Another thing: The election of a queen would no doubt involve a considerable play of politics.

It won't be a matter of who is the most beautiful candidate or who is the most charming for the honor, but it will probably develop into which fraternity or campus group can muster enough votes behind its candidate.

Have you ever been in a small town during a queen contest for some celebration? There the contest winner depends upon which candidate can sell the most votes.

True, this contest would not involve the sale of votes, but it would place itself in the same category. Every group will be trying to swing votes to its choice.

All of which will probably elect a queen of a certain group, and perhaps not one with the greatest beauty, personality or charm.

What method of selection should be followed then? I think some system could be grant their petitions to take more units.

Arguments put up by the petitioners ran from: "I want to hurry up and graduate to" . . . "I can handle an outside job and the regular number of units too."

All this after Dr. MacQuarrie had expressly stated: "Students should cut off at least one unit for every five hours put on outside work."

The committee took each request into full consideration. However, many refusals were meted out, because a true test of limited programs could not be made if students were allowed extra units.

The administration has made these restrictions in an attempt to clear up some pretty dark scholastic records.

How about trying out the plan with a little less griping?

Let's not condemn the defendant as deficient, before the trial. —March.

worked out whereby perhaps a group of important judges could be named to determine just which candidate is best fitted to serve as queen of the Spardi Gras.

The various fraternity groups could still put up their candidates for the honor, but the upon the ability of the judges to recognize queenly qualities.

Or perhaps Jimmie Stewart might even be so kind as to come down from Moffett Field and select the queen. If either plan could not be panned out, then it seems to me about as impartial a way of doing it is to send photographs of the candidates to some movie star or person of note and let him do the selecting. Such was last year's plan.

And who would be a better person to pick our queen than the aforementioned Jimmie Stewart, located just a few miles away. And if Uncle Sam won't let Jimmie off to do the picking, then we could go to Jimmie, photographs or candidates and all.

Only change would be in the selection of the candidates. By letting the fraternities suggest their queen candidates we can at least do away with some of the ballot-box stuffing.

The Bystander

The faculty members of San Jose State college recently denounced the proposed Kellems-Robertson bill (bringing Santa Barbara State college under the Regents of the University of California) now under consideration at the fifty-fourth California State legislature.

The group, composed of some 125 members, passed a resolution which will be sent to the legislature asking that the bill be tabled for an indefinite time and be further considered. They also asked that the budget bill be passed, and that the budget calling for all maintenance also be approved.

Interesting sidelights of the proposed law are—the bill was started by the assemblyman from the area of Los Angeles which includes the UCLA district. It is also rumored that some wealthy Santa Barbara citizen is willing to give that college a considerable fund if it was a branch of the university, and not just a "hole in the wall college", as he terms it.

Santa Barbara as a whole is reported in favor of the move. They are convinced that it will bring more money to the town of Santa Barbara.

But why is it that students from the area of UCLA travel north to Santa Barbara to attend college? More than likely because they can receive the same things at a much lower rate of tuition and expense. Maybe if the State college went under the Regents the student would travel farther north.

JOB SHOP

Musicians Sought For Summer Jobs

Any young men, preferably music majors, who play piano or saxophone well, and are interested in resort work for the summer, are requested to see Miss Doris Barbarez in the Appointment office immediately. There are several such positions for musicians, Miss Barbarez says.

There are also positions for dishwashers and assistant cooks, and for men with experience in organizing entertainment for camp or playground. All of these positions call for men who can remain on the job until after the Labor Day week-end, and all pay for room, board, and salary.

Sixth Columnist

CON LACY

WITH the country in the present state of excitement regarding the world crisis, it is deplorable that the hysterical legislature being introduced may rob labor of most of its hard-earned gains of the past two years.

Proposals Vary

The proposals range all the way from that of a fair labor mediation board to a hysterical demand for the electric chair for all "sabotaging" strikers in defense industries. It is clear that such legislation may prove a serious danger to the liberties of the American people in the near future.

Our legislators need a clearer understanding of labor problems than is currently presented in newspapers, before condemning en masse the entire labor movement. In most cases strikers are not motivated by Communist and Fascist agitators as some would have us believe.

Neither are strikes called out of sheer obstinacy and selfish attempts to browbeat capital out of exorbitant wages. On the contrary a strike is a very serious affair to the average worker, and is not utilized except as a last resort when all methods of arbitration have fallen through.

Labor Called Open Minded

In most cases, labor has been open-minded and open to arbitration and the impasse has been caused by obstinate employers, who have consistently violated labor laws by forming company unions, and other forms of anti-union activity.

Most strikes are called only after employers have consistently refused to recognize workers' need of higher wages in view of the drastic increase in living expenses. Many employers have even refused to bid on defense contracts unless restrictive labor clauses were first stricken out.

It is significant that employers, such as Henry Ford, who have consistently violated the Wagner Act are among the first to call for "defense of American rights" through restrictive injunctions in time of strikes. You can't expect workers to sit idly by while employers refuse to arbitrate and violate labor laws on every side.

Decision Shows Curtailment

Decision of the Federal court in Detroit to forbid CIO United Worker's from "interfering" with Ford Motor Company employes in the River Rouge plant strike, is a good example of the trend towards curtailment of strike effectiveness. Application for the injunction was a violation of the previous agreement by the company to make no effort to open the plant during a period of conciliation.

Such actions by employers can never heal the rift between capital and labor. Employers as well as labor must be more tolerant, for labor conflict is not caused entirely by workers. Employers have their responsibility as well. Think it over.

Overdose Of H2O Causes Sports Events Cancellation

It rained, remember? With precipitation having no respects for athletic programs and coming down with a good deal of gusto, all sports events planned for the week-end were cancelled.

Most disappointment was caused for Coach Tiny Hartranft's trackmen, who still have not been able to open their 1941 season. Cancellation of the Stanford meet Saturday was the second in as many weeks, as they had previously been unable to meet California Poly.

Baseball contests with San Diego scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday have been postponed, as well as the game that was to have been played with San Francisco State Saturday. Golfers, tennis players, and frosh baseballers and trackmen also remained idle.

Sports Sidelights

Crew Idea Isn't Such A Bad One

Could Use Spartan Field Cinder Path

Rain Hampers Season For Athletics

BY OTTO TALLENT

Along about this time last year a column appeared on the sports page written by John Healey, who was then sports editor, advocating the addition of crew to the Spartan sports program, and he took quite a drubbing for it.

It now appears that this wasn't such a crackpot idea, after all, and that John was just looking into the future. With all the rain that has been pouring recently it wouldn't be hard at all for those interested in the sport to get practice.

Instead of rigging up a portable shell in the swimming pool, as was suggested, however, we advocate using the cinderpath on Spartan Field for the shell runways. The track isn't being put to any advantage at the present time, with so much water on it.

Just think how well members of the track and baseball teams could keep in shape during seasons of excess precipitation if their coaches had them pulling oars a few hours each day. What homerun hitters for Coach Walt McPherson and row putters for Coach Tiny Hartranft could be developed under such a procedure! Idleness would be eliminated and a lot of good would result.

Rain has ruined the season for some sports. The track team still hasn't been able to face competition, and lack of practice will make it hard for individuals to make any outstanding records.

Spartan baseballers have been unable to balance the win budget after their disastrous showing during spring vacation in the southland. (There was sunshine in those days). Tennis players and golfers have been handicapped.

All in all, the rain has caused quite a mess. If sports events hadn't been postponed, over the week-end because of it, for instance, these 9 inches of good space would not have been filled with such tripe!

Frosh Tracksters Meet San Jose High

The next opponent of the frosh track team will be the San Jose high school. Neither team has had much chance to practice on the soggy tracks at either school.

Winkelman Prepares For Mud

It took a couple of coaches to think of this one but Track Coach Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft measures the foot of football mentor Ben Winkelman for boots. Yea, boots! What with all the rain the stadium practice grounds has become a sea of mud and Coach Ben is just being prepared.

SAN JOSE-SAN DIEGO BASEBALL TILT CALLED OFF; GAUCHO NINE NEXT

San Jose State's oft rained out Spartan baseball nine suffered another setback at the hands of the weather when Spartan Coach Walt McPherson announced that the two games slated to be played against San Jose State, tomorrow and Wednesday, had been called off.

San Diego and Santa Barbara State were slated to play last Friday and Saturday but the rain washed the game out and McPherson felt that the Spartan field wouldn't be in proper condition to play on, so he cancelled the tilt and Santa Barbara and San Diego will cross bats on those two days down at Santa Barbara.

MEET GAUCHO

Friday and Saturday McPherson's outfit tangles with Spud Harder's Gaucho nine. The Gauchos are undefeated as yet this season and dumped the State club in two games already, one of them being a 12-inning affair resulting in a 4-3 score.

Santa Barbara is a power in collegiate baseball and won the CCAA conference title hands down last season. From that team only three players have been lost and two of them didn't play first string. Missing will be an infielder, a pitcher, and a catcher.

On its northern tour last year, the Gauchos wiped up on all the opposition that they faced, including the University of California ball club.

NASIMENTO TO HURL

Slim Tony Nasimento, slated to hurl against California and San Francisco State, will probably ascend the mound for the opening

WRESTLERS WORK IN PREPARATION FOR BRUIIS

Two Legmen Seek Perfect Record

By CON LACY

With two narrow escapes last week, Coach Sam Della Maggiore's Spartan wrestling team is hard at work in preparation for Friday night's meet with UCLA in Spartan pavilion.

Last year the teams tied for second in the PCI and UCLA has a veteran returning team and will probably give the Spartans their toughest meet this year. Last week San Jose squeezed through to two-point victories against both California and Cal Aggies.

MOST FALLS

In both meets San Jose won four and lost four matches but won by scoring the most falls. San Francisco YMCA earlier in the year held the powerful Spartans to a two-point victory, losing 20 to 18. Last Wednesday California succumbed 18 to 16, and Thursday the Aggies were downed 16 to 14.

If the Spartans can keep their majority of falls in Friday's meet, they will probably go undefeated the rest of the season. Only San Francisco YMCA and the Pacific coast tournament April 25-26 remain on the schedule. If UCLA is beaten, San Jose will be favored in the coast meet, having already beaten California, the defending champions.

UNDEFEATED

Both Ivan Olsen and Davey Hines, Sparta's two Far Western kingpins, continued their undefeated records in last week's meet and will lead the Spartans Friday. Against Cal Aggies, Olsen pinned one of the two men who have gone to a decision with him this season. He was won every other match by a fall.

Hines, handicapped by an injured shoulder, was held to a decision against the Cal Aggies man, one of the few matches he has been held to a decision. Both Olsen and Hines are sophomores and have two more years eligibility.

STATE NETMEN FACE ST. MARY'S TOMORROW

Coach T. Erwin Blesh's varsity tennis team will face the St. Mary's racquet swingers tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock on the local courts.

To date the Spartan netmen have only met two Northern California Intercollegiate Tennis conference foes, having the remaining contests postponed because of wet courts.

The University of San Francisco and Santa Clara tennis squads have bowed to the Spartans in the two previous matches. The main obstacle in the way of San Jose's title drive is the strong aggregation from San Francisco State, according to Coach Blesh.

Friday's scheduled match with the Santa Clara netmen will be played at a later date as will be San Francisco State encounter.

'ISLE OF PACIFIC' FEATURE INTERPRETIVE DANCES ORIGINATED BY STUDENTS

Dances in "Isle of the Pacific," which portrays a native island religious festival, have been originated by the dancers themselves, according to Miss Gail Tucker, adviser of the Women's Swim club, which is presenting the production here on April 16, 17, and 18.

The dances play an important part in the portrayal of the plot, which is opened by the appearance of the Legend dancers telling the story which is to follow. The Legend dancers will be led by Helen Booth. They include Dorothy Stewart, Jean Lessard, Frances Nakimoto, Bea Bernard, and Lois Bohnett. They will dance along the edges of the pool, repeating their story of wind, rain, moonlight, flowers several times.

The Legend dancers appear as a prologue to the festival itself. Betty Finley and Virginia Barkley appear first as Devil dancers. They dance to the accompaniment of shouting and beatings by the natives who are endeavoring to drive the devils from their village.

With the expulsion of the Devil dancers, a dance of Thanksgiving is performed by Barbara Bratcher. This dance signifies the coming of the Spring season, and is danced to a gourd accompaniment.

The two taboo mask dancers are Dorothy Dahl and J. Abbott. They wear weird masks of straw and raffia and accompany themselves with split bamboo beaters.

The Dance of the Offering for Purification is danced by 16 dancers led by Gloria Friedlander. This dance is performed by a record of native island chants that was made in Hawaii.

COUNTRY CLUB SETTING OF KNIGHTS' DANCE

The San Jose Country club has been chosen as the site of the annual Spartan Knight dance which will be held Friday night, April 18.

According to Clarence Russo, chairman, the affair will be known as the "Spartan Nite of Knights" and will honor recent "Squire" additions to the fraternity.

Gene Goudron and his orchestra, featuring a girl vocalist, will provide music. Goudron's orchestra, capable of playing either sweet or swing music, has been entertaining dance fans at the Coconut Grove in Santa Cruz, locally, and at some of San Francisco's popular dance hotels.

Bids are selling for $1.25 and may be secured at the Controller's office or from any member of the Knights, men's honorary service fraternity.

"The Spartan Knights dance has been one of the outstanding affairs for the past several years, and we assure everyone that this quarter's event will be just as great a success," declares Russo.

The affair is a spring semi-formal with dark suits appropriate.

Co-eds Invited To Attend Dances

There are a few more vacancies for women who wish to attend the dances at Moffett Field, announced Miss Bernice Tompkins of the Civilians committee yesterday afternoon.

Women wishing to attend the next dance at Moffett Field should file an application in Miss Dimmick's office immediately. The dance will be held Saturday evening, April 19.

"So far these dances have been very well attended and have been very successful," declared Miss Tompkins.

Stuart is arranging original musical compositions for orchestration. The musical director has written the lead theme, "Elaine," for the comedy. There will be a complete musical background for the whole performance.

Lund, in complete charge of the budget and its maintenance, has prepared a budget for this year's show.

Brooks is working out chorus routines which were written in for the show. Mannina is planning poster and advertising materials.

SPARTAN DEBATE SQUAD MEETING WEDNESDAY AT 4

Scheduled to present this intersquad problem solving discussions are: Evelyn Bravo, Jane Thornton, Lorraine Hurley, Joel Gustavson, and Kenneth Fisher. Each member will be allotted six minutes to present his views.

William Booth, chairman of the day's meeting, has arranged for two people to analyze the problem, two to present solutions, and the final duo to evaluate foregoing presentations.

Delta Sigma Gamma

At a recent meeting of Delta Sigma Gamma, social fraternity, four new members were initiated into the organization. President Richard Ormsby instituted the degrees to Bob Eddy, Greg MacGregor, Logan Potter and Jim Argo.

The position of vice-president was filled by George Mansfield, replacing John Hermsdorf who graduated last quarter. The club will hold its first smoker of the quarter next Thursday at the frat house starting at 8 o'clock.

Beta Chi Sigma

Bryce Cann was installed grand marshal of Beta Chi Sigma at a meeting of the social fraternity last week.

Other officers of the newly-formed group are Kenneth Waldron, department marshal; Dick Allen, secretary; Ed James, treasurer; Bud Atkinson, publicity manager; Paul Sterling, chancellor; Curtis Beacock, head of the committee at large; Lee Hansen, historian; and Hugh Foskett, pledge master.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is completing plans for its second annual spring dance to be held April 26. The affair, a semi-formal, is scheduled to take place at the San Jose Woman's club which will be decorated in the spring motif.

Bids for the function, selling at $1.50, are available from members only. The number of bids is limited, and absolutely no bids will be sold at the door, according to Art Hauck, club chairman.

Several leading bands from San Jose and San Francisco are under consideration to play for the dance. Choice is to be this week.

SORORITIES

Setting for the function is Rancho Hacienda, 23 miles north-east of San Jose on the Dublin-Sunol road. Specific directions to this location will be given later this week in the Daily, declares Sid Webb, chairman.

"A Late Mode In Melody," is the theme of the band, with "repression, lilting rhythm and songs by the charming voice of Wanda Porter," is Webb's description of the music to be presented at the Spring-sport affair.

The dance will be held in conjunction with the fraternity's celebration of its tenth anniversary for its founding date, states Ken Nosler, president.

"Full Moon," a theme song written last year by Bert Beeds, former member, will be featured again.

Landscaping around the grounds and buildings of the clubhouse, was designed by the late Luther Burbank, well known experimenter in the field of plant growth.

practical demonstrations in various fields of music, and displays of musical instruments will also be offered to delegates.

The chamber music concert scheduled to go out over ether waves this afternoon will include three of the numbers played in the Little Theater Friday night. The three numbers are a Bach concerto, Schubert's "Trout" quintet in A Minor, and a Beethoven quartet number.

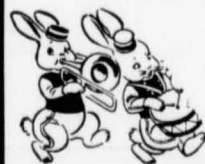

The Schubert composition was written for piano, violin, violoncello, and contra-bass. The piano part for this is played by Benjamin Dexter of the Music faculty, who was soloist in the December college symphony program, and who has appeared in several campus recitals since he came here two years ago.

Music for the Bach concerto is no longer available in the United States, Miss Robinson points out, as it is published only in wartime Germany. She was able to get copies from a limited supply, she declares, enabling the group to present this number.

at 7:30 tonight.

Meeting and initiation will be held in room 1 of the HE building. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided in honor of the new members.
