Men's Physical Education - Health Department Cooperate in Crisis

Men's Physical Education department and the Health department are co-operating in carrying out a series of demonstrations and lectures at 8, 9, 10, 11, 1, 2, 3, and 4 o'clock in the men's gym on what to do in case of emergency and during blackouts.

The program will be carried out on an hourly basis today and tomorrow, according to Director of Athletics Glen "Tiny" Hartranft. P. E. classes will meet in the men's gym to attend the lectures.

OPEN TO ALL
The classes will be open to all students and faculty members who wish to attend.

Lessons in first aid, how to put out fires, what to do in case of flooding, how to take care of fractures, and the transportation of injured are a few of the subjects which will be discussed.

Lectures and demonstrations will be handled by Hartranft, Miss Margaret Twombly, head of the health department; Mr. Charles Walker and Miss Grace Plum.

W.A. Postpones Annual Dinner

Due to the proposed blackout of San Jose tonight, the annual Associated Women's Activities Christmas banquet will be postponed until next Monday at 12:15, at which time a luncheon will be held instead. Women who plan to attend will be excused from classes by the president.

Tickets will remain on sale this week. Today is the only day refunds will be made.

Otterstein Gives

Editor, Spartan Daily:
Here is my additional $3.00 for the Send a Daily to Camp drive. I am more than enthusiastic about making this contribution at the present time because I believe the boys in the camps need the Spartan Daily. These young men are making great sacrifice, and an undetermined amount of time will be taken from their lives. I believe our Daily will help them keep their lives in balance, and realize that when they are through with their service they will want to return to college to prepare themselves for a more useful life. All ties to the mainland must be strengthened at this time.

— Adolph W. Otterstein,
Head of Music Department.

Need Addresses

The following soldiers and service men will receive Spartan Dailies every day as part of our Send a Daily drive if we are able to get addresses and locations. Anyone who can supply us with that information on any of these names, please do so:

Norman T. Miller, Vernon Kendall, Frank Holt, Francis Lantu, Daniel McAuliffe, Henry Dunning, Jim Fahn, Bill Gurnea, Robert Lee, Bruce Marble, Harold Marthedol, Charles Smith, and Robert Thorup.
Latest contributors are Dr. James Wood, Mr. J. A. Burger, Dr. Herrick and Bob Payne.

Door Prizes, Free Suckers Promised; Bob Berry's Band Plays In Gym Today

"Hey, Elmer! What'cha carrying that teddy bear around the campus for? The blackout got'cha, huh?"

"Naw! Theodore's my ticket to Bob Berry's jive in the Women's gym this afternoon. It's the Spartan Daily Toy Pile dance, ya know."

That's right, there's nothing else to it. Just a toy, old or new, or one thin dime will admit you to two hours of dancing and fun in the Women's gym from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Cast For French Play, 'Cote d'Azur,' Chosen By Advisor

"Cote d'Azur," a fast-moving comedy, has been chosen as the annual French play which is presented by members of Iota Delta Phi, French honor society. Members of the cast have been selected by Dr. Boris Gregory, society advisor and director of the play.

Members of the cast include Wesley Goddard, Barney Murphy, Dr. Gregory, Robert McMurray and Dan Driver, both freshmen, complete the male members of the cast.

Alberta York, Ann Wilson, Alice Trione, and Jane Baccus are the women. Alice Trione will also act as assistant director.

Wendell Johnson will act as technical director, and costumes will be designed by Miss Dorothy Manchester of the Home Economics staff.

Besides all this, students attending will have a chance to make it a profitable afternoon. The Spartan Shop and the California Book Shop have each donated two door prizes for the cause. Thus, four prizes, two for men, two for women, will be given to the holders of lucky numbers, which will be given out at the door.

Handing out Christmas spirit and free suckers will be a real live Santa Claus.

BOB BERRY

Bob Berry and his ten-piece orchestra will play for dancers. Berry donated the services of his band as an indirect contribution to the Send a Daily to Camp drive, and they will play for all of the two hours.

Theme of the afternoon is naturally Christmas with decorations galore contributed by the student body and intersociety. The big 15-foot Christmas tree of the Publications office will preside over (Continued on page 4)

STRANDED FOOTBALLERS STILL UNREPORTED IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

With all lines of communication cut from the Hawaiian Islands to the United States, no word has been heard of the San Jose State college football team stranded in Honolulu since the first bombing of the Islands Sunday.

It has been rumored that the team is safe and has been assigned to police duty in downtown areas of Honolulu. No reports could be confirmed.

Included in the party which left San Francisco for the Islands on November 27 are Coach Ben Winkelman, Football Manager "Scrapy" Squatrito, Head Yell Leader Tom Taylor, Mrs. Ed Wenberg, Lt. Dorsey, Bob McGavereen and football players Bill Donnelly, Ed Wenberg, Gene Kasparovitch.

Women's Defense Work Mapped

Mayor Fierello H. La Guardia of New York City, who is chief of Civilian Defense, states that all women of the United States should be giving one hour a day to Red Cross work, and Mrs. Mildred Winters of the Social Science department, adds that this includes the women of San Jose State college, who have ample opportunity to do their part.

TYPES OF WORK

In room 30 of the Home Economics building a Red Cross unit has been set up where women on the campus can engage in two types of work:

1. Knitting sweaters, beanies, and mittens.
2. Sewing on children's night gowns and other necessary cold-weather clothing.

Students are asked to take knitting yarn home over the vacation. At 1 o'clock, instruction is given in knitting for those who as yet cannot wield the needles. Yarn and all sewing materials are furnished.

GREATER NEED

Miss Estella Hoisholt and Mrs. Hartley Jackson are on hand to give any help that may be needed for the knitting. The Red Cross room has been open for some time but there is greater need for volunteer workers than ever before. Here is an opportunity to start taking an active part in defense work right away.

Miss Pauline Lynch is in charge and notes that the work should be started this quarter as a move for facilitating efforts early in the next quarter.

Mr. Wiltberger Calls For More Volunteers; Duties Are Outlined

With 70 or more volunteers already signed up since yesterday, both men and women students are being asked by William A. Wiltberger, head of the college police school, to offer their services for volunteer duty as part of the civilian defense program.

An application blank appears on page 4 of this issue, on which volunteers should indicate name, address, telephone number, year in college, department major, free hours, and most important of all, special abilities which will fit in with one of the available branches of defense service.

ABILITIES WANTED

"We are asking student volunteers to supply us with this information so that we may be informed of what particular division we may best use them in," declared Wiltberger yesterday.

"For example, engineering students will undoubtedly be best suited to the Public Works or Maintenance of Vital Services divisions. Medical students will be (Continued on page 4)

Annual Christmas Production Free; Public Invited For Two-Night Run

"Mr. Pickwick," the San Jose Players' twenty-fourth annual Christmas production, will open in the Morris Dailey auditorium at 8:30 tomorrow evening for a two-night run. No admission will be charged.

The play, which has been adapted from a section of Charles Dickens' well-known novel, "Pickwick Papers," has a cast of forty members—one of the largest casts with which the drama department has ever had to work—and there is not one villain in the entire cast.

Most of the roles are comedy parts, and help to create a jollity and Christmas spirit which the whole play emphasizes. Some of the scenes are laid in a large inn which is typical of Old England yuletide decorations, and a large fireplace with a blazing fire help to create a holiday atmosphere.

Sets for the play have been designed by Wendell Johnson of the Speech department. In contrast to the cheerful inn, will be another scene laid in a dismal prison.

Ted Hatlen is in charge of direction of the play, and Peter Minge is acting as technical director. Members of the cast include Keith Bickford, Howard Melton, Gordon Fine, Bill Kidwell, Bert Holland, John Shepherd, Frank Thompson.

Shirley Kress, Mary Froehlich, Barbara Bellah, Doris Dean, Dorothy Shaw, Jack Miller, Dean Piazis, Jimmy Spita, Leon Fletcher, Gerald Rizzuto, Denny Morrissey, Duane Heath, Clarence Cassell, Shirley Ashford, Margaret Moeck, Dorothy Taylor, Alice Modry, and Marian Jacobson.

Dr. Barry Accepts Phelan Contest Contributions

By JOHN HOWE

Contributions for the Phelan literary contest in six divisions—sonnet, lyric, free verse, essay, short story and play—are now being accepted in room H28, Dr. Raymond Barry, head of the English department, announced today.

Cash prizes will be given in each division for the three contributions judged best. The awards, slightly more than they have been in the past, will be $29 for first; $18 for second, and $10 for the third.

TENTH CONTEST

This is to be the tenth annual Phelan literary contest sponsored by the late Senator James D. Phelan who in 1930 bequeathed $10,000 to San Jose State college, the annual income of that amount to be awarded to students for excellence in literary composition.

The best contributions submitted will go to make up "El Portal," literary annual edited by the English department. The proceeds from "El Portal" are added to the income from the Phelan bequest, which accounts for the increased value of the prizes offered this year.

'ONE TRACK' MINDS?

We've had almost three days now to get accustomed to the idea that "it can happen here," and we should be beginning to adjust ourselves to carrying on the business of living in a world made suddenly very different because our country is in war.

But in spite of Dean Pitman's speech yesterday and Don True's address to the student body there are those among us who are not being "calm and sensible," who are not accepting the fact that the best way to help is to continue our normal life and not add to a general hysteria or a lowered morale by taking a "what's the use?" attitude.

Yesterday, wherever one went on campus they heard suggestions that final examinations should be eliminated this quarter, or, if not eliminated, at least made much easier than usual because students will have so much on their minds they will not be able to concentrate on studying.

Last week the most important thing on the minds of the greater percent of the students was final examinations. They had reached an almost all-important proportion. Have we the proverbial "one-track" kind of minds?

Perhaps, as one student suggested, final examinations will be easier for us this quarter because our attention will be diverted and we won't be under the nervous tension we usually are when taking finals.

At any rate our country, our army, our navy, and even we ourselves would have little or nothing to gain from our not taking final examinations. Let's show Dean Pitman we understood what he meant by keeping up with our studies and preparing for what is ahead.

WHY AREN'T WE THERE?

War! and immediately we women begin to wonder what we can do to help. We can't let the men in America carry the whole burden of this war. What can women do?

Mayor La Guardia, chief of civilian defense activities, has said that every woman should give one hour a day to national defense. Here is our opportunity.

It lies in the Red Cross room in the Home Economics building. In the past couple of days since Japan's surprise attack, the Red Cross room has been almost deserted. Just when an opportunity to do our part in defense comes along we aren't there. Where are we? We're running around wondering what we can do when right here on our own campus lies work that is vital, now as never before.

Women who can't sew or knit may learn from the instructors in the Red Cross for that purpose. There is no better way to spend a free hour or two than doing our woman's part in this war by working in the Red Cross room. Let's spend an hour there today!

Social Science Department Faculty Express Views On War Between Japan And The United States

Various members of the Social Science department express the following views on the United States-Japanese war:

Dr. William H. Poytress, social science head, has to say of the situation: "This clarifies the issue. We know where we are now."

BE FRIENDLY

Mr. Claud Settles, social service instructor, says, "It is our duty as students to go out of our way to be friendly to the Japanese in our country at this particular time. We should express sympathy for these people who are in no way to blame and know nothing of the background of the aggression."

Dr. Frederick Graham states, "This is the logical culmination of Japanese relations since 1905, when the Japanese-Russo war ended. This is a showdown of what the relations in the Pacific are to be." He noted that the Japanese method of attack is always one of "sudden moves."

"SIT TIGHT"

Dr. Victor Hunt, history instructor, expressed the view, "We ought to sit tight and not expect too much from our armed forces in the beginning. It will take time for them to get warmed up."

Mr. Owen Broyles, economics instructor, says of the sudden Japanese attack, "If the surprise has been so costly, it should be a lesson to all of us to inquire into our war management."

Miss Bernice Tompkins, United States history instructor, notes, "The situation has brought about a chance for real unity. This will end the fight between the isolationists, and the interventionists. It is 'all out for defense' now."

Mrs. Mildred Winters, western and South American history instructor, points out, "This further clarifies the situation in this hemisphere. Costa Rica and Nicaragua have declared war on Japan. Mexico and Cuba are standing by the United States."

Mr. Milton Rendahl, social service instructor, brings out that unemployment will no longer be the important responsibility of the social services. He says, "Social services are going to have to be re-defined in the light of these new events. Their new problem will be the maintenance of social morale and income in these times when so many families will be broken up by war. Emotional stress will need to be dealt with."

Japanese Student Gives War Ideas

Isaku Konoshima, president of the Japanese Students' club, in giving his reaction to the British-American-Japanese war, said today that he was "utterly surprised at the method employed by the Japanese government in attempting to gain their ends."

The Japanese club hopes that there will be no bitterness and that it will be able to function as an American institution, according to Mr. Konoshima. The Japanese club has been pledged to uphold the United States' policy and will continue to do so now, he stated.

"The Japanese students will ever be indebted to the other students for the sympathetic understanding they have shown them so far," said Mr. Konoshima.

He also expressed the hope that Japanese draftees would not be looked on with suspicion by the Army.

Lastly, he said that if people will just try to realize that American-born Japanese are as strongly in favor of the democratic processes, having seen them function, as any other group in America, all race prejudice and hatred would disappear.

Appreciation

Editor, Spartan Daily:

The Cosmopolitan club, sponsored by the College YWCA, desires to express its appreciation of the stand taken by the Spartan Daily on this present crisis as expressed in the editorial, "We're All Americans," which appeared in the Tuesday, December 9, issue.

We feel that Miss Finley's attitude is typical of all open-minded State students.

With such an attitude as this, how can we help but have Unity, Sanity, and Fairness in our country?

It Can Happen

Dear Thrust and Parry:

It can happen here! On December 8, 1941, a certain 10 o'clock class was given an examination. This was in direct violation of No. 9 of the final examination rules laid down by the examination committee.

This examination was probably a beautiful flop, both because of the unfairness of it and due to the existing condition of the Jap-U. S. conflict.

I've been following the camp; nobody ever quite heard how it feels to be grabbed and sent away from everything everybody you know. I've been following the camp; nobody ever quite heard how it feels to be grabbed and sent away from everything everybody you know.

The other day I had a copy of the Spartan Daily. I ran up to Washington, D. C., and saw part of the old San Jose State gang. I met up Lt. Ofstad, USM at Quantico and he rode up with us. I had a bit of time with Leroy Tichenal and Don Presley, USN. I wish I had known Thomas was there, but maybe I'll see him before long at that.

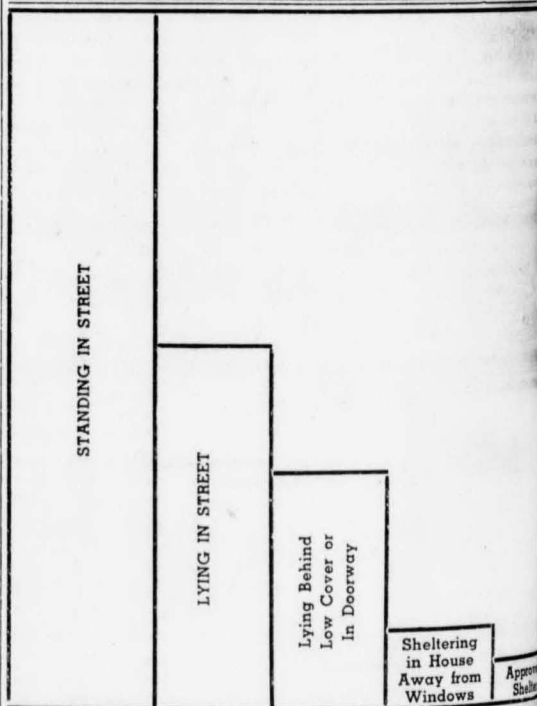

Just read "Moody's" and "What Do People Want," and I agree perfectly; after seeing these old eastern colleges hear so much about and meet their graduates, I'm even more firmly convinced that I won't trade my SJS degree for any other anywhere.

Keep up the good work and my love to Mr. Bentel, who, I suppose, is flaunting a big campaign now that SJS is becoming a school at the rate of three months.

Plays Off

Congratulations are in order for Coach Gordon Maybury and the Spartan kickers for winning their second straight Northern California soccer crown.

Despite the fact there were only four first-stringers from last year and few reserves, Coach Maybury developed a team nearly equal to last year's undefeated team.

The team, although not equalling last year's record of seven victories and one tie, went undefeated for the second straight year.

SPARTANS HONORED

The four starters from last year's team were Roy Diedericksen, Captain Art Tindall, John Peebles and Ernest Figone. They were selected on the various all-opponent teams in the league for the second year.

Two very outstanding players were discovered this year by Maybury, and despite the fact they had never before played soccer, were starters in all games this year. Ted Andrews, who played at halfback, was chosen on several all-opponent teams. Harold Sonntag, probably one of the best kickers in the league, held down the goal post all year and allowed only 10 points to pass through the uprights. However, Sonntag was not selected on any of the teams.

NEXT YEAR

Another whom Coach Maybury will rely on next season will be Earl Paulus. Paulus was very impressive in the last two games and probably will fill the vacancy left by Peebles at halfback.

Others returning to bolster next year's team will be Gemo Yakus, Dale Nelson, Bob Bareun and Bud Racoosin. However, there will be a shortage of material for next year which will hurt the strength of the team.

Football???

There has still been no word from the Islands as to whether the football game will be played, but it is thought that unless further trouble takes place in Hawaii, the game will be played.

However, it is doubtful that the

Spartan Hoopsters Battle Fort Ord Here Friday Night

Unless action is taken by army officials, Fort Ord hoopsters will invade the local gym Friday night at 8 o'clock to battle the somewhat rejuvenated Spartan basketball team.

With two straight victories chalked up, the Spartans will be out for No. 3 Friday night over the invading soldier five. Nothing is definitely known about the strength of the Fort Ord team, but if compared to the football team, they should put a strong team on the floor, states Coach Walt McPherson.

FAIR SEASON

To date the Spartans have taken three out of four contests, which is fair for so early in the season. The only tilt dropped was to the Owens Illinois five, who, with a taller team controlled the backboards and gave the Spartans trouble.

The team was bolstered by the return of Roy Diedericksen, and he should add strength at the forward spots. Others who are practicing this week for the first time will probably see action Friday night.

Thursday, December 18, the Spartans will battle the Golden State team from Oakland in the local gym. The Golden States are one of the top-ranking club teams on the coast and will probably take the measure of the Spartans due to their height. They have been a strong contender for several years in the Oakland Industrial leagues.

team will return as originally scheduled because of lurking enemy ships in the Pacific. It is expected that all passenger ships will be taken over by the government.

If the games are played as scheduled, six men will be finishing up their college football careers. Ed Wenberg, Bob Hamill, Ken Stanger and Aubrey Minter are all leaving by the graduation route. Bill Donnelly and Charles Cook will also leave because of army service. Donnelly has one year of eligibility left, and Cook has two. If forced to remain in the Islands for a long period of time, others might go into service for the duration of the war.

Frosh Basketball Prepare For Games Scheduled With Strong Teams; Season Record Shows Improvement

Coach Frank Carroll's fast improving freshman basketball squad is busy preparing for a hard week's schedule with some of the toughest junior college and lightweight club teams in the bay area.

Tomorrow night they travel to Salinas to engage the Salinas Junior college squad, which is rated among the top jaycee teams in Northern California. Last week they defeated the strong University of San Francisco freshman team by 10 points.

Friday evening they tangle with the Bank of America, a local team that has been very strong the past couple of seasons in the preliminary to the varsity game with Fort Ord.

MARIN HERE

Marin Junior college, which already holds one victory over the Spartan yearlings, invades San Jose Saturday evening in an effort to make it two straight. The tall Mariners trounced the frosh in their last meeting 55 to 30, but Carroll is hoping that his forces will do better this time. The frosh have improved rapidly the last week and will be in a position to make a game of it. A big factor in their success or failure will be their ability to break down the field and to pass sharply.

Placer Junior college comes to San Jose, Thursday evening, December 18, to take a crack at the young Spartans. Placer has a strong squad composed of a number of men from their last year's squad headed by Henry Triano, diminutive forward, and Ed Leak, 6 foot 5 inch center.

DROP THREE

To date the freshmen have played five games — winning two and dropping three. It may be significant of improvement to note that they lost their opening three games but have come back to win the last two contests. In the first game of the season they lost a close one to the Wardrobe 39 to 36. Then they lost to Marin 55 to 30, and Modesto Junior college 43 to 23.

After that they hit the comeback trail and trounced Alhambra high 47 to 27. Again Monday night they turned on the heat and resembled a well-oiled machine in their 46 to 26 rout of the Continental Can five.

TALENT FOUND

The real value of these games has been the opportunity offered Coach Carroll to find the best men on his large squad of some twenty men. Carroll took advantage of this and played everyone in the first two or three contests and now has about two good teams that he can count upon.

Among those who caught Carroll's eye during this tryout period are the Thomas brothers—George at center and Frank at guard—McCubbin and Corbuiser—a pair of scrappy forwards—and McDowell, a rugged man at the guard spot.

Winter Worried Over San Jose Track Prospects

By NIELS NIELSEN

Nothing truer was ever said than, "A national emergency causes hardship and suffering for every citizen."

Take for instance the position of Track Coach Bud Winter, who has been rubbing his hands together all year in anticipation of the greatest track team in State's history. Yesterday, Winter was sad as he ran around school checking up on the age of his runners and their standing in the draft. He was so sad, in fact, that his usual everlasting chatter about his team was gone, and his only comment was a long loud "Nuts."

MININI STRANDED

But also pity the poor reporter trying to corner Winter long enough to get a story about the Inter-Squad track meet scheduled for Thursday and Friday. Every time he was cornered and his back was to the wall he put on his act and sorrowed over the fact that Frank Minini, his best shot-putter, is in Hawaii and will have to be content to practice with pineapples instead of a sixteen-pound iron ball.

After forty-five minutes of catch-as-catch-can about the campus he broke down and mentioned several of the featured performers in the Inter-Squad meet.

NATIONAL CHAMP

First there is Vern Cooley, national junior college champion in the pole vault. Cooley transferred from Sacramento Junior college, where he vaulted for the national championship squad and gained an altitude of 13 feet 7 inches.

Elwood Clark, a Junior college student from Placer, also took a national championship when he heaved the javelin 192 feet last year in Denver. Winter expects Clark to develop into one of the top javelin tossers in the Pacific coast.

TOPS IN SOUTH

Billy Smith, beside being a 9.7 sprinter, has a name for being a high jumper and broad jumper. In the high jump he has a mark of 24 feet 6 inches. These feats gained for Smith the title of "The athlete of the year" when he attended Belmont High school in Los Angeles.

In the 70-yard high hurdles there is Omar Cowles of Redwood City, who stepped off a time trial of 8.8 seconds. This is just .4 of a second behind the world record, according to Winter, and the same time in which the best hurdlers run in the indoor meets back East.

DR. POYTRESS TO HEAD SOLDIER WELFARE CONFAB

Dr. William Poytress, head of the Social Science department, has been selected by the Soldier Welfare Conference committee to act as chairman of the conference to be held January 10, the first Saturday of winter quarter.

Originally striving toward building up the morale of our army through the efforts of college organizations, members of the committee feel that under present war conditions, aims of the conference should be changed to tie in more closely with civilian defense programs.

Sororities, fraternities, and all other organizations are requested to select delegates for the conference who will do their utmost to carry through the projects that might be suggested. Those delegates will be official representatives of their organization, and any resolutions passed by the conference will be binding upon the organization, committee chairman Rex Gardiner states.

The conference will be an all-day affair. A speaker will present a picture of what has been done and what the college can do in behalf of our army under the existing conditions. This will be followed by a period of questions from the floor. Tentative passage of resolutions will take place before noon, and will be followed by a period of entertainment.

After lunch the resolutions will be submitted to the conference for discussion and for the final vote.

Election of a continuance committee with delegated powers to act in behalf of the conference representatives and to call future meetings will conclude the business of the day. This continuance committee will have sole power in expanding the preliminary work suggested by the conference, states Gardiner.

Sophomore Skate Party Called Off

The Sophomore skating party will not be held because of the war situation, George Coles, sophomore class president, announced today.

Difficulties of blackout restrictions and night restrictions on highway use were factors in the decision of Sophomore council to cancel the party.

IMPORTANT TO DEFENSE

According to the National Council of Civilian Defense, the Boy Scout movement will play an important part in defense organizations. Specific services will be performed—communications, shelter and aid, hospitalization and public safety, and salvage work.

O. B. Matthews, Scout executive, asks that all former scouts on campus register. Their services will be employed in specific areas and in assistance in training and scoutees.

Those registering are asked to indicate their scout experience, major in school. Wherever possible men will be asked to take part of leadership in existing Boy Scout troops and ships.

PITMAN'S COUNSEL

"The registration of former Scouts is right in line with our job here until called by the government. We must avoid hysteria but we all seek some definite way to give expression to our willingness to serve. This scout registration is one way," Dean of Paul M. Pitman said yesterday.
