REGISTRAR JOE WEST ELECTED BY ASSOCIATION

Registrar Joe West, host of the Pacific Coast Association of College Registrars, was elected vice-president of the association yesterday by the delegates of the seventh annual conference being held in the Civic auditorium.

Douglas V. McClane, registrar of Whitman college at Walla Walla, Washington, was named president, with H. C. Willett, director of admissions at University of Southern California as second vice-president.

The officers were named during the luncheon session at the Saint Claire hotel. Approximately 100 delegates at the conference were concerned with "The Impact of War on Colleges and Universities and Their Contribution to the War Effort."

Margaret Maple, Pomona college registrar, and Paul H. Mohr of San Francisco Junior college are secretary and treasurer respectively.

Representatives from colleges and universities of Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho are attending the conference.

The conference will adjourn to Stanford university today after breakfast at O'Brien's. Chancellor Ray Lyman Wilbur of the university will address the group on "Responsibilities, Opportunities, and Perils of Higher Education Now and After the War."

VOL. XXXI SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1942 Number 29

RULES SET UP FOR FROSH-SOPH MIXER TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

Billed as the "battle of the century," the freshmen will meet the sophomores in the first round of the annual Frosh-Soph mixer series Friday night.

Representatives of the two classes met under a flag of truce last Friday to decide on the rules and regulations for the combat. It was decided that there will be "physical contacts" this year as in the past, but, to prevent unnecessary injuries, there will be a definite time limit placed on all athletic contests.

The schedule of activities as announced by activities chairman Hank Insen will consist of the tug-of-war on the San Carlos turf Friday at 12:30, the jeans brawl at 1:40, the girls' softball game at 2:30, and the basketball game at 3:30. At the conclusion of the basketball game, the two classes will get together for the mixer dance in the gym.

Points will be awarded the class winning each contest and for attendance at the dance that night. A total of thirty points will be awarded each quarter. Last year the mixer series was won by the class of '44 by a one-point margin. It was decided by the joint council that attendance at the dance will be judged on a percentage basis.

The freshmen have been slow to organize this quarter, "but," says Ted Worley, frosh mixer co-chairman, "we will be ready by Friday, and will be out for the champions of the 'high and mighty' soph. After all, the freshman class has always been noted for being the most spirited class in school, and we intend to prove it to the sophs."

Soph President Al Gross served notice that "the frosh had better get on their toes if they expect to make any sort of showing against us. We may be the smaller of the two classes, but we have a year's experience in mixed warfare where we will all be new to the frosh. This, coupled with the fact that our class has shown the most spirit date practically assures us of a win Friday."

STUDENTS SHOT

Smallpox vaccinations will be given on December 1 between the hours of 11:30 and 1:15 to those students desiring them, providing they have student body cards. Students should sign up in the Health office as soon as possible.

Hilarious Comedy Plays To Soldiers

Calling all cars! Calling all animal catchers! Watch out for Male Animal on loose* on Page Mill road to army camp of the infantry division of Battalion 125.

In the guise of a drunken, raging Male Animal, Tom Pagenhart as Professor Turner, a member of the cast of the comedy "The Male Animal" presented here October 28-31, will invade the army camp assisted by football players, irate school trustees, a colored maid, gorgeous women, a yell leader and a dean.

Hoping to supply the camp with a few good laughs at the defeat of the bewildered male animal, the members of the cast will leave here Wednesday night in army trucks and present their play for the soldiers of the 125th infantry division.

Dramatists in the cast who will go on the road include Pagenhart, Mary Kirtley, Bill Kidwell, Deane Healey, Marilee Putnam, Irene Anderson, Pat Alexander, Rosemary Bonnot, Ed Kincaid, Al Johnson, Delwyn Carlson, Tom Wilde and Gene Dutra.

Ted Hatlen of the Speech department is directing the play and announces that there will be a rehearsal today at 4 p.m. in the Little Theater.

FRESNO TRIP

There will not be a special excursion to Fresno for the San Jose-Fresno football game this year, announced Hugh Manley, rally committee chairman. However, he added, there are 69 round-trip train tickets available. Cost for the round trip will be $8.25.

Manley also asked all students who plan to travel to Fresno for the game whether by train or by private vehicles to sign up with him so that he can reserve tickets in the rooting section.

Work On Second Service Flag Starts

By CLAIRE LAWS

Work on the second service flag is definitely under way this week. The eight on-campus sororities are working every day and hope to have it finished by the end of the quarter. It will be as big as the one completed this summer and now on display in the Morris Dailey auditorium, stated Miss Carol McDaniel, who is chairman of the service flag committee.

There will be from 600 to 700 stars on this flag when it is finished. Each star has a number that corresponds to the name of some person who has attended San Jose State college. The name of that person and the number of the star is to be tabulated by Zeta Chi and Sappho and will later be on file in Dean Helen Dimmick's office.

Dean Dimmick and Carol McDaniel urge that every hour be kept by the girls who are scheduled to work on the flag in order that it may be done by the end of the quarter. The work is scheduled as follows:

- Allenian—Monday.
- Ero Sophian—Tuesday.
- Delta Beta Sigma—Wednesday.
- Kappa Kappa Sigma—Thursday.
- Phi Kappa Pi—Friday.

Student Directory Now On Sale

The new 1942-43 Student and Faculty Directory is out. So announced Richard Main, manager of the Spartan Shop, Monday.

The long-awaited "date book" lists all of the students and faculty members registered in San Jose State this year. Arranged in alphabetical order, the directory not only gives the names of the students, but their addresses and telephone numbers as well.

Cost for the directory as announced by Main will be ten cents. "This is little enough to pay when one takes into consideration all of the potential dates contained in this blue-bound address book," pointed out Main. "Then, too, if a student forgets what the next day's assignment is, he will have the directory handy so that he can call up his professor or one of his classmates."

Besides the names and addresses of the students and faculty, the directory contains a list of the office staffs, all of the telephones on the campus, and a list of the telephone numbers to call in case of an emergency.

"Spartan Romper-Round," Variety Show, Goes Into Rehearsal In Little Theater Tomorrow Night

By JACQUIE JURGENSEN

Waaaaaaahhhhhhhhh

A gorgeous usherette prances down the aisle, smiling sweetly at the infant culprit and assures its frustrated mother that her baby could cry and howl all it wanted, for this show was the "Spartan Romper-Round." State's big kiddy variety show of the year.

SJS PROTECTIVE WAR PROGRAM GETS UNDER WAY

Feeling that the present system of protection against war casualties is ineffective, San Jose State college has organized a civilian defense committee, according to Rex Gardiner, chairman.

This committee is preparing an outline for a campus protection program which will be submitted within two weeks to the Student Council and faculty.

EQUIPMENT PROCURED

If these groups approve the plan, the committee will proceed to put it into practice. "Sand, shovels, buckets, and other necessary wartime protective equipment will be procured for the campus," states Gardiner.

The committee is planning to perfect air-raid procedure, institute fire and bomb protective measures, and organize first aid, fire-fighting, and rescue squads.

ACTIVE IN PAST

The group was active last quarter and placed signs around the campus denoting safe and unsafe buildings during air raids. War bond sales and minute-men campaigns were also under this committee.

"Sub-committees have been appointed to make an extensive survey of the campus and locate deficiencies in present protective measures," says Gardiner.

COMMITTEE HEADS

Stan Clarke will head the War Transportation Survey group. The "alert signal" section will be under the direction of "Chickie" Hayes and Kay Moorehead who plan to post a "lookout" in the Spartan Daily office whenever a program is being held in the college. Other committees and their members include: Air raid drill, Glen Gutormsen; emergency medical plans, Kay Sandholdt; fire and bomb defense, Virginia Ferguson.

These groups will make reports on their findings and submit them at a meeting on Thursday.

MEN MAY STILL SIGN IN RESERVES

According to the sign-up in the Dean of Men's office, only 54 men want to see the Joint Procurement Board when it returns to the campus Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Louise Ralph of the Dean's office reminds all men who plan on joining the Navy V-1, V-5, V-7, Marine, or Army Air Corps reserve programs when the Board arrives on the campus Thursday that they must make an appointment by 5 p.m. today.

Tomorrow is Armistice day and a school holiday; no appointments may be made Thursday, Friday or Saturday and no student may see members of the Procurement Board at any time without a previous appointment.

Appointment times are at half-hour intervals beginning Thursday morning. Men interested in seeing the Board are urged to sign for an appointment immediately.

Made up of the best talent of the school, a gigantic, colossal stage show, having "babies' doings" as its theme, planned for the service men, will have its first night showing here in the Little Theater, according to Director Loren Nicholson. No definite date for the preview has been decided upon, but it is expected that all students will be admitted with student body cards.

Promising to stimulate laughs and more laughs and to give the audience an all-around good time, the variety show will include numerous skits to work in all types of talent. One of the biggest and most outstanding parts of the show will be a tour of Radio City, in which many of the famous radio personalities, such as Kate Smith, Henry Aldrich, and the "Great Gildersleeve" will be introduced.

From the many try-outs held this week the following students, among many others, were chosen to participate in the big show: Jeanette Owen and Don Allen, who will give audiences something new in ballroom novelty dancing; Peggy and Jo O'Brien, who will hula, and Milo Badger and Margaret Smitherum, who will add a touch of refinement to the production with their semi-classical vocal numbers. A new find for the show is Shirley Jean Etter, who sang for the first time in public at the Junior party last night.

Speaking in regard to the type of humor the show will include, Nicholson remarked, "The whole show will be something on the order of the famous variety of all variety shows, 'Hellzapoppin', a kind of a fun-fest, in which, during the dance scene, even the audience will take part."

Laurence Mendenhall, speech instructor, is adviser of the talent production, which is being produced for the soldiers under the auspices of the General Social Affairs Committee, handled by Betty Henley. This committee is under the city organization for Affairs for Service Men.

The first rehearsal will take place tomorrow night in the Little Theater.

Chapel Hour To Be Held Today

As part of the world-wide observance week of Fellowship and Prayer, sponsored by International YMCA and YWCA, Chapel Hour today will choose its theme from the weekly topic, "The Enduring God".

Jean Thoits, Student Christian Association secretary, will speak on "World Fellowship Through Prayer." The special music will be provided by Dick Brewer, who will sing "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. There will be recorded music, offering time for quiet meditation and prayer.

AWA members will usher this week. Chapel Hour music commences at 12:35. The program itself will begin at 12:40. Both students and faculty members are invited to attend, according to the Chapel Hour committee.

Our Country's Flag

The Flag of our country embodies the essence of what we are fighting for. The symbolism of the Flag was thus interpreted by George Washington: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty." As a consequence we should treat the Flag with all the respect and reverence possible. Ignorance of the proper way of displaying and saluting the Flag is wide-spread; there are many people that do not even know the words of the pledge.

Civilian adults will always show full respect to the Flag when the pledge is being given by merely standing at attention, men removing their head-dress. Persons in uniform should render the right-hand salute. However, the approved practice in schools which is suitable also for civilian adults is to stand with the right hand over the heart extending the hand palm upward toward the Flag at the words "to the Flag."

The Flag pledge was 50 years old on October 21, 1942. It was written by Francis Bellamy, past editor of Youth's Companion, and was first said at the dedication of the buildings at the Chicago World's Fair in 1892.

The Flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. This, even when "The Star Spangled Banner" is being played while the flag is being raised, contrary to popular practice.

When the National Anthem is played and no Flag is displayed all present should stand and face towards the music. Those in uniform should salute at the first note of the Anthem, retaining this position until the last note of the Anthem. All others should stand at attention, men removing their head-dress. When the Flag is displayed, the regular salute to the Flag should be given.

During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the Flag or when the Flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the Flag, stand at attention and salute. Those present in uniform should render the right-hand salute. When not in uniform men should remove the head-dress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. The salute to the Flag in the moving column is rendered at the moment the Flag passes. —Sipes

THRUST and PARRY

● CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

Dear Ed Kincaid:

For the last few days I have read the "Thrust and Parry" column concerning the viewpoints of yells. I feel, at this time, it is most opportune to write about it.

Bill Mitchell stated the fact that the "Fight Yell", in its new form, seemed odd; I quite agree with him. To me, it does not sound right. Many other students in the school probably will agree with me. Bill does not realize that almost every yell leader has a different version or method or delivery of a yell.

I have, however, some yell-leading background. At Sequoia Union high school I have had the experience of being yell leader for three years. At San Jose State college last year I was fortunate in becoming temporary assistant yell leader. Having this background, I feel that I am in the position to make suggestions and comments on yell leading.

I would like to make two suggestions to you, Ed. The first is that during every game which I have attended, you have used the "Fight Yell" at least three times, and usually have used the remainder of the yells only once.

The second is that with your natural ability to lead yells, and with the splendid co-operation of the student body behind you, I suggest that you make up one or two new yells.

Sincerely yours,
 Your Pal,
 Cecil Dombalian,
 A former yell leader.

Our Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Criticism is all right, but when one has to resort to sarcasm to strengthen one's opinion, as you did in your letter to Mr. Kincaid, that is carrying the argument a bit too far.

In your letter you make a remark about the "fan mail" Ed received. When referring to the "fan mail" did you by any chance mean Tiny Hartranft's letter? Because if you did, you might recall, if you look it up, that the letter was not addressed to Kincaid, but to the student body as a whole (which includes you, Mr. Mitchell), but Ed was nice enough to take the blame for all of us. No doubt you yourself took very much pleasure in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Perhaps the old yell was best, but it was old, and this is a new year. You fuss about tradition being broken, but if you will look around, you will see that many traditions are being broken this year, and they are not all for the best.

I would like to quote you a poem that fits the situation perfectly:

If all the good people were clever
 And all the clever people were good,
 The world would be better than ever
 We thought that it possibly could.
 But somehow 'tis seldom or never
 The two hit it off as they should:
 The good are so harsh to be clever,
 The clever so rude to be the good.

— Elizabeth Wordsworth.
 We consider you clever, Mr. Mitchell, but we consider Mr. Kincaid good.

Sincerely,
 The Larger Part of the Student Body.

Would the person who found a Higher Math book kindly return it to the Information office? The owner has great need for it.

JUST AMONG OURSELVES

By DR. T. W. MacQUARRIE
 President San Jose State College

And the Japs may quit, also.

They did that in the Russo-Japanese war in 1905. They started that war much as they did this one. They destroyed much of the Russian fleet before there was any declaration of war. They cleared the Russians out of Manchuria. They stormed and captured Port Arthur. They won every battle on sea and land—and then they agreed to an armistice. They assumed that the Russians would be polite enough to recognize the situation without further force.

The peace commissions met in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, with President Theodore Roosevelt in the chair. The Japs presented their demands, a "sphere of influence" in just about the whole eastern Siberia, certainly in all the maritime provinces and Russian islands.

The Russians refused point-blank. The Japs explained patiently, and over again, that they had the war and, if civilization meant anything at all, they were entitled to a modicum of loot.

But still the Russians would not agree. They had no intention of giving up anything. "But what will you do?" the Japs inquired politely. "We will go on fighting," said the Russians. "But with what?" And what for?" again politely inquired the Japs. The Russians didn't know, but they were not. (Continued on page 4)

Realistic Portrayal Of Orson Welles Production Given By KSJS, Radio Speaking Society, Last Friday Night

By JACQUIE JURGENSEN

Despite the fact that one knew what he was hearing in a play, one found himself believing and actually fearing a realistic interpretation the KSJS Radio Speaking Society members presented of Orson Welles' radio version of "Invasion From Mars" last Friday night in the Little Theater. Dr. William H. Dress gave a revealing and interesting talk after the performance on the psychological aspects of the panic the program caused.

An adaptation of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds", "The Invasion From Mars" presented here was as a whole excellently and convincingly done. The audience saw only a radio with a large speaker before them, for the production of the play was carried on behind the Little Theater's red-plush curtains. However, it is to be admitted that the radio acting was much more convincing than the sound effects. The roar of guns in the battle scene sounded like a weak pop of bubble guns, which caused laughter in the audience during a serious moment.

Most of the sounds were not loud enough in comparison with the men's voices. However, the mob scenes and wierd noises of the rocket ship sounded realistic enough. Every actor possessed a fine speaking voice, enhanced by a good sense of dramatic acting. As Pearson, the astrologist, Jack Miller was excellent. He spoke slowly and distinctly in a deep mature voice. His description of the desolate world left by the Mars-men was enough to sink any listener in utter despair. Leon Fletcher, in his wild, frightened radio reporting on the top of a building as the invaders crushed the city before his eyes a striking piece of work.

A fast and glib speaker, Taylor was well cast as the reporter who described vividly in Walter Winchell style the relationship and first appearance of strange giants. John Sayers, narrated in a sarcastic tone the minute doings of little men before the invasion, merits a vote of approval.

Others who contributed to heighten the fear-compelling drama of the play included: Nicholson, Milton Britzke, Holland, Ed Kincaid and G. Muse.

A good deal of the success of the play can be attributed to Dr. Wendell Johnson of the Speech department, and Peter Mignone, a speech teacher, who handled the technical equipment, assisted by Fletcher and Holland.

In his highly entertaining educational talk, Dr. Johnson brought out what he thought the three main factors to be considered for the nation-wide scare: Americans had not developed a critical ability; the economic and social conditions were such that there was a war scare on at the time. He concluded by saying that he didn't see why this thing couldn't happen again anywhere, anytime.

GRIDDEERS TRAVEL FOR ARMISTICE DAY TILT

SPORTS SCRAPS

By "SCRAPPY" SQUATRITO

Editor's Note:—Ever since our co-worker "Cookie" and I took over the job of sports editing for the Daily, we've been surrounded by several members of the opposite sex in having one of their members write a guest column. Yesterday being one of those days when we were short of ideas we thought we'd let the co-eds have their day. Our choice as guest columnist was Miss Wilma Sabelman, a most beautiful blonde member of the Daily staff.

From a strictly skirted point of view, the game Sunday was tops. Much of the playing ensued near the sidelines and we could visualize emotional responses of our State gridiron heroes as they finally wended their way to victory.

More than noticeable in that squad of ranting ruggediers was the well-kempt coiffure of the women's favorite, one Charlie Cook of Spartan Daily fame and fortune. If we didn't know enough about football to be able to designate important plays, all we had to do was to watch for a bounding of the Cook mane; if it remained under his hat, we knew that there was nothing worth speaking of going on; so we didn't have to stand up and yell like mad. Needless to say, the aforementioned belonging of Charlie's got a work-out during the second half.

As far as the Aztecs were concerned, we couldn't even get a full view of squad members because they were on the run so much. The only ones who succeeded in cutting a little meat with us were Blaisdell, No. 54, and Blaisdell, No. 31. Blaisdell, you will recall, was the man of many plays and more errors. From all appearances, however, he was one Aztec who wasn't afraid of the Spartan spurts.

Speaking of looks we were wondering if the stripes down the back of No. 38 signifies anything special or if he just wanted to be individual. Fashion does play a part, you know. Or did you notice that the fad of the local team this year is for closely enveloped wrist bones. Verry coming. At least it gives the women a chance to sympathize. It also lends a sort of devil-may-care to some who need it. Orchids the bright individual who started that bandaging craze.

After the half we began to watch the game with rousing interest because the man next to us said we were winning, and what started out as a mad scramble began to curdle for our opponents—the Diegonians made a vain effort to fry the Spartans and succeeded only to make them boil, making them harder to crack. Hard-headed Desaleras may well be said to possess what it takes in that line. The heaviest Aztec may have squeezed blood from his finely-chiseled nose, but his strength was rancid compared to that man's endurance. (Gruesome, isn't it?)

All in all, we enjoyed the game. It didn't rain, so our curls didn't droop and the new white pants of the players didn't get dirty. Oh—the score—gosh, I don't know. Look in yesterday's paper. That's what we're going to do.

Journalists Accept Football Challenge

Epsilon Nu Gamma:

We will be only too happy to accept your impertinent challenge to a six-man football game.

You realize, of course, that our football squad of last year met with marked success against the aggregations sponsored by the Music and Speech departments, and we cannot but have confidence that you "slide-rule artists" from the science wing will not prove too tough.

We have enough returning veterans from the 1941 squad to give us an impressive starting line-up. We may or may not use Charles "Ringer" Cook at either fullback or center—but we can probably beat you anyway. It's a mathematical certainty that journalists excel engineers in almost everything but engineering.

Name your date and place. We have taken up the gauntlet. The Scribes.

BATTERED AND BRUISED SPARTAN ELEVEN RATED TO DEFEAT SERVICE TEAM IN CLASH AT STATE CAPITOL TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 2 P. M.

By SEBASTIAN SQUATRITO

Battered and bruised, but yet favored to win, Sparta's grid team, under coach Tiny Hartranft, will meet the McClellan Field Rangers in the Sacramento Junior college stadium in Sacramento tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The contest is being sponsored by the Sacramento American Legion to raise funds for recreation at Camp Kohler, new Army Signal reception center opened in the State capitol recently.

The Spartans will be without the services of left tackle

Gray McConnell and left halfbacks George Foote and Stu Carter. The possibility that Charles Cook might be out was expressed by team physician Jack Vogelmann last night. Carter and Cook both injured their knees in last Sunday's game, while McConnell's and Foote's ailments are holdovers from the USF contest.

STATE MERMEN SEEK TO SCORE VICTORY OVER U. C. SEPTET

San Jose's water polo team will be out for its third win of the season this afternoon at 4:00 when they run up against a strong U. C. septet here in the college pool.

It will be the fifth contest of the year for the Spartan dunkers who, in the four games already played, have a .500 average marked up to their credit.

Coach Horan is planning to start the same combination he used against Stanford last week, which will mean that Ed Rudloff, high scoring sharpshooter, will open at the sprint position, with Doug Bacon and "Red" Foley filling the other two forward wall spots.

Foley has spent most of his time during the first three encounters riding the bench, seeing only spasmodic action in relief roles—but Horan was so impressed with his performances that he gave him a starting berth in the last Stanford game. "Red" looked very good in that battle, and so the mentor is using him again today.

Then at the guard posts will be Roger Frelier, Dick Anderson and Dan Jackson.

Danny Meehan, recently elected captain of the mermen for the rest of the season, is a fixture as goalie.

PLAYED SIX TILTS

The Rangers have played six tilts so far this season, scoring wins over Stockton Ordnance Motor Base, San Francisco State college, Sacramento Junior college, Muroc Air Base, and the California Ramblers. They dropped their last game to the strong Mather Field eleven by a score of 19 to 6.

Mather Field is rated to be one of the strongest service teams on the coast with such players in the lineup as All-America Jim Kisselburgh from Oregon and San Jose State's Little All-American field goal specialist Kenny Cook.

HEAVY TEAM

With the exception of the guards, the Spartans' opponents tomorrow will have one of the heaviest teams the Hartranft team has faced all season. This will probably mean that the Golden Raiders will take to the air if the going gets tough on the ground.

This will be the last contest for the Spartans before the all-important meeting with the undefeated and high-scoring Fresno State Bulldogs in Fresno on Thanksgiving Day.

Grid Career Over

A real hard-luck guy, Stu Carter saw his last bit of competition in last Sunday's game. For three years he's been a member of Sparta's football and basketball teams, but saw very little action because of STU CARTER weak knees which he originally injured in high school. They gave way in almost every game in which he participated. He'll be out of tomorrow's football game and also the one against Fresno State on Thanksgiving day. Carter, when in action, was one of the greatest performers seen on a Spartan basketball or football team.

Bud Winter Tells Of Special Award For Fraternity Winner In Turkey Jaunt

By DICK FRY

To aid national defense by putting the men of the school in top shape, to cut the meat shortage that has hit the fraternities of the campus, and to add contestants to the Turkey Trot, Coach Bud Winter announced today that a special award would go to the fraternity winner in the turkey jaunt.

An entrance fee of 50 cents, for purposes of buying the extra turkey, will be charged each of the frats which enter men in the special handicap race.

The fraternity men will be given a block jump on the rest of the field if they are inexperienced at the distance. However, if they are old-timers, they will start at the regular post but will qualify for the special award should they be the first of the frat boys to cross the finish.

Nothing but a big black cloud hangs over the Varsity house these days—that is, over the side of the house that has bets on Dapper Danny Conforti.

The Dapper One has fallen victim to an injury which may keep him out of the lineup at the post on Tuesday, November 24, and his followers are beginning to balance their budgets anew—allowing for the loss of a few semolians here and there.

"The Coke's in"

"That's the happy greeting heard today when a new supply of Coke arrives at a cooler. Folks wait for it... wait because the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola itself. Customers smile and start moving up to pause and be refreshed.

"There's a cheerful spirit about this way of accepting wartime restrictions. Morale is high."

RESERVISTS MUST TAKE PHYSICAL EDUCATION COURSE THREE TIMES A WEEK TO TRAIN FOR SERVICE

By BOYD HAIGHT

Approximately 50 per cent of all enlistees and draftees tested for the service have failed, for physical, mental, or educational reasons, to meet the standards of the United States Army, according to Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director.

College students have little trouble with any of the mental or educational requirements of the three branches of service, but the physical requirements are what they find the toughest to meet. In addition, the hard drills and other physical activity make it difficult for the new serviceman to adapt himself to his new life. For that reason, in order to prepare college students in a reserve program for the tough hardening up they will have to undergo upon entering the service, the Army, Navy and Marines require that the reservist keep himself in shape by taking a physical education course three times a week.

In addition, Army, Navy and Marine officers ask their reservists to pay special attention to their health; something generally neglected by college students. All men interested are urged by Dean of Men Paul Pitman to drop in his office and look over three booklets dealing with preventative health measures as practiced by the Army, recreational training in the Army, and civilian preparation for the Army.

These booklets are published by the Bureau of Publications of the Teachers College of Columbia university. They are designed to answer any question the student may want to ask regarding life in the Army and the preparation for entering the service.

The booklet, entitled "Attention to Your Health", discusses the importance of keeping the weight up, the question of whether or not to use tobacco and alcohol, the regular hours of sleep and work in the Army, the healthful exercise afforded by daily calisthenics, the importance of wearing shoes that fit, and other practical applications of health facts to life or preparation for life in the service.

In the booklet, "Is Your Number Up?" there is discussed the various technical preparations for leaving civilian life for the service and applicable to the reservist as well as the draftee. The settling of all bills, the writing of a will, and the discharging of all legal business is mentioned in the booklet.

In addition, the steps connected with registering for the draft, filling out the questionnaires, and appealing for deferment are included in the early chapters. Included is an outline of classification numbers and the type of registrant they represent. It is as follows: Class I, Class I-A: Available for general military service when found acceptable to the land or naval forces. Class I-A-O: Available for noncombatant general military service when found acceptable to the land or naval forces; conscientious objector. Class 1-B: Available for limited military service when found acceptable to the land or naval forces. Class I-C: Man already in service. Class I-H: Man deferred by reason of age. Class II, Class 2-A: Man necessary in his civilian activity. Class 2-B: Man necessary to the war production program.

Class III, Class 3-A: Man deferred by reason of dependency. Class IV, Class 4-A: Man who has completed service (not applicable in wartime). Class 4-B: Officially deferred by law. Class 4-C: Neu-

Mexican Paintings On Display In Arts Reading Room

San Jose State college pays tribute this week to Mexico, America's neighbor to the south, in displays by the library staff on Mexican art.

Paintings of the contemporary Mexican artist, Diego Rivera, are exhibited in the arts reading room of the library, according to Miss Neva Le Blond, assistant librarian.

The paintings are varied in subject, dealing with political history on one extreme, and life in the Rio Grande nation.

In connection with the Mexican displays, the stairway showcases are also devoted to Mexican art. The connection between the college's library and the art of Mexico is shown in these displays.

Also on display are Mexican coins, brooches and weaving, including a colorful Mexican rug. A number of books are shown in the displays, including one on the painter, Diego Rivera.

WAR AIMS

Author Speaks On China Today

China at War will be the topic of an address by Julian Arnold, author and former consul-general in China, before the War Aims class in Morris Dailey auditorium at 11:00 today.

Mr. Arnold's talk was arranged by Dr. William Poytress, who commented, after scheduling the speaker, that when there happens to be a good lecturer in the neighborhood it is worth while hearing him—seeing that so few good ones are available.

Author of the book "China Through the American Window", Mr. Arnold is an authority on Chinese government and political life, having been a consul-general in that country, and having represented the United States government in various diplomatic posts all over the world for the past 25 years.

Miss Bernice Tompkins of the history faculty was to have spoken today on problems of civilian defense, but relinquished her time to Mr. Arnold since he will be in San Jose for only a short stay.

NEWS BRIEFS

CAST FOR PLAY TO BE ANNOUNCED

The cast for the Christmas play, "No Room at the Inn", to be presented in the Morris Dailey auditorium December 3 and 4, will be announced Wednesday, according to Director Wendell Johnson, speech teacher.

The one-act play by Dorothy Yost is being expanded to include short scenes that will lead up to the climax, the Nativity scene. Opening with a scene in which the Biblical character Isaiah will prophesy the coming of the Savior, the pageant will continue with short scenes depicting the revelation of the birth of Jesus to the three kings from the Orient and the shepherds. The main part of the production is built around the original "Inn" scene of the play.

Any students interested in working on the technical crew, painting and constructing scenery, should see Mr. Johnson in room 165B.
