

WAVE Recruiter To Interview Students In Dean's Office

SJS women students will be able to discuss the WAVES with recruiter Margaret Nider, Sp(R)2c, who will be in Dean Helen Dimmick's office tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday from 12:30 to 4 o'clock each day.

Miss Nider will interview prospective enlistees and will also be available to answer any questions students may have about the WAVES. This is a real opportunity to get into this branch of the service, according to Miss Nider, who points out that enlistments have been practically nil in this area for quite some time because of the limitation set by the Navy.

New rulings have enlarged the quota that can be accepted from this district, and recruits can be taken into all branches, although the hospital corps needs new members most.

Another factor brought out by Miss Nider is that officer candidates are selected entirely from the ranks now. Basic requirements for enlistment in the WAVES include passing a physical examination, a mental aptitude test, and completion of at least two years of high school. Age limits are from 20 to 36 years.

DAY EDITOR, THIS ISSUE—MARGARET MOORE

A CRITICAL BLOW

In printing a brief account of the death of President Roosevelt, the Spartan Daily made one of its rare departures from a long-time policy of printing only strictly campus news.

Since the Daily became a daily in 1934-1935, such a departure has been made only a few times. The crash of the dirigible Macon was the first time. The Macon, of course, had been based at nearby Moffett Field, and because it was one of the wonders of the age, everyone could understand that San Jose State college students would be noticeably concerned by the tragic crash of the airship.

The elections, of course, received Spartan Daily coverage. Everybody is affected by elections.

The Pearl Harbor attack received unusual Spartan Daily notice for a dual reason. First of all, the United States had been attacked; we were at war. Secondly, the Spartan football team was in the thick of it. They had sailed to Honolulu to play the University of Hawaii, and were there when the attack came. The game, of course, was never played, but the football team immediately offered its services to the Honolulu Police department and served long and well. They served again on the return trip aboard a ship carrying many wounded servicemen—helping to care for the wounded and aiding in the administration of life boat drills, etc.

The death of a president would be, at any time, a shock to the nation. The death of such a great president as Franklin D. Roosevelt, only one ever to be elected for a fourth term or even a third term, at such a critical time in the world's history, came as an unspeakable blow to all. Spartan Daily members were hit just as everyone else was hit. They thought it their duty to give San Jose State college's reaction to the president's death; they, too, are concerned about its far-reaching implications. There is no doubt that this is one of the most crucial periods in the course of world affairs.

Thrust And Parry

I am both shocked and ashamed of San Jose State college. At least I thought that if the various grammar schools of this city could hold assemblies in tribute and respect to our President, we AT LEAST could show some form of tribute to the death of a great man.

The only thing I noticed was the flag lowered, a three-column notice in our paper, and a rally that was called off. Other signs of mourning included the jukebox playing loudly, as usual, and the usual form of campus life.

The President would not have wanted us to drop everything, but on the other hand, if a sixth grade class can spend one hour in observance of the tragedy, we at least could have done as much, if not more.

I don't know the reason for this apparent lack of respect, but I am ashamed and humiliated when people ask me what San Jose State college has done in tribute to the President.

Regardless if we are a Democrat or a Republican, he was our President and as such should have received this proper respect that we owe him.

I hope that in the future we take stock of ourselves and realize what should have been done, and what was not done.

Duncan of the Science department, stormed the rugged slopes of Stoney Brook.

Among prisoners reported taken were more than a hundred Coleopterans, Lepidopterans, and Hemipterans — a lot of bugs in any language.
