counting on Inter-Society to fill what remains of the Red Cross pajama quota."

The drive, with Charlotte Harder chairman all week, will be concluded Monday with a gathering of all societies in the Quad during the afternoon.

Building Program

Stanton Willard, designing architect in the state department, who has been assigned to handle the San Jose State college building program, will be here Monday to take up several phases of the expansion plans, announces Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie.

Problems to be considered by Willard include the plans for tearing out the stage of the Morris Dailey auditorium and enlarging it to 50 by 70 feet, and raising the roof to 70 feet, which is as high as the tower. Only the portion behind the proscenium wall and arch will be torn out, according to present plans.

The enlarged stage will include a stagefract room, dressing rooms, storage space, and perhaps even a classroom, according to Dr. Mac-Quarrie. He revealed that a space 8 by 11 by 17 feet will be left on top of the building because of the possibility of someday securing a carillon for the college.

Investigations into the tubular bell carillon which is electrically operated, contains 32 bells, and can be played from a keyboard or from records, have been made. This type of carillon is composed of tubes rather than bells with clappers. It is problematical whether or not SJS will have a carillon, states Dr. MacQuarrie, but it is desirable to set aside a high point on campus as a provision for the possibility.

The Music building has definitely been set for construction on the site between the high school and the Student Union on San Fernando street. Willard will also discuss the advisability of completing the Library building

Horror Pictures

Never before in our history have newspapers been loaded with as vast a number of pictures of the horrors of war.

The most frightful feature of these pictures is that nine times out of ten they are true.

Because so many people fell hook, line and sinker for the war photos to come out of the last World War, educators felt it necessary to teach us the use and dangers of propaganda. Hence in this war the attitude is much different. Today too many people are skeptical about everything they see. "It's nothing but propaganda," they say distrustfully.

Yet in World War II most of the pictures we see are authentic. to hotice a poster mounting a pic-They are terrible to look at and they seem to grow worse as the war, ture of Jack Daniels, king cancontinues just as the scientifically planned decimations committed by didate, which hangs over the counour enemies grow worse, and larger in scope.

Art Department Discards Brushes: Fingers Do Nicely

By HARRIET RIGG

Now they're doing it with their fingers. Over in the Art department there are a couple of dozen art students covering huge pieces of paper with blobs of paint with their fingers, no less.

Directed by Miss Oma Strain. they cover the paper with onecolor drawings - with all kinds of strokes from little scratches to long, sweeping strokes. Some of the paintings are objective-trees, farm scenes, things like that and some are abstract - huge graceful finger-sweeps in abstract designs.

We must have been a little too close, for someone said. "Wouldn't you like to try it?" waving a bottle of the fingerpaint distressingly near.

Barely escaping with clean hands, we beat a hasty retreat.

THROUGH OTHER EYES

By DAVID WEBSTER

We do appreciate the little inconsistencies that crop up sometimes, such as evidence that college students can misspell even on advertising posters. For instance, the sign on the way to the Co-op which stated, "When you go to the POLES . . ."

And along the same tack, we were surprised the other morning ter in the Co-op. It didn't quite look like Jack, and on closer inspection we realized that his vetin the picture, and his handkerchief was in a pocket in the right of his coat. The negative had been reversed when the enlargement was made!

Compliments are in order for the faculty members who organized the committee for a faculty hear, booth at Spardi Gras and thought up the very original idea of holding a contest on the side for Spardi Ma and Pa. The whole thing is bath: "There's no place like one of the best evidences given foam." in recent times by the faculty as a group to show their solidarity with the students with whom they work.

We might remark, finally, concerning a letter from a somewhat misguided ASB 2000, who took some comments from this column Peace." Senator Richard H. Perhaps, and this IS our own idea, it would not be beyond the realm of possibility to suggest the installation of walks made of rubber or one of the weather-proof war synthetics. These could be color blended with the lawns, and they would not interfere, as would concrete walks, with the use of the lawns as playing fields. Fantastic? We don't think so.

Completion of this task would cost $250,000. $125,000 to $150,000 would be required for the new cafeteria, and approximately $200,-000 would be needed for construction of a swimming pool and dressing rooms and dance studio for the Women's gym.

Dr. MacQuarrie emphasized that the buildings and improvements are about two or three years in the future, but added that advanced planning of this sort is vital to such a program.

He stated that the total amount earmarked for the job is $1,484,-100, which has not been formally appropriated, but has been set aside and will not be spent for anything else.

The college has been authorized to proceed with its plans, and the money for plans (six per cent of the cost of the buildings) and inspections has been appropriated.

Willard will design the buildings. Engineers and other specialists are available to him, and will work out the details. Dr. Mac-Quarrie and Dr. P. Victor Peterson spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Sacramento discussing the fundamental requirements of an Industrial Arts department.
