Phi Kappa Pi Annual Dance Tomorrow Bids Are Ready

"Miracle Whirl", the Phi Kappa Pi annual autumn formal dance which is featuring a surrealist theme, will be held tomorrow night in the Scottish Rite Temple from 9 to 1.

Receipts for bids may now be turned in at the booth under the Library arch. Bids will also be given upon presentation of receipts at the door of the dance.

Couples will dance to the sweet strains of Buddy King's 17-piece orchestra, which will soon go on the road, according to Lois Mendenhall, dance chairman.

Bids cost $1.75 and the dance will be semi-formal in that the fellows may wear dark suits.

DeLayne Broadbent and Lorraine Mossbarger are in charge of decorations and entertainment, respectively. Ruth Heintz heads the refreshment committee and Doris Bryant is in charge of publicity.

AWA Play Day At Stanford Tomorrow

Tomorrow 65 woman students will take part in a play day at Stanford. Busses will leave the Women's gym at 9 a.m. for those who are attending.

A meeting of all women who are taking part in the play day activities will be held today at noon in the Women's gym. Arrangements for checking out necessary equipment and clothing will be made at this time.

Hockey, tennis, badminton, archery and swimming will be main activities throughout the day, Marge Hopper, chairman of the event, announces that there has been a large turnout of women for practices and they are certain to make a good showing tomorrow.

Women who are interested in attending the play day but who are unable to take part in the activities are invited to attend as spectators, says Roberta Ramsey, AWA president.

Got A Settee?

Sea weed, dead birds, and driftwood were not too hard to find when the property committee for "Ladies In Retirement" went into action. One thing has stumped them, though; they can't find a small Victorian Settee (love seat, to you).

Anyone knowing where this essential "prop" may be borrowed is asked to get in touch with Charles Perez or Mary Lou Blair of the property committee, or with J. Wendell Johnson in the Speech office.

SJS REPRESENTATIVES TO ATTEND CONFERENCE AT MILLS COLLEGE

Representatives of San Jose State will travel this afternoon to Mills college in Oakland for a planning conference of the World Student Service Fund called by President Lynn White of Mills. Present at the meeting will be some 160 representatives from 40 or 45 Northern California schools, to hear an outline of student needs in Europe and the Orient, for which purpose the World Student Service Fund is planning to raise a total of a million dollars this year.

DEAN OPENS PROGRAM

The program will be opened by Dean Stuart of the Graduate division, University of California. Speakers include Miss Huguetta Bolzola, a graduate of the University of Kentucky who traveled in the European theater last summer, and Mr. Wellenstein, a Dutch student active in the resistance movement. These two will draw the picture of the university situation in Europe, as of the end of the war.

Representatives will then be divided into three seminar groups: (1) schools who have previously held WSSM drives, (2) schools that have not, and (3) preparatory schools. Chairmen of the seminars will include Marcel Moreau from Luxembourg, attending Salinas junior college, Steve Kaufman, representative of the University of California council, Miss Penny Kurzweil from College of Pacific.

OTHER LEADERS

Resources leaders will be Frank Magliocci, an Italian graduate of Harvard who has just returned after three years in Italy, Dwight

Year's First Play Opens Thursday

Everything is shaping up to plan at the culmination of three solid weeks of rehearsals for "Ladies In Retirement", according to Mr. James Butler, director of this initial production of the year.

After much juggling of the male lead, Conrad Smith has withdrawn and John Calderwood will appear in the role of the sly nephew all three nights of the production.

According to Pat Krone, the late nineteenth century costumes complete with all accessories will arrive today from San Francisco. First dress rehearsal will be directed Saturday and continue next week, final week of rehearsals.

The 1885 English country home interior set is nearly completed, with the exception of a couple of furniture pieces. The set, which is made up of all freshly painted flats is cloudy blue with many colors in the spattering and stippling designs by Wendell Johnson.

Tickets may be purchased and reservations may be made in room 159 this week or next. Reservation will be held until 15 minutes before curtain time. The charge for student body card holders will be 35 cents, and general admission will be 60 cents. Remember the nights are Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of next week.

The first meeting of the council will be held Monday at 12:30 in room 24.

LA TORRE PICTURE $1.25 FIRST PRINT

Appointments for La Torre pictures began today. One print for each organizational picture is required. The price is $1.25 for the first print and 75 for each additional print. If a student needs a picture taken in a different costume, such as Spartan Spears, or cap and gown, he or she must pay the first price of $1.25.

Girls are asked to wear white, well-pressed shirtwaist blouses, and to apply their lipstick lightly, as dark lipstick shows up black and heavy in the print. The hair should be smooth and trim. Seniors to be photographed in gowns should remove their blouses before donning gowns.

To obtain best results, men are requested to have hair smooth, with straight parts, and to be sure to have shirt collars straight. They are not required to wear or bring white shirts, as these will be provided.

Bill Shaw, business manager of La Torre, asks that everyone be sure to bring his money and appointment card with him to the photographer.

Kappa Karnival Takes Over Men's Gymnasium Tonight

'CONEY ISLAND' THEME PROMISES FUN; PROCEEDS GO TO HEALTH COTTAGE

"Today is Karnival day! . . . the day all you Spartans have been waiting for!" declares Pat Renz, Kappa Karnival chairman. The event will take place in the Men's gymnasium from 8 to 12. Tickets for 14 cents may still be bought from any Kappa member or at the ticket booth in the Library arch. Kappa members are identified by the slings they wear. The Kappa Karnival, sponsored by Kappa Kappa Sigma sorority, is a benefit for the Health Cottage.

THEME

"Coney Island" will be the theme for the evening. "It's sure to be a gala occasion," says Miss Renz. "I promise a good time for all, surpassing even the hilarious Karnivals of the past."

Some of the concessions will include a photo booth, leg toss, beer garden, milk bottle throw, fortune telling, fish pond, and dart throw.

According to Miss Renz, the program will feature a first-class show by Nadine Jansen, playing trumpet and piano simultaneously.

BEAUTY CONTEST

A bathing beauty contest among sororities will offer a $5 money order from Roos Bros. for the winner.

Assisting Miss Renz are the following group chairmen: Shirley Everret, food; Betty Jurras, advertising; Jane Barrett, decorating; Claire Canevari, Nancy Lynn and Jewgie Haddock, entertainment; Pat Dunlavy, tickets; Pat Griffin and Ernestine De Ford, concessions; and Jessie Steinegal, costumes.

A Cappella

A cappella choir members, as well as the entire student body, will be pleased to hear that William Erlendson is back from overseas and will resume instruction in the Music department Monday.

Erlendson plans to start work immediately with the A cappella choir and will hold the first meeting of this group Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, room 107 in the Music building.

No Noon Dance

Painters have taken over the Student Union, temporarily, so there will be no noon dance today. There will be one next Friday, however—and one on Wednesday, too, if the painters finish in time.

Sponsored by the Student Council, noon dances are to be a regular student function as long as their present popularity continues.

Service Committee Aids Students With Scholarships, Loans

Functioning for the second year by direction of Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie is the College Service Funds committee, organized for the purpose of administering scholarship, loan, and other service funds committed to its care for the welfare of students.

Dr. Karl S. Hazeltine, professor of nature study, is chairman of the committee. The deans of men and women, Paul Pitman and Miss Helen Dimmick, respectively, bring to the attention of the committee the applications of students for financial aid.

MEMBERSHIP

The college president, Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie; dean of the upper division, Dr. J. C. DeVoss; dean of the lower division, Dr. Jay C. Elder; the comptroller, E. S. Thompson; are ex-officio members of the committee. Appointed for one year by Dr. MacQuarrie is Mrs. Dolores Spurgeon; appointed for one year by the student body is Pat Cavanagh.

Any student who may need financial aid in order to get through a difficult period is advised to talk to either Dean Pitman or Dean Dimmick before making a decision. The deans are authorized by the College Service Funds committee to make recommendations for such aid.

CULTURAL AIDS

The committee is also considering the sponsorship of a lecture series by inspirational speakers, and will be alert to recognize opportunities for bringing to the campus, any cultural program which would be of value to the students.

The committee will investigate every possible opportunity to aid worthy students through the use of loan or scholarship funds.

IN PASSING

By ROWLAND MITCHELL

If I ever become editor of this gazette, and I expect someday to be just that (no inferiority complex here, by jove), one of the first things I'll do is abolish use of the word "traditional."

Honestly, I've run across that word so much in the Daily since I've been here I can smell it coming two paragraphs away. The aroma isn't exactly bracing, either. "Traditional" is old and musty. It has whiskers on it this long—But there's no holding it down.

SAY 'CONSTITUTIONAL'

Every time something shouldn't be done around here, it's traditional NOT to do it. And when something needs doing, why then it's traditional to do it. Why don't they say "Constitutional," like the chaps in Congress do when things get out of hand? Or better still, just say "don't do this, do that." We'd pay no attention just as quick.

Of course the Daily writers aren't wholly to blame for the time-and-a-half and double time this word enjoys. After all, can you think up a good synonym for traditional? If so, you're a better man than I, Gunga Din.

Yes, I admit I've used the word a time or two. But if something's traditional it's traditional, and you can't get out of it. "Custom" is supposed to be a synonym for tradition, but who ever heard of college customs? It's got to be traditions, by heck, or know the reason why.

Now the point I want to make, if I haven't already made it, is that we have too many of these so-called traditions beating around the campus. Every time you turn around you stare a tradition in the teeth. And a plug for Pepsodent wouldn't be amiss at this point, either, if I know what you mean.

GOOD LITTLE GUYS

But we Daily scribes, semper fidelis, go ahead like good little guys and play up the tradition angle big. But we aren't fooling us with this hubba hubba. A means to an end, that's what it is; a big fat scheme to make freshmen behave the way we ought to.

Far be it from us, however, to say in our "Freshmen Take Heed," which inevitably appears in one form or another each fall: "Please don't smoke in the Quad; it dirties up the place and looks bad, too." How far would we get on those tactics? We've had Psy. 5A and 5B, you know. What we actually tell them is this: "It's a time-honored tradition here, no smoking in the Quad." The kids can't kill their weeds quickly enough when they read that. They want to be one of us, you see.

In such ways as this the Spartan Daily continuously serves the cause of the public welfare. "The noblest motive, the public good," we hold, and our unselfish devotion to that end has ever been the Daily's tradition.

Yes, I said tradition!

All girls who are going to the Stanford Play Day meet in the Women's gym at 12 o'clock today to make final arrangements about clothes and transportation.

'No Time To Quit'

According to many people's way of thinking, now that the war is over, bond buying is over. Such is definitely not the case.

A little logical thinking will show that there is a continued need for saving. This is not the time to be swept up in a wave of spending.

In World War I, prices rose 62 per cent. In World War II they went up only 30 per cent. When World War I was over prices soared as people bid against each other for scarce items. This cannot happen again. Such an efficient job has been done during THIS war in preventing inflation that it can't have been in vain.

Preventing another depression is terribly important to every American of any age group, but particularly to college-age people. You're the ones who are going to be hunting jobs in a few years, and even that old A.B. isn't going to be a magic key to a job, if "hard times" hit us, as too many people have found out.

There's another important angle, too. Whatever you can save now will be there to help you get a start when you need it. —B.C.

Veteran Conscious

Just how long is this overwhelming consciousness of the veteran going to pervade our campus?

For almost four years we have been waiting for peace and the inevitable return to normalcy. Now that we have peace, it's amazing that we insist on suppressing the individuality and initiative of the veteran by sentimentalizing his position.

Continual group identification is unhealthy—our heritage demands uninhibited and free-thinking men. Let stabilization be uppermost in our minds and organization secondary.

SPARTANS in the SERVICE...

Every day pre-war faces, once familiar on campus, put in an appearance. Some with discharges in hand, others still sweating it out, and some just back from overseas enjoying a furlough.

Dale Nelson, San Jose State college soccer star, and active member of the Spartan Knight service organization, wandered into the Spartan Daily office a few days ago to talk about the "good old days". Nelson is a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps expecting his discharge soon.

Tom Marshall, past columnist for the Spartan Daily, sophomore class president, and member of Alpha Pi Omega greeted his fraternity brothers yesterday after returning from the South Pacific. He is an ensign in the Navy now and was married by the Rev. Henry Hunter of the First Christian church yesterday.

Del Armstrong and Bert Robinson have been on campus for the last two days, announcing plans for the returning to school soon. Armstrong was known for his star water polo playing and swimming. Bert Robinson was an outstanding halfback on the football team for two consecutive years before leaving school with the ERC's in April, 1943. He was also a Spartan Knight.

Bert Gale, recently returned from Europe, where he served as sergeant with the 103rd Division, is now stationed at Dibble hospital convalescing from shrapnel wounds in the hand received in the Alsace-Lorraine area, France. Gale was a member of Beta fraternity and has married since leaving with the ERC's in April 1943. His wife is the former Lu Fontaine.

THRUST and PARRY

Dear Thrust and Parry:

A colored picture has been taken from a poster in the foyer. The picture was loaned for the poster and not intended for a souvenir. Worse yet, reproductions can't be made.

You call yourselves Spartans—well, you're in San Jose State now, and you should earn the title. Poor sportsmanship is not a part of a Spartan, and it shouldn't be a part of you. Taking pictures or posters of decorations that don't belong to you is certainly poor sportsmanship and not at all Spartan-like. There have been other complaints. It's up to you and I hope you don't have to be hit over the head before you see the light.

Please then, whoever took the picture from the poster in the foyer, return it in an envelope to the Lost and Found in the Information office.

Two-Year Silence Is Broken By Cheering Spartans In Stadium

By PHIL GINN

After two years, Spartan stadium's silence was broken Wednesday night as San Jose Staters filled the stadium with cheers and laughter.

During the past two years the stadium has been a dismal place. Although high school teams have played ball there, it was never like the gang from State. The crowd Wednesday night may not compare with the crowds of pre-war days, but—after all—State is just beginning to grow again. Spartans and Spartanettes did the old crowd justice with their spirit and strong voices. The team couldn't help but play good football with that crowd cheering them on.

It's good to have Spartan stadium full of the spirited State gang again, and Staters are certainly glad to be back in the cheering sections.

Hats off to McGill and Johnson for their leadership. They certainly put all they have into leading those yells, for they keep the crowd busy between plays yelling their lungs out. (This is one we heard buzzing around the stadium last night: What has happened to the "Give 'Em The Ax" yell?)

Very little need be said here about the team, for the score tells everything. So does Brady's column. A lot of credit to Coach Bill Hubbard for producing such a good team in so short a time.

S.J. COLLECTION RICH HERITAGE

By BARBARA CAMPBELL

The other day someone expressed his hesitancy about entering the San Jose State Collection room, because he wasn't sure whether he had to enter through the Librarian's office, room 116, or just what.

No Spartan should miss seeing the Collection room, for it is an exhibit of things which are all a part of his rich heritage. It is a fine room with lots of interesting things to see.

The door to the Collection room is usually open, and one may enter the room directly, without any sign-up preliminaries, etc. BUT, if the door is closed and locked for some reason, it's a simple matter

MY DAY

By EDNA FANUCCHI

Most articles increase in value as they increase in age, but at this hallowed institution the well-known exception of the rule exists. As a result, though some humans travel many a league to buy a warped and twisted antique, grotesque and utterly useless it may be, we of Sparta get the much quoted raspberry when we trade in our texts.

Anyone of culture would consider a book handled with affection by students illustrated perhaps with some intricate doodling of rare animals or just plain crisscross, as inestimably valuable.

BOOK EXTINCT

Often like the buffalo, our books become extinct immediately at the termination of the quarter or year. You go back to the den where you were clipped. The once charming clerk who only viewed you as a philanthropist through eyes where dollar bills replace pupils, treats you now indifferently.

In your stumbling but sweet manner you approach his well-fed figure and hoarsely ask, "How much?" His gnarled face breaks into a grin that looks like an incision and he says unmercifully, "Oh that—that has been discontinued, didn't you hear?" Then his jointed fingers caress your back and you sail to the "coop" where you weep in your beer (root beer).

HONEST FACES

Remarkably often these clerks have faces that you trusted and even liked them as they confidently hissed in your ear—"This is the last copy of this book."

In rare cases, like some people recover from leprosy, some people born under a charmed star sell their books, but what paltry compensation! What you paid in genuine lettuce, you get back in copper or vegetables.

Every once in a while, a professor who has a mother says that a text will be unnecessary but the fates encourage him to nail you for two or three syllabuses. Life's bitter.

to enter through room 116.

Among the objects exhibited in the room are: histories of the college, and books about it, old pictures and records, books by graduates, La Torres "from 'way back when," and actual furniture from the first buildings.

SPARTAN GRIDDERS PLAY BEST GAME WEDNESDAY; NEWCOMERS MAKE GOOD

It is the generally accepted belief around Washington Square the past few days that the Spartan gridgers played their best game so far this season Wednesday night when they soundly defeated the Las Vegas Army Air-base 13-8.

A lot of credit is due the Spartan gridgers on their "theoretical" upset over the Army Flyers. They were playing a more seasoned club which possessed a lot of veterans who have seen much action on the gridiron. The Yearlings were really "fired up" for this one, and that's what pays off.

The Spartans had it in most of the statistical departments too. They had 12 first downs from scrimmage to 10 for the Indians. The freshmen made 159 yards from rushing to 138 for their opponents. The Yearlings still seem to be troubled in regard to holding onto the ball; they fumbled seven times while the Flyers only miscued twice. Of course the ball was wet, and pretty difficult to hang on to, but the Spartans have been suffering from fumbilitis all season.

Coach Bill Hubbard had particular praise for two newcomers who hadn't played much ball for the Spartans until Wednesday night; Val Felice, 195-pound tackle from Gilroy, and George Keene, 190-pound end from Modesto. These boys were standouts on defense. Bob Campbell and Bob Steele, two guards playing their first game for State, played a bang-up game on defense. Campbell hails from Salinas junior college while Steele saw action on the gridiron at Santa Cruz high school.

Dick Bischoff played his usual standout game on defense. Dick backs up the line on defense, calling the defensive signals.

State's first touchdown march that covered 55 yards was beautifully engineered by substitute Quarterback Wes Stevenson. Stevenson was playing the third football game of his career, and captained the team like a veteran. His short "spot pass" to Wil Concklin on the Indian 15-yard line was the highlight.

Pete Denevi, making his first start at the quarterback spot, played a fine game, looking especially good on defense. When Denevi is in at quarterback, Frank Davilla calls the plays from his fullback position. Davilla broke away for several nice gains against the Indians, and drove over for the final touchdown with but two minutes remaining in the game.

An interesting play, already mentioned in yesterday's Daily, was the one in which the Indians got their six points. Hill tossed a pass intended for the Las Vegas end in the end zone, Chagonjian cut across in front of him in the flat to take the ball on the dead run. It looked as though he might have been away for a 102-yard romp when the ball oozed out of his arms and into the waiting receiver, and that was their only touchdown.

It is hard to give praise to everyone who is worthy of it. It might be much simpler to say that the entire club played a hard-fought game, for the tackling was sharp, and the blocking hard and effective.

Spartan Water Polo Team Plays Return Game With Sequoia High School Nov. 7

Spartan water polo players will play their third game of the season in a return contest with Sequoia high school. The game was originally scheduled for October 31, but due to difficulties it had to be post-poned until November 7. The game will be played at Sequoia and will start at 3:45 p.m.

Sequoia high gave the San Jose State college team a tough battle in their first game two weeks ago. The Spartans were able to squeeze out a victory, however, by the close score of 4 to 3.

The Spartan squad has been working out quite heavily the past week. Coach Leo Gaffney has been giving his charges conditioning exercises. Two of the men were forced to leave the Palo Alto game last week because of leg cramps, and it is hoped that if the men can get in condition it won't happen again.

The team hasn't been able to get in much scrimmage practicing because of the few men who have been reporting for practice. Several of the fellows have been ill with colds, which has been hampering the practice sessions.

Cecil Dombalian, star performer, on last year's water polo team, has been out for a few practices this week, and it is possible that he will be a member of the team this year.

Spears Assist TB Association

Members of the Spartan Spears assisted the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis Association on Wednesday evening in preparing the letters which are sent out to promote the sale of Christmas Seals.

According to Miss Margaret Twombly, Health department head, this work is an annual task which is done by the service organization. Approximately $15 was made by the Spears in their recent Lost and Found sale of unclaimed articles.

Two sound film strips, "The Human Touch," and "Along Main Street" dealt with selling principles. The films were shown through the courtesy of the Coca Cola company.

Moving pictures presented by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company were also shown. "A New Voice For Mr. X" demonstrated the use of the telephone, and a technicolor film entitled "Western Crossing" illustrated the placing of communication cables across the country.

Dr. Earl C. Campbell, professor in the Social Science department is advisor of the group.

Wanted!

Stella Pinoris still at large! She was last seen with a silken chord in hand approaching Elda Beth Payne at the end of the last rehearsal of "Ladies in Retirement." This diabolical young woman is suspected by police of finishing off Miss Payne. Is she guilty?

SPARTANS in the SERVICE...

tan Daily staff reporter, Newman club member, and man about town, is stationed in the east in an intelligence office, expecting daily to see service in the occupation forces. Rezewalli was another ERC man who left on April 9, 1943.

Don Campbell, past justice of the Student Court, Social Affairs chairman, La Torre associate editor, and member of Spartan Knights and Sigma Gamma Omega, returned to duty recently after a 30-day leave from the Navy. Campbell is a Lt. (jg) on a salvage tug. He has seen action in the South Pacific.

Boyd Haight just sent word that he is still holding the fort in his "brick foxhole" in Washington, D. C. Haight was a Spartan Daily day editor, and a member of Tau Delt and Alpha Pi Omega.

Haleiwa Club

New president of the Haleiwa club is Jean Napier, who was elected to the post at a recent meeting of the organization. Other officers are Marjorie Banks, vice-president; Elaine Malama, secretary; Vaughan Donovan, treasurer; and Bob Smith, sergeant-at-arms.

Plans for the quarter were discussed after the election of officers. A Chinese dinner was enjoyed following the business meeting.

Herald Comment

Back yard neighbors of San Jose State college—the San Jose High school students, haven't a very high opinion of their collegiate brethren's housekeeping.

"Before" and "After" cartoons in the High school Herald depict a tidy Spartan campus before 12 o'clock, followed by conglomerations of lunch boxes, cigarette butts and other debris after 1 o'clock.

Open Gate Policy

Taking advantage of Hallowe'en, somebody removed the locked gate which has guarded the sacred sod of the San Carlos turf since last quarter.

Whoever did this deed probably received the good wishes of students who know "the shortest distance between two points is a straight line."
