Seniors! Tonight is the night! We take off this afternoon on the first big class activity of our busy final year, and spend a whole night away at Asilomar, where there won't be a junior within miles (none with any hair, anyway). Dear Thrust and Parry:

concerning peace time military training, we firmly believe the ballot should have been presented the word "compulsory." in a different form. This ballot was not adequate for the purpose for which it was intended. There should be more than two possible choices to vote on when the problem involves so many varying points of view.

There was a noticeable absence of the term COMPULSORY MILI-TARY TRAINING. We were under the impression that the poll was taken to determine the popularity of proposed compulsory military training as opposed to voluntary enlistment or other voluntary training such as ROTC or training in the school systems.

There are many people who might sanction military training in peace time if it were proposed in a more concrete manner.

Such a vote in this form does not present constructive enough criticism to send to senators or representatives. Let's have something with more detail and more thought behind it.

Sincerely.

Dear Thrust and Parry:

There are several of us at San Jose this quarter who have transferred from Stanford as seniors, and are much interested in the movement to establish an honor system at State. Much of the pride that we have had in the Farm is due to the widespread, cooperative use of the Honor Code there—a pride and a system which we all at State could share with each other and use intelligently "HONEST THRILL"

The Honor Code is not flawless, certainly; there will always be found in any group those few backward students who haven't the courage and honesty to rely independently on their own knowledge. Because it does depend on the integrity and honesty of each individual student, however, the Honor Code works very successfully. Each of us have experienced an honest thrill at Stanford by receiving the test and instructions, and watching the professor leave for the rest of the period. And in the sun. We are responsible to to the proctor or professor.

BASKETBALL TEAM Water Polo Finale PLAYS STANFORD

The Spartan basketball team, under the guidance of Coach Walt McPherson, will journey to Palo Alto Monday night to meet the Stanford Indians in the 1945 cage opener for San Jose State.

The Spartans, with only four days' practice behind them, will definitely be the underdog. The Indians have already had several into their regular Coast Conference schedule in the near future.

STARTERS

The probable starting lineup for · State will look something like this: At the guard positions will be Ted Holmes, holdover from the "44 club, and probably Jack Marcipan, also from the '44 starting five. Charlie Lazer and Pete Denevi may also work into one of the guard spots. Lazer saw a lot of action last season while he was at State; Denevi is from Los Gatos where he was a guard on the Wildcat SCVAL championship team.

At the forward positions will be George Keene, formerly of Modesto J. C. Keene made All-State while at Modesto, and is a definite point-getter. Frank Davilla may be at the other forward spot. Davilla played a lot of basketball at Lincoln High school in San Jose.

CENTERS

The center spot is still "wide open." McPherson may use Wes Stevenson or Jim Blake at the pivot post, or he may move Holmes in at center and use Glen Deboise as a guard.

It must be understood that all the above information is purely speculative, for no coach with but two or three days' practice behind his club can determine anything much resembling a starting "five."

Betas: It is important that you meet in room 24 today at 12:30. Turn in all money that you can. Connie.

Tonight In SF Pool

By JERRY EVANS

Tonight in San Francisco the Spartan tanksters play their last game of the 1945 season. The game will be a return game against the strong San Francisco Olympic club.

Coach Leo Gaffney's water polo team has had quite a rough season this year. The tankmen have successful games, and will swing played six games for two wins and four defeats.

> In the first game of the season shortly after the Autumn quarter started, the locals met and defeated Sequoia High school in the San Jose State college pool. A few days later the Spartans came up against the well-seasoned and experienced Palo Alto High school team, which defeated the locals by a large score.

San Francisco's "O" club defeated the San Jose State college team by a close score two weeks ago and the outcome of tonight's game is a toss-up.
