SJS Building Plans Continue

Millions of dollars worth of new buildings will be added to the SJS campus within the next few years, according to Executive Dean C. Grant Burton.

New Library, engineering and music, additions are still in the planning stage, but bids for the $500,000 Speech and Drama Department addition will be opened Nov. 3.

Remodeling of the old Art Wing for the Journalism and Advertising Department is expected to begin within the next few months. The $250,000 job will be finished by next summer, according to Dean Burton.

The two million dollar, six-story Library addition is "about ready to go out to bid," Dean Burton said. The new book stacks and reading rooms will be added to the north end of the present building, where the Student Union now stands.

The six men's and women's dorms are scheduled for completion in time for the fall semester of next year.

The Industrial Arts Building at Ninth and San Fernando streets is expected to be completed and equipped by January of 1960.

TO HAVE NO CLASSROOMS
Plans for the seven million dollar, three story addition to the Engineering Building are still being prepared by architects. The building, with an area of 196,000 square feet, will contain laboratories for six engineering sections, but will have no classrooms. Construction is expected to begin in 1961.

Work on the second story additions to the Speech and Drama Building may begin within 30 to 60 days after bids are made final next month, Dean Burton stated. This addition will contain faculty offices, lecture rooms, and speech therapy and voice practice rooms.

An addition to the Music Building will contain 26-27,000 square feet of classrooms, faculty offices, a large rehearsal room, 40 new practice rooms, and storage space for instruments and uniforms.

PLAN JET TEST CELL
An Aeronautics building, to be located at San Jose Municipal Airport, will contain a jet test cell and is still in the planning stage.

A building to house Police and ROTC Departments is being planned for the P.E. field on San Carlos street. The P.E. field will be moved to the block between the dorms.

Rich Hill, ASB President, Won Election With Ideas

By PETE WALLS
Riding the crest of "something different" in college student government last spring, five San Jose State students stood together and won together in student body elections.

At the head of the banner, labeled SPUR, (Students for Progress, Unity and Responsibility) stood the student who now bangs the gavel at 2:30 p.m. every Wednesday in the Student Union.

Richard John Hill, a 21-year-old senior philosophy major from Marin County, had taken no real interest in student government during his first two and a half years at State, but found himself in the middle of a drive to place ideas above individuals in student government.

"A small group of students just decided that student government here wasn't what it is supposed to be," the crew-cut prey explained.

"In the past, students voted for the individual who proved himself most popular. But we felt that ideas are more important than individuals in government, so we put together a platform of just what we thought student government should be."

IRC Asks: Should U.N. Have Army?

"Should the United Nations have a permanent standing army under its control?"

This is the question the International Relations Club and the Spartan Y are asking the San Jose State student body.

The clubs have set up a booth in the Outer Quad to poll the student body in connection with the observance of United Nations Week.

Pres. John T. Wahlquist yesterday proclaimed the week of Oct. 19-24 as U.N. Week on the campus. The questionnaire is the first of a scheduled round of activities which will also include a talk by Martha Allhouse, a symposium on the Khrushchev visit by Dr. Edward Rogers and Dr. S. Laird Swager, from the Political Science Department, the annual U.N. Day Dinner, and the "United Nations Day Festival."

Last year's question was "Should the U.N. admit Red China?"

Handling the IRC programming for U.N. Week is Cecelia Stanton. Brian Paddock is doing the same for the Spartan Y.

Students are urged by the organizations to take part in the student opinion poll.

SJS Student And Brother Die in Crash

A San Jose State student and his brother were killed Saturday afternoon when a motorcycle on which they were riding went under a chain barricade set at neck level on a hiking trail in Alum Rock Park.

Joseph Tolle, 20, physical education major, and his brother Ronald, 13, were traveling up the Eagle Rock hiking trail at what Deputy Coroner Hubert Williams said was an apparently high rate of speed and were unable to avoid the chain.

The motorcycle went under the chain, tearing the riders off. The vehicle continued up the trail and over the bank stopping 150 feet away from the bodies.

When Park Patrolman Robert O'Steen first discovered the tragedy, it was thought that a double murder had occurred. The motorcycle was located later and the real story was established.

Joe Tolle was a graduate of James Lick High School, and had served on active duty with the Marine Corps. He was a member of the Marine Corps Reserve.

The accident occurred five years to the day when the victims' father died in an auto crash.

Kodrich Is Frosh President

John Kodrich was elected Freshman Class president in elections held Thursday and Friday.

Other newly elected members of the executive council are Ralph Johnson, vice president; Bernice Mangseth, secretary; Bill Rude, treasurer; and Suzanne Barton, Student Council representative.

The proposition, "Do you approve of an appropriation from the Freshman Class treasury for the purpose of producing a Freshman Class newspaper" was passed by a vote of 280 "yes" to 142 "no."

A total of 463 freshmen cast ballots in the election.

The new officers were sworn in by Chief Justice Jerry Alexander at the class meeting yesterday.

DRUMMER MANNE—That's Shelly Manne, who, with his jazz crew will take over the Morris Dailey Auditorium tonight for a two-hour concert. Tickets for the event were sold out yesterday, according to Social Affairs entertainment chairman Doug Dennis.

Top Jazz Show Tonight at 7

Manne, men, Smothers and brothers will invade the Morris Dailey Auditorium tonight at 7 for a near-three hour jazz session. Tickets for the concert were sold out by yesterday afternoon according to Social Affairs Committee Entertainment Chairman Doug Dennis.

The Smothers Brothers will begin the show with a 45-minute folk and popular music program, Dennis said.

Members of the Smothers Brothers are Dick Smothers, bass; Tom Smothers, guitar; and Bob Blackmore, banjo.

The trio has recently been appearing at the Purple Onion in San Francisco and has made special appearances in shows at the University of California and Santa Clara University. They also have performed at San Jose's Kerosene Club, where they got their start.

Manne and His Men will take the stage at approximately 8 p.m. for a two-hour jazz concert, Dennis said. The concert is slated to begin with Manne's rendition of "My Fair Lady," Dennis said.

Manne was born in New York City, June 11, 1920. His father was a drummer-typist and opposed his son becoming a drummer.

The elder Manne bought his son a saxophone, which Shelly neither liked nor played. He finally induced his father to trade the sax for a set of drums and soon became a professional drummer.

His first professional drumming assignment was on the New York and Le Havre Ferry, which allowed him time between trips to venture to Harlem where he listened and learned.

During a three-and-a-half-year tour of duty with the Coast Guard in the Second World War, Manne made several recordings and guest performances with such artists as Dizzy Gillespie, Coleman Hawkins and other groups.

Following his discharge, Manne joined Stan Kenton for a long and lasting association, which survived the breaking up of Kenton's bands three times. Each time Kenton reformed his band, Manne was asked to rejoin as featured drummer.

In 1951, after several years on the road with Kenton, Manne moved to Southern California and settled down, forming his own group, Shelly Manne and His Men.

With this group, and a second one, Shelly Manne and His Friends, he has been making recordings, television and radio appearances and several sound tracks for movies.

Area Ski Patrol To Meet Tonight
The Santa Clara County Ski Patrol will hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 8 o'clock at the Red Cross Chapter House, 440 N. First St.

Tonight's meeting will include a discussion of First Aid courses and the planning of this year's activities.

Those interested in organized ski activities and volunteer safety work may attend the meeting.

KOED Opens Season Nov. 3

KOED Television Day has been set for Nov. 3 as the campus station launches its 1959 telecasting season.

Variety will be prevalent in the season's opening 3:30-7:30 day with the format including two half-hour dramatic shows, a half-hour children's show, a puppet and a panel show, a documentary on Mathew Brady, plus a woman's show. "This year's telecast will offer more variety than any other telecast we have had throughout the past years," commented Doug Coleman, TV Guild president.

KOED differs from commercial television stations in that it is a proving ground for experimental television shows. The system offers a chance to learn while doing and serves as an instructional device to potential directors, actors, and lighting, art, and sound technicians without pressure from sponsors.

In viewing rooms throughout the campus, Spartans will take part in the season's opener by seeing "The Boor," by playwright Ardon Chekov. Directed and adapted for television use by George Yanok, senior radio and television major, the famous Russian comedy classic will bring to the screen James O'berg, Sandra Ward, and Dan Zanvettor. Assistant director is Paula Miller.

Clarence Morley, KOED station manager will direct "Civilized," another half-hour dramatic play which is concerned with an argument on which of the arts has the most influence on man. This east

Special Daily Sale Starts Tomorrow
A special Send-Home Edition of the Spartan Daily will be on sale in the Outer Quad in front of the Science Building tomorrow and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Featuring pictures of typical campus scenes, news of campus activities and registration, the regular price is 10 cents. For 15 cents the paper will be wrapped, stamped and mailed to a relative or friend anywhere in the U.S.

Moral Law At Y Today
A chaplain from San Quentin prison and two ministers will be speakers at the Spartan Y meeting at 3:45 p.m. today in the Cafeteria faculty dining room.

Rabbi Isor Fround, prison chaplain; Rev. John C. Carroll, Congregational minister from Church of the Valley; and Father John Duryea, SJS Newman Club adviser, will speak in a panel discussion.

The last meeting in a series of sex and moral values will consider the relationship of moral law to the legal standards of society.

The Spartan Y will begin a series of programs on world "relatedness" in November.

More Court Improvement Talks Today

Student Court revision proposals will be outlined by Chief Justice Jerry Alexander today at 2:30 in Adm242. Alexander said all court justices will bring in ideas for improving the present judiciary system.

The new court plans, which were drawn up by the College Life Committee last spring and approved recently by the Student Council, will give wider scope to the court's judiciary power.

Two new court bodies—an Appeal Board and a Judicial Coordinating Board—will soon go into operation to speed up the campus judiciary process, Alexander said.

Daniel Hassett, new junior male justice, and Arcelia Cardova, new sophomore female justice, will take their seats in the court today to give the Spartan court a quorum membership. Senior male justice Marvin Frankel took over his court position last week.

Young GOPs Quit Club
Two charter members of the Young Republicans Club resigned from the YR executive board last Thursday as the result of an "internal squabble" according to YR president Ray Blockie.

Past Young Republican President Dan Jacobson and one other officer walked out of the meeting Thursday when the club voted to invite the Acts for Peace group to speak before their organization.

Jacobson said he resigned because he "did not feel that inviting the Acts for Peace group was in the best interest of the club."

Blockie said the group was invited to speak at an informational session. He said the date has not been set but he planned to have them at a December or January meeting.

The two resigning YR members said they would continue to give support to the Republican party but did not plan to be associated with the campus group again.

IKE ORDERS INJUNCTION IN STEEL DISPUTE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower yesterday ordered the Justice Department to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction halting the 98-day-old steel strike. The department is scheduled to go into Federal Court in Pittsburgh at 10 this morning.

The President acted only a few hours after his special fact-finding board reported there was no hope that the costly strike could be settled voluntarily. It said the union and companies had failed to agree on any single major issue.

"It's a sad day for the nation," the President said.

CHESSMAN LOSES CLEMENCY BATTLE
SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday refused to grant clemency to Caryl Chessman. The condemned convict-author promptly called the action one of "political expedience."

Brown said the evidence of guilt against the 38-year-old Chessman was "overwhelming" and showed "a deliberate career of robberies and kidnappings, followed by sexual assaults and acts of perversion, accomplished at the point of a loaded gun."

The governor's refusal to commute Chessman's two death sentences to life in prison left the execution scheduled for Friday at 10 a.m. PST.

It was his seventh execution date in 11½ years.

SWASHBUCKLING FLYNN BURIED QUIETLY
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Funeral services for Errol Flynn yesterday were as quiet and solemn as his life was stormy and controversial.

Less than 500 persons attended the Episcopal rites at Forest Lawn's Church of the Reclusion, including his last wife, actress Patricia Wymore, and his second spouse, Nora Eddington.

Absent was 17-year-old Beverly Aadland, his most recent girl friend and "protege." The blonde teenager was at the home of her San Francisco attorney discussing her "interests" in Flynn's estate.

TV viewers' Dilemma

Charles Van Doren's flight to the New England countryside to avoid a federal subpoena in the television quiz fix probe leads one to wonder about the shape of the entire industry.

John C. Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, suggested yesterday that "TV Shows take a tip from baseball, and set up a 'czar' to police quiz shows."

But maybe this "czar" should start by throwing the book not at the quiz shows particularly, but at the industry entirely.

With a whole raft of shows geared to a child's intelligence, and commercials aimed at making a travesty of human intellect, this fall's programming has slipped below the viewing point.

Doerfer is inclined to blame "growing pains" as well as government laxness in the matter of quiz shows.

But who's to blame for shows where the good guy overcomes all to get the girl, and where, during the commercial, the viewer is "ur-Think For Yourself ged" to think for himself.

If one were to think for himself, one wouldn't be chained to the "idiot box" at all, but rather selective of the numerous really choice presentations in drama, entertainment and sports that are offered. —P.R.W.

Anybody Happy?

Steel industrialists and workers agree that the injunction under the Taft-Hartley law is not a solution to the dispute.

United Press International reported yesterday that the general sentiment among steelworkers is to walk out again at the end of the 80 day injunction if they don't get some concessions.

Employers feel that the cost of reopening their factories will be almost as high as profits they could earn during the 80 day period. —J.H.A.

Stan Kenton Says Jazz Best Sellers Interest 'Zero' in U.S.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—"People don't seem to want to think any more," says Stan Kenton, the creator of progressive jazz, and "today's music shows it."

Kenton, who has been a big name in the business ever since he introduced his "artistry in rhythm" on the West Coast in the early 1940's, complained that rock 'n' roll has reduced interest in creative jazz practically to zero.

While he said he's "still in there punching," the lanky Californian conceded it's growing more and more difficult to get bookings for his big, brass band. He and his orchestra mostly have been playing one-night stands.

American jazz appears to be more popular in Europe than in its native land, Kenton said.

"There's no difficulty finding audiences in Europe, but an American orchestra there is in such demand that it's forced to play two engagements a day in different cities.

"Europeans really dig our music, but it's rough on the boys. We'll play an afternoon concert in one city, then hop a bus for a night-time appearance in another city a few hours' drive away. And when we finally get through, there isn't even an open restaurant to be found."

Kenton has taken orchestras on several European tours and was negotiating for a trip to the Soviet Union when the Russian government turned thumbs down on imported jazz.

Although his current aggregation is one of the finest of his career, Stan would prefer to live quietly in his Hollywood home and compose serious jazz and play it during a short concert tour each year.

He's abandoned successful orchestras several times in the past decade, but, for one reason or another, he's kept returning to the road.

His current tour started just after his Balboa Ballroom folded last summer in California.

How to get into college

CHANCES ARE you already have guessed what this article is all about just by the clever title. Well, you're wrong. I am concerned today only with the physical problems of getting into, and out of, college.

We will be discussing such subjects as "The Sawhorse and How to Get Around It," "Walking Into a Poli. Sci. Class Trailing Sawdust on the Floor" and "What to Do Until the Bricklayer Leaves."

I don't know if you are aware of it yet or not, but things aren't the same around the little red schoolhouse anymore; there seems to be a carpenter convention nearby. As one smart-aleck professor cracked as he tip-toed around a gaping thirty-foot abyss, "It's getting tougher and tougher to get into school these days."

WITH ALL this building going on around here, I wouldn't at all be surprised to arrive some morning at the bookstore and find in the shop's usual spot, a nude acre of ground.

Laugh, will you? Well, for the past two weeks some laborers (who seem a little disgruntled with the whole affair) have been digging a moat around the bookstore in both plain sight and broad daylight. Nobody seems to care much.

Also, a rather high wall is being built at this moment right under our noses and what do we do about it? Nothing, that's what we do. Can it be possible the administrators haven't had a chance to notice the wall? I realize they have a lot of worries, but this haphazard construction is not just something to be taken with your morning coffee.

I EXPECT one of these days I shall find myself locked on campus, forced to spend the night curled up in a sand pot with some lonely cigarette butts and an empty carton of chocolate milk.

Then we will know how those rats in the psychology texts feel when they have to find their way home because of someone's maudlin sense of humor.

I can see myself now, scampering back and forth along the pathway between the library and the bookstore, trying to find the correct road that will lead me back out onto S. Sixth St.

I was walking to class the other day with my head in a magazine when suddenly a funny feeling hit me. It was becoming harder to walk. I stared straight ahead, terrified that my legs had become paralyzed by some rare disease that strikes without warning.

When I looked down to discover myself trying to walk through a pile of sand which had entered my pathway without notice, you can imagine how silly I felt.

But, these are some of the hazards of a college education. (Going through the day with sand between your toes, I mean.)

P.E. Honor Group To Meet Tonight

Tau Gamma, local honor society for women physical education majors, will hold a business meeting tonight at 7:30 in the lounge of the women's gym.

Donna Cruzen, president, will preside over the meeting. Initiation will be discussed.

In order to obtain membership in the honor society, P.E. majors must have an overall accumulated average of 3.0 for two semesters. To remain active they must maintain a 3.0 average.

Miss Shirley Gorrell is the group's adviser.

'The Creature' Has No Respect for U.S.

EDITOR: We live in what probably is the greatest land on earth, past or present. Most Americans have a great deal of respect and humility for America. There is one type of individual who does not seem to fit the pattern, however. This is the lowest creature to inhabit the United States. He's the one who holds the United States its symbols and principles in contempt.

In America we have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We can speak our minds even when criticizing the government. We can worship as we please. We have so many rights found in no other country of the world. We have the best economy, best communications and travel facilities, and we have the complete freedom to take advantage of these to the best of our abilities. An American can travel in any country of the world knowing that his rights are protected by the strength, freedom and influence of the United States through its diplomats and officials.

We now come to the creature. He is the one who is disrespectful to our flag. For example, the next time you are at a football game, casually notice this creature during the National Anthem.

You will see him sitting, talking and laughing, but completely disregarding the flag, anthem, and the nation which these symbols represent.

I suggest that if you feel yourself slipping into this creature's category, you must take stock of this great land and of the opportunity you have here. By doing so I believe you can avoid becoming the lowest creature to inhabit the United States.

EXTRA POINTS

By GREGORY H. BROWN

You could have heard a pin drop in hand-boxed Ratcliffe Stadium after San Jose State's football team jumped to an early 21-0 second quarter lead.

Bulldog fans, seated in the rickety bleachers where a bright red pennant displaying the motto "Battlin' Bulldogs" was prominently displayed, were wide-eyed and silent.

It wasn't so much the score, although the Spartan 21-point lead had its telling effect, but more I believe it was the fact that their pint-sized running stars had been held to 27 yards net in the entire first half.

Dale Messer and Billy Wayte, rolling up 406 yards in their first three games, had been held to the barest of minimums in the yardage department. Messer ended the game with a -3 average and Wayte with a 1.14 net in running.

The Bulldogs came into this encounter with an average of over 200 yards a game on the ground and Messer had rolled up a sparkling 9.0 yards per carry average. At the final gun, the Bulldogs had tacked on 6 more yards during the second half to increase their total net on the ground to 33 yards.

The Fresno State wide end stuff, its bread-and-butter play, fell flat on its face and their up-the-middle runs resembled "up-the-creek" dribbles.

Hats off to a staunch interior Spartan defense, a sore spot up until now. I only hope that the Fresno eleven is a better team than the way they played leaves me to think.

It seemed at times that the Bulldog tacklers had been practicing with "greased pigs," for State's runners. Not on any play that I recall, could a Fresno man nail any Spartan on his initial attempt. Coach Cecil Coleman will have his boys knocking the stuffing out of the tackling dummy this week, you can be sure.

Chances against Stanford later in the season were greatly enhanced after the Indians' battle with Washington State's Cougars last week. The Indian pass defense is as leaky as a three cent washer and has been, ever since its first game against Oregon. Oddly enough, the Cougars are considered very weak in the air department. Spartan QBs should have a field day if the Stanford secondary runs true to form.

When on the ground, the SJS grid squad proved last week that they can play "ball-control" football. The locals had the pigskin on 86 offensive plays to the Bulldogs' 56.

San Jose missed two golden opportunities to tack two more touchdowns on the scoreboard against Fresno. On a second and goal situation in the third quarter, Joe Paris vaulted into the endzone but lost the pellet to a Bulldog defender.

Chon Gallegos, operating in the final stanza, had the Spartan reserves moving toward a six-pointer but a fourth and goal situation resulted in a desperation pass by Chon which was batted away by Bob Van Galder, the Fresno signal-caller.

Fresno football fans were really buzzing about the running exploits of halfback Oneal Cuterry and his amazing competitive spirit. Cuterry was really low-bridged on two tackles early in the first half and had to be helped off the field only to return shortly after to haunt the Bulldog defenders.

Post Mortem

Titch, Players Jubilant

Coach Bob Titchenal, the last man to enter the victors' dressing room at Ratcliffe Stadium in Fresno, broke into a broad grin as his football warriors greeted him with a chorus of "Happy Birthday." Titch was 43 Saturday.

The celebration came at the end of San Jose State's 40-14 pasting of Fresno State's Bulldogs Saturday night and all Titch could say after looking at the grinning football players was, "all we want is five more happy ones." He was of course referring to the remaining games on the Spartan grid schedule.

Later, after the jubilant yells had subsided and the head football coach had managed to eat a piece of birthday cake, he turned his thoughts to the game just concluded.

Titchenal singled out Oneal Cuterry, Emmett Lee and Ray Podesta. Cuterry rambled for 98 yards on the ground for a nifty 8.2 average and hauled in two passes for 37 yards.

Lee, Podesta and Chon Gallegos completed 17 of 25 passes for a season record of 258 yards. The Spartans upped their passing average to 196 yards a game.

The Spartan running game headed by Cuterry, Mac Burton, Kent Rockholt, Doug McChesney, Paul Millarke, and Dave Harburt ran up 255 yards.

Later, coach Marty Feldman singled out the blocking and defensive play of guard Rich Ertler. Ertler enjoyed his best game of the season. Combining with Roy Harrah, he was an important man in setting up blocks for the Spartan end sweeps.

Before the game and all during the last weeks' practice, the team according to the coaches was not in the right frame of mind for the Bulldog contest. After the Spartans drove for their first touchdown the second time they had the ball, the incentive was there for the rest of the evening.

Fresno appeared to lose spirit as the game progressed and Coach Cecil Coleman of the Bulldogs said, "they were ready when the game began but flattened out at a steady pace."

Kent Rockholt returned to action after a blood disease had sidelined him for two games. He gained 24 yards in four carries during the game.

BACK IN ACTION—Kent Rockholt, the Spartans' dependable kicker, returned to the lineup after his recent layoff due to a blood infection. Rockholt has proven himself as one of the top punt men on the coast and has averaged over 40 yards per attempt. He kicked a 71 yarder earlier this year.

Bear Splashers To Battle State

The rough tough California Bears invade Spartan pool tomorrow at 4 p.m. to battle the vastly improved tankmen from San Jose.

Over the weekend, the Spartans split two games, losing to National A-A.U. champions, the San Francisco Olympic Club 19-14 Friday night, and defeating the Stanford Indians 18-13 Saturday morning.

The Spartans were behind 7-6 at half time and trailed by only two goals with two minutes remaining. Then the Olympic Club broke away and iced the game with two quick goals by Jack Gaughran, who tallied 11 for the night.

Roger Sealife and Lonnie Christensen shared scoring laurels for the team with five goals apiece.

Coach McCandless had high praise for the work done by goalie Merv Donner and the defensive efforts of Captain Bill Augenstein, and Preston Brunst.

In the Stanford contest which the locals won 18-13, the first and second string shared playing time as Coach McCandless saw that the first team was still fatigued by the Olympic Club game.

Roger Sealife had eight goals to lead all the scoring, and Mike Bozzo, who is returning to early season form garnered six goals.

Card Pacers Whip State

Stanford University, with some of the best distance men in the country, defeated the Spartan cross-country team last Friday at the Stanford campus.

The score was Stanford 29, SJS 46, and the Santa Clara Youth Village 50.

Charley Clark and Frank Wulf-tange were the only Spartans to finish in the top ten. Clark finished fifth and Wulf-tange was a ninth place finisher.

SJS Soccer Team Preps for Bears

San Jose State's soccer team, barely edged out 1-0 by the USF Dons last Saturday, looks to the future and this week's game against a strong California Bear squad at Berkeley.

The lone score in the game against USF came on a free penalty shot given the Dons due to a Spartan infraction in the penalty zone.

California's team is undefeated this year and tops the conference standings with a 2-0 mark.

Super Sub!

It's been said that the atomic submarine "Nautilus" stays submerged so long that it only surfaces to let the crew re-enlist.

Perhaps for this reason, the Navy has taken valuable space aboard the "Nautilus" for the only soft-drink vending machine in the entire submarine fleet.

Naturally (or you wouldn't hear about it from us) it's a Coca-Cola machine. And not unexpectedly, re-enlistments are quite respectable.

Rugged lot, those submariners. Great drink, Coke!

Fairness Committee Exists To Hear Student's Grade Woes

By RON MILLER

Though most Spartans don't know it, a small committee of SJS students and faculty members exists just to "go to bat" for them.

It's called the Student-Faculty Fairness Committee and its lone objective is to hear complaints about grades and deal with them as fairly as possible.

Organized here 10 years ago, the committee is unique to SJS. No other institution has a body that does nothing but investigate student gripes about grades.

STUDENT HAS RECOURSE

If a student feels he was graded improperly or treated unfairly by an instructor, he may seek out a committee member and report it. The student and the committee member talk the situation over with the instructor involved.

If a suitable solution can't be reached, the case will be investigated by the committee. The group can't force an instructor to change a grade, but it can make recommendations.

"Past cases have shown that instructors are usually more than willing to cooperate," said Dr. Andrew P. Lassen, committee chairman and head of the Economics and Geography Department.

ACTIONS KEPT SECRET

All proceedings of the committee are kept confidential. A complaining student need not fear repercussions, Professor Lassen said.

"Many students come to us long after receiving the grade," he said. "It's much better to contact us immediately since a wrong grade can sometimes be just the result of a clerical error."

Past cases have shown that more students come to the committee in the spring semester than in the fall. Many seem to forget their woes over the summer vacation.

Fairness Committee members are Dr. Lillian E. Billington, professor of education; Mrs. Nadine A. Hammond, assistant professor of art; Dr. Harrison F. Heath, testing officer; Dr. H. Robert Peterson, associate professor of bacteriology; and Dr. John C. Woodward, assistant professor of education and psychology.

The four student committee members are Gary Wood, Ted Hechathorn, Sally Rees and Denise Duncan.

'Master Plan' Talk Today

Master plan for higher education will be discussed by members of the American Association of University Professors at 12:30 today in Cafeteria rooms A and B.

The California State Legislature has requested the development of the master plan. Today's meeting is the first of the year for the local chapter of the AAUP.

The State Board of Education and the regents of the University of California are developing a plan for the expansion and integration of higher education in junior colleges, state colleges and the University of California.

On the panel are Dr. James P. Heath, professor of zoology; Milton Rendahl, professor of sociology; Dr. Richard Tansey, professor of art; and Dr. James Thornton, professor of secondary education. Dr. George Muench, counseling center head, will head the panel.

The meeting is open to all faculty members.

Spartan Spears Become 'Spurs'

The Spartan Spurs, sophomore women's honorary organization previously known as the Spartan Spears, has gone national and adopted a new name.

Last year the group decided to become members of the national sophomore women's honorary organization known as Spurs. In order to obtain membership in the national organization, which has chapters in many colleges and universities all over the U.S., the SJS chapter will be on probation for a year.

Spur members are selected from freshman girls on the basis of scholarship, service, and character.

"At your service" is the motto of the 18 coeds whose activities include selling coffee and doughnuts at registration and holding a rummage sale each semester where unclaimed articles from the lost and found are sold.

The group makes periodic trips to Agnew State Mental Hospital where they provide entertainment and give parties for the patients.

Officers for the year were initiated Oct. 13, in the SJS Memorial Chapel. Donna Fammatre is president. Serving with her are: Jane Kellenberger, vice president; Joan Winsor, recording secretary; Karen Chikuma, corresponding secretary; Dianne Fammatre, treasurer; Connie Crothers, historian; Linda Hardin, A.W.S. representative; and Wendy Cotton, Agnew chairman.

Other members are: Judy Beckman, Barbara Dommeyer, Linda Janney, Karen Kralovansky, Elaine Larson, Carol New, Patsy Ross, Carole Spotswood, Julie Williams, and Lolita Zook. This year's adviser is Mrs. Alston H. Rieger, assistant professor of health and hygiene.

Student Teaching Pre-Reg Still On

Pre-registration for secondary and elementary education majors planning to student-teach during the spring semester will be continued today through Friday, according to Dr. William G. Sweeney, head of the Department of Education.

Secondary teacher candidates may obtain pre-registration materials and instructions from their education instructors or may contact the secondary education office, N5-A.
