Petitioning Politicians: Take Cue From Science

SJS scientists opened their doors today to show off their merits—something they well deserve to be proud of.

Scientists generally are an admirable breed. They typify the rational, cold, detached and intelligent human being. They are the men who provide others with material advancement—a contribution usually enormously underrated.

And they are credited with the scientific method—way of thinking that pervades other fields far too little. With all the rationale of an impossible machine, the scientist, with his method, bypasses the foibles that upset weaklings.

He puts to shame emotional ballyhoosers who have nothing but fiction to promote and exaggerate.

And on a lower level, he puts to shame irrational politicians who try to get names on petitions—no matter whose names they are.

The activity buzzing about in the College Union probably this very minute is one of petition-peddling with the I'll-sign yours-if-you'll-sign-mine attitude.

Scientists have a lot to teach non-scientists. Mainly, method that would make our political system work as it should. Careless campaigning with emotion as the keynote, however, eliminates much of the possibility for valid democracy.

Glee Clubs To Repeat Performance

By MELVA VOLLERSEN
Art and Music Editor

The men's and women's glee clubs presented a joint recital with vigor and variety for a large and appreciative audience in Concert hall last night. The concert will be repeated tonight at 8:15 p.m.

The program, under the direction of Dr. Gus Lease, assistant professor of music, featured numbers by the 42 members of the men's glee club and women's glee club with 65 voices as well as 45 soloists, trios and quartets from the two groups.

Joining voices, the glee clubs sang the majestic "Cherubim" and "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnokoff and the powerful choral arrangement of "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor."

But the groups were most effective in the songs in the lighter vein. They seemed to enjoy singing selections from "South Pacific" as much as the audience enjoyed listening to the familiar show tunes and the glee clubs all but formed squares on stage while singing "Country Style."

The men's glee club presented harmonious arrangements of such songs as "Vive La Compagnie" and "Winter Song," with their full scale of volume exhibited in the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The Buccaneers, Paul Boynton, Bob Benjamin, Norman Green and John McIntyre, were featured in the amusing "There's Only One of You" and "Yona From Arizona." Another quartet from the men's glee club, David Lindstrom, Bob Cunningham, J. D. Nichols and Van Tindel, also made a hit with arrangements from "Rigoletto."

The melodic numbers by the women's glee club included the solemn "Panis Angelicus" and "The Passion Chorale," as well as the light and gay, "It's Spring" and "Take Joy Home." Accompanists for the program were Donald Chan and Joan Moss. Nichols was student director for the men's glee club and Diana Bly was student director for the women's glee club.

Gerald Nachman, BOY REPORTER

A fool and his temper...

YESTERDAY, AFTER I found my glasses resting comfortably on my nose, following a frantic 10-minute search of the house, I came to an uneasy realization that I may be one of our foremost living fools.

This glasses thing is just one mild example of how I can act sometimes, when nobody is around to see me except myself.

(Incidentally, I finally discovered where my glasses were hiding when I went to rub my eye and bumped my finger against the lens.)

Suddenly an enormous feeling of inadequacy swept over me; a complete sense of unimportance and loss of power. When one looks feverishly for a pencil that is lost—which has no logical right to be lost—for 37 times in the identical spot, and then on the 38th time one discovers it right where one has been searching the other 37 times, one feels pretty imbecilic, to tell the truth.

Usually during these minor skirmishes, a little ten-minute drama takes place, with me as the entire cast, shouting and throwing and stamping and growing very angry by the minute.

It is a very self-destructive, very trying period, and if you happen to be in the room at the time, it is a very embarrassing thing to have to sit through.

And actually, when I look back on some of these temper tantrums—and they are nothing more than that—I grow a little embarrassed myself.

I AM not Irish so it is hard for me to get very irked at anything, but sometimes I get so angry I wish I were Irish so I could swear better.

I have trouble, frankly, swearing very convincingly, mainly, I think, because I am at a loss for words. About the best I ever do is, "Oh, damn, damn, damn, damn, damn, hell, hell, hell, damn, hell, damn, hell, damn, hell, damn, damn," until the object is found.

Often I get angry because I can't think of any words stronger that won't embarrass me. I feel a little silly at having to shout them aloud when nobody but I can hear them.

Another related problem I have is getting a very forceful tone in my voice. It, always sounds a little phony, as if I am swearing to impress someone.

SOME OF the more foolish things I have done, include driving into a car wash and telling the man to fill 'er up; asking the driver of a bus with "Whipple Street" painted in large letters over his head whether this was the bus for Whipple Street; depositing $30 in the bank, then asking the teller if I could draw out $25; and driving into a gas station and asking the attendant where 35th Avenue is, only to be told I have been driving on 35th Avenue for two miles.

And now, if you will excuse me, I have to go sharpen my ball-point pen.

A GUIDE FOR THE LOVELESS

Gentlemen, take warning. June is almost upon us—June, the month of brides. Have you got yours yet? If not, don't despair. You don't have to be rich or handsome to get a girl. All you have to be is kind, considerate, thoughtful, and obliging—in short, a gentleman.

For example, don't ever call a girl for a date at the last minute. Always give her plenty of advance notice—like three months for a coke date, six months for a movie, a year for a prom, two years for a public execution. This shows the girl that she is not your second or third choice and also gives her ample time to select her costume.

And when you ask for a date, do it with a bit of Old World gallantry. A poem, for instance, is always sure to please a young lady, like this:

*I think you're cute,
Daphne La France.
I'll put on a suit,
And take you to a dance.*

In the unlikely event that you don't know any girls named Daphne La France, try this:

*I think you're cute,
Winifred Jopp.
I'll put on a suit,
And take you to a hop.*

In the extremely unlikely event that you don't know a Winifred Jopp either, try this:

*I think you're cute,
Isabel Prall.
I'll put on a suit,
And take you to a ball.*

"Have You Got Yours yet?"

If there is no Isabel Prall, Winifred Jopp, or Daphne La France on your campus, it is quite obvious why you've had trouble finding dates all year: you've enrolled in an all-male school, you old silly!

Next let us take up the question of etiquette once you are out on a date with Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne. The first thing you do, naturally, is to offer the young lady a Marlboro. Be sure, however, to offer her an entire Marlboro—not just a Marlboro butt. Marlboro butts are good of course, but whole Marlboros are better. You get an extra inch or two of fine flavorful tobacco—and I mean flavorful. Do you think flavor went out when filters came in? Well, you've got a happy surprise coming when you light a Marlboro. This one really delivers the goods on flavor, and when you hand Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne a whole, complete, brand-new Marlboro, she will know how highly you regard and respect her, and she will grow misty and weak with gratitude, which is very important when you take her out to dinner, because the only kind of coed a college man can afford to feed is a weak and misty coed. Latest statistics show that a coed in a normal condition eats one and a half times her own weight every twelve hours.

At the end of your date with Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne, make certain to get her home by curfew time. That is gentlemanly. Do not leave her at a bus stop. That is rude. Deliver her right to her door and, if possible, stop the car when you are dropping her off.

The next day send a little thank-you note. A poem is best. Like this:

*For a wonderful evening, many thanks,
Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne.
I'll take you out for some more merry pranks
Next Saturday if you'll haph me.* © 1950 Max Shulman

We can't give you rhyme but we'll give you good reason why you'll enjoy Marlboro's Marlboro's unfiltered companion cigarette, Philip Morris. One word says it all: favor.

Thrust and Parry 'Suffer or Benefit From House Probe?'

EDITOR: In your comment on the House un-American activities committee, you stated that it was a positive organization partly for the sake of its "impact in many school systems." However, what is positive about fear and insecurity—especially if a given group, founded on anxiety, can only perpetuate or even enhance that anxiety?

Again, it was mentioned that the committee is worthy for certain "preventive benefits it offers," as well as the "actual cleaning up it does." Yet, as in your first quoted phrase, you only generalize. You never tell us the exact "benefits" which are ours, but on the contrary, you use the word "suffer" three times.

Now then, do you mean that we, the people, are benefited by the committee through our suffering? Also, what cleaning up has there been? and where is your list of names and facts? Do you assume that we are all so gullible that we should digest your accusations without proof?

Finally, you have culminated this hodgepodge of generalities and innuendoes with the statement that thank heavens none of our students was called before the session. Why be there disgrace in being called up, since in a democracy we are never guilty until proven so?—or do you go along with guilt by implication?

MODEL REPLACES BRUSH
LONDON (UPI)—Sir Charles Wheeler told the Royal Academy of Art recently that some modern painters are resorting to "ridiculous tricks."

He said he knew of one Italian artist who covers his nude model with paint and then drags her across the canvas on the floor of his studio.

George Washington said,
"Oh, all my poor soldiers dying here for want of food, clothing, haircuts, shelter. Even my officers have it rough. Isn't that right Captain? Captain?? Good heavens Major, drag him out. Major? To heck with it, I'll drag them out myself."

Holmquist's 5-Hitter Stymies Hornets, 4-1

By NICK PETERS

Senior righthander Jon Holmquist was scored upon once in the first inning last night, but that tally took the sting out of the Sacramento state Hornets and left them dead the remainder of the game as the Spartans' "tough luck" hurler twirled a masterful five-hitter and struck-out 11 in winning his fifth decision against six losses, 4-1, at Municipal Stadium.

It was the team's 27th 1960 triumph, the most in the state, with only three to go for the season. This morning the club left for Eugene, Ore., and a two-game set with the Oregon university Ducks on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Last night it looked as if Holmquist was once more going to have a rough time of it. Scoring their lone run of the evening in the first frame, the capital city Hornets tallied when the flame-throwing righthander walked a pair and then began to dig his own grave with two wild pitches—the last depriving him of a shutout.

The Spartans knotted the count in the fourth on some fine base running by speedy Jim Pusateri. With one down the fleet Spartan centerfielder singled, stole two bases to wind-up on third base, and raced home on Emmett Lee's sacrifice fly to right.

Pusateri again was the hero in the Spartans' two-run sixth. He drove in Larry Williams, who had walked, with a well-rapped double into the left field corner to put the locals ahead and scored some insurance on Lee's subsequent single over second.

Another tally in the eighth iced the contest, leaving the bewildered hornets completely exterminated.

Swimming Championships Begin Here Tonight

Three-Day State College Finfest Pits Nine Schools in Title Chase

By GARY PALMER

Nine state college swim teams will be gunning for the state aqua crown this weekend as the 10th annual California State College Swimming Championships get under way tonight at 7:30 in the Spartan pool in the Men's gym.

Led by Tom Macedo, the SJS backstroke ace, San Jose will reign as co-favorites along with Cal Poly, last year's state champions, and strong Long Beach State.

SJS' swim team will employ the latest fad in the state championships this weekend—they will compete with shaved legs. Coach Tom O'Neill believes the new technique cuts down on water resistance, enabling faster times.

Events slated for tonight are the 220-yard Individual Medley and the 1500-meter Freestyle.

RECORDS TO FALL

Records are expected to fall by the wayside in the three-day meet, and one may be erased in the first event when Macedo and Long Beach state ace Doug Martin stroke the 220 yards in the individual medley.

Both have posted 2:13.4 times this year — good enough to clip three seconds off the CSCSC record in the event.

Also under the record time in the state meet are Spartan Bob Wegman, who has churned the distance in 2:16.1, and a second LBS swimmer, Ron Renison, with a 2:15.2 clocking.

Gene Lim will attempt to move into contention in the 1500-meter freestyle event, but will be up against seven men entries with better times in the 19-man field.

The Spartans' diving hopes received a severe blow last Friday when Gayle Pinkney, counted on for a possible five points, suffered a broken eardrum while practice diving before the Arden Hills meet.

Coach Tom O'Neill doubted that Pinkney would be available for either the one-meter diving or the three-meter event on the springboard.

AFTERNOON TRIALS

Trials are slated in the 200-yard butterfly, 50-yard freestyle, 200-yard backstroke, 220-yard freestyle and the 100-yard breaststroke tomorrow afternoon, followed by the finals in these events at 8 p.m.

* Peter Wolfe holds the Spartans' hopes in the butterfly, but will be up against Frank Brooks of Cal Poly, who has posted a 2:11.3 in his specialty.

Meet Schedule

TONIGHT

7:30—men's pool:
200 yard individual medley (trials), 1500 meters freestyle, 200 yard individual medley (finals).

TOMORROW

2 p.m.—men's pool (trials):

Netters Close Season Today

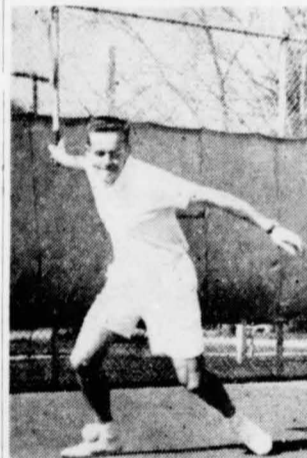

With Whitney Reed fully recovered from a wrist injury, San Jose's varsity tennis team will be at full strength today when they meet the University of British Columbia in the season's final dual match. The net encounter is slated for 2 p.m. on the Spartan courts.

Tomorrow and Saturday the locals host the WCAC tournament. The Spartans will be favored to cop the tourney title over four northern foes and Pepperdine from the south. Reed will not see action in the two-day match.

Santa Clara, St. Mary's, COP, and USF offer the opposition from the Bay Area, but only the Waves are strong contenders for the title.

Pepperdine is led by Doug Clarke and Tony Campagna, but Spartans Bob Hill and Nick Scharf will make it tough for the Wave duo in singles play. Bill Schaefer and Hal Anderson will also put pressure on the Pepperdine netters.

All-Comers Meet Tabbed 'Jr. Olympics'

It's no wonder that Coach Bud Winter is calling tomorrow night's all-comers meet the "Junior Olympic Trials."

Winter coined this name from his own vocabulary and the tag has been picked up by all the peninsula newspapers. The name is not in vain because almost all of the performers will compete in the Olympic trials at Stanford university July 1 and 2.

Topping the list of speed merchants is former Spartan Ray Norton, the "fastest man in the world." Backing the fleet stallion is his former stable mate Bullet Bobby Poynter, who is the fastest collegiate sprinter in the nation.

Norton is currently in the finest shape of his career and doesn't figure to stop winning until after the Olympic Games in Rome. Winter feels that Poynter and Willie Williams have a "fine chance" to accompany Norton to Rome.

The 400 meter dash will feature the second fastest man in the nation, Keith Thomassen and his Santa Clara Youth Village teammate Don Ramos, who is also high on the ladder in the national times.

NCAA Track Film Tonight SAM Slates Annual BBQ

A film of the 1959 NCAA track competition will be shown tonight from 8 to 10 in Morris Dailey auditorium, narrated by frosh track coach Bert Bonanno.

The film is being shown in conjunction with National Youth Fitness week which was proclaimed by President Eisenhower, May 1 to 7. By setting aside the week the President hopes that citizens of the U.S. will realize the need for physical fitness.

As a result of reports on the physical fitness of the nation's youth, President Eisenhower called a White House conference in July 1955 to set up a council on youth fitness. The purpose of the council is to educate the American people on the physical needs of our youth.

SAM, the Society for Advancement of Management, will hold its annual barbecue May 11, at 3 p.m. in Alum Rock Park.

Bob Guthrie, SAM vice president, said, "All the facilities will be available."

The steak barbecue is free for all members. Sign-up deadline is tomorrow. Sign-up sheets will be on bulletin boards at TH116 or TH139.
