Queen Graces Homecoming Dance Tonight

The crowning of the 1960 SJS Homecoming Queen and her court will highlight tonight's Coronation Ball, to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Exposition hall of the Santa Clara county fairgrounds.

Bids for the ball are available, without cost to student body card holders, in a booth in the Outer Quad. They will be distributed today from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

One of the following five girls will be named to reign over this year's Homecoming week activities:

Bonny Corbin, Sigma Nu; Maryleela Rao, Delta Sigma Phi; Patsy Ross, Chi Omega; Brooke Shebly, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Gracie Wilson, Charlotte Apt.

The field was reduced to five entrants at a fashion show judging, held last night in Morris Dailey auditorium.

The theme for this year's affair is "Spardi on a Safari." Music for dancing will be provided by the orchestra of Ray Hackett.

The queen will formally be introduced to her subjects in the Homecoming parade, Saturday, Oct. 29, and later that evening will preside over festivities at the SJS-Washington state university Homecoming football game.

Political Charges Levelled As YR, YD Presidents Debate

The Republicans versus the Democrats battle took on a campus flavor yesterday noon when the presidents of the SJS Young Republicans and Young Democrats faced each other in a public debate sponsored by Gavel and Rostrom.

Bob Crittenden, YD president, led off the debate with a charge that Republican "inconsistency" has caused U.S. prestige to hit a dangerous low throughout the world.

He cited the U2 incident, the Cuba situation, South American feelings and the Russian success with Sputnik to support his charges.

YR president, Liz Stone, denied Crittenden's charges by arguing that U.S. prestige is, in reality, at an all time high, as witnessed by the fact of President Eisenhower's warm reception during his recent world tour.

In regard to the cancellation of the Japan visit, Miss Stone stated that it was the result of minority communist action and did not represent the general will of the Japanese people.

The two debaters covered a variety of other subjects including civil rights, U.S. economic growth, aid to education, and medical aid. On the issue of the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, which has gained prominence in the national campaign, they each backed their candidates' views, with Crittenden declaring that the islands were "not worth the bones of a single American soldier." And Miss Stone expressing the belief that the U.S. is morally obligated to defend the islands from communist aggression.

ASB Vote Elects 16 To Office

Sixteen SJS students were elected to ASB offices in elections held Wednesday and Thursday. The total vote for the four classes was 1563.

Several positions remained vacant as no qualified students filed for them. Some may be filled next week after an examination of the write-in vote.

Freshman class council reps.: Dirk Eastman, Mary "Suzy" Nelson, Paul DuPont, Ray Chew. Freshman class officers: Reed Jones, president; Don Osborne, vice president; Judy Wood, secretary; Kristen Anderson, treasurer. A total of 631 freshmen voted, one office being decided by three votes.

A number of people received write-in votes for the open positions on the junior and senior class ballots. Gary Wood, election board chairman said the board will meet today to decide whether these candidates will be declared elected. Wood refused to release the names of the write-in candidates.

Junior class officers: Elaine Moore, vice president; Mary Ellen Horne, secretary; Carolyn Allen, treasurer. A total of 302 juniors voted. No qualified candidates filed a petition by the deadline date for sophomore class president.

Bobbie Beaudet, the only senior who filed for class office, was elected secretary. A total of 297 students voted.

The seniors, or the Theta Xi's, refused to let Richard Waggs, incumbent senior class secretary and also a cute dash hound dog, die. He received two write-in votes for the office of secretary.

Tonight's Flick

"The Bad and the Beautiful," starring Lana Turner, Kirk Douglas, and Barry Sullivan will be tonight's Friday Flick at 7:30 in Morris Dailey auditorium.

A stirring drama, the film is the story of conflict between an inspiring actress and a ruthless producer who would let nothing stand in his way to reach the top.

Admission is 25 cents with ASB card.

Graduate Student U.N. Week Speech Set for Monday

As part of local observance of United Nations week, which begins next week, Stanley D. Stevens, SJS graduate student, will speak Monday on "The United Nations—Twixt Hope and Disaster."

The lecture, to be given at 10:30 in Morris Dailey auditorium, will be based on Stevens' experience with the U.N. which he gained while working with that organization in 1959. At that time, Stevens served as conference officer and in that position met several outstanding U.N. figures.

Stevens was graduated from SJS with a social science major. He is now doing graduate work in the same field. While attending SJS, he served as president of the International Relations club, and Gavel and Rostrom was active in other organizations. In June 1959, he received a scholarship from the I.R. club and attended the 14th annual Intercollegiate Leadership Institute at the U.N. headquarters. It was at this time that he was offered the position with the world organization.

Two TASC Representatives Quit; Charge 'Disregard of ASB Rules'

By RICH FREELAND

Everett Avila, newly appointed senior representative, and Joe Stroud, sophomore representative, resigned yesterday from TASC, the campus political party that backed their campaign.

Both men ran for office on the TASC ticket last semester. Stroud was elected and Avila was defeated but then appointed to the office when it was vacated this semester. His appointment was approved at Wednesday's Student Council meeting.

In tendering their resignations,

Avila and Stroud charged, "A majority of the members of TASC have consistently shown a flagrant disregard for the rules and regulations of the ASB."

DEFENDS TASC

They further charged that TASC "no longer functions as a medium for the constructive solution of student problems," that the party "has become an instrument for the production of political agitation," and that TASC "does not represent the best interests of either our student body or our nation."

Gary Clemens, TASC spokesman, when asked for a comment on Avila's charges, made a written point by point denial of each charge. He pointed out that TASC had only been charged with violation of the ASB regulation and that was due to ignorance of the regulation.

He added, "TASC does not agitate for any particular political ideology because the members of TASC represent many political beliefs." Clemens labeled the charge that TASC, "Does not represent the best interests of either our student body or our nation," as "an attempt to discredit the organization." He went on to say that the party's platform and constitution are available to interested students and that the basic theme of both documents is, "To protect freedom and liberty and to create equality."

Regarding Avila's appointment to senior rep., Clemens stated that in his opinion, "Avila's qualifications are not as extensive as those of the other persons applying for the job."

ASB Pres. Pat McClenahan, however, said that he appointed Avila to the position because "he was the best man for the job."

75 POINT SCALE

"I rated each of the candidates on a 75 point scale. Avila received 68, and the others received 58 and 56," McClenahan stated. "The council approved of the appointment 10-0-1 and no one voiced any objection to the point ratings."

Clemens was absent from the meeting Wednesday when Avila's appointment was approved, but he said yesterday that had he known Avila planned to resign, he would have been there to oppose his acceptance.

A prime point of Clemens' opposition to the two men's resignation is that both ran on TASC's platform. Now, according to Clemens' statement, they are responsible only to themselves.

CLEMENS ONLY MEMBER

With the resignation of Avila and Stroud, Clemens is the only TASC member on Student Council.

Baron, housing coordinator.

Results will be announced Monday, Chairman Ryan said.

Soph Carolyn Brown Awarded $200 For Highest Grade Point Average

CAROLYN BROWN

Council Responsibility

Last year at the Student Council installation dinner ASB Pres. Pat McClenahan made a profound statement.

"The word 'Mickey Mouse' has been tagged onto student government. In this next year, we will correct this misnomer."

Some of the council members must have been still working on the dessert when McClenahan was speaking, because from their actions this semester it doesn't appear that his words sunk in.

The council has met only four times since the beginning of the year. One member is batting .500 in attendance and three others are batting .750. Now if there are valid reasons for these absences then we apologize. If, however, these members missed the meetings because of personal and or selfish reasons then we feel that they are letting the students they represent down.

It is this "me first and government second" attitude that will torpedo any chances for student government to shed the "Mickey Mouse" tag.

Many of the members have had to leave early (3:30 or so) because of "social functions" or other reasons. Legislation near the tail-end of the meeting is rushed because the representatives' boarding house, dormitory, fraternity or sorority stops serving dinner after a certain time.

Election to a position is an honor. It is a prestige factor both for the individual and the organization he represents. The organizations should realize this and make special exceptions to the rule. NO TIME LIMIT SHOULD BE SET. THESE PEOPLE ARE ENTITLED TO SPECIAL PRIVILEGES AND THEY SHOULD GET THEM.

There are many people in the SJS government system who are dedicated people. We have seen them in action. They can do and do a top-notch job. It takes only a few, however, to spoil it for the rest and reaffirm any "Mickey Mouse" opinion that is held.

The Spartan Daily, as a public service, is going to include the names of members absent from the meeting in its weekly report. This is not meant to point the finger at anyone. It is intended to help the members help us.

LOUIS GUTIERREZ, 1956 art graduate of San Jose State, discusses own painting entitled "Restful" to SJS interior design majors Russell W. Phindes (l) and Judy Prechel. A one man show of Gutierrez' paintings is now on display in the college Art gallery. The exhibition includes work in oil, water-color, liquitex and Conte crayon from the time Gutierrez began painting in 1954 to the present. Gutierrez holds a master's of fine arts degree from the Instituto Allende in Mexico.

Library Program

Selections for today's record-ed library concert to be heard from noon to 1 p.m. and 3 to 4 p.m. in the library study room are:

Ludwig von Beethoven:
Grosse Fuge, Op. 133, in B flat major.
Bela Bartok:
Romanian Folk Dances for violin and piano.
Leos Janacek:
Concertino for piano and chamber orchestra.

Former Student Presents Varied Art Display

The exhibit of work by Louis Gutierrez, a former student at SJS, has been well received by a large audience of both college people and the public.

The art of Gutierrez shows a great feeling for color. Particularly impressive was an oil canvas called "Fragments of Autumn." The background was yellow with red, green and black splashed onto the canvas with massive quantities of oil.

One small canvas was an impressionistic view of Santa Cruz. The scene was contrary to the average student's idea of sunny Santa Cruz for it looked bleak and austere.

Another abstract named "Restful" looked very much like a freeway cloverleaf to me. How unrelaxing could one get?

My discussion today is aimed at the thousands of ladies—and young—who walk our campus.

Since SJS' football team plays Arizona state university's football team tomorrow, I thought it appropriate to delve into the fine points of "footballese," or simply, sportswriter's jargon.

Most men understand football talk, but too often ladies find it overwhelming. Mainly it is the adjectives that cause confusion.

Actually, ladies, football adjectives are no different from base ball adjectives, basketball adjectives or even English adjectives. The trick is to discern which adjectives apply to which position.

(Example: tackles are "behemoth"; guards are "squat.") Think about it! Have you ever heard of a "behemoth" guard or a "squat" tackle?

To aid SJS ladies, I have spent years compiling a book on the matter, "Kuehl's Handy Guide to Football Adjectives—Made Simple."

It contains a list of preferred adjectives for each position from end to center—from quarterback to fullback—plus, a special section of adjectives for coaches. (For those interested, the book will be for $25 any time now at the book stores.)

Here are a few select excerpts:

Ends: tall, rangy, lanky, slender, slim, splintery, scrawny, skiny, skeletal, sticky-fingered, glue-fingered, butter-fingered.

Tackles: behemoth, gargantuan, monstrous, massive, large, big, heavy, fat, powerful, brutish, plodding, slovenly, slothful, slow.

Guards: squat, strong, sterling, muscled, husky, rugged, rough, tough, rock-like, hard-charging, mobile, immobile.

Centers: stalwart, steadfast, mighty, herculean, hovering, immovable, unflinching, flinching.

Quarterbacks: skillful, brilliant, adept, adroit, deft, clever, alert, sharp, smart, slick, sneaky, devious, dead-eye, rifle-armed, spaghetti-armed.

Halfbacks: speedy, slippery, snake-hipped, swift, spritely, fast, tricky, mercurial, rocketing, coming, jetting, propelling, fumbling.

Fullbacks: plowing, pile-driving, plunging, powering, buffeting, bulldozing, mauling, rampaging, wheeling, churning, chugging, charging, spinning, stomping, stamping, stumbling.

Coaches: wise, wily, wealthy, greying, gregarious, gracious, grand, great, energetic, innovating, imaginative, boyish, bombarding, employed, unemployed.

English and language arts majors and other students currently enrolled in Shakespeare and Renaissance literature courses may attend the first English department theater party of this year to "Romeo and Juliet" Friday, Nov. 4.

Clearing the hurdles with research

At Gen Tel, we've made a running start toward solving many of tomorrow's communications problems.

For instance, scientists at General Telephone & Electronics Laboratories are working in the uncharted areas of the spectrum where radio waves take on the characteristics of light. They have already developed an experimental ultramicrowave system that may one day make possible the transmission of two million messages on a single radio beam in free space.

As a major communications company with world-wide connections, General Telephone is helping to advance the science of total communications around the globe. Our stepped-up research in the basic sciences is but one example of the way General Telephone & Electronics combines the talents of many people and the facilities of many companies to meet the future communications needs not only of America, but the whole world.

Are You 'In' or 'Out'? Your RMQ Will Tell

What's your RMQ? Many people know their IQ (intelligence quotient), but few people seem to know their RMQ (roommate quotient).

How do you rate as a roommate? Besides getting air-travel experience or a new excuse for a checking account, one of the main reasons for going away to college is to learn how to get along with other people. You've had all summer to build up the picture of your prospective roommate and about four weeks to surreptitiously reconstruct that previously distorted picture. Now it's time to check your own RMQ.

SUPPRESS IT

Of course you know the best way to iron clothes and the quickest route to the dinner table. But your roommate may not realize that your expert advice is needed at the moment. Suppress your words of wisdom until your RM discovers that the most expedient path to success is to follow your ideas. Then one day your RM will join the throngs of those who line up to receive your advice.

Suppress your belongings, too. With more than one person in a room it's pretty hard to tell when one leaves off and the other begins.

"Roomie's" paints sure did come in handy for those posters. Your RM was really lucky that your record albums were available. But what happens when it's time to put them back? Be quick-on-the-pick-up unless you have become resigned to having your true identity replaced with visions of scattered papers, piles of dirty clothes, and stacks of assorted pin-ups.

FORGET IT

Yes, it does feel great to have your brother on the varsity football team at home. And undoubtedly everyone will want to know about the beauty queens in your family. But wouldn't it be more fun to have someone come up to you at a later date to ask if you're the John Carter before you have blurted it out? And, strange as it may seem, your English professor isn't going to base your final grade on your boyfriend's marvelous batting average! So why not forget it at least for now!

While you're forgetting, forget that Mom used to be the person to clean your room. Forget that the adjoining shower at home is now located at the end of the long dormitory hall. After all, you chose this college!

WHOSE MONEY?

How nice! This year you are planning on seeing and doing everything in this town, and you wouldn't think of going without RM.

Money? Oh, just a little here and a little there and maybe a little more over here. But what about the poor RM who just doesn't have the funds to warrant spending a little more? Sure, it's great to save the boyfriend's tuition money. But your unfortunate roommate may not have a checking account which keeps growing along with your plans. Think first before suggesting those new curtains or those scrumptious super-duper sodas.

By the way, what ever happened to the money you borrowed the other day? How long is your RM supposed to refrain from eating lunch before you decide to repay the loan?

DEADLY SIN

Spurting on someone else's money is bad enough. But on any campus, spurting on someone else's time (otherwise known as time-stealing) is one of the most deadly sins.

Usually you can tell when an attack of restlessness is setting in. At times like those it may be pointless for you to try to sit still and study. But RM may not agree with the plan to take an extended coffee break. So give your RM a fair chance to work in a quiet atmosphere; listen to your radio in another room. One day when the situation is reversed, your RM will know just how to compute your RMQ.

Even though modern electronic computers work at almost unbelievable speeds, the scientist is way ahead of them.

Put quite simply, scientists have been thinking up complex problems faster than even the fastest computers could handle them. To close this gap, IBM created STRETCH, the world's fastest, most powerful computer.

The first STRETCH system will go to the AEC at Los Alamos to aid in nuclear reactor design. This goliath can do a million additions or subtractions a second. It can "read" the equivalent of four million characters per minute from magnetic tape. It can print the equivalent of three good-sized novels every hour. It can perform all these operations simultaneously, and if necessary pause midway in the problem and tackle a more important one.

Creating such tools and putting them to work for science—or for business, industry, or government—is exciting, important work. It calls for talents and skills of every kind, from liberal arts to Boolean algebra to astrophysics.

So whatever your particular talents and skills, there may be just the kind of job at IBM you've always wanted. The IBM representative will be visiting your campus this year. Why not ask him about it? Your placement office can make an appointment. For further information about opportunities at IBM, write, outlining your background and interests, to:

Council Responsibility

Last year at the Student Council installation dinner ASB Pres. Pat McClenahan made a profound statement.

"The word 'Mickey Mouse' has been tagged onto student government. In this next year, we will correct this misnomer."

Some of the council members must have been still working on the dessert when McClenahan was speaking, because from their actions this semester it doesn't appear that his words sunk in.

The council has met only four times since the beginning of the year. One member is batting .500 in attendance and three others are batting .750. Now if there are valid reasons for these absences then we apologize. If, however, these members missed the meetings because of personal and/or selfish reasons then we feel that they are letting the students they represent down.

It is this "me first and government second" attitude that will torpedo any chances for student government to shed the "Mickey Mouse" tag.

Many of the members have had to leave early (3:30 or so) because of "social functions" or other reasons. Legislation near the tail-end of the meeting is rushed because the representatives' boarding house, dormitory, fraternity or sorority stops serving dinner after a certain time.

Election to a position is an honor. It is a prestige factor both for the individual and the organization he represents. The organizations should realize this and make special exceptions to the rule. NO TIME LIMIT SHOULD BE SET. THESE PEOPLE ARE ENTITLED TO SPECIAL PRIVILEGES AND THEY SHOULD GET THEM.

There are many people in the SJS government system who are dedicated people. We have seen them in action. They can do and do a top-notch job. It takes only a few, however, to spoil it for the rest and reaffirm any "Mickey Mouse" opinion that is held.

The Spartan Daily, as a public service, is going to include the names of members absent from the meeting in its weekly report. This is not meant to point the finger at anyone. It is intended to help the members help us.

LOUIS GUTIERREZ, 1956 art graduate of San Jose State, discusses own painting entitled "Restful" to SJS interior design majors Russell W. Phindes (l) and Judy Prechel. A one man show of Gutierrez' paintings is now on display in the college Art gallery. The exhibition includes work in oil, water-color, liquitex and Conte crayon from the time Gutierrez began painting in 1954 to the present. Gutierrez holds a master's of fine arts degree from the Instituto Allende in Mexico.

Former Student Presents Varied Art Display

The exhibit of work by Louis Gutierrez, a former student at SJS, has been well received by a large audience of both college people and the public.

The art of Gutierrez shows a great feeling for color. Particularly impressive was an oil canvas called "Fragments of Autumn." The background was yellow with red, green and black splashed onto the canvas with massive quantities of oil.

One small canvas was an impressionistic view of Santa Cruz. The scene was contrary to the average student's idea of sunny Santa Cruz for it looked bleak and austere.

Another abstract named "Restful" looked very much like a freeway cloverleaf to me. How unrestful could one get?

The exhibit represents the artist's work from 1954 to the present and includes the medium of oil, pastel, watercolor, liquitex and Conte crayon.

The Art gallery, located on the Ninth st. side of the Art building, is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1:15 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Square Dancers To Dance Tonight

The group is open to beginners or "old hands." Caller is Duane Nelson.

Library Program

Selections for today's recorded library concert to be heard from noon to 1 p.m. and 3 to 4 p.m. in the library study room are:

THE HAPPY Conderer

By Pete Kuehl

My discussion today is aimed at the thousands of ladies—and young—who walk our campus.

Since SJS' football team plays Arizona state university's football team tomorrow, I thought it appropriate to delve into the fine points of "footbalese," or simply, sportswriter's jargon.

Most men understand football talk, but too often ladies find it overwhelming. Mainly it is the adjectives that cause confusion.

Actually, ladies, football adjectives are no different from basketball adjectives, basketball adjectives or even English adjectives. The trick is to discern which adjectives apply to which position.

(Example: tackles are "behemoth"; guards are "squat.") Try about it! Have you ever heard of a "behemoth" guard or a "squat" tackle?

To aid SJS ladies, I have spent years compiling a book on the matter. "Kuehl's Handy Guide to Football Adjectives—Made Simple."

It contains a list of preferred adjectives for each position from end to center—from quarterback to fullback—plus, a special section of adjectives for coaches. (For those interested, the book will be for $25 any time now at the book stores.)

Here are a few select excerpts:

Ends: tall, rangy, lanky, slender, slim, splintery, scrawny, skeletal, sticky-fingered, glue-fingered, butter-fingered.

Tackles: behemoth, gargantuan, monstrous, massive, large, heavy, fat, powerful, brutish, plodding, slovenly, slothful, slow.

Guards: squat, strong, sterling, muscled, husky, rugged, rough, tough, rock-like, hard-charging, mobile, immobile.

Centers: stalwart, steadfast, mighty, herculean, hovering, movable, unflinching, flinching.

Quarterbacks: skillful, brilliant, adept, adroit, deft, clever, sharp, smart, slick, sneaky, devious, dead-eye, rifle-armed, armed, spaghetti-armed.

Halfbacks: speedy, slippery, snake-hipped, swift, spry, fast, tricky, mercurial, rocketing, coming, jetting, propelling, fumbling.

Fullbacks: plowing, pile-driving, plunging, powering, buffeting, bulldozing, mauling, rampaging, wheeling, churning, charging, spinning, stomping, stamping, stumbling.

Coaches: wise, wily, wealthy, greying, gregarious, gracious, grand, great, energetic, innovating, imaginative, boyish, bumbling, employed, unemployed.

English Dept. Plans Theater Party

English and language arts majors and other students currently enrolled in Shakespeare and Renaissance literature courses may attend the first English department theater party of this year to "Romeo and Juliet" Friday, Nov. 4.

The Heidelberg Room of the Garden City Hofbrau has been reserved for an informal discussion after the play, according to Ruth Lavare, assistant professor of English. Director Elizabeth Loeffler, members of the cast and Shakespeare scholars of the English faculty will be there.

Places are available for people. Reservations and money must be submitted to the English department office, FO102 by Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Clearing the hurdles with research

At Gen Tel, we've made a running start toward solving many of tomorrow's communications problems.

For instance, scientists at General Telephone & Electronics Laboratories are working in the uncharted area of the spectrum where radio waves take on the characteristics of light. They have already developed an experimental ultramicrowave system that may one day make possible the transmission of two million messages on a single radio beam in free space.

As a major communications company with world-wide connections, General Telephone is helping to advance the science of total communications around the globe. Our stepped-up research in the basic sciences is but one example of the way General Telephone & Electronics combines the talents of many people and the facilities of many companies to meet the future communication needs not only of America, but the whole world.

Are You 'In' or 'Out'? Your RMQ Will Tell

What's your RMQ? Many people know their IQ (intelligence quotient), but few people seem to know their RMQ (roommate quotient).

How do you rate as a roommate? Besides getting air-travel experience or a new excuse for a checking account, one of the main reasons for going away to college is to learn how to get along with other people. You've had all summer to build up the picture of your prospective roommate and about four weeks to surreptitiously reconstruct that previously distorted picture. Now it's time to check your own RMQ.

SUPPRESS IT

Of course you know the best way to iron clothes and the quickest route to the dinner table. But your roommate may not realize that your expert advice is needed at the moment. Suppress your words of wisdom until your RM discovers that the most expedient path to success is to follow your ideas. Then one day your RM will join the throngs of those who line up to receive your advice.

Suppress your belongings, too. With more than one person in a room it's pretty hard to tell when one leaves off and the other begins.

"Roomie's" paints sure did come in handy for those posters. Your RM was really lucky that your record albums were available. But what happens when it's time to put them back? Be quick-on-the-pick-up unless you have become resigned to having your true identity replaced with visions of scattered papers, piles of dirty clothes, and stacks of assorted pin-ups.

FORGET IT

Yes, it does feel great to have your brother on the varsity football team at home. And undoubtedly everyone will want to know about the beauty queens in your family. But wouldn't it be more fun to have someone come up to you at a later date to ask if you're the John Carter before you have blurred it out? And, strange as it may seem, your English professor isn't going to base your final grade on your boyfriend's marvelous batting average! So why not forget it at least for now!

While you're forgetting, forget that Mom used to be the person to clean your room. Forget that the adjoining shower at home is now located at the end of the long dormitory hall. After all, you chose this college!

WHOSE MONEY?

How nice! This year you are planning on seeing and doing everything in this town, and you wouldn't think of going without RM.

Money? Oh, just a little here and a little there and maybe a little more over here. But what about the poor RM who just doesn't have the funds to warrant spending a little more? Sure, it's great to save the boyfriend's tuition money. But your unfortunate roommate may not have a checking account which keeps growing along with your plans. Think first before suggesting those new curtains or those scrumptious super-duper sodas.

By the way, what ever happened to the money you borrowed the other day? How long is your RM supposed to refrain from eating lunch before you decide to repay the loan?

DEADLY SIN

Spurging on someone else's money is bad enough. But on any campus, spurging on someone else's time (otherwise known as time-stealing) is one of the most deadly sins.

Usually you can tell when an attack of restlessness is setting in. At times like those it may be pointless for you to try to sit still and study. But RM may not agree with the plan to take an extended coffee break. So give your RM a fair chance to work in a quiet atmosphere; listen to your radio in another room. One day when the situation is reversed, your RM will know just how to compute your RMQ.

Even though modern electronic computers work at almost unbelievable speeds, the scientist is way ahead of them.

Put quite simply, scientists have been thinking up complex problems faster than even the fastest computers could handle them. To close this gap, IBM created STRETCH, the world's fastest, most powerful computer.

The first STRETCH system will go to the AEC at Los Alamos to aid in nuclear reactor design. This goliath can do a million additions or subtractions a second. It can "read" the equivalent of four million characters per minute from magnetic tape. It can print the equivalent of three good-sized novels every hour. It can perform all these operations simultaneously, and if necessary pause midway in the problem and tackle a more important one.

Creating such tools and putting them to work for science—or for business, industry, or government—is exciting, important work. It calls for talents and skills of every kind, from liberal arts to Boolean algebra to astrophysics.

So whatever your particular talents and skills, there may be just the kind of job at IBM you've always wanted. The IBM representative will be visiting your campus this year. Why not ask him about it? Your placement office can make an appointment. For further information about opportunities at IBM, write, outlining your background and interests, to:

By NICK PETERS, Sports Editor

WHAT PRICE GRATITUDE? The recent "retirement" of Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Billy Wilson of the San Francisco '49ers has a definite parallel, and it makes us wonder what the sports world is coming to.

Earlier in the week Of Case was relieved of his duties as manager of the Yankees because "he was too old," according to the Yankee brass.

Almost simultaneously, ex-Spartan end Wilson was "promoted" to a coaching position by the '49ers, who removed him from the active player list.

Ironically, Billy was inactivated for another ex-Spartan, Ray Norton, who is being groomed for the veteran end's old position.

That the Yankees and '49ers did a great injustice to a pair of the sports world's finest individuals cannot be denied, but it is for certain that the two professional organizations lost prestige and popularity for their irrational upheavals.

STENGEL'S CASE is the biggest joke of all. In the decade from 1950 to 1960 the old Perfectioner merely managed to win nine Yankee pennants and six world championships—not a bad record for an aging individual in his sixties.

As a matter of fact, Casey's 10-year effort in behalf of the perennial American League champs hasn't been outdone in the six decade history of most major league ball clubs.

We personally don't feel that Casey appeared too senile in sweeping to this year's A.L. flag.

But, then again, the Yankees may have a point. Of Case hasn't won a world championship since he was 68—way back in 1958!

THE WILSON INCIDENT doesn't seem as cruel and unwarranted behind the guise of his coaching promotion.

But, there isn't a greater clutch receiver around than the ex-Spartan.

Just two weeks ago when the John Brodie-led '49ers came from behind to nip Detroit 14-10, battlin' Billy nabbed two passes including one for a touchdown in his short stint.

There certainly are other '49ers on the team who are less valuable than Wilson. Joe Perry, for one, has "gone over the hill" and has rumored retirement since 1958.

The handwriting has been on the wall for Billy, though, and it's a good bet he had sensed this coming for a long time.

Three weeks ago when the '49ers downed Los Angeles, Billy was one of the few locals who didn't see action.

In the dressing room after the final gun, Billy was standing alone, his pride hurt. We could see that he was the kind of person that was disturbed at his inactivity, but was too much of a gentleman to complain about it.

"Trying to cheer him up, we said, 'Go get 'em next week, Billy.' He solemnly answered, 'I don't know... I'm getting old.'"

The '49ers' procedure for retiring Billy was tactless, to say the least.

In the eyes of the public, they made Billy appear as if he were stepping aside for a rookie (Norton), who had never played in a pro game.

The local pros were smart to make him a coach, though, because if they hadn't he would have been claimed by another NFL team for sure.

As a consolation, he can be activated at any time. We wouldn't bet against it, because the '49ers are going to need help, and lots of it...

BASEBALL STUMPER? Who was baseball's winningest major league pitcher in 1960?

Not Ernie Broglio and Warren Spahn, who each won 21 games in the National League, but none other than Pittsburgh Pirate ace Vern Law.

Crafty Vernon won 20 games in league play, added a victory in the All-Star game, and capped a brilliant year with two World Series triumphs.

At San Francisco—

Olympic Club Raps Spartans; 26-11 Lacing SJS' Worst

The San Francisco Olympic Club rapped to an easy 26-11 water polo victory over San Jose State's Spartans last night in San Francisco. The loss was the second in six games for Art Lambert's SJS' team and was their most severe one score-wise.

San Jose's other loss came at the hands of the University of California Golden Bears.

CAL UNDEFEATED

Cal, currently the only major undefeated water polo team on the west coast, ran roughshod over the Spartans in San Jose Oct. 12.

The Bears had previously surprised the Olympic Club with a 6-4 upset win shortly before taking on the Spartans.

Last night's loss was a trying one for Spartan mentor Lambert. The young coach was a leading member of the OC cast before returning to his alma mater to take over the water polo job.

Lambert's Chinese Bandits, better known as the Spartan junior varsity, tangled with the Olympic Club's B squad last night in a preliminary to the main tussle.

Last night's game signaled the start of a week's layoff for Lambert's troops.

The Spartans have an open schedule until next Saturday, when they'll take on the College of the Pacific Tigers at Stockton.

San Jose already holds a decision over the Tigers, who lack depth this season.

The loss was the second in six victories over the alumni, COP. —G.P. S.F. State and Stanford.

Thinclads vs. Bear Harriers In Strawberry Canyon Race

Track coach Bud Winter takes his long distance men to Berkeley tomorrow to give the Cal Bear cross-country team its first test of the young season.

Though the Spartans lost their first encounter to Stanford, 21-39, Winter praised Ron Davis, Alan Anetsky and Dan Landers for their consistently fine work. He went so far as to predict "greatness" for sophomore Davis, who he feels is one of the West Coast's standouts.

Charlie Clark, who just recently recovered from a broken leg, will not run Saturday, but is expected to be ready for the Northern California Championships two weeks from tomorrow.

The sparkplug of last year's distance team, Clark has been working out daily and is considered to be "just about ready" by Winter.

The Spartan track and field mentor rates the Bears high, despite the fact it is their first meet.

"They're always tough on their own course, but I feel we can beat them," Winter declared.

The California cross-country course runs through the rugged terrain of Strawberry Canyon, two miles up hill and two miles down.

Freshman Ben Tucker heads the list of five yearlings on Winter's distance team. Last year's high school state mile champion, Tucker has worked hard to stay with Davis over the gruelling four-mile course run by the distance men, and is considered one of the top seven thinclads for the locals.

Light Drill Ends Home Workouts

San Jose State ran through light drills yesterday afternoon, concluding home workouts for its clash with the Arizona state Sun Devils in Tempe tomorrow evening.

Coach Bob Titchenal sent his charges through a short one hour practice and decided to take injured fullback Ken Taylor along on the trip.

The team left San Jose at 7 a.m. this morning and is expected to hold a late afternoon practice session in Arizona.

San Jose's 'Jinx' Over 'Devils On Line in Arizona Tomorrow

By GARY PALMER
Asst. Sports Editor

Hoping to come up with the right formula, one which will literally "drive the Sun-Devils from the state of Arizona," Coach Bob Titchenal and his aides added the final ingredients to a "Beat ASU" potion yesterday before enplaning for the desert state with a 35-man grid contingent and a flock of Spartan Boosters.

The "final ingredients" were quarterback Mike Jones and guard Carl Mitchell, who yesterday took part in practice for the first time this week.

Jones, who has been out with a pulled hamstring muscle, and Mitchell, suffering

SJS 3rd in NCAA Passing, Punting

Saturday's overwhelming win over Stanford's Indians carried the Spartan gridgers to a couple of lofty perches in the NCAA statistics.

As a team, the Spartans are tied for third in forward passing offense with VMI, each averaging 178 yards.

In the punting category, SJS is tied for third with Kansas—booting the ball at a 41.4 yard clip.

Individually, Johnny "Touchdown" Johnson's 42 points put him in sixth place nationally.

from a bruised knee, were of primary concern earlier in the week, but both are now expected to be ready for tomorrow night's clash with Arizona state's unbeaten Sun-Devils in Tempe.

Jones, whose field generalship was largely responsible for last week's victory over Stanford, may only see limited action on defense as Titchenal doesn't want to chance a recurrence of the muscle injury.

The red-hot Sun-Devils have "tanned" the opposition to the tune of a 5-0 mark this year and are unbeaten in their last 11 outings.

Game on Radio

The Spartan-Sun Devil football game, beginning at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Tempe, Ariz., will be broadcast over radio station KEEN, 1370 on the dial, starting with the pre-game show at 6:45 (PST).

In fact, their only two losses since November of '58 have come at the hands of the Spartans.

With this lingering memory, Coach Frank Kush' Sun-Devils will be anything but a pushover for the Spartans.

End Coach Harry Anderson spotted what could be a flaw in the Arizona pass defense while viewing films of the Washington state game. Three touchdowns were scored over Joe Drake's right halfback spot, but Anderson said, "We don't know if it's a weakness or whether he just had a bad day."

The Spartan running game will probably have to go with the "wide stuff" against the aggressive Sun-Devil line, which has excellent pursuit.

According to backfield Coach, Gene Menges, the ASU line "stunts" or rushes its linebackers frequently, putting added pressure on the passer.

San Jose has thus far seen nothing but containing-type defenses and the Sun-Devils, with a good memory for the past, are expected to offer the toughest test to date for Titchenal's Arizona-bound gridgers.

State Compiles Big Total Offense Lead

San Jose State's high-flying gridgers, trailing their opponents in scoring, 61-55, lead their rivals in practically all other departments after three weeks of play.

A passing attack which has netted 534 yards, good for third in the nation, combined with 417 yards rushing, gives the Spartans a total offense of 951 yards, or 317 per game.

Spartans 8-3 Against ASU

Attempting to make it three straight upsets in a row against 11-point favorite ASU, San Jose State's gridgers will be going for their ninth victory in 12 outings against the Sun-Devils tomorrow night.

Beginning with a 33-6 triumph in 1936, the locals defeated ASU four straight times before losing a 35-20 decision in 1953.

In 1957, Bob Titchenal's first year as Spartan coach, the Sun-Devils won by the largest margin of victory in the series—a 44-6 rout.

However, the locals upset the appellation on tough ASU teams the past two years, winning 21-20 in '58 at Tempe, and 24-15 last year at Spartan Stadium—the loser's only defeat in 11 games in '59.

ASU head coach Frank Kush claims a 29-4 record at Tempe with the Spartans responsible for two of the losses.

Johnson-Jones Scoring Battle May Materialize in Spartan-Arizona Clash

By NICK PETERS

The biggest thorn growing out of the Arizona cactus is a 5-8, 165 pound fullback named Nolan Jones.

"Rollin' Nolan" is the Sun-Devils' all-purpose halfback, who has played a key role in putting Arizona State University back in the nation's football spotlight.

Eligible to play as a freshman in '58, he spurred the Sun-Devils to a 7-3 slate while carrying the pigskin for a 5.0 average in 88 attempts.

Last season, the desert's dandy romped for a 4.8 average in 143 carries, went for 156 yards on 10 pass receptions, and tied for second in NCAA scoring with 100 points.

The ASU flash scored 11 touchdowns, 25 extra points, and three field goals to hit the century mark in scoring.

This season he's better than ever—eleventh in NCAA rushing with 359 yards and a 6.2 average, and second in scoring with 66 points in five games.

According to backfield coach

Gene Menges, "Jones is just an average football player, not too big and not too fast, but he has an intense desire to go all the way every time he carries the ball. That's what makes him a terrific athlete."

In an attempt to equalize Jones' efficiency, the Spartan attack will introduce Johnny "Touchdown" Johnson to the Sun-Devils for the first time.

Menges compares the Spartan fullback as "the same type of player as Jones."

"Touchdown" has a 4.6 rushing average in his first year of college ball, and has tallied 42 points in three tilts—a shade better average than that of "Rollin' Nolan."
