Trials During Journey South Told by SJSer

By CAROLYN PERKIO
In a plea for help, Pete Wakeland, SJS senior who found himself in a strange country with nothing but the clothes on his back, his passport, and a pocket comb, made an appeal for provisions to the people of Brazil during an adventure in Latin America last year.
Wakeland, who began his trek south with two companions April 14, 1960, claimed upon return to the United States February 8, 1961, that a 1955 two-door Ford sedan could make it to Argentina, roads or not, in three months.
After reaching Argentina during December, 1960, Wakeland decided to continue the adventure alone and visit Brazil, a country where the language was Greek to him. His companions returned home.

TRAVELER ARRIVES
After hitch-hiking to Rio de Janeiro, catching rides on buses, autos, and occasionally an ox cart, termed as very frustrating by the adventurer, Wakeland arrived in the city only to have his rucksack stolen from him.
Alone in a strange land, a land of a strange language, the weary traveler spent his first night on the Copacabana beach. In the morning he found the local police and reported his loss.

PROBLEM SOLUTION
Solving his accommodations problem, the Rio de Janeiro police insisted he spend the next night in jail, holding the destitute adventurer on a charge of alleged smuggling.

After convincing the officers of his innocence, Wakeland spent his third night at Rio in luxury. He slept on a carpeted floor of the library at the American Embassy.
Again the spirit of adventure struck the traveler and he decided to walk or hitch hike to Belem, Port of Spain, and Panama, from where he hoped to fly home.

REVITALIZED SPIRIT
From his appeal in a Brazil newspaper, Wakeland received supplies from sympathizers. "I was given $10 in cash, two nylon shirts which I couldn't wear in the heat, and a beach bag," he explained.
With his beach bag of supplies, Wakeland began his trip north

Peace Corps Talk By Representative Set for Wednesday

Peter Grothe, Peace Corps field representative, will speak on "You and the Peace Corps" Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. in Morris Dailey auditorium.

Grothe's speech is part of a nation-wide program being conducted by the Peace Corps to explain the agency and its overseas services, according to Don Ryan, San Jose State liaison officer for the Corps.
The new dimension in American foreign policy opened by the program and the opportunities for SJS students will also be discussed by Grothe, who was deputy director of the United Nations' branch of the Peace Corps the past five months.

ORIGINAL IDEA
Grothe was originally active in last year's election of President John F. Kennedy and originally suggested the Peace Corps idea.
While working as foreign relations adviser to Sen. Hubert Humphrey in 1960, Grothe was active in the drafting of the original Peace Corps legislation.

AUTHOR-REVIEWER
A Stanford university graduate, Grothe has been a teaching assistant in the Stanford political science department. He is a book reviewer for the San Francisco Chronicle and the Washington Post and has written a book on the communist propaganda war in East Germany, "To Win the Minds of Men."

Asian, African and Latin American countries are asking for members of the Peace Corps, according to Grothe.

taking buses until roads disappeared and rivers were the only means of transportation. From this point, Wakeland traveled on river boats. He subsisted on raw salt beef, boiled fish, rice and beans, "which eventually became edible as I got hungrier," he said.
At Belem, the weary traveler decided to fly to the States rather than face a trip to Panama by foot. He caught a plane to Miami; from there he found one to San Jose.

Once back home, Wakeland became ill with yellow jaundice, a disease which hung on for three months. Back at SJS this semester, the industrial management major, plans to graduate in June and return to Latin America to begin another adventure — his career.

Interviews Set

Applicants for the Student Council position of junior representative will be interviewed before the council on Wednesday, Oct. 18.

All applicants are advised to be present in the council chambers of the College Union, 315 S. Ninth st., at 2:30 Wednesday.

Vance Packard To Speak On 'The Waste Makers'

By MICKEY MINTON
Vance Packard's "The Waste Makers," a stab at today's society, is the basis of his lecture, "The Changing Character of the American People," which he will deliver at 11:30 a.m. Monday in Morris Dailey auditorium.

The initial effort of the College Lecture committee series features the satirical author discussing the theme of his current best-seller.
Packard will present his ideas on the impact on society of the exploitation of the "youth market," the promotion of living on the "never-never" or credit and the status consciousness.

Waste has become a virtue in maintaining productivity and selling the public, according to Packard's newest literary attempt. "Product death" is a key word in American industry, the Pennsylvania author contends.

Since receiving his master's degree from the Columbia university graduate school of Journalism some 20 years ago, Packard has been writing books and magazine articles.

Fred Branstetter, sophomore, was elected president of SJS Democratic club Wednesday night.

Co-Rec To Meet In Spite of Game

Weekend Co-Rec will be held Saturday afternoon in the men's gym, despite the Stanford-SJS football game at Stanford, according to chairman Jim Pekkin.
Badminton, swimming, basketball, volleyball, ping pong and chess will be featured during the 12:30-4:30 program.

"There will be dressing facilities in the men's gym for the women," said Pekkin, "and we hope that more women will participate in the various activities."

A square dance is being planned for Oct. 28 by the weekend Co-Rec committee. Other plans call for trips to Lick observatory and to Golden Gate park.

SPOTS OF ADVENTURE—Recalling the high points of a 10-month trip to Latin America, Pete Wakeland, San Jose State senior who, with three companions, decided to prove Argentina is accessible to the United States by auto, retraces his trip on a map of South America. With a beach bag in hand, a gift from a sympathizer in Brazil, the industrial management major tells of his adventures.

Drop Deadline

Today is the last day this semester that students are free to drop classes without penalty, according to Dr. John W. Gilbaugh, dean of the college.

"Only under unusual circumstances will changes be allowed in the study list after the designated periods indicated in the official college calendar," he stated yesterday.

Neither employment problems nor failing grades will ordinarily be considered valid reasons for late drops, according to the dean.

Brubeck Combo To Give Concert

Tickets for the jazz event are on sale at the Sherman Clay

KHRUSHCHEV READY TO MEET WITH WEST

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is ready to meet Western leaders to settle "the present difficult situation," the official Soviet Tass news agency said yesterday. Tass said Khrushchev stated his willingness to attend such a meeting in a letter to Kaoru Yasui, chairman of the Japanese Council Against Nuclear Weapons. "Khrushchev declares he is ready to meet the Western leaders in order to find a way out of the present difficult situation," the official agency said.

U.S. MAY WITHDRAW FROM U.N.—KUCHEL

LONG BEACH (UPI)—Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), says if Russia wins its proposal of a troika in the United Nations the only honorable move by the United States would be to withdraw from the world organization. Kuchel, California's senior senator and minority whip of his party, made the statement Wednesday during a speech before the Long Beach Council of Republican Women.

MARTIAL LAW ESTABLISHED IN COLOMBIA

BOGOTA (UPI)—President Alberto Lleras Camargo clamped martial law on Colombia Wednesday night in hopes of putting a stop to attempts at subversion such as Wednesday's short-lived "lieutenants' revolt." The decree establishing the national emergency said recent disorders at various points in Colombia had in some cases amounted to virtual "open rebellion" against the government. "Although all of them have been brought quickly under control, there is always the danger of continued attacks on the nation's democratic institutions."

MORE TROOPS TO BERLIN—MANEUVERS SET

BERLIN (UPI)—Nearly 1000 combat-ready U.S. troop reinforcements arrived in West Germany today and the U.S. command in Berlin announced it will stage large-scale troop maneuvers in this divided city next week. The announcement followed a report by a West German newspaper that one of its reporters was shot and kidnapped by Communist police on the East-West German border.

'MOST DANGEROUS TIME IN HISTORY'—KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy has no "immediate hope" of settling the Berlin crisis. He has warned that this is "the most dangerous time in the history of the human race." Kennedy said Wednesday he hoped there would not be war, but that it would take skill, nerve and sacrifice to move through "a period of maximum hazard."

Homecoming Queen Candidates To Return Applications Today

Applications for SJS Homecoming Queen candidates will be accepted up to 4 p.m. today in ADM242 for voting by students Thursday and Friday.

Pictures must accompany applications of queen candidates, from which students will choose ten semi-finalists who will model at a fashion show Oct. 26 in Morris Dailey auditorium.

At the fashion show the queen and four attendants will be selected by a panel of three judges, who will have interviewed each candidate prior to the show.

CORONATION BALL
Presentation of the queen will be at the Coronation Ball Oct. 27 in the San Jose civic auditorium.

Before the fashion show the ten candidates will appear on KNTV channel 11 Oct. 23 and 24 from 5:30 to 6:15 for an interview with Frank Darien.

A special program devoted to SJS Homecoming activities will be aired Nov. 1 from 5:30 to 6:15 over the same channel. It will give area viewers a chance to see the queen and her four attendants.

MANY EVENTS

The queen contest is just one of many events planned by the student Homecoming committee for Homecoming week Oct. 30 to Nov. 4.

The five-member committee headed by Sharon Brawley has been meeting Wednesday afternoons mapping Homecoming plans.

WINDOW CONTEST

Harris is organizing a contest of window displays by downtown merchants which will feature an SJS theme. Some 32 merchants have already entered the event.

The parade scheduled for Oct. 4 will start at 4:30 p.m. and proceed down First st. Gangi said SJS student organizations will enter floats and marching units in the parade. He said six Bay Area high school bands have entered the parade.

Still in the designing stage is the special float which will bring the queen into Spartan stadium during half-time activities of Homecoming SJS-Arizona state university game Nov. 4.

Stanford Ducats

Today is the last day to purchase tickets for the Stanford-SJS game at reduced student rates. Price for the tickets is $1 and they may be purchased in the Student Affairs business office and at booths located on campus. Students must take their student body cards with them to the game. Both ticket and student body card will be required for admission.

Wendy Glen Owner Launches New Plan

By CHRIS HEADINGS
Owners of boarding houses are only interested in students' money — or so it has been argued in the past.

One householder at San Jose State is aiming to shoot holes in that argument. He is Glen A. Skillrud, owner of Wendy Glen I and II, women's residence halls.

Skillrud launched an "academic plan" this semester for SJS coeds living at Wendy Glen I, Eighth and William sts.

Under the plan a coed's rent is based on a grade-payment scale range. For each successive rise in the student's grade point average, she receives a corresponding rent refund at the end of the semester. The higher the grade point, the lower the rent.

"The purpose of the plan is to help the below average student help herself," Skillrud said. "It should give her incentive to work harder for grades."

MANY FRESHMEN
The plan is in effect at Wendy Glen I because the students living there are largely freshmen, according to the householder.

"We want to start with the freshmen and develop good study habits in them early," Skillrud explained. "The juniors and seniors already have developed their habits."

Women on the plan pay the rate for a failing GPA of .99, $430, at the beginning of the semester. If their GPA at the end of that semester, for example, is 4.0, they will be refunded $120, which brings their rent down to $310.

But response to the plan was "disappointing," according to Skillrud. Out of the 80 coeds living at the residence hall, only eight signed up for the optional plan.

NOTHING HIDDEN
"They were looking for something hidden," he said. "But there was nothing to it. We just want them to challenge themselves to start out on the right foot."

Skillrud felt a lack of self-confidence kept many women from signing up for the plan.

"I'm betting on the law of averages," he said. "The whole house will probably carry around a 2.0 GPA. The girls on the academic plan should be about 1.6 grade points above the house average."

Students on the standard plan cannot change to the academic plan at the end of the fall semester. Their contracts are signed for the year.

Women on the academic system can change to the standard rate at the end of the first semester, according to Skillrud.

Blue sweaters with white block S's for "scholastic" will be given to the girls on the plan, according to Skillrud.

Political Parties Support Students For Frosh Offices

Preparing for its second year on the SJS political scene, the Sparta party has selected eight candidates to run for freshman class officers.

Sparta party supports Donn Murphy, president; Sharon Moy, vice president; Ed Martin, treasurer; and Gay Hickson, secretary.

Student Council representative recommendations were given to Caroline Barker, Mike Eisenhower, Penny Franchi and Tom Parker.

Meanwhile, SPUR ("Service, Progress, Unity, Responsibility") has announced its recommendations for freshman class officers and representatives.

Bob Pisano, president; Dan Barker, vice president; Ward Johnson, treasurer; and Sandy Lusk, secretary, are SPUR's supported candidates.

SPUR has selected Toni Fink, Kurt Smith, Ann Sorensen, and Ty Wood to run for class representative positions.

'Brides, Brothers' Shown Tonight

Friday Flicks tonight will feature the film "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

The film stars Jane Powell and Howard Keel and features acrobatic dancing by Russ Tamblyn. Songs for the musical comedy were written by Johnny Mercer and Gene de Paul.

Friday Flicks, sponsored by the SJS senior class, are shown in Morris Dailey auditorium and begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is 25 cents.

SJS TRIUMPH—After three attempts, a 21 foot banner with SJ in gold letters was successfully hung from Stanford's Hoover Tower by a group of SJS students yesterday. The group reported the incident to the Spartan Daily, but refused identification. The spokesman for the victors said the white cloth sign was carried up the 285 foot tower unseen by the students.

Edge of Violence

The possibility has arisen, following the censure of a speech delivered Wednesday before the United Nations by Eric Louw, foreign minister for the racially divided Union of South Africa, that the Union may withdraw or even be expelled from that organization.

Louw's policy speech, which defended his country's segregation policy—Apartheid—and which charged that other African nations attack South Africa in an effort to hide illiteracy and poverty in their own countries, was labeled "offensive, fictitious and erroneous" in the censure motion.

Judging from the international reaction (69 to 1 in censure, with 20 abstentions—the one vote was South Africa itself), the nation which has had so much internal and external conflict in the past is in for an even stormier future.

Far more serious than international censure to the Dutch descendants that now rule the nation, however, is the rising tide of "black nationalism" that threatens them.

So far, the "Afrikaners" have managed to keep the country in an authoritarian grip that comes close to rivaling the Nazi and Fascist regimes of pre-World War II Germany and Italy.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, following a line of ministers whose policies helped to establish the current "separate but unequal" racial doctrine, demonstrated a seeming unawareness of the situation when he told the white parliament in April of 1960, immediately following a native anti-pass law demonstration (in which police fired on a "non-violent" mob of approximately 15,000, killing 67 and wounding 186), that the riots "can in no way be described as reactions against the government's Apartheid policy. The disturbances are periodic phenomenon and have got nothing to do with poverty and low wages."

If the South African whites continue to endorse this philosophy and the Apartheid policies of their government, giving the Bantus, who outnumber them five to three, no voice in affairs and little opportunity for advancement, then the whites are asking for the greatest and most tragic racial explosion in the history of the earth, in a nation that has teetered, since before the Boer Wars, on the edge of violence. —J.T.

Ignorance No Excuse

Some few students at SJS, though they have attained junior class status, expect to be led by the hands much as are high school students.

At Wednesday's Student Council meeting one of the main items of business was to have been the interviewing of candidates who had applied for the vacant position of junior representative. Ten of 13 applicants were on hand—three were not.

Because three candidates were absent it was decided to forego interviews until next week's council meeting so all candidates could be brought together.

At this point one of the candidates, out of the goodness of her heart and because of an unswerving devotion to fair play, democracy and representative government, timidly raised a hand and stated that "perhaps the three persons not here should not be held responsible because nobody told us that we were to be interviewed today."

It would seem that any person applying for a student government position should display enough initiative to find out when interviews are to be held.

In addition, the Spartan Daily carried notices stating the time and place of these interviews on three separate occasions: Wednesday, Oct. 4; Friday, Oct. 6, and Wednesday, Oct. 11 (the day on which interviews were scheduled).

All three of these notices were carried on the front page and displayed in prominence.

The three persons who were absent from the council meeting on the day of the interviews should be dropped from consideration for any Student Council post.

If these three candidates did know that the interviews had been scheduled, they should have been there.

If for some reason they were unable to attend the meeting they should have had the good sense and common courtesy to have notified the council beforehand that they would not be available for interviews.

If, on the other hand, they did not know that the interviews were scheduled, then these are not responsible individuals and should not be placed in a position where their decisions could directly influence every member of the student body.

The primary function of any member of student government should be to feel out and speak for the student body. If these individuals cannot keep themselves informed of matters vital to themselves, would they be any more prone to keep themselves informed of matters of import to the rest of the student body? —B.H.

Group Schedules Exclusive Showing Of 'Berlin Today'

"Berlin Today," a film completed two days before the closing of the Brandenburg Gate, will have an exclusive West Coast showing Monday, Oct. 23 at 8:30 p.m. at the Montgomery theater in the civic auditorium.

The program is sponsored by Town Hall, a San Francisco organization which presents lectures and films. Reserved seat tickets at $2 are on sale at the Sherman Clay box office, 89 S. First St.

The film, a comprehensive survey of the world's trouble spot, was smuggled out of the country and hidden under the seat of a car which was unsuccessfully searched by Communist police.

Included in the film are interviews with people of both free Berlin and Communist Berlin—workers, professional people and artists.

The reconstruction, economy, recreation, entertainment, culture, festivals, social and youth problems of the "island city" are all preserved on this film.

Life in a divided city, including divided families, a day with a family-at-home, work and school and the contrast between life in capitalistic West Berlin and Communist East Berlin are all told in this full color film narrated by Art Wilson.

Coffee and refreshments will be served during intermission.

Wednesday, SDX (Sigma Delta Chi), which, in case you didn't know, is a national journalism society, brings forth to the newsstands its annual Send Home edition.

For 10 cents (15 cents and it will be mailed for you) you can send to friends or relatives a knot hole view of what goes on at SJS depicted in photographs and stories which have appeared in the Daily plus a few extra features.

The following is an open letter from me to your parents:

Dear Parent:
I take this opportunity to address all you wonderful mothers, fathers and guardians who are sacrificing so much to send your darling son(s) and/or daughter(s) to San Jose State.

Perhaps I have overstated the case a bit, since many of you are rich and would have sent your offspring(s) to Stanford or UCLA had his or her grades been better.

But even for you affluent elders a sacrifice is involved. What you do not feel in the pocketbook, you may feel in less conspicuous, nevertheless, significant places.

FINE SCHOOL

Don't get me wrong, SJS is a fine institution: with the possible exception of San Francisco state, the best in our state's sprawling system. It is this very point that I would like to discuss in light of an article in the October issue of Harper's magazine written by Christopher Jencks.

The article states, in effect, that California's state colleges are little more than glorified high schools.

It claims that state colleges are predominantly staffed by "upgraded schoolteachers rather than downgraded scholars."

What is most disturbing about Mr. Jencks' article is that he speaks only in generalities. He asserts that he chose to contrast Harvard, typical of the "Ivy League pattern of university education, and the California pattern of college education typified in its state colleges," because he knows them fairly well.

If he knows so much about state colleges, why doesn't he list a few examples for comparison? Mr. Jencks only twice so much as mentions the name of a state college.

Mr. Jencks, a Harvard graduate now associate editor of "The New Republic," possesses the annoying habit of preceding main points with qualifying statements as "With few exceptions," "Only a handful," etc.

Best example of this technique is: "Only a few (state colleges) are geared to the requirements, or even the scholarly outlook of the great graduate centers at Berkeley, Stanford and UCLA." Which ones, please?

PhDs: 43 PER CENT

It may interest you, parents, that about 43 per cent of the professors at SJS have doctorate degrees. Eliminate the less academically inclined departments (P.E., Industrial Arts, Home Economics, etc.), and you'll find about 80 per cent of the instructors with PhDs.

West Point, in contrast, boasts only a 40 per cent PhD concentration.

So you see, dear parent, despite what Mr. Jencks says, good ol' SJS ain't all that bad.

East Africa Reflects Aid of World Bank

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The World Bank is mobilizing money and men to help develop emerging African nations—and nowhere is it more apparent than in British East Africa.

The bank recently started a three-month survey mission in Kenya. It already has surveyed Tanganyika and Uganda, Kenya's neighbors and potential partners in an East African Federation.

A bank spokesman emphasized that "these are not surveys of British East Africa as such—but of separate countries."

The bank has loaned $800 million in Africa. But $200 million went to the long-ago emerged Union of South Africa and much of the rest was loaned through colonial powers.

Bank membership is expected to increase soon from 70 to 80, largely because of new African nations which no longer can lean on the major powers.

"Our role in African development has been small compared to that in Latin America," the bank spokesman said. "Our activities there are increasing rapidly, however."

The large role of the bank as an adviser and lender in Africa is reflected in its activities in East Africa.

The job of the 10-member mission in Kenya is "to undertake a general survey of the economy and to assist in the formulation of a program designed to stimulate and expand economic growth and thereby to raise the standard of living of the people."

It will assess the amount of capital the government could use for development purposes over the next five years and make recommendations for priority investment allocations.

As in the previous East African missions the British government joined with the local government in requesting the surveys.

The Tanganyika survey report already has been published. In a conclusion that could well apply in the near future to Kenya and Uganda, the report said "Tanganyika has reached 'a challenging point' in its history when it should become 'clear to the people of Tanganyika, as never before, that their future is in their own hands.'"

The World Bank has loaned $24 million to British East Africa, as a whole, and an additional $8,400,000 (M) to Uganda and $5,500,000 (M) to Kenya.

Indians Favored by 20

Bob Titchenal will march his spirited football squad into Stanford stadium tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 with the oddsmakers picking his boys to lose by at least 20 points.

Stanford was favored to win in last season's battle, but Titchenal & co. came through with a momentous 34-20 win that completely captivated a roaring Spartan rooting section at the huge Stanford saucer.

The crafty coach with a 3-1 record plans to start Hank Chamness at center, John Suro and Bill McGrath at the guards, Leon Donohue and either Jim Cadille or Walt Firstbrook at the tackles, Oscar Donahue and Dave Chaid at ends, Chon Gallegos at quarterback, Johnny Johnson at fullback, and Tom Doslak and Mack Burton at the halves.

Stanford Coach Jack Curtice appears to have his best team as Stanford since arriving on the scene a few years ago from Utah. The Indians absorbed a lacing at the hands of Michigan state last week . . . 31-3, while San Jose State was beating Colorado state university 14-0 last Saturday.

Both coaches may pull off a few surprises tomorrow. Curtice and Titchenal both have said they have added new plays to their offenses. Neither would elaborate.

Titchenal did indicate that he might play Mack Burton in the defensive backfield when the Indians start shooting passes all over the field.

No one doubts that the Palo Alto gridders will be relying heavily on their passing game when the action starts. Sophomore Steve Thurlow is expected to start at quarterback. Injured in the Michigan state game last Gallegos, still the leading collegiate passer in the nation (and third in total offense), will be a big threat in the Spartan offensive machine.

One who played a key role in last season's upset win over the Indians was "Touchdown" Johnny Johnson. Johnson scored four TDs in last year's battle.

Titchenal recently referred to Johnson as "The best back I have ever coached." Titchenal was on the coaching staff at the University of Southern California when Jon Arnett and C. R. Roberts were the prime movers in the Trojan backfield. Roberts now plays for the San Francisco 49ers, and Arnett is with the Los Angeles Rams.

A crowd of about 30,000 is expected to see the 18th game in a series dating back to 1900. Including last year's victory, San Jose has won only two games in the 18 played. The first win came in 1954.

Titchenal has stressed pass defense in Spartan practice sessions all week long. Walt Roberts, Paul Schreiber and Larry Doss have been working against Stanford pass patterns.

Thurlow is considered to be one of the finest quarterback prospects in recent Stanford history. The 6-3, 200 pounder can throw the pigskin well over 60 yards.

One of the reasons why the Spartans were able to beat Stanford last year is the fact that they were able to bottle up highly touted flinger Dick Norman.

In regard to the spirit of the players on the squad, Titchenal stated, "This is our big game of the season. I don't know how Stanford feels about it, but we'll be ready."

Women To Take Swimming Tests

Swimming examinations for women, which if passed would exempt students from the swim requirement made by the state, are being given Monday at 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. at the pool in the Women's gym.

Women planning to take the test are required to wear bathing caps and bring soap. Suits and towels will be provided by the department.

During the 10-minute examination, women will be asked to demonstrate four of the five basic swimming strokes.

Spartan Tracksters Hosting Tough Fresno State Bulldogs

The San Jose State cross country team takes on the Fresno state Bulldogs in a grueling cross country meet this afternoon, at four, in Spartan stadium.

Coach Dean Miller, in his first year at SJS, hopes to continue his high school record of never having lost a duel cross country meet in 11 years.

The Fresno state clash will be the first official meet for both teams. Fresno state is always tough in cross country and undoubtedly will bring a strong team to Spartan stadium.

Coach Miller looks for both Ben Tucker, who posted a pre-season 22:19 and Ron Davis, who posted 22:39, to give improved performances in this meet.

Both Charlie Clark, a senior who holds the American Collegiate record for the two-mile jaunt, and Jeff Fishback, a San Mateo boy who copped the watermelon run with a 20:52.8, are expected to be tough in this first meet.

Coach Miller feels that the spirit of his present team is at an all time high and they will be out to trample the Bulldogs.

Looking to help the Spartans are freshmen James Edmonson and Mike Gibeau. Both men have looked exceptionally good in practice this week according to coach Miller.

Coach Miller started pacing his cross country team when practice first started. The team competed in workout races and finished the workouts with a watermelon run last week.

Each man on the team is slowly conditioning himself and slowly building up his time. This first meet should provide track fans with plenty of speed and endurance.

Something big should happen tomorrow afternoon. That's the way the trend is going, anyway. Take the 1959 game, for instance. In that one, football players were running around so fast and so often, it looked like a study in raw panic. Stanford won, 54-38. A Stanford stadium crowd of 37,500 saw Indian passer Dick Norman throw the pigskin for a whopping 285 yards.

The combined 92 point total score surpassed the stadium record set in 1925 when Stanford obliterated UCLA, 82-0.

The turning point in that '59 battle came right after the second half kickoff. Spartan Ray Posesto took the ball and was dumped hard by the Indians' Gil Dowd. Posesto fumbled and Stanford recovered deep in San Jose territory. On Stanford's first play following the recovery, Norman hit Chris Burford in the end zone, and it seemed as if the bottom had dropped out of the game as far as the Spartans were concerned.

Titchenal credited Norman with a great performance. After the game he said, "Norman is a pressure passer. No matter how much pressure is put on him, he hits the receivers."

And then 1960 rolled around. ("Ah yes, I remember it well . . .") Of all the football programs sold at the game last year, hundreds of them still survive, dog-eared but intact. They hang on local walls with "34-20" scribbled on the front.

Stanford asked for it though, they were not expecting a tough game from Titchenal's crew at all. They played like it, too. It seemed at the time that it was 21-0 before the boys in red knew what was going on.

Another reason why San Jose State won last year . . . Titchenal and his team KNEW that Stanford was not expecting a tough game, so they jumped on them quick and hard early in the game.

But no matter how you slice it, the fact remains that Stanford was weak last year. They didn't win a game. This year, the are obviously vastly improved.

Titchenal said, "We'll be ready." He has that rare, quiet confidence.

Prof Marks Pleasant Summer Doing Research on Second Book

By LESTER ON

Writing one book can lead to another, especially if the author is fortified by a summer trip to Europe.

Dr. Charlene M. Leonard's tour this summer was marked by a pleasant stay in Marseilles where she did some research on the seaport's public works during France's Second Empire.

In her first book, "Lyon Transformed: Public Works of the Second Empire 1853-1864," which was published in May, the assistant professor of history told of the public works construction during Napoleon III in Lyon, then the second largest city in France.

TOURS PARIS

Since then, the cosmopolitan port of Marseilles has supplanted Lyon and it was there that Dr. Leonard did her research on a comparative study of public works in the provincial cities of France. She also was in Paris briefly.

"I was very much impressed with the city of Marseilles because I discovered that most of the public monuments of the city date from the Second Empire.

As to the people and atmosphere of the city, "Marseilles is a cosmopolitan city with people of many national origins," she said. "It's a very friendly place and the people are extremely hospitable."

'LIFE MOVES SLOWER'

However, she did not like the

weather she encountered during the summer. "Life seems to move a little slower in tempo there than elsewhere, the author noted.

"The lunch hour, for instance, inclines to two and a half hours instead of two hours.

Dr. Leonard also "was very much impressed by the appearance of the city in a beautiful location set on a bay with hills on all sides. It is, perhaps, a more modern city than any of the others I have seen in France," she said.

HOUSING SHORTAGE

But although there has been great deal of construction in the nine years since Dr. Leonard was last in France (in 1952-53 on a Fulbright scholarship), "there is a severe housing shortage because of the influx of refugees from Algeria and, more recently from Tunisia."

Despite the many pleasant things about the city, Dr. Leonard advised, if possible, against parking in the street if the automobile has foreign license plates. Although a charming place, "Marseilles still lives up to its reputation as a rough city," she said.

Sangha Plans Wide Variety Of Cultural, Social Activities

Plans for a wide variety of cultural and social activities have been made by the Sangha club for the coming semester, according to Kathryn Warren, president.

The activities Wednesday include talks about oriental topics and philosophies by guest speakers. Tentatively scheduled are trips to places of interest, an art exhibit, brush painting, a dinner and a dance.

Officers of the club are Joan Van Tronhout, acting vice president and cultural chairman; Miyoyei Kamigaki, social chairman; Eva McAllister, secretary; and Jo Ann Griffin, publicity chairman.

Advisers are Dr. Kazamitsu Kato, assistant professor of philosophy, and Dr. Jay R. McCullough, associate professor of philosophy.

To promote good will and friendship between Orientals and Occidentals is the main purpose of the Sangha club, the president said. All interested students are invited to attend the meetings which are held the first and third Wednesday of each month, Miss Warren said.

Administrator Joins Chain Store Council

Don Ryan, assistant to the dean of students, has accepted an invitation by GEM of San Jose, membership department store, to serve on its advisory council which will administer $5000 annually in GEM scholarships.

Ryan will be a member of the 8-man council which will assist in the selection of scholarship recipients among the children of GEM members.

The San Jose store is scheduled for opening on Nov. 15 on N. First st. near Bayshore highway.

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Three views of an average, healthy girl

LESSON 1 - How to recognize a girl

It is not surprising, in these days of constantly changing fashion standards, that girls are often mistaken for men.

Certain popular items of apparel, such as slacks, baggy sweaters and boxy suits, contribute to this unfortunate situation. Therefore, we suggest that new students of girl watching start with the fundamentals (see above diagram). As you can see, girls are easiest to identify from the side. However, even the beginner will soon achieve proficiency from front and rear as well.

Advanced students can usually tell a girl from a man at five hundred paces, even when both are wearing asbestos firefighting suits. (You might try offering the subject a Pall Mall, but you won't prove anything. It's an extremely popular brand with both sexes.)
