FROM THE DIRECTOR...

The Peloponnesian War between Athens and Sparta and their allies lasted from 431-404 B.C. It would eventually reduce the "Glory that was Greece" to rubble and a memory. Twenty years into this struggle to the death, Aristophanes (ca. 448-ca. 380 B.C.) produced Lysistrata, using his usual weapons of humor, satire and invective to both teach and entertain, "inculcating," as Lionel Casson points out, "good citizenship, drawing cant, hypocrisy and pretense, to point up the unhappiness . . . that these cause."

Of the forty comedies Aristophanes wrote, eleven are extant and are the only Old Comedies to survive to the present day. In his verse he skips from trimeter to heptameter using iambs, troches, and anapests at will (we mark these changes with drum beats). The iambic scenes tend to develop the action, but there are opposing speeches of some length between the pompous Commissioner and Lysistrata written in anapests, occasional insertions of parody on the tragic demeanor, and parabases which directly address the audience with some of the playwright's thoughts. All of these elements we have tried to preserve in our production. But, in its 2,400th year, we have approached Lysistrata not as a biography, nor as a history of brave people in time of war attempting drastic measures to cure a social ill, nor as a trifling attempt at escapist humor to avoid present pain. The play possesses two universal revelations, "happy ideas" that if we men and women) when they allow themselves to be totally preoccupied by carnal desires.

don't have sex, maybe we can end the war, and, more importantly, the silliness of human beings (both

Of course the play contains the themes of the "battle of the sexes" and the "politics of war," but in this age of life-threatening sexually transmitted diseases, we have chosen also to emphasize its underlying admonition to "know thyself" and to practice "moderation in all things." By using an unspecific time frame, partial masks, exaggerated shapes, and an overt, presentational style, we hope to allow the audience to maintain an intellectual delight in recognition of Puck's dictum in the last play I directed here, "Oh Lord, what Fools these mortals be." To both men and women, the intellectual and the hedonist, the administrator and the administrated, the Hawk and the Dove, the world of excess is the world of chaos.

Happy 2,400 Birthday, Lysistrata.

FROM THE CHAIR...

This show marks not only the final performance of the season, but the last play produced under Bob Jenkins' eight year reign as Director of Theatre. More than any one director, actor, or designer, those eight years of wonderful stage presentations bear Bob's distinctive mark: technically superb, brimming with vitality, offering a variety rarely found in other collegiate theatre seasons. Most of all, though, "Bob's Theatre" is characterized by a sense of fun. There is never a dull moment in the Department as he moves a show from initial selection to strike.

As Chair, I personally thank Bob for the hard work he's given and the good humor with which he's done it. For the Department I would like to congratulate him on eight successful years of running our theatre and wish him well as he returns to the ivory tower.

Thanks, Bob!

ABOUT THE DIRECTOR

Since joining the faculty in 1965, Richard D. Parks' directing assignments have ranged from Racine's Phaedra to My Fair Lady, from Measure to Measure to Born Yesterday. Considered a theatre generalist, Parks is happiest teaching a wide range of subjects (some forty-five to date) and directing in a variety of genres and styles. Parks received his Bachelors degree from SJSU and some of our longtime patrons may remember him as "Volpone" or "Peter Pan" in the early '60's. He went on to win acting awards at the University of Washington and Stanford University. He has appeared in SJSU Summer season productions such as The Imaginary Invalid and The Miser. His more recent productions include A Streetcar Named Desire, the musical Aesop's Fables, the historical drama The Hollow Crown, and A Midsummer Night's Dream. In addition to his primary duties as a teacher and Director of Acting Training, Parks is a published playwright and author, producer with the National Broadcasting Company, and the Executive Director of Actors Symposium of Hollywood. Featured in the Directory of American Scholars and a dozen other national books of biography, Parks has recently been inducted into Marquis' Who's Who in Entertainment.

ABOUT THE COSTUME DESIGNER

Jeffrey Struckman was art director for the internationally televised opening ceremony of the Tenth Pan American Games in Indianapolis. He has previously designed sets and costumes at theatres across the country including the Guthrie Theatre, Berkeley Repertory Theatre, the Alliance Theatre, StageWest, Berkshire Theatre Festival, St. Louis Municipal Opera and Theatre Project Company. Other projects he has designed include "Skylaidescope" at Walt Disney World, Kids and Books for Cable TV and several commercials. Mr. Struckman also designed costumes and sets for San Jose Rep's 1940's Radio Hour, The Rainmaker, The Unexpected Guest and All My Sons, as well as scenery for Talley's Folly and A Streetcar Named Desire and costumes for Shakespeare Santa Cruz's Julius Caesar and Antony and Cleopatra and Berkeley Shakespeare Festival's critically acclaimed Julius Caesar. Mr. Struckman is the guest faculty designer for the University Theatre's Spring semester.

ABOUT THE SCENIC DESIGNER

James K. Culley joined the faculty at SJSU as Technical Director in the Fall of 1988. He received his undergraduate degree in History and a Master's degree in Technical Theatre and Design from San Jose State. He recently completed his M.F.A. in Theatrical Design at the University of Texas at Austin. Mr. Culley has worked for the Barn Theatre in Augusta, Michigan as technical director and as a designer for ten summers. Lysistrata is his first design project since his return to SJSU.

ABOUT FACE

Dario Fo's hilarious and combustive masterpiece. "Falling down funny"

At the heart of Dario Fo's plays lie three volatile ingredients: laughter, thought, and relevance. It is this concoction that has made him the most widely produced playwright in the world today, an especially ironic fact considering that, until last year, he was banned from entry into the United States as "undesirable."

In About Face, Italy's leading millionaire industrialist is the target of a terrorist attack. In the funniest operating room scene ever written, the industrialist undergoes plastic surgery and is given the new face of a factory worker suspected of being one of the terrorists. The result, a hilarious and combustive masterpiece which mixes wild farce and political acid at the expense of industrialists and terrorists alike.

THE CRUCIBLE

Arthur Miller's gripping historical drama "An authentic American masterpiece"

In dramatizing the Salem witch hunts at the end of the 17th century, Miller explores the roots of intolerance and mass hysteria in our society. A few girls, fettered by a rigid puritan moral code, seek an outlet in secret dances at night in the woods. Discovered, they manage to elude punishment by declaring themselves victims of the Devil and by ecstatically accusing several harmless women of witchcraft. The whole community is caught in a frenzy.

The central plot concerns John Proctor, a forthright farmer, his wife Elizabeth, and Abigail, the ringleader of the girls. Abigail had once seduced Proctor and now tries to eliminate Elizabeth by declaring her a witch. In a thrilling, bloodcurdling, terrifying scene, small lies build and build until nineteen men and women go to the gallows for being possessed of the devil. "A powerful drama . . . strongly written." (New York Times).

Cole Porter

A Music and Dance Revue.

"It's Delightful, It's Delicious, It's De-Lovely!"

Join us for a jubilant romp through four decades of music and dance by Cole Porter, the celebrated creator of Anything Goes, Kiss Me Kate, and Can Can. This musical dance revue rolls all of the best Porter shows into one delicious evening of entertainment featuring all-time favorites such as "Begin the Beguine," "Night and Day," "Love for Sale," "Brush Up Your Shakespeare," "I Love Paris," "In the Still of the Night" and many more.

"He is already a classic, and one day will be seen as one of the most charming, skillful, and civilized reporters of that astonishing spectacle: the twentieth century in mid-flight." (Benny Green)
