Jere Owen, Bonfire Rally chairman, revealed that his group had been negotiating for an appearance by Glenn Yarbrough. The $2,000 cost proved prohibitive and the bargaining was dropped.

The Chanteymen, Owen said, are associated with Yarbrough's booking agency and were suggested as an alternative to the former Limeliters' star.

The Homecoming Committee particularly liked the group because of its appeal to college students, Owen said.

"They have a good amount of success in appearances at Cal, Stanford, UCLA, University of San Francisco and other colleges."

With this new plan, the president would have enough time to act as an executive and look at the overall direction in which the college is moving, Noah explained.

This plan was drawn up after studies by an ad hoc committee. Before this plan becomes final, it may be changed or approved by the academic council. The plan will then go to the chancellor's office for approval.

The chancellor's office has expressed the desire for a breakdown of the administrative positions into three levels-president, vice president and deans.

Mary Blomquist Reigns as Queen

With a glistening tiara on her head, red roses in her arms and tears of joy in her eyes, green-eyed blonde Mary Blomquist descended from a platform as 1964 Homecoming Queen at the Coronation Ball Friday night. She was crowned by Nancy Niederholzer, 1963 Homecoming Queen. Joining her princesses Hilary Goldwater, Jody Kaiser, Cheryl King and Sue Sargent, Mary walked with her escort through an arch formed by the Pershing Rifles to begin the next dance.

Approximately 2,500 students then joined in dancing under gold and white helium balloons and between Greek colonades which decorated the Fairgrounds Pavilion.

Sponsored by the Band-Aides, Mary will begin a busy week of activities with an interview on KSJS-FM tonight. She will participate in preliminary judging of downtown merchants' window displays tomorrow, and will attend the grand marshal's banquet

U.C. Political Ban Abridges Free Student Expression

It is not entirely clear why the administration of the University of California decided to enforce what they claim to be a 10-year-old ruling prohibiting the solicitation of members or funds for campus organizations and prohibiting the organiza-tion of student demonstrations.

view of the new political ban and the demonstrations which have resulted, there is a grave question as to the quality of judgment exercised by the administration. By developing a hard and fast line in dealing with the demonstrators and by asserting that certain rules will be upheld regardless of student protest, the administration has put itself in a position which is not within the free-thinking tradition of the great university it represents and has, until recently, ably managed.

Spartan Daily has previously censured that segment of the demonstrators who originally employed destructive action in their fight for political justice. We stand by that censure. But the situation has now evolved to a point where, even though the destruction has subsided, the administration is either incapable or unwilling to recognize the abridgment of students' rights which result under the new political restrictions.

It should be noted that it is the students, not the administration, who are being threatened by the ban. The students must be on the offensive since it is they who are subject to the restrictions, punishments and red tape imposed by an administration which the demonstrators believe is acting contrary to the rights of the entire student community.

Our institutions of higher learning are the centers of free thinking. It is here that men can be heard on issues which would be forbidden in church, government or even in the home. The university and college community should be free from politics, intimidations and bureaucraey if its members are to benefit from one of its most important functions: marketplace for ideas and a meeting place for those who both oppose and support the status quo.

Will More Conservative Leadership Save GOP?

By LYLE WILSON United Press International

The liberal Republicans who are demanding that the Goldwater party leadership walk the plank are the same soft boiled Republicans who goofed every presidential contest save one since 1928.

The liberals won in 1952-56 with Dwight D. Eisenhower, feats of no political magic whatever. General Ike would have been a shoo-in running as a Democrat or you name it. Strike the Eisenhower landslide from the Republican record and what have you got?

DOWN THE DRAIN

You have a party that steadily has been going down the drain since its leadership seized caboose position in the parade of Democratic dealers, from tiersmen and such. It is a sorry record of second class leadership, pedestrian presidential candidates and dismal defeat.

Barry Goldwater did, of course, lead the Republican party into a dead end of calamity. It would be too much to expect that the party would accept Goldwater as its leader into the future. But it is equally too much to expect that the soft boiled party men who deserted to the storm cellar during the 1964 presidential campaign should be rewarded now with the party command.

ESTABLISHES FACT

Despite the enormity of the 1964 defeat and the GOP's gloomy immediate prospects the election returns established an important fact. It was this: There are a great many millions of political conservatives in the United States who are eager to put a conservative in the White House.

Goldwater and the other party conservatives accepted their own rejection in 1960 and rallied around the soft boiled Republican ticket consisting of Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot

Lodge. When the soft boiled ticket lost to the Kennedy family thrust, the conservatives determined that they should have their own overdue chance at the

MORE CHANCES

Mathematical fairness suggests that maybe the conservatives should have several more chances before being waved to the showers. After all, the soft boiled Republicans were losing elections for years without being required to surrender party leadership.

It is quite obvious, however, that the Republican party requires new leadership. Obvious also is that no Republican leader who bolted the Goldwater-Miller ticket this year or who gave it no more than faint praise would be acceptable to Republican con-

SABOTAGE SOFTIES

The Republican conservatives could and probably would sabotage the presidential campaign of any soft boiled leader who might now be imposed on them. Why not? Many soft boiled Republicans boycotted the Goldwater campaign.

What the Republicans had better come up with in a hurry is a compromise on the party leadership. It is not necessary that either faction love the compromise leader. But it is very necessary that neither side hates or despises him.

There are not many such. First to mind probably would be Nixon. He did a big job for Goldwater this year while such as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, both of New York, were quaking under the storm cellar bunks. Illinois Charles H. Percy didn't offend either side in the campaign. He did worse Percy offended all hands by losing his run for governor. If he had been elected, Percy might have been everybody's candidate for leader of

Student Objects To Letter's Claim

I wish to register an objection to a supposition expressed in A REPUDIATION OF GOLD-WATER'S IDEALS as printed in the Nov. 10 Thrust and Parry. I object to the claim that the five Southern states which voted Republican Nov. 3 are "racist" states. This premise is indicative of the liberal ideology that Southern opposition to integrated schooling is based exclusively on the desire to suppress the Negro. This supposition is exceedingly difficult to believe, yet this is what the American people are consistently being led to accept. Grant that there are people in the South who possess despicable motives for restricting the Negro, but the Liberal fails to distinguish between these sordid people and those, such as Mr. Goldwater, who speak in solemn tones about the constitutional crisis brought about by the Supreme Court's recent zeal for imposing its ideal on the folkways and mores of a people.

Column Termed 'Second-Rate'

San Jose State College has no need of the piece of low-grade, second-rate humor (?) which appeared under the heading of "Our Girl, Charles" in Tuesday's issue of the Spartan Daily (Oct. 27). It was in extremely poor taste and a large blank box in that issue of the Daily would have been more worthwhile (at least I could use it for scratchpaper) than that entirely unfunny article.

Ridiculing any group must be done tactfully and is at best a last resort type of humor. I realize that it is the desire of the Spartan Daily staff to arouse comment on the articles printed, but I feel certain that this particular feature evokes at the most, disgust, and in the least, mere disinterest. I know from previous issues of the Spartan Daily that this has not been typical "college wit." Let's not lower our standards in the attempt to fill a page with newsprint.

DON'T PUT ME ON

By TOM POWELL

A continued attempt to keep this bit of mundane literature appealing to children of all ages brings us to a story entitled, "College Student and Professor-A Study in Diplomacy."

Perhaps one of the greatest challenges to the student of today is figuring out a professor. Education majors probably come as close as anyone, but only after years of teaching and hating. Now, before you mock and deride me, let me remind you that this column is nearly always written in jest.

A student spends much of his time trying to figure out a professor-to get his number. This task is about as difficult as finding a live worm at a turkey farm.

A good deal of study time is concentrated on discovering how an exam will be worded, how a report should be slanted or how the professor leans politically.

Since my extended efforts always have been to present constructive help, I feel I must direct you on this issue.

Give up. Perhaps this little illustration will aid you in probing the untouchable mind of a fictional professor.

The scene is a middle class home. The time is 7 a.m. on Monday. The leading characters are: one professor; one wife. The wife speaks over the breakfast table:

"Dear, you had better hurry if you're going to make it on time

Prof: "Yes, well the little devils will wait."

Wife: "Don't forget to take your super-sneaky, surprise essay quiz on the medieval economic aspects of Southern Sikkim.'

Prof.: "How can I forget that? It's the highlight of my day." Wife: "And don't forget to assign your brand new term paper consisting of 700 pages on the post-natal problems of the albatross." Prof.: "It's all here, dear. Today I get revenge for their sleeping

Now let us turn to the early morning life of the typical student. The scene is a dumpy apartment. The time is 7 a.m. on Monday. The leading characters are: one student; one roommate. The roommate speaks over the breakfast table.

"You had better hurry if you're going to make it on time to your 7:30 class.

Student: "Yes, well the old reprobate will wait." Roommate: "Do you have any tests coming up?"

Student: "Nah, the old man always tells us a week in advance about tests.'

Roommate: "Do you have a term paper in that class?" Student: "Of course not. There are only three days left in the semester, so he can't assign one now.

This is no extreme example—in fact, it's a common happening. Think you can figure out a professor? Don't put me on.

Campus Interviews Friday, November 20

Young men of ability can get to the top fast at Boeing. Today, Boeing's business backlog is just under two billion dollars, of which some 60 per cent is in commercial jetliner and helicopter product areas. The remainder is in military programs and government space flight contracts. This gives the company one of the most stable and diversified business bases in the aerospace

No matter where your career interests lie-in the commercial jet airliners of the future or in space-flight technology-you can find an opening of genuine opportunity at Boeing. The company's world leadership in the jet transport field is an indication of the calibre of people you'd work with at Boeing.

Boeing is now pioneering evolutionary advances in the research, design, development and manufacture of civilian and military aircraft of the future, as well as space programs of such historic importance as America's first moon landing. Gas turbine engines, transport helicopters, marine vehicles and basic research are other areas of Boeing activity.

Whether your career interests lie in basic or applied research, design, manufacturing or adnistration, there's a spot where your talents are needed at Boeing. Engineers and scientists at Boeing work in small groups, so initiative and ability get maximum exposure. ### Bears' Morton Answer To 49er Championship

It's hard for a 49er fan to do, but I hope the San Franciscans keep right on losing as they've been doing all season.

Why? So they can take last place in the National Football League and have the first selection in the December draft.

The 49ers have two other NFL teams to battle for last, however. The New York Giants are 2-6-1 in the Eastern division, while the Chicago Bears and San Francisco hold down the cellar spot in the Western division with 2-7 records.

As the No. 1 draft choice in the nation, I submit University of California's quarterback Craig Morton. Morton, from nearby Campbell, is second nationally among collegiate passers with 143 completions in 235 attempts for 1,649 yards and 13 touchdowns. If the 49ers are "lucky" enough to end up with the league's worst record. Morton is the man they should select. John Brodie, the ex-Stanford all-American, and George Mira, rookie from Miami University, have been something less than sensational this year for coach Jack Christiansen's team. Maybe Brodie hasn't recovered from his arm injury suffered last year, and maybe Mira needs more experience, but San Francisco can't possibly let Morton be drafted by another club. Cal coach Ray Willsey, a former pro football coach, terms the 6-4, 215-pounder the finest college quarterback he's ever seen. He saw such men as Don Meredith, of SMU; Fran Tarkenton of Georgia and John Brodie; all professional quarterbacks now. Minnesota coach Murry Warmath calls the Bear signal caller the best pro-type quarterback in the country. Morton has decided to give up baseball and concentrate on football. A senior, big Craig says he'd like to play professionally. Morton threw five touchdown passes in leading the Golden Bears to a 34-13 win over San Jose State last year in Berkeley. He has broken every California school passing record-except interceptions-in his three-year career. Morton has thrown only four Brodie threw four in one game for the Prospectors and has been

A quarterback isn't all San Francisco needs, however. It needs me running backs. The defenses have been stacked against the 49er passing attack all year long because they lack a running game.

San Francisco should forget about this year and build for the future. Craig Morton is the answer. He could become a great pro passer and give San Francisco a championship, something that the 49ers haven't been able to win in the league's history.

They might have one other team to fight in acquiring him, however. The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League buried deep in the league standings, might draft Morton if they get the chance. I'm sure Bear fans wouldn't mind. They could see him play only a few miles from school.

Crossroads of History

"So they took Jesus, and he went out, bearing His own cross, to the place called the place of the skull, which is called in Hebrew Golgotha. There they crucified Him, and with Him two others, one on either side, and Jesus between them. Pilate also wrote a title and put if on the cross. If read, 'Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews'... when the soliders had crucified Jesus they took His garments and made four parts, one for each soldier; also His tunic. But the tunic was without seam, woven from top to bottom; so they said to one another, 'Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it to see whose it shall be'. This was to fulfill the Scripture; They parted my garments among them, and for my clothing they cast lots.' So the soldiers did this ... Jesus, knowing that all was finished said (to fulfill the Scripture), 'I thirst.' A bowl full of vinegar stood there; so they put a sponge full of vinegar on hyssop and held it to His mouth. When Jesus had received the vinegar, he said, 'It is finished,' and He bowed His head and gave up His spirit.' (John 19:17-30).

Disappointed and disillusioned, His disciples left His bloody cross — their cause defeated — their Captain gone. Deserted and scorned by the multifuldes which had followed Him at first, the ministry of Jesus Christ seemed to end in utter defeat. However, the grave could not hold Jesus Christ. He died once, just for the unjust, to pay for all our sins and transgressions. When

He shouted; "It is finished," it was a shout of moment, the work of atonement was completed. finished," it was a shout of triumph, for, at the Three days later in exact and complete fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies concerning this promised Messiah (whose life had been all that the ancient records said it would be), Jesus Christ was back. back. Here, in the words of the Apostle Luke, is an account of that thrilling day when hope was born anew:

"But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they went to the tomb, taking the spices which they had prepared. And they found the stone rolled away from the tomb, but when they went in they did not find the body... That very day two of His disciples were going to a village named Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem, and telking with each other about all these things that had happened. While the were talking and discussing together, Jesus Himself drew near and went with them. But their eyes were kept from recognizing Him. And He said to them, "What is this conversation which you are holding with each other as you walk?" And they stood still, looking sad. Then one of them, named Cleepas, answered Him; "Are you the only visitor to Jerusalem who does not know the things that have happened there in these days?" And He said to them: "What things?" And they said to Him; "Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, and how our chief priests and elders delivered Him up to be condemned to death, and crucified Him. But we had hoped that He was the one to redeem Israel. Yes, and besides all this, it is now the third day since this happened. Moreover some women of our company amazed us. They were at the tomb early in the morning and did not find His body; and they came back saying that they had even seen a vision of angels, who said that He was alive!"... And Jesus said to them, "O foolish men, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken! Was it not necessary that the Christ should suffer these things and enter into His glory?"... And their eyes were opened and they recognized Him, and He vanished out of sight." [Luke 24:1-32].

Nonsense you say? Or a legend which is unconfirmable? You are invited, as are men everywhere, to meet this same Jesus, risen from the dead. If He lives, if He really rose, if He is God as He said He was He ought to be able to demonstrate these things to you. This is precisely the claim Christians have responded to, and the invitation they extend to you on Christ's behalf. Take that step of faith and trust in Jesus Christ which will make Him a living reality in your life today!
