Beauty Says 'Pay Taxes'

By SCOTT MOORE

Miss Long Blackhair, world's wealthiest munitions maker, swept into San Jose late last week with her retinue of beefy, muscular bodyguards and beseeched SJS students to mail their tax returns by the April 15 deadline.

Miss Blackhair chanted a Watasi version of "God Bless America" to emphasize her insistence that "any Viet war is a good war," if it helps America.

She exhorted all collegiate men and women to make a career of the Army. "Thirty years on the field is better than six months on the Honor Farm," she reasoned.

"And furthermore," she proclaimed, "women have better chances of snatching men in the service. There are many straight young men in the service looking for YOU!"

More than 1,000 Spartans edged into the Bay Area's finest auditorium, Concert Hall, to hear the raven beauty defend Uncle Sam.

Her performance was sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency, which has been disturbed by recent reports of a rising Income Tax rebellion.

Her speech was preceded by a performance by Mr. Fraill Fraidy, president of the SJS chapter of "Arms Unlimited," otherwise known as "Simple, Clean American Boys" (SCABS).

The clean-shaven Fraidy bounced onto stage and enacted a gay version of Dante's "Faust." The audience was Totally in Stitches by the time Miss What's-Her-Hair finally slugged Fraidy into the orchestra pit.

"Americans," she screeched, "Pay your taxes—help defend our wonderful nation against filthy infiltrators and yellow, dirty, snagle-toothed liberal columnists."

At that point a Gold-Plated Eagle named "100 Proof" soared from the rafters and circled over the fans while SJS' Concert Band struck up a contemporary version of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The noisily patriotic event thundered to a climactic ending when Martha Washington Blackhair, the star's mother and True Friend, was wheeled onto stage and sang several bars of "Holy Night" and "Red River Rock."

By this time the entire audience was dancing a Mad Jerk in the aisles and screaming "America, America!"

Mauldin Reports

By BILL MAULDIN
Pulitzer Prize Winning Cartoonist
SAIGON—Here is my garbled account of Saigon's garbled coup.

I was eating with friends around the corner from the waterfront home of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

The waiter told us what was going on. We hurried to the scene, where we saw tanks rumble into Me Linh Square with guns pointed at the military leader's place.

A civilian came up to me and asked, "Are you press?"

I said, "Yes."
He said "They're going to kill that blankety-blank-obscurity Khanh because his brother is a Communist."

Two civilians told me Tran Thien Khiem, South Vietnamese ambassador to Washington will be the real head of the government.

"You mean," I asked incredulously, "the ambassador is supporting a coup against his own government?"

Not yet, they assured me, but he will make his position clear when he sees how things go.

The square is on the river front. The navy, which consists of two LSTs (landing ship—tanks) and some gunboats and is or was loyal to Khanh, arrived at flank speed and began pointing deck guns at the tanks.

The tanks turned their turrets away from the house and returned the aim, so to speak.

I turned to suggest to my civilian friends that because our position was now in the line of fire we should move, but I found they had already done so. These people are experienced at this sort of thing . . .

Life is getting grim for people here. Perhaps a good coup is the only form of entertainment left.

'One Murder Every Hour'

Say Police Crime Statistics

Editor's Note: This is Part I of a special Spartan Daily series concerning the reasons, possible preventions, and statistics behind this nation's fast rising crime rates. Each story will include data from a recent series by Harry Ferguson, UPI National Reporter, and personal interviews conducted by Jeanne Gates.

Is a San Jose State coed safe walking down Market Street after dark?

Not with these statistics—four serious crimes are committed every minute in the U.S.; once every hour someone is murdered; once every 32 minutes a burglary is committed; once every 32 minutes someone is raped; once every four minutes an American becomes a victim of aggravated assault.

Add to this the story of Katherine Genovese. She was stabbed to death in New York a year ago while 38 persons ignored her cries for help. No one came to her assistance; no one called for the police.

The crime rate has been increasing five times as fast as the population since 1958.

The FBI reports a 10 per cent increase of crime between 1962 and 1963. The rate increased so much in 1964 that during the first half of that year it had risen 15 per cent above figures over the same six months in 1963.

SAFER LOCKED IN?

Would that SJS coed be safer locked in her apartment, than walking down Market Street?

Not necessarily, according to the crime reports. The crime rate for the nation's suburbs was up 23 per cent for the first six months of 1964. This is eight per cent above the national average.

OUTLETS FOR BLAME

The Mass Media are often blamed for crime rates. Television mystery stories and newspaper sex and murder trials are said to be the foundation for violence and sadism in this nation.

"President Johnson has not said so, but it is safe to say his primary concern is not with the spectacular crimes that bring out the big headlines . . . they do not touch our daily lives or create dangers on the streets and in our homes," said UPI reporter Harry Ferguson.

It's the short stories under modest headlines in the back pages of the daily papers, when totalled, that are the backbone of increasing crime rates, according to Ferguson.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Another outlet for blame has been the federal government.

Though the President can make speeches deploring crime and then appoint commissions to study the trouble areas, he can't solve a murder. That is a local responsibility.

According to a study made by Robert F. Kennedy, during his term as attorney general, "the fight is going to be won or lost at the grass roots level."

Kennedy wrote that crime "has its roots in such things as school drop-outs, broken homes, racial discrimination, slum housing and youth unemployment. The federal government cannot solve these problems."

Statistics show that even drastic moves tomorrow on a national basis, wouldn't affect the steady increase of crime for at least three years.

(Part II in Tomorrow's Spartan Daily will deal with the opinions, theories, and possible answers suggested by Dean Melvin Miller, head of the SJS Law Enforcement and Administration Department.)

Summer Fun Lies Ahead

As the weather warms, thoughts drift toward summer and the trips, jobs, and schooling that might be crammed into those three months.

Santa Clara County's Community Ambassador Project, New York University's School of Education summer program, and the American Youth Hostels Association are three of the vast number of possibilities for summer '65.

San Jose Staters who were residents of Santa Clara County during at least part of their high school years may be eligible for the Community Ambassador Project, according to Dr. Raymond Stanley, associate professor of geography and campus representative for the program's screening board.

Application forms must be turned back to Dr. Stanley by February 25.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

Graduate students and professors are eligible for New York University's School of Education Seminar on Western Europe Today.

The seminar will meet in London, Bonn, Brussels, Rome, Lucerne and Paris.

YOUTH HOSTELS

Many students bicycle through Europe each summer, or visit Japan inexpensively under a program by the American Youth Hostels Association.

Excursions by bicycle and train may be taken in New England, Canada, South America, Mexico, Japan, Europe, Russia, and the Middle East.

Chaplain Challenges Spartan Daily Ad

Editor:

Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, who delivered a lecture, "Is God's Obituary Premature?" on this campus last fall, would be delighted to see the anonymously sponsored ad, "Deny God Today," in Monday's Daily: It demonstrates eloquently that God is still regarded in some quarters as a force to be reckoned with. The absence of documentation for the assertions in the text of the ad speaks for itself.

What is a greater matter of concern is the anonymity of the ad. Or does this reflect the policy of the Spartan Daily?

"for what jobs?"

Manufacturing, Product Development, Programming,
Systems Engineering, Marketing, Sales

If you are majoring in Engineering, the Sciences, Mathematics, or Business Administration, see IBM. The development, manufacturing, and marketing of information systems and equipment offer many opportunities to show what you can do.

See your placement office for our brochures—and an appointment with the IBM interviewers. Ask where your ideas can best be used at IBM, an Equal Opportunity Employer. There are 20 laboratories, 17 plants, and over 200 sales and service offices coast to coast.

If you cannot attend the interviews, visit the nearest IBM office. Or write, telling us about your interests, to Manager of College Relations, Dept. 882, IBM Corporate Headquarters, Armonk, New York 10504.
