Authors Join Debate Between VDC-Cyclists

HELL'S ANGEL — "Louie Batman" of Sacramento (r) answers questions posed by Jerry Rubin, Berkeley VDC leader, in front of waving microphones. The rain-drenched crowd swarmed into the cafeteria to hear the opponents.

By SANDE LANGE
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

While poet Alan Ginsberg chanted a Buddhist prayer and rang tiny brass cymbals, some 3,000 rain-soaked SJS students squeezed into Spartan Cafeteria Friday afternoon to witness verbal confrontation between local motorcyclists and leaders of the Vietnam Day Committee (VDC).

The largest crowd assembled yet this semester stood in a rain downpour on Seventh Street until the debate was moved into the cafeteria, and finally into Concert Hall where best-selling novelist Ken Kesey called the Angels "missionaries of life."

ONE HELL'S ANGEL

Louie "Batman," 38-year-old motorcyclist from Sacramento, was the only member of the Hell's Angels present. The San Jose Night Riders, a "brother club" of the Angels, had six members on campus for the debate.

The motorcyclists, traditionally called by their nicknames only, refused to give full names.

Bill Craddock, SJS student, and a Night Rider, read a statement from the Hell's Angels president, "Tiny," saying that the Angels planned to stay within the limits of Oakland ordinances during the Nov. 20 VDC protest march.

Jerry Rubin, VDC leader, expressed concern that the Angels would violently attack the protest marchers. He said the purpose of the debate was to establish a feeling of rapport or communication between the two groups.

Poet Ginsberg, his long hair and beard glistening from the rain, said that the marchers fear the Angels will physically attack police, the press, the public, or them to gain popular support for themselves from the Oakland even for donations from the right wing.

'HAPPY SPECTACLE'

He said that the VDC pacifists want to make the march a "happy spectacle, not an unhappy one." The crowd cheered and clapped when Ginsberg asked the crowd if it wanted an "unhappy and violent march."

"Quack," member of the Night Riders, responded with, "The march is wrong; the war is right. If this guy believes it's wrong, let him burn himself like the others."

Earlier Night Riders Pres. "Scotty," said, "We believe in what we're doing. If they (VDC) are going to live in a country, they should fight for it."

Mustached Rubin insisted that the marchers plan to be totally non-violent. "If there is any attack on us, the only response will be to bleed."

INJUNCTION

Previous to their campus arrival, VDC member Rubin and Miss Marilyn Miligan were in court applying for a federal court injunction against the city of Oakland to march through that city. Oakland denied a march permit Friday to the group.

The meeting between the VDC and Hell's Angels was first announced last Wednesday by the New Student publication. First reports said the debate was being sponsored by Students for Excellence in Education (SEE), but at Friday's Forum, Ira Meltzer, co-editor of the publication, announced his publication was the sole sponsor of the event.

Kesey Lauds Angels As 'Close to Life'

As an aftermath to the Friday Forum, VDC leaders and three members of the Gypsy Jokers and Night Riders, motorcycle groups, answered questions from a Concert Hall audience.

Ken Kesey, author of two best-selling novels, "One Flew Over the CooCoo's Nest" and "Suddenly a Great Notion," made a surprise appearance.

NEON COLORS

Kesey, with matted blond curls and heavy sideburns, approached the lectern wearing a white jacket painted with neon colors.

"When you're around the Angels, they don't know what they're going to do next. They are missionaries. They are closer to life than anything," he said.

In reference to the previous VDC march in which the Hell's Angels' president "Tiny" crashed through the front lines and ripped down the pacifist banner, Kesey related, "When Tiny rode down and ripped off that banner it was burnt into history. This is alive."

'OUTLAW CLUBS'

Dr. Snell Putney, professor of sociology, addressed the Night Riders and said, "If anyone knows how the authorities can sometimes be wrong, it's the outlaw clubs. Why then do the outlaw clubs agree with the authorities in the Viet Nam case?"

Bill Craddock, SJS student and a Night Rider member replied, "We've got to take a stand. This country is getting more and more socialized. Communism is creeping in all over. We (cycle clubs) would not exist under communism."

Attired in heavy black boots, black leather jacket, silvery bicycle chains and an earring dangling from his right ear, he continued, "I don't think the Viet war is being conducted as well as it should be, but if drafted, I'd go over there to fight."

Committees To Interview In Afternoon

The ASB Human Relations Commission and the Academic Fairness Committee have scheduled interviews today at 2:30 p.m. in the College Union to complete their memberships.

The Human Relations Commission needs one member; the Academic Fairness Committee needs five members.

Purpose of the Human Relations Commission is to study problems involving human communications and relationships at SJS.

The Fairness Committee hears cases presented by students who think they were given an unjust grade in a class.

Interviews start tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the College Union to select five members for the ASB Recognition Committee.

The Recognition Committee recognizes outstanding achievement in student government, ASB committees and campus organizations.

A student-at-large for the ASB Intramural Board, which is responsible for the SJS intramural program, will be selected from interviews scheduled tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in the College Union.

SJS-Cal Combination

College Investigates Joint Doctorate

By DAVE PROVAN
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Will SJS, in conjunction with the University of California, soon be offering a doctoral program? It looks doubtful.

San Diego State, at present the only State College offering a joint doctoral program, has been a test case and the other colleges are watching its progress.

Unfortunately, the program in chemistry at UC at La Jolla, has been understaffed and under-financed from the start.

The procedures for the student, according to the organization and procedures for the joint doctoral program of the Joint Graduate Board are long and involved.

The student first must be admitted to graduate status at both the University campus and the State College concerned. He must then be reviewed by faculty advisers from the University and the State College.

If the candidate is accepted, he will be given advisers from the University and the State College who will guide him cooperatively in his studies.

RESIDENCE STATUS

He will be required to complete the equivalent of one year of residence at each of the cooperating institutions (cannot be the same year) and report to an advisory committee and a thesis committee made up of members of the cooperating institutions.

The candidate must do twice the work and satisfy twice the number of persons than if he had enrolled in a doctoral program at the University.

Why a joint doctoral program in the first place?

The Donahoe Act provides that: "The university has the sole authority in public higher education to award the doctoral degree in all fields of learning, except that it may agree with the state colleges to award joint doctoral degrees in selected fields."

According to the Trustees' Committee on Educational Policy: "The Master Plan and the Donahoe Act were designed to provide maximum opportunities for residents of California to obtain the best possible higher education in state-supported schools."

This is to be accomplished "at the least expense to both students and taxpayers through fuller utilization of educational resources available in the State."

At present San Francisco State is requesting a joint doctorate in Special Education; the proposal will be discussed at the Academic Senate later this month.

NOT READY

SJS' graduate committee is not ready to move ahead with a joint doctoral program until it is proved that the present masters' degree program can adequately be supported financially.

It looks as though with all the red-tape, inadequate financing and lack of support, it will be some time before SJS seriously looks at the joint doctoral program.

SJS Blood Drive Establishes Record

The Red Cross Blood Drive held on campus last Wednesday collected 383 pints of blood for a new campus record since the drive was first held in 1962, AFROTC Staff Sergeant Ernesto Ortega, the chairman of the drive, announced.

The 383 pints of blood collected beat the previous record by 19 pints and was 33 pints over the projected goal for the drive.

The drive was sponsored jointly by the Air Force ROTC, Sigma Kappa sorority and the Community Service Board.

The blood will be credited to the SJS Blood Credit Group and can be used when needed by any SJS student or his immediate family.

"Some 493 people applied to give blood, but 110 were rejected because of medical reasons," Ortega said.

"The doors to the drive were closed at 4 p.m. as scheduled, but there were so many people in line that the entire staff of the Red Cross was kept busy until 5:30 p.m."

Architects Unveil Final Union Plans

The final design drawings for the $3.2 million SJS College Union building will be shown by Ernest J. Kump and Associates, Palo Alto architects, at the College Union Board of Governors meeting to be held Friday.

After approval by the Board of Governors, the drawings will have to be approved by the California State College Trustees.

Human Relations Commission

Group Studies Student Problems

By ROGER ALLEN
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

"In the natural course of daily life situations arise among people which produce tension, factional strife and other interpersonal alienations."

Solving such problems at SJS is the task of the ASB Human Relations Commission (HRC).

Commission chairman Roger Byland said HRC is a "revolutionary thing" on campus. He declared any personal problems between people or groups associated with SJS are proper matters for HRC consideration.

The 11 member student-faculty commission studies problems and then attempts to suggest and effect solutions to them.

"Without just and friendly resolution these problems mar the smooth operation of the student body and may lead to more serious problems in the college community and the community at large," Byland added.

Byland noted the only other school in the area with such a commission is the University of California at Berkeley.

STUDIES PROBLEMS

The commission will study personal problems when assigned to do so by the Student Council, by application to HRC by person or groups concerned" and by majority vote of the commission.

HRC consists of six students (including chairman Byland) and two "members of the community-at-large" appointed by the ASB president and three faculty members appointed by the college president.

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATES

Any person or group wishing to present a problem to HRC should turn in an official HRC petition to the commission or write a letter to HRC describing the problem and then petition the commission, Byland said.

HRC petitions can be obtained in the College Union, 315 S. Ninth St.

After receiving an official petition the chairman sends the complaint to one of two standing committees for investigation.

Editorial Comment

Counsel for Draftees

The newest wrinkle in the fast-changing Selective Service situation is the decision of at least one student political group to counsel students on the draft. The Student Peace Union (SPU) has initiated a daily counseling service for students seeking an alternative to their A-1 status.

SPU's action may hatch a rash of such activity. A conservative group, for example, might decide to offer counseling on every available means of enlistment. The noisy spectacle of competing groups clamoring for students to counsel could become real.

We seriously question the qualifications of SPU or any other student political group to give advice to students on the draft. Students need an objective and rational presentation of the facts, and a political group such as SPU simply cannot provide these.

Students should seek counseling concerning the choices open to them once they are classified I-A. The half-truths and unfounded rumors which tend to feed on student fears need clarification. But it is dangerous to place such counseling in the hands of emotionally involved students. How can they be objective under such circumstances?

SPU says its goal is to explain the various "conscientious objector" classifications to students. This alone is an example of one-sided prejudice in favor of one particular position. There are other possibilities which might be of equal, or more, benefit to students. Without accurate knowledge of all possibilities open to him, a student might make a decision alien to his own best interests.

SJS students who seek advice concerning the draft may obtain it through the Student Personnel Office. Robert S. Martin, associate dean of students, says this office is attempting to appraise students of choices open to them and to help them arrive at a decision.

Students with questions, students who wish to know all the facts, may sign up for appointments with the Student Personnel Office. The advice students receive through professional counselors will be more objective and comprehensive than any emotional nonsense handed out by a one-sided political group.

SJS in Retrospect

15 YEARS AGO

Dr. William G. Sweeney, head of the Education Department at SJS, spoke out strongly against a proposed plan to defer students from the draft across the country on the basis of their relative academic standing in their classes.

10 YEARS AGO

Final preparations were being made for Religion-in-Life Week to be held from Nov. 13 through Nov. 18 on the SJS campus. A different religion will be spotlighted on each day of the week, Monday will be Presbyterian Day; Tuesday, Mormon Day; Wednesday, Buddhist Day; Thursday, Episcopalian Day; and Friday will be set aside for Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

5 YEARS AGO

The Dixieland jazz band Firehouse Five Plus Two brought its white suspenders, red shirts and fire hats to SJS for the concert given in the Morris Dailey Auditorium.

Thrust and Parry

Closer Look at Recent Decisions

'Lindsay's Win Repels

Negative Conservatism'

Editor:

Congratulations to Scott Moore for his editorial commenting on the good omen in John Lindsay's New York victory for the Republican Party. Naturally, sound reasoning on this order is bound to attract criticism from campus ultra-conservatives, who react negatively almost to a man to virtually any form of responsible thought.

Reimers, in his letter (Thrust & Parry, Nov. 8) took it upon himself to determine how the GOP should choose its candidates in the future. One would think the Republican Party, after suffering the worst defeat in its history, would want to have nothing more to do with the "funny fringe" element still clinging desperately to its membership.

But no, Reimers apparently wants an alternative in American parties. I certainly agree. But the alternative should not be one of action vs. inaction, as he implies.

The GOP must not be classified as the "do-nothing" party. There are countless vital problems facing the USA which require responsible answers. Of course, the GOP doesn't have to echo the Democrats.

Republicans, on the whole, have original, responsible approaches to the needs of the nation. If their actions draw the cry of "me-tooism" from the reactionaries, we can chalk it up to the latter's ignorance of modern America.

"The true conservative," Theodore Roosevelt said, "is the man who resolutely sets his face toward the future." Perhaps those who look just to the past would be wise to take a peek at reality—it would do them a world of good.

Professor Contrasts

'Uniforms' Importance'

Editor:

My learned colleague, Dr. James E. Watson, with his usual solid, imperceptive, Middle-Western anti-formalism, apparently regards the academic gown as just another kind of fancy get-up, of no greater significance than the cowboy clothes one might wear for the "Spartan Round-Up."

Permit me to suggest that the caps and gowns of the faculty are a kind of official "uniform"; that this "uniform" represents a long history and venerable tradition; and that it is properly worn, in this country, only on official and ceremonial occasions.

In other words, the Academic Council vote to "invite" the faculty to dress up in Western garb last Friday is not inconsistent with its refusal to endorse the wearing of academic dress last spring as a kind of political propaganda.

One might even say that it is meaningless to allege inconsistency, since the two decisions are not comparable. Indeed, one might go so far as to conclude that there are more jackasses loose on this range than just the present members of the Academic Council.

'Psychology Declines

As G.E. Requirement'

Editor:

The psychologists' panel discussion on the Lette incident leads to this question: Is psychology of value to society in its methods of study and its final conclusions concerning the meaning of man's social and political actions? Are its conclusions advantageous or detrimental to the welfare of those influenced by their line of thought?

When the basis of conviction is interpreted in terms of images and hazy subconscious motives, do not the interpreters help to weaken the values of their own society by scientifically explaining away those ideas which make action meaningful?

In light of this, what does the student learn who must take Psych 5 as a G.E. requirement? He learns to think in the same terms as the psychologist, or, more hopefully, he may pass without having learned anything, with only a faint recollection of white mice.

If the behavioral sciences are to be included in the requirements so that the student might know a number of facts, which seems to be the aim of education here, he should be given a choice, perhaps including sociology and anthropology.

The value of psychology may be challenged. Its utility, in truth, is very limited. In view of its dubious merit, it should not hold the prestigious position of an absolutely necessary general education requirement.

Is Sixth Sense Valid?

By STEVE BETTINI

Is there such a thing as a sixth sense? Dr. J. Gaither Pratt, author of "Parapsychology: An Insider's View of ESP," believes he has proven the validity of this question.

This was pointed out by Dr. Frederick C. Dommeyer, professor of philosophy, who discussed Dr. Pratt's book at Wednesday's book talk.

Dr. Pratt, a lifelong enthusiast in the field of psychic phenomena or parapsychology, bases his convictions on experiments he has performed in psychokinesis and ESP (extra sensory perception).

Psychokinesis is the term used to describe the influence the mind has over matter. Dr. Pratt claims to have made studies in this area demonstrating that certain individuals have the ability to predict dice numbers.

The study of ESP involves telepathy, clairvoyance and precognition.

Dr. Pratt feels that the significance of the discovery of parapsychology is that it is an intellectual revolution. This is because psychic events cannot be explained by the laws of physics or the orthodox sciences. Thus, Dr. Pratt reasons, there must be an extra or those sense aside from those we already perceive.

In his book, Dr. Pratt covers the development of parapsychology from its inception at Duke University in 1932 until his departure from the university in 1963.

Chemistry Talks Continue

"Second Seminar," a series of formal get-togethers in the homes of chemistry professors has been instituted by Dr. Lanny Replogle and Joseph Crook, SJS faculty members.

The get-togethers are held every two weeks. Interested faculty, graduate students and undergraduates doing research are invited.

A scientist leads the meeting's discussion in a particular field, Dr. Crook said.

The first meeting, held last month at Dr. Crook's home, featured a discussion of modern drugs, led by Dr. Ralph Fessenden, now doing research at SJS with new types of pharmaceuticals.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 22 at Dr. Fessenden's home, 3282 Mt. Everest Drive, San Jose. Robert Richardson, associate professor of chemistry will speak on "Use of Microwave in Structure Determination."

Dr. Crook emphasized the meeting's informality. "We have a cross between a lecture and seminar. The speaker is interrupted with questions and almost never finishes. We use overhead projectors and may possibly conduct experiments," he explained.

'Faculty Fireside' Signups Begin Today

Signups for this year's "Faculty Fireside" sponsored by UCCF, the Lutheran Student Association (NLC) and the Canterbury Association (E piscopal), begin today, 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., in front of the Cafeteria.

There will be booths for interested students wishing to attend the fireside Friday and Saturday to sign up and obtain information on the "Faculty Fireside," according to Bill Miller, chairman of the Faculty Fireside committee.

Faculty Fireside enables small groups of students and faculty members to become acquainted with one another. It is an attempt to break down the climate of impersonality that sometimes is felt on campus, said Rev. Mark Rutledge, campus pastor of United Church of Christ.

The Fireside will be held in the homes of Ted C. Hinckley, associate professor of history; Whitaker T. Deininger, professor of philosophy; Richard B. Elliott, assistant professor of drama; and Richard Hartesveldt, associate professor of biology and science education.

"Our purpose in creating the Faculty Fireside is in the hope that it will expand and have other groups join us in sponsoring future firesides," Miller added.

The program is intended to introduce students to faculty for the purpose of better relationships and open discussion between the two groups, said Miller.

"GOOD RESPONSE"

"We have been very successful, attracting a good percentage of the grads and a surprising number of seniors," he continued. The meetings have attracted 20-30 students and faculty so far.

Dr. Arthur Stump, assistant professor of chemistry, said the get-togethers are called "Second Seminar" because they are one answer to the formal graduate seminars held at the college. The "Second Seminar" is intended to complement the formal meeting.

"We felt there were too many limitations to the regimented graduate meeting," he said.

BETTER RAPPORT

Dr. Crook said he would like to see more interest on the part of the students and faculty for research. He said the meetings are developing a better rapport for the students who attend.

"We are trying to attract more good graduate students, build an esprit de corps, and get the undergraduates interested in research and new ideas," Dr. Crook said.

The Intellectual Approach to God

Every generation produces its scholars and students, whose keen minds lead them deeply into philosophy and religion. Books on comparative religion flood the stands, yet the Power Beyond seems untapped and remote, unavailable to man. To raise questions is one thing, to supply answers another; and today's theologians and religious philosophers have still not told us who we are or how to overcome.

But the God of the Bible is neither dead nor unapproachable, neither remote nor unavailable. To the intellectual Greeks of Athens Paul said, "The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in shrines made by man, nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all men life and breath and everything. And he made from one, every nation of men to live on all the face of the earth, having determined allotted periods and boundaries of their habitation, that they should seek God, in the hope that they might feel after him and find him. Yet he is not far from each one of us, for in him we live and move and have our being." (Acts 17:24-28)

But to a skeptical, unbelieving age and to the intellectually proud, unwilling to discover the facts of faith, the sovereign God remains far off, available only to those who come to Jesus Christ in simple, humble faith: "The word of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God... for, since, in the wisdom of God, the world did not know God through wisdom, it pleased God through the foolishness of what we preach to save those who believe. For Jews demand signs and Greeks seek wisdom, but we preach Christ crucified... Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." (I Corinthians 1:18-25)

Tired of intellectual answers which don't work and never satisfy? Why not settle for the wisdom of God and the mind of Christ, which are yours for the asking... the free gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord." Why sit on the sidelines of life with the skeptics?

ART BUCHWALD
SEX AND THE COLLEGE BOY

ART BUCHWALD?

Pictured here is the first and only record made by nationally-syndicated columnist Art Buchwald. You may or may not know of this fellow. No matter, Buchwald is either:

a) "The most comic American since Mark Twain"

b) "Nothing more than a writer of unadulterated 'rot'"

Now with that in mind, you can see why we're afraid this album could fall into the wrong hands. To prevent that possibility, we've designed the little quiz you are about to take. DO NOT DIVULGE YOUR SCORE!

	TRUE	FALSE
1) The Russians scramble every third word of Mr. Buchwald's column to confuse the C.I.A.
2) The Louvre can be run in under six minutes.
3) Arthritis is unavailable in Palm Beach, Florida.
4) The best reason for contributing to charity is getting your picture taken.
5) There is a drastic shortage of Communists in the U.S.
6) Every American city should have a resident Communist.
7) J. Edgar Hoover is a fictional character appearing in the Reader's Digest.
8) The majority of college men believe in chastity.
9) College girls don't respect boys who "give in."
10) A Harvard boy wouldn't think of "going all the way" with a girl; besides, he wouldn't even know what it meant.

SCORING: Give yourself 5 points for every TRUE; give yourself 0 for every FALSE.

INTERPRETATION: A score of 0 indicates you can't be fooled by stupid questions. Don't waste your time on Art Buchwald.

A score of 100 indicates you're sick, so sick you'd better hear Art Buchwald (right away).

Any score in between indicates "it's a little better, it's a little worse. Take the test again!"

The first movement, Allegro vivo, is in sonata form. It has two themes.

The Adagio has an outstanding oboe theme. The Allegro vivace, is the scherzo-like third movement.

The Allegro vivace finale begins with a kind of "perpetual motion" by the violins. A lyric section and subsequent develop-

"Folk songs are the songs of the people. As long as there are people, there will be folk songs," said blonde-haired Lois Fletcher, one of the seven-member folk group, The Back Porch Majority.

The group performed Wednesday night in the Men's Gym under auspices of the ASB Spartan Programs Committee. The program was the first of the "Washington Square" series.

They were really great, gang. As the lively group charged out of a little door and galloped up the stairs of the temporary stage, the whole gym-basketball-atmosphere changed.

STRUMMIN'

There was whoopin' and hollerin' and strummin'. And then a fine blend of voices and guitar and banjo chords. The Back Porch Majority. Versatility, talent, energy, POW!

The most rewarding thing to the group must have been your reaction. You proved to be a really decent audience. From my balcony vantage point, I could watch enthusiasm and group acceptance grow. At first, a few of you in the front row half-heartedly managed to slap your hands together to keep the beat. "Man, this audience is a drag. Just like "Hootenanny," I thought.

But "The Majority" really got to you, didn't they. Through brief comedy sketches you began to know these people. "Yeah, that guy Mikey, the one with the Beatle-ish hair, what a gas he is."

ENCORE

By the end of the concert the few measly claps in the front row exploded into a steady thunder from the balcony to the back row.

You dug them enough to call them back for four bows and an encore.

And you might be interested to know that The Back Porch Majority is releasing a single this week, "That's the Way It's Gonna Be." And their fourth album, "Songs of Hope," is coming out in two months. Both are on Epic Records.

THEIR MATERIAL

In an interview after the show Ellen Whalen told me that most Back Porch material is written by Randy Sparks, producer and director. "The comedy sketches just happen. We start goofing around and they grow," said Ellen.

Lois Fletcher, commenting on the group's snappy staging and motions during numbers, said, "That came about out of necessity ... to avoid getting hit with a guitar."

ARRANGEMENT

Mike Crowley arranges all the music the Back Porch Majority sings and plays. "Blue grass music has influenced me, mainly Platt and Scruggs and The Dillards. So has Bob Gibson's ragtime. I used to play jazz myself, I guess I've been influenced in that area mainly by Martin Denny."

"We broke with The New Christy Minstrels," said Mike, "because we were heading in different directions. They sang and then did a comedy skit. We work the comedy in gradually. We let personalities develop and assume a role. The role remains the same throughout the performance."

WASHINGTON SQUARE

The show was successful. The rest is up to you, ASB "Washington Square" series offers to you top-notch entertainment at really low prices ($1.50). They are bringing Theodore Bikel and George Shearing right to 'ole SJS in the not-too-distant future.

You've got something good. Now it's up to you to support it. And why not? Since when was two hours of great entertainment so hard to take?

Grad Student To Lecture

William Clune, SJS graduate student in meteorology, will speak on "Operation Deep Freeze" tomorrow night at 7:30 in E329. The lecture, open to the general public, is sponsored by the SJS chapter of the American Meteorological Society.

While in the U.S. Coast Guard, Clune took part in Operation Deep Freeze, a scientific exploration of Antarctica.

The joint international project took place in 1958-59 during the International Geophysical Year. Using a non-technical approach, Clune will show slides and describe the Antarctic area and his experiences during the expedition.

Gorelik To Review American Theater

Mordecai Gorelik, visiting professor of drama from Southern Illinois University, will lecture on "The American Theater and the American Public" Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in Concert Hall. The lecture is sponsored by the ASB Spartan Lecture Committee.

Gorelik, widely known stage designer, theater historian and director, is directing "The Dybbuk," to be produced by the SJS Drama Department in early December.

Teaching a senior and graduate seminar on "Scenic Imagination," Gorelik is the author of "New Theaters for Old," recognized as a major contribution to theater history.

Defense, Harraway's Ground Game Too Much for MSU; Spartans Win

By JEFF STOCKTON
Daily Sports Editor

A fantastic ground game led by Charley Harraway led the SJS gridders to a 25-7 victory over Montana State Saturday night before 4,100 rain-soaked fans at Spartan Stadium.

The Spartan defensive unit also played an important role in the win, allowing the Bobcats to move into SJS territory but twice during the entire contest.

It was the Spartans' fifth straight victory and the longest win streak at SJS since the 1948 squad rattled off eight consecutive victories.

Harraway, one of the 16 senior pigskinners playing their final home game for SJS, was superb as he raced for two touchdowns and snapped the Spartan single game rushing record with 227 yards in 28 carries.

The old mark of 209 yards was held by Harry Beck in 1950 against Santa Clara.

BROKE TACKLES

Harraway consistently broke would-be tackles with his powerful, high-pumping knees and kept his ground beautifully on the soggy turf.

The 232-pound fullback broke a 7-7 tie in the third quarter with a hard-nosed 32-yard scoring run around left end.

He scored the Spartans' final touchdown with a 14-yard thrust up the middle midway through the fourth period. He also had an 88-yard TD jaunt called back because of a penalty.

Montana State scored first and it was their only tally of the game. The Bobcats drove 67 yards in 10 plays the first time they had possession of the ball. A 29-yard pass from Gary Richardson to Fred Schafer went for six points and Jan Stenerud converted.

LACHAPELLE

SJS tied the contest late in the initial period when defensive half-back Rich Lachapelle intercepted a Richards aerial and returned it 28 yards for the score. Rich Tatley booted the PAT.

Soccer Crew Wins; Takes Second Place

Bob Davis scored two goals in the last quarter to give the Spartan soccer crew a 3-1 triumph over San Francisco State Saturday afternoon on the well-saturated Golden Gator turf.

The San Franciscans got their only goal in the first period when an SJS defensive man overshot a pass to goalie Frank Mangiola and it went into the Spartan net.

Leading scorer Lou Fraser pulled the SJS eleven even in the second stanza with his 10th point of the season.

The victory gives the Spartans a final NCISC record of 4-2-2, and second place in the league standings.

SJS soccermen moved above the 500 mark in the NCISC won-lost column and sewed up second place in the league standings Wednesday by edging Stanford 3-2 in Spartan Stadium.

Junior forward Kamran Souresrafi provided the winning goal late in the third quarter on a follow-up of a blocked shot. Spartan right wing Lou Diaz booted a high shot that appeared to be ticketed for the Stanford goal, but goalie Jim Gidwitz leaped up to knock it away.

Souresrafi had moved in close, however, and when the ball was batted out, he alertly moved up and headed it into the net.

The Indians drew first blood in the opening stanza on a well-placed shot by right win Tito Bianchi.

SJS scored twice in the second period to take a 2-1 halftime advantage.

Spartan Poloists Rout SFS. 16-1; Stanford Prevails

Spartan water poloists outclassed San Francisco State Friday night 16-1 in the winners' pool.

Coach Lee Walton's pool sharks were paced by the scoring of Chuck Cadigan and Ted Mathewson. Both poloists tallied three goals.

Saturday morning the water dogs traveled to Stanford for their final dual meet of the season. The Spartans, who had suffered a previous defeat to the Indians, were turned back again, 9-2.

Next Friday the SJS water poloists take a trip to Los Angeles to compete in the State College Water Polo Tournament.

kicked in the equalizing and go-ahead points, respectively.

Stanford came back to knot the score again shortly after intermission when Ken Nystrom broke away from a Spartan defenseman and drilled the ball into the corner of the goal.

The SJS defense got tough after Nystrom's goal, keeping the Indians a safe distance from the Spartan net during the remainder of the contest. Fullback Heros Esraillan and center half Hercules Mihelis were especially hard to get past.
