SJS Voters Go to Polls Today; Choose Among Five for President

SJS students continue today to voice their opinion on Vietnam policy at the same time as they elect an ASB president and four freshmen representatives.

The polls are open today between 8 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Election Board announced yesterday that approximately 2,000 votes had been cast by 2:30 p.m.

Al Peponis, board attorney, said apathy is more apparent this year than last.

By far the most popular voting booth area was the cafeteria post yesterday, running away at 3:30 p.m. with nearly 900 votes.

The San Carlos booth reported 650, the men's gym area had 350 and the bookstore counted 400 to 500 voters.

Voting booths are set up in front of the cafeteria on Seventh Street, on the corner of Seventh and San Carlos near the Education Building, in front of the bookstore and between the men's and women's gyms.

Presidential candidates listed on the ballot are Steve Betts, Earl Hansen, Harvey Loew, Vic Lee and Nick Kopke.

Bill Clark, ASB vice president, is also named but a vote for him will not count unless it is written in. Clark withdrew from the race this week.

Eight freshmen are running for the four ASB representative posts. They are Donald Bertoncin, Craig Evans, Doug Gould, Robert Roth, David Loew, Maryanne Fazio, Susan Di Carlo and Walter Moss.

Voters have five choices to express their feelings of the Vietnam war in a student opinion poll. The alternatives listed are: 1. support of the administration's current policy; 2. immediate withdrawal; 3. greater escalation; 4. immediate peace negotiations; and 5. no opinion.

Four students have been campaigning as write-in candidates under the name of Little Orphan Temple but only three are registered with the Election Board.

Clay Newman, the original Little Orphan, began his campaign about two weeks ago but has not registered with the Board. Only Paul Morey, Dick Miner and Bob Crocker are recognized by the board.

"I DIDN'T earn my right to protest, I was born with it," Donald Duncan, former Green Beret and veteran of Vietnam, stated in a speech attacking the Selective Service System, last Tuesday noon.

Open Hearing To Air Views On Campus Military Clash

An open hearing on this week's campus clash between members of the American Liberation Front (ALF) and Marine recruit sympathizers will be held today from 2 to 4 p.m. in Morris Dailey Auditorium.

The hearing was authorized by SJS Pres. Robert D. Clark yesterday following two days of demonstrations at a Marine Corps recruiting booth in the walkway between the men's and women's gyms.

Members of the ALF Monday and Tuesday protested the presence of the recruiting booth on campus. Both days fist fights ensued as ALF members marched to the booth from a Seventh Street rally, only to be met by a wall of Marine sympathizers.

Police arrested seven persons, including four SJS students, on charges of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest following Monday's demonstrations.

They also issued citations to two coeds, charging them with malicious mischief and defacing public property when they wrote on a wall with colored chalk. Authorities made no arrests Tuesday.

Discussion moderator William J. Dusel, SJS administrative vice president, said all faculty and students are invited to present their complaints and suggestions to a review panel at the hearing.

Members of the panel include Dr. Robert W. Burns, academic vice president; Dr. Lester Lange, chairman of the Academic Council; Glen Guttormsen, director of financial affairs, and Vic Lee, acting ASB president.

"On the basis of information presented at the hearing, recommendations will be prepared by the panel and presented to Dr. Clark for consideration," said Dr. Dusel.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Dr. Clark said he was "sympathetic with all those who wish to mount a platform to air their views. This is proper on a college campus."

But, he added, "I cannot accept any individual's or any group's coercion of the college to press their own beliefs at the expense of the orderly operations of the college."

Dr. Dusel said the panel would accept written statements after the forum.

Marine Society Aids Recruiters in Clash, Says Wire Service

Semper Fidelis Society is reported to be the organization behind the defense of the campus Marine recruiters, according to the Associated Press Wire Service (AP).

In a story distributed nationally yesterday, AP described the incident as a "disturbance between ALF members and a group which called itself Semper Fidelis." Semper Fidelis is a national association of Marine officers.

Although no members of Semper Fidelis were available for comment, several participants in the scuffle identified themselves as either ex-Marines or Marine Reservists.

AP stated that the source of its information was the public relations office of SJS but Jim Noah, public relations director for the college, denied giving such information. "Semper Fidelis is a campus organization but we didn't give out any information relating to the disturbances," Noah reported.

Semper Fidelis applied and received campus recognition last spring but has not yet listed an adviser with the Student Activities Office. Student Activities says the organization has not listed its officer's phone numbers with its office.

The disturbances have died down now since the recruiters have completed their tour of SJS but college officials are meeting to consider methods of calming crowds if the situation should arise again.

Initial Arguments In Gilbaugh Case To Begin Oct. 19

The case of Dr. John W. Gilbaugh vs. the California State College Board of Trustees, Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, and President Robert Clark will enter the preliminary argument stage Oct. 19 at Santa Clara County Superior Court.

Dr. Gilbaugh, ex-dean of SJS who lost his position because of the college reorganization plan in Sept. of 1966, was reassigned to a full professorship in education. He is seeking "remunerations in excess of $6,000 per annum."

Gilbaugh stated in an interview yesterday afternoon that the scheduled "Teach-Week" planned by Professors Against the War (PAW) "is going to be one of the biggest issues we've had to date."

"This flagrant misuse of funds, facilities, and class time by such groups as PAW must stop," Gilbaugh declared.

"Pres. Clark yielded to pressure from the Economics faculty, members of which went over everyone's head to persuade him directly to hire O'Connor."

"Dr. Clark is going to hear from rather high sources unless the current situation on campus is rectified," Gilbaugh concluded.

Marine Demonstrators To Plead 'Not Guilty'

By MARC NURRE
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

All seven demonstrators arrested in Monday's protest against Marines on campus will plead not guilty and ask for a jury trial, according to John Thorne, attorney for the group.

Arraignment is set for 2 p.m. Friday, instead of last Tuesday as earlier reported by the Daily.

Thorne also said efforts are being made to release Ric Hyland, an ALF member who was taken into custody for a parole violation during Tuesday's demonstration. He served two years for first degree robbery.

"He told us from the outset he was on parole," said Jim Hurst, member of the ALF. "But we didn't see any reason why that should interfere with his freedom of speech."

Hurst said Hyland showed up at the group's first meeting, two weeks from yesterday, and has been involved since then. He has helped make signs for the ROTC demonstration and was one of those who asked Donald Duncan, former Green Beret, to speak on campus before Tuesday's demonstration.

Hyland, who works for the American Federation of Teachers on campus, was picked up while observing Tuesday's actions in the capacity of a reporter for the AFT, according to Thorne.

Thorne said ALF members on campus are collecting statements from witnesses about what happened during the fracas and that a large number already have been obtained.

Ira Meltzer, one of those arrested Monday, however, said that his group is still having trouble identifying those who he claims attacked him first.

Meltzer and Hurst both said they believe the reason that Melvin Miller, chairman of the Department of Law Enforcement on campus, ordered his student officers to stay out of uniform yesterday was so that members of the ALF couldn't identify them as part of the forward wall protecting the Marines.

"The only possible reason (that uniforms weren't worn) would be so we couldn't identify them. There's no question that most of them (the Marine protectors) were police majors," said Hurst.

Thorne claims the wrong persons were arrested Monday. "All the evidence presented to me so far shows that the only mistake made was that the police arrested the wrong people—they arrested the attackers rather than the attacked," he said.

Sen. Bradley Claims Tutorials Waste Cash

State Senator Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, yesterday termed SJS's tutorials program, "a useless expenditure of state funds."

Senator Bradley said the money spent for tutorials should be used to increase faculty salaries.

Dr. Mervyn Cadwallader, tutorials center co-ordinator, said that "Senator Bradley has never talked to me, and I insist that he knows absolutely nothing about the program."

"He came here, looked at a bulletin board, snooped around and left," Dr. Cadwallader added, "I should suggest that more money could be raised to increase salaries by eliminating Senator Bradley's job, than by eliminating tutorials."

Students at the Tutorials Center said that Senator Bradley poked his head in the door, looked around briefly and then left.

"The student to staff ratio in the tutorials program is slightly higher than for the college as a whole." Dr. Cadwallader continued, "So, if the tutorials were eliminated, the students still must be taught and no money would be available for a salary increase, or even to buy more soap for the washroom!"

"We operate on the lowest possible budget. We are housed in the oldest temporary building on campus," Dr. Cadwallader concluded. Tutorials is housed in Bldg. R behind Spartan Bookstore.

Senator Bradley again said he did not like the "softness" of present administration policies toward student unrest at San Jose State. He said he would investigate the recent clashes between the ALF and pro-Marine factions.

Senator Bradley added that the ALF should be "thrown off campus" because "the ALF is not a legitimate campus organization."

He contends that the ALF is "aiding and comforting the enemy" and that it is "communist inspired."

Draft Topic At Forum

Draft resistance—pro and con—will be the topic of Friday's Open End Forum, sponsored by Tau Delta Phi, men's honorary scholastic fraternity. The forum, to begin at 7 p.m. in JC141, is a prelude to Stop the Draft Week, October 16-20.

The discussion will feature Dr. David K. Newman, associate professor of psychology. Dr. Newman, currently a member of Professors Against the War (PAW), was a center of controversy last spring when his name appeared on the House Committee on Un-American Activities subversive list.

Roger Lette, senior philosophy major, is also scheduled to appear. Lette was the center of a demonstration in October, 1965, when he threatened to burn his draft card. Lette's irate father and a tearful coed persuaded him to postpone his action after the scene had taken on "circus" atmosphere.

SJS student Steve Purdue and non-student Dennis Sweeney are also slated to speak.

Don Kirby, Forum Committee Chairman for Tau Delta Phi, has expressed concern for the inability to attract speakers for the anti-draft resistance point-of-view. Interested parties may contact him at 286-0946.

Alquist Knocks Tuition

Imposing student tuition and raising fees will tamper with the present higher education system in California, according to Senator Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose.

Alquist opposes changing "the present policies unless careful research reveals better ways to make college education equally available to every qualified student of the state."

The Senator is a delegate to the Joint Legislative Committee on Higher Education which will hold hearings in Los Angeles tomorrow and in San Francisco Monday on tuition and the related subject of student fees.

With tuition as a key issue, Alquist described the purpose of the hearings as a question of "how much should we be investing in higher education, who should pay for it, and what's the pay-off for the state as a whole?"

"These studies could well lead to sweeping revision in California's Master Plan for Higher Education," he said.

Instructed by the California State Legislature to report to the 1968 session on tuition, the committee, chaired by Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, has already commissioned research projects to investigate the economics of going to college from the standpoint of the student as well as the state.

"Studies are also seeking ways to measure the role of the educational investment in expanding the state's economic prosperity," said Alquist.

"The facts may show that cutting state college and university budgets is the worst kind of economic waste," he continued.

jumping the fence onto the drill field.

However, Meltzer and Hurst say they will not testify at the hearing unless the board recognized a philosophical split between them and co-defendant Steve Goldberg.

GOLDBERG'S 'PARTICIPATION'
"The only time Goldberg participated against ROTC was when he opened his mouth several hours before drill took place," proclaimed Meltzer yesterday.

"The only time he is in our ranks is when he speaks to the Spartan Daily."

They said that they don't know Alan Romero. Romero and Goldberg couldn't be reached for comment.

Anyone may attend the hearing which will be in the President's Conference Room (110 Faculty Tower Building) at 7:30 Monday night.

Academic Vice President Hobert Burns, last week, appointed the ad hoc hearing board comprised of three faculty members and two students which will conduct Monday's investigation.

The Board is charged with the responsibility to investigate the complaint and make recommendations on any disciplinary actions to Dr. Burns.

FINAL DECISION

Burns will then make the final decision on the disposition of the case.

The hearing board members are: Dr. Ted Norton, hearing board chairman and prof. of political science; Mary Gilbert, assistant professor of women's P.E.; Dr. Amnon Goldworth, associate professor of philosophy; Jules Loventhol and Robert Cerrano, graduate representatives on student council.

Dr. Norton specifically pointed out that the hearing board has no power of prosecution or requisition of people and is only acting in an advisory role to Dr. Burns.

"We are not going out looking for people to appear. The four students' names are those supplied to the Board by Vice-President Burns."

Administration officials are not talking publicly, but it is generally conceded that the reason for an ad hoc hearing board in this situation is the lack of an adequate disciplinary apparatus at this school to handle such complaints.

The administration has not announced plans to institute a change in the disciplinary procedure.

Bradley on Campus

"Hell no! We won't go!" "Marines go home!" "Marines kill people!" The shouts of American Liberation Front (ALF) members reverberated throughout the walkway between the men's and women's gym this week during two days of demonstrations against a Marine Corps recruiting booth. But above the sing-song chants of the demonstrators emerged another voice, perhaps just as frenzied but less obviously so, crying that the incident was "aiding and abetting the enemies of our country."

The voice belongs to State Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, lawyer, and lately an "observer" of the goings-on at San Jose State.

Sen. Bradley first made an appearance on campus several weeks ago at the height of campus racial tensions. At that time, he criticized SJS Pres. Robert D. Clark for cancelling the SJS-El Paso football game.

Tuesday Sen. Bradley was back on campus, labeling the ALF demonstrations a communist plot and charging that SJS is "getting a Clark Kerr type of administration." Yesterday he took a tour of the campus just to "see what's going on."

Bradley also had been interested in the 1964 Free Speech Movement at Berkeley and had supported the dismissal of U.C. Pres. Clark Kerr in 1966.

"The enemies of our country are laughing because something like this would never happen in their countries," said Sen. Bradley.

Perhaps if the senator made as diligent investigation of these "enemies" as he seems to be making here, he might discover these persons are, in fact, crying—not laughing.

They only wish they had the freedom to voice their opinions that students on this campus have and, indeed, have the right to have.

If, by Sen. Bradley's remark, he means this freedom should be revoked, then perhaps the senator should take a refresher course in just what the American way of life means. —F.M.

'PAW' Request Violates Our Freedoms'

'Students Should Be Free Of Dogma Imposition'

Editor:

I choose to discuss the Vietnam War in my classes as the course content warrants or as my own priorities and inclinations direct. To do so at the request of groups such as the Professors Against the War (with whose views I happen to agree) would violate both freedom of teaching for me and freedom of learning for students in my classes.

I do not want this group to direct my teaching decisions and practices any more than I want them directed by Max Rafferty, the United Black Students for Action, the Department of Defense, President Robert Clark or any other official or group. Nor should students be subjected to sustained indoctrination sessions on my personal position on Vietnam (even though I regard the war as a national calamity) any more than I would expect to muster their week-long attention and active support for firmly held views I might have on the legal status of marijuana, school prayers, abortion of the single tax.

Students and faculty should vigorously confront issues of public policy, but they should do so in voluntary forums as their individual judgments dictate. Students should be free from conscious faculty imposition of dogma and ideology and the classroom should be free from faculty attempts to mobilize true believers.

'Witnesses of Assault— Please Contact Us Soon'

Editor:

On Monday, when seven of our students were arrested, I observed a student who had been taken to a police car near the archway between the Men's and Women's gyms. The student was repeatedly struck in the face by an (as of yet) unidentified person who was allowed to make his assault in full view of two uniformed police officers who were standing on either side of the attacked student.

At this time, several students in the immediate area demanded that the assailant be arrested and a group of them addressed one of the officers, offering themselves as witnesses to the event, yet no arrest was made. Would those students who volunteered as witnesses at the time, or anyone else who may have witnessed this event, please contact either the ALF table on Seventh Street or John Thorne, 510 N. Third Street. Since the memory of these events will fade all too rapidly, it would be greatly appreciated if witnesses would prepare written statements of their observations. Thank you.

'Protestors Will Unite; Nothing Will Change'

Editor:

I hate to be the first to mention it, but there are some rather dull teachers and boring classes here on SJS campus.

This revelation came to mind yesterday during one of my upper-division classes when the prof fell asleep during his own lecture. Undoubtedly students will soon unite in protest over this grave (yawn) situation.

Organizations such as Bored Students of America (BSA) will most certainly spring up and it wouldn't surprise me if demonstrations took place on Seventh Street.

Naturally an ex-college professor would take the platform and tell the crowd just how bad the teacher-classroom-student situation really is. Then we could expect a march on the faculty section of the cafeteria where student sympathizers would undoubtedly form a wall of protection around teacher's dining tables.

Fist fighting should then break-out and the police would probably be called. Some coeds would start printing "Profs bore us to death" on the walls and this would cause a high SJS official to scream and rant and rave hysterically that the coeds should be arrested.

Then a right-wing senator would show up and call for stricter disciplinary action, like . . . arming campus security forces with machine guns. A reporter from the local press would no doubt exclaim beneath large headlines, "Students storm mess hall armed with knives, spoons, forks and catsup bottles."

The trouble, however, the real root of the problem, would never be treated; the real villains would never be arrested. Classes would still be boring and teachers would still be dull. And the protestors and sympathizers would all march back into the classrooms and mentally fall asleep with their profs.

'Push Open Discussions, Respect Other Opinions'

Editor:

Thanks to the ALF, three Marine Corps Officers were unable to pass out their literature, which they have the right to, to members of this campus. Also thanks to the ALF, the Marine Corps carried the day. Those officers were on campus for as long as they said they would be and they left when they said they would.

Those men behind the lines of their supporters and the police didn't lose anything; in fact, they gained a great deal. Even under siege, some people approached them trying to get information about the different programs. The Marines arrived on campus with honor and dignity and, as far as I was able to tell, they left the same way with even more honor and dignity.

The ALF, on the other hand showed themselves to be irresponsible and only brought disgrace on the Peace Movement. Force only proves who the bully is, whether he has a crew cut or long hair.

The ALF only proved that it cannot accept discussion but only supports force. Of course, words alone won't end this dirty war but neither will this form of demonstrations. The Peace Movement on campus will never grow in size and influence while dominated by this type of "militant pacifists."

The Peace Movement must find the support that it needs among those who haven't made up their minds yet. But after Monday's and Tuesday's demonstrations, I don't blame anyone for defecting from the Peace Movement or for not joining. If the Peace Movement on campus must rely on those types of demonstrations and demonstrators, it is no wonder that the ALF is and shall always be small.

So what does all this prove? It proves that the ALF is irresponsible, an organization based on force, and not representative of all those who opposed this war. The Marines from on and off campus were able to turn the situation into a victory and made the demonstration into the farce that it was without having to do anything.

To those of you who want to oppose the war, I urge you to join responsible organizations and ignore irresponsible militants. To those of you who want to support the war, I urge you to also ignore these militants whenever physically possible. I urge you both to support open discussions and to have respect for one another's opinions.

By WYNN COOK

The story goes that one day a man was walking down the street, enjoying the beautiful day and swinging his arms around freely. In the process, one of his swinging arms caught a passer-by right in the nose.

At the trial, the accused attempted to defend himself by saying, "This is a free country. I have my rights, and I should be able to swing my arms if I want."

The judge found him guilty, and reminded him, "Your right to swing your arms ended precisely where that gentleman's nose began."

The basic principal upon which freedom of thought and action in this country is based appears in that little story. And the not so little incidents which have taken place the last two days on our campus indicate that the basic freedom is being grossly abused.

No matter what shortcomings exist in America today, and there are plenty, we still have the right to think and act in any way we wish . . . as long as our thoughts and actions do not in any way infringe on the rights and comforts of our fellow men.

To be sure, the above conditions somewhat limit us in our actions. We are restricted to act only in a rational manner. We can think any way we wish, and act any way we desire within that context of rationality. It is a workable concept which definitely precludes the type of infantile activity which has marked the local campus scene this week on virtually all sides of the war issue.

Ironically, the only group that is above criticism regarding its on-campus activity is the U.S. Marine Corps recruiting team over which virtually all other segments have been in an uproar.

Members of the ALF had every right to set up a table adjacent to the military recruiting table in an attempt to enlist aid for their cause. But they didn't. It would have been a beautiful example of the democratic process to have Marines issuing literature and answering questions rationally on one side, with members of the ALF acting with equal aplomb on the other.

Instead—and maybe Mark Twain was right when he suggested that the human being is the only species which willfully tries to harm one another for no reason—a shameful chaos was the best that all concerned could manage.

Any group which persists in utilizing violent and sensational means to promote its cause should come under the harsh security of the college administration immediately. To allow any organization to overstep its basic bounds and infringe upon the rights of society in general receives a mandate to continue in that dangerous direction.

The college campus should always be a fermenting ground for the rational implementation of new ideas. It should never be allowed to degenerate into a haven for any group that feels it can get away with anything it tries.

If it can be proved that the ROTC program is hindering the thought processes of its students, it should be done. If this takes place and ROTC is found guilty as charged, it should be eliminated from the curriculum.

If the ALF is deemed responsible for overstepping its bounds and jeopardizing the welfare of the student body, then it, too, should be banished from further on-campus activity.

Where does one man's arm end and the other's nose begin around here? This had better be determined soon, or there will be more than bloody noses on this campus.

World Change Meet Spotlights Conflicts Of Southeast Asia

Causes of conflict in Southeast Asia, feelings and aspirations of Asia's peoples and the impact of West upon East are among topics to be discussed at the SJS Conference on University and World Change, Friday through Sunday. "Focus: Southeast Asia," is the theme of the conference which will be held in the Music Building. Sponsored by the National Council of Churches and the local Christian Ecumenical Council, the conference is part of the 110th Anniversary Celebration of the college.

Dr. Marshall Windmiller, director of the Institute of International Relations at San Francisco State College, will speak Friday evening on "The United States as a Problem for Asia: The Political and Economic Conditions in the Far Eastern Nations." The conference will begin at 7 p.m. with registration in Concert Hall.

Saturday morning, at 9, Dr. O. D. Corpuz, undersecretary of the Department of Education for the Republic of the Philippines will speak on "New Nationalism: Causes, Manifestations, and the Role of the Indigenous University." Dr. Robert Scalapino will follow at 1:30 p.m. with "Reaction of the U.S. government to the New Nationalism." He is a professor of political science at the University of California at Berkeley.

Escaped

MIA, a 9-month-old wolley mokey known to have bitten ten people in the last three months, is on the loose in the campus area. She escaped from her owner, senior Steve Seagrave, about a month ago. Seagrave believes the monkey slipped through a hole in her cage. Mia can be identified by a scar running the full length of her back. Anyone having information concerning the monkey can call 286-5796. Mia rests on the shoulders of junior Russ Downing.

Negroes — 'Things Haven't Changed Much' Since Dr. Clark's Discrimination Action

By LELAND POAGUE
Has there been a change in the racial atmosphere at San Jose State College? Much has been said in the two weeks since Dr. Robert Clark's decision to end discrimination at San Jose State, but a series of interviews with campus Negroes indicated that nothing has really changed.

"After the decision, people just became phony," said Negro student Monti Sweet. "Whites just flash a phony smile now, when they wouldn't have bothered before."

Spokesman for the United Black Students for Action (UBSA), said "nothing has happened. We are still as frustrated and angry now as we were Sept. 16. We are willing to give the system time," he added, "but nothing has changed."

NO CHANGES

Eric Pace, Negro social science major, felt that "everything seems the same. The changes may be there, but I haven't seen them."

A Negro coed reacted saying, "You can feel the tension. Girls are asking me if I am going to rush their sorority, even if they really don't want me to."

Most of the Negroes interviewed seemed to support the action taken by Dr. Clark. Sophomore Robert Mixon commented, "I agreed with Dr. Clark's action in cancelling the Texas Western-SJS football game. What is money if you're going to save a life?"

However, a few Negroes felt that "cancelling the game damaged the cause. We didn't get a chance to demonstrate."

LACK OF UNDERSTANDING

In reaction to the statements concerning Dr. Clark's action made by Gov. Reagan and State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, most of those interviewed felt that "Reagan and Rafferty didn't know what they were talking about."

Harry Edwards stated that the charges of appeasement leveled at Dr. Clark indicated their (Reagan and Rafferty's) lack of understanding and to some extent their incompetence." It proves, he went on to say, that "a Neanderthal in a position of power is still a Neanderthal."

The general feeling among those interviewed concerning the call by the Committee for Academic Responsibility in Education (CAR) that Dr. Clark resign was one of amusement and disgust.

Harry Edwards' comment seemed representative as he said, "I would put them (CAR) in the same bag as the rest of the nuts, along with the Wallace people, the Birchers, the bigots, and the intellectual idiots."

As far as the charge by the Greeks that they were deemed guilty until proven innocent, most of the Negroes said that the Greeks were trying to cover up.

All those questioned, including several white fraternity men, admitted that discrimination takes place.

Said Negro student Monti Sweet, "there are some things you don't do, like joining a house."

Edwards asked "How can they (the Greeks) say that after they get up in a public hearing and admit that they do discriminate."

Schools Weather Text Shortage

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of the Assembly Education Committee charged Monday that some public schools still are without textbooks because of Gov. Reagan's costing campaign.

Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, said in a news release that parents and school officials had complained to him "children are sitting in class without proper materials. The books haven't arrived."

Greene contended that the book shortages he reported arose when the Republican governor froze the hiring of new employees early this year. That, he said, left the state textbook warehouse short of help and delayed book shipment.

However, Greene's charge was denied by Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction. Rafferty called it "largely applicable. There has been a shortage of textbooks each year. Sometimes it lasts until almost Christmas time."

The state school chief said the problem "hasn't got anything to do with Gov. Reagan. The reason simply is that California, alone among all the states, insists upon printing its own textbooks. The state printing office gets behind in its work."

Fragmentation Bomb Found Near Destroyed North Vietnam Village

At first it looked like an Oriental ashtray. But Loren Thornton, 25-year-old graduate student and member of the Student Mobilization Committee of SJS, said it was much more hazardous to health than smoking.

It was really 1/800 of a fragmentation, or anti-personnel bomb. "Lazy Dog," "Butterfly Bomb," and "Cluster Bomb" are just three of the gentle-sounding names applied to a weapon that can kill anyone within a square block of its impact point.

Thornton had borrowed the little "bomb-within-a-bomb" from Philip Drath, a member of the Quaker group that delivered $10,000 worth of medical supplies to North Vietnam last April.

According to Drath, the unexploded portion of the bomb was found near the half-destroyed village of Phu Xa, located four miles north of Haiphong.

Thornton said that Drath disarmed the weapon and carried it to State Department officials in Hong Kong. They in turn asked Saigon military headquarters officials who said they "had been using them for a long time, but only against military and industrial targets."

"The significance of this," explained Thornton, "is that up until that time, Johnson and his administration had denied to the American public that fragmentation, anti-personnel bombs of this type were being used against the North Vietnamese."

"This was the only unexploded portion of the bomb which was found," Thornton said. "Over half of Phu Xa was destroyed, including the church and school. It was a simple, rice-growing, predominantly Catholic village. There were no anti-aircraft guns in the area."

Thornton met Drath Friday when the latter was conducting an off-campus showing of "The Voyage of the Phoenix," a documentary film produced by the Quakers which depicts their boat trip to North Vietnam last April to deliver the $10,000 medical supply.

The U.S. Government had tried to block the trip, but could not since there is no formal declaration of war against North Vietnam. The Viet Cong were doubtful about the Quaker mission as well because they feared it was a spy expedition from America.

The play won both the Pulitzer prize and the New York Critics Award, when it was first staged in New York.

Sig Ep Pledges "Bag" An Active For Trip To L.A.

"Good evening ladies and gentlemen, welcome aboard PSA flight 64 for Los Angeles . . . for your information and ease the vagrant seated in the last row is a San Jose State student who has been "bagged" by his fraternity pledges . . ."

"After they read the story," explained Dave Alvord, member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, "the passengers and the stewardess presented me with a small donation for a cold drink."

Alvord was bagged early Friday night by his roommate and six other pledges and forced to wear a straw shirt, burlap knickers and a straw hat. Around his neck hung a sign, "I'M BAGGED."

With no money and the smell of wine reeking from his costume, Alvord stepped aboard the PSA jet which took him on his one-way trip.

Fortunately, Alvord met a Sigma Ep alumnus on board who arranged housing at the local University of Southern California chapter of the fraternity.

"At L. A. International Airport everybody thought I was a hippy and some women even sheltered their kids from me." But later that night Alvord was given clean clothes, some money and a "very nice" date by USC members of Sig Ep.

Saturday, Alvord went to the USC-Stanford game and the party that followed.

"For a free weekend it was great!" joked Alvord after his arrival here in San Jose Sunday. "I even came back with $2 in my pocket."

"BIG DADDY" Eric Nord, often called the "daddy confessor" of the North Beach beat generation in the 1950's, watches an anti-draft demonstration held this week at SJS. It's hard to tell whether his smile is one of amusement or nostalgia as he sees the young hippie generation carry on the unorthodox tradition of the North Beach "beats."

Beatniks' 'Big Daddy' Recalls His Generation

By PAT TORELLO
Campus Life Editor

What happens to most of the eccentric or off-beat members of society with the passage of time?

"They end up mowing the lawns in front of their houses on Sunday afternoon," according to Eric Nord, labeled by San Francisco newspapers as the "Big Daddy of the Beat Generation" in the 1950's. In that era Nord, 6 feet 7 inches and 350 pounds, gained recognition when he started the "Party Pad," a North Beach dwelling which attracted a number of unorthodox guests.

Nord denied, however, that there was a beat "movement" and that he was its "Big Daddy," but the newspaper label persisted.

QUIET LIFE

Nord admits he is living a much quieter life today, as are most of the persons he knew in North Beach before he left in 1959. He is now living in San Jose and working at the English Clock Pub.

Why did he leave the "beat generation" in North Beach? "I got tired of being arrested and harassed," he explains, "and became enough of a part of the establishment so that the establishment wouldn't bother me." In 1958 Nord was arrested by San Francisco police on three charges, but was found not guilty on all of them.

Nord expects members of today's hippie generation to share the same unspectacular fate as his own beat generation.

YOUNG MOVEMENTS

Unorthodox movements of Western society eventually die, says Nord, because the participants are young and think new experiences like going to jail are exciting. But with age they realize "jail is not a very nice place to be . . . even though our society might be better if more of us were willing to go to jail."

Western civilization, says Nord, puts such things as money, prestige and social position above the welfare of humanity. "You don't see any Americans immolating themselves like the monks in Vietnam."

The beat generation of the 50s, formed as a social protest movement like today's hippie generation, says Nord, "but we struck more of a balance between enjoyment and protest." And, he says, the movement then was perhaps a little more tuned to the individual.

SOCIAL WITHDRAWAL

He terms the hippie movement one of social "regression or withdrawal. It's sort of like me." In 1958 Nord was arrested

But they (the hippies) are more concerned about their fellow man than other people" and think about man's problems more.

He blasts the hippie enthusiasm for "mind expanding" drugs. Visiting Haight-Ashbury is "sad," says Nord, "like visiting San Francisco's Third and Montgomery Streets. Hippies' using drugs, to me, is as sad as a 12-year-old starting to smoke and drink."

OTHER 'TRIPS'

There are better ways of taking trips than using drugs, according to Nord. "Going camping or catching fish and cooking them is a real trip. Drinking coconut milk or organic cider is a real trip. And sex to me can be a most beautiful trip." A trip back to nature and "communal" way of life is the "only moral way to live," according to Nord. "If Christ were alive today, he would be preaching Communism."

Nord himself started a colony in 1957 on 2000 acres in Guatemala, but returned after six months. He has recently been in Hawaii and the Virgin Islands looking for a place to colonize.

But it looks as if he'll be in the San Jose "establishment for a while, working at the Pub and mowing his lawn on Sunday afternoon."

'Up With People;' Music In Answer To Demonstrators

In these days of demonstrations and riots, one group of high school and college age students is using music instead of muscle to get its message to people.

"Up With People," a group of 200 students from 43 states and 25 countries, will appear tomorrow night at 8 at O'Connor Quad, University of Santa Clara, to deliver a message they describe as "an answer to the protest movement."

The group originated in the summer of 1965 in Michigan at a youth conference on moral rearmament. According to Pam Fiaschetti, a current member, the students felt they could accomplish more through singing than through protesting. "Instead of criticizing, the kids felt music was the way to accomplish something," stated Miss Fiaschetti.

The 31 original tunes in their two-hour program cover everything from folk and rock to patriotic and show tunes, according to Miss Fiaschetti.

Some of the songs they will sing include "Which Way America," "Don't Stand Still," "The World is Your Hometown," and "The Ride of Paul Revere."

The original cast of 130 members has grown into three casts comprising more than 600 members plus more than 10,000 members in local sing out groups.

The streets of Harlem, Carnegie Hall, Constitution Hall and Expo 67 are a few of the places the group toured this summer. They will tour the southwest after their appearance tomorrow night.

The members, who give up as much as a year of their schooling, join for a variety of reasons. "But my reason is quite simple," said Miss Fiaschetti. "I saw responsible leadership in the group and realized that the members lived up to what they sang about."

Tickets at a discount may be purchased at the gate by students with a student body card.

Team Signups For Coed Golf

There will be a planning meeting this afternoon at 4 for all women interested in joining the women's extramural golf team, according to Dr. June McCann, adviser for the sport.

Some matches scheduled this year include ones with Stanford, San Francisco State and Sacramento State College.

The meeting will be held in WG142. Those who cannot attend should leave their name, address and phone number in PER119.

Dent Near Perfect

Spartan Harrier—'Coachable Athlete'

By GARY BENJAMIN
Daily Sports Writer

Darold Dent is a coach's dream.

He may not run the 100 yard dash in nine seconds flat or broad jump 28 feet, but to cross country coach Ted Banks, "He's a very coachable athlete."

After mapping out plans for an upcoming cross country meet, Spartan ace Dent "follows the instructions well," Banks clarified. "He's a very unassuming person."

The junior penology major possesses two strong attributes which Banks feels makes him a very fine runner.

"He is a very dedicated athlete," he explained. "This last summer he held down two jobs—putting in 70 hours a week—and still trained. He always finds time to run even if it's at 10 or 11 p.m."

EFFECT ON TEAM

"Secondly, he is a good competitor. He doesn't like to get beat—in anything. He has a burning desire to be good."

Banks expressed that this desire to win has an effect on the rest of the squad. "It makes a teammate feel good to look up ahead and see your man in the lead."

Dent has been in the lead since he came to SJS this fall. With the loss of All-American Bruce Lowery, Dent stepped in and took over.

In Long Beach three weeks ago Dent set a meet record in winning individual honors at the Invitational meet.

After being nosed out for first place by two seconds against the Athens Athletic Club two Saturdays ago, he led the Spartans to a first place in the Sacramento Invitational last weekend.

SPORT SCHOLARSHIP

The 25-year-old former Nebraskan went to junior college in Pasadena and was under Banks' tutelage there. Banks was instrumental in bringing Dent with him to SJS, getting the Spartan a scholarship.

While at PCC Dent set school records in the mile and two mile and a pending 5,000 meter national JC mark of 14:30.

But Dent feels more at home in the longer runs of three, four and six miles and the marathon of 26 miles.

He likes running so much that while in the Marine Corps, stationed in Okinawa, he set the unofficial world's record for the 100 mile run.

Dent ran the distance in 16 hours, 42 minutes and 48 seconds, a good four hours better than the previously claimed record.

He says though, he doesn't plan to do it again.

TRAINING FOR OLYMPICS

Although Dent hasn't competed in the 10,000 meter run, steeplechase or marathon run, he would like to compete in one of these categories at the Olympic tryouts next year.

"I am in a long-range training program right now which will lead up to the Olympics," Dent explained. "After cross country I'll do inside running during the winter, then in the spring and summer, track."

"Dent will do better in the longer runs," Banks points out. "He's not as fast as the milers but spreads a killing pace over a distance race. He'll probably do well in the 10,000 meters."

Right now Dent has one goal in sight—the cross country championships at Laramie, Wyoming and Gerry Lindgren.

HARD TIME FOR LINDGREN

"I hope to give Lindgren a hard time," Dent expressed. Lindgren will be going for his third consecutive cross country title and eighth NCAA championship. "Somebody has to stop him."

The harriers competing in the championships will be battling the elements, too. The altitude at Laramie is 7,000 feet and the race will be run Nov. 20.

The weather won't bother Dent, though. "One time in Nebraska I got up at six in the morning to run. It was six degrees below zero outside."

Concerning the altitude, Dent surmised, "The other runners will have the same problems, too. It'll be a test of who is in the best shape."

Dent is a real dedicated Spartan harrier. Besides all the training and school, he has to support a wife and four kids.

Booters Rip Hayward, 9-1; Camacho Leads Scoring

Someone finally scored against the SJS soccer team but the Spartans managed to win their third straight game of the season by trouncing the Cal at Hayward Pioneers 9-1 last night.

Little inside right Henry Camacho made Spartan Stadium come alive by scoring five goals in the contest.

Center forward Ed Storch added three scores to make the game a runaway.

Goalie Rod Mora, who took over for Frank Magiolo in the second half, got credit for a point in the third quarter when a Pioneer player accidentally scored on his own goalie.

FIRST SCORE

The Pioneers got the first score off SJS this season with 7:30 to go in the third period when Manouchehr Kayhoor booted one that rebounded off Storch and snuck into the Spartan goal before Mora had a chance to reach.

Playing fine defensive games were Luis Mintegui, Art Romwinckel, and Jean-Paul Canabou. Canabou saved a possible score in the second quarter by diving into the goal and stopping a slow-rolling ball.

At halftime the score was 7-0 for the Spartans but the game got sloppy in the second half.

MANY OFFSIDES

"There were many offsidess against us because Storch, who took Camacho's place, kept jumping the gun," said head coach Julie Menendez.

"We slowed down in the second half but everybody got a chance to play," Menendez said.

Camacho left the game in the fourth period when he suffered a muscle cramp chasing a ball but according to Menendez the injury "shouldn't be too serious."

In the JV game, College of San Mateo beat SJS 6-2. Manuel Hernandez scored both goals for the Spartans.

High Score Foreseen In Spartan-Buff Game

Defense may well become a forgotten word Saturday evening when the Spartan gridgers tangle with West Texas State at Canyon, Texas.

Both clubs have offenses that are capable of crossing the goal line numerous times and from anywhere on the gridiron.

Also, the defenses have been far from stingy. West Texas was scored upon at will by Montana State and Utah State, but by averaging 30 points per game they have won three of four.

The Spartans have been less fortunate, giving up 27 at Arizona State and 28 at Stanford and losing both contests. Forty-four of these points came in the second half, as the Spartans have had trouble stopping fourth quarter rallies.

BALANCED ATTACK

"We think we can score against them as their secondary has been in trouble in all of their four games," SJS Coach Harry Anderson said. "But first we must stop an attack that is well-balanced, but most of all—explosive," he added.

The Buffs are loaded with talented pass receivers and two bruising runners. "Roy Winters their quarterback is only an adequate passer, but they have two receivers that can catch anything close and are also tremendous runners after making a catch," Anderson said.

The receivers Anderson is speaking of are Dave Szymakowski and Dan Andrews. Szymakowski is being pushed for All-American honors and the 6-3, 195 pound senior may make it if he continues his present pace.

THREE TD's

He caught nine aeriels for 202 yards and three TD's in his first three games. He scored on catches of 63 and 37 yards and averaged 22.5 per catch.

Andrews, 6-1, 212 pounder, has superior speed according to Spartan assistant coach who scouted the Buff's game with Colorado State last Saturday.

But the Buffaloes' real power comes from backs Duane Thomas and Eugene Morris. Morris is second only to USC's O. J. Simpson in NCAA rushing. He has rambled for 557 yards on only 78 carries for a 7.1 average.

Thomas, a 6-2, 215 pound sophomore running from the fullback spot, is ninth in rushing with 394 yards. He is a powerful runner and scored on 16 and 61 yard bursts against Colorado.

New Wineskin Features More Quiet Than Coffee

By GINA TRAEGER
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

New students of SJS should be aware of available off-campus facilities for recreation, relaxation and when absolutely necessary, for studying.

These students already may know about Jonah's Wail, coffee house in the Campus Ministry basement, 10th and San Carlos Streets, but they may not know about a similar meeting place just down the street. It also has a colorful name—The New Wineskin.

Located in the basement of the Grace Baptist Church, 10th and San Fernando Sts., the Wineskin along with the Wail is open to all students regardless of faith, and shares sponsorship as part of the "coffee house ministry" established during the past year by eight Christian campus ministries.

The Wail, which consists of one large room with a kitchen, concrete floor, and facilities for live entertainment, fits the image of a coffee house. The Wineskin, instead, has a modern atmosphere with padded furniture and shiny tables in its front room plus several other rooms where a student can hide away. The Wineskin has a kitchen, too, as well as vending machines, pool and ping pong tables.

The two centers overlap yet remain distinctive in their usefulness to the campus population. Both stress the importance of conversation and fellowship. However, if a student has to work on a term paper, or go over history notes with a classmate, he might go to the Wineskin, whereas on a Friday night, he might drop by the Wail to see who's speaking, singing, or reciting poetry.

Rev. Thornton said the New Wineskin "reflects a new approach by the church service for the whole campus community. The Church is seeking to relate to the student in his environment instead of protecting him by sheltering him in the church."

Both the Wineskin and the Wail compliment each other in this purpose, without rivalry. "We don't want to repeat the same old mistakes where denominations compete," said Rev. Hoch. "There is plenty of need for two places—even more."

Heavenly Valley Chosen As Winter Carnival Site

Heavenly Valley, Lake Tahoe, has been chosen as the site of this year's Winter Carnival, according to Kathy Eddins carnival chairman.

Heavenly Valley submitted the low bid of a $5 per day lift price. Squaw Valley also bid for the site of the Jan. 28-Feb. 1 ski vacation. "We think it will cost about $52 for the entire 5-day carnival including housing, meals, lifts and dances. Other services will be available at additional cost," said Miss Eddins.

A special, low-cost ski lesson program will be one of the additional services. For $1 per day, SJS students can take 1-hour lessons from some of the area's top skiers.

Other discounted services will include ski and skate rentals. Special rates as low as fifty cents will be in effect for skate rentals during the ASB sponsored program.

The carnival will be held over the semester break.
