Anti-War Week

Student Strike Planned To Protest Viet Conflict

The National Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC) is planning a week of anti-war demonstrations and a one-day student strike.

Two representatives from A.S. council, Ron Harbeck and Addie Insel, attended a national SMC conference held in Cleveland Feb. 13-15. The plan for the strike was adopted at that time. It calls for April 13-18 to be a week of "anti-war action," with an "international student strike," on April 15.

The SJS chapter of SMC is tentatively planning to hold panel discussions on the Vietnam war on April 13 and 14. However, no definite plans have been made.

The SMC meets each Thursday night in the College Union (C.U.) at 7:30.

Regarding the tentative April 15 strike, the regional SMC office in San Francisco has issued a statement saying, "On that day an international student strike will take place shutting down high school and college campuses and turning them into engines of anti-war activities which will feed into massive city-wide demonstrations across the country."

The SJS SMC will be discussing the "anti-war week" during their meeting this Thursday. They will make definite plans for the proposed week of protest during their next two or three meetings.

For any other information about the SMC, students are urged to visit the informational booth on Seventh Street.

Anti-war activities have slowed down on the SJS campus since the Oct. 15 Convocation and the Nov. 8 march on City Hall. The SMC is hoping for all-out student effort to make the April 15 strike an effective protest.

A.S. Council Must Okay Appointments

Five council members will be appointed, with the approval of Associated Student (A.S.) Council, at today's meeting at 3:30 p.m. in the council chambers of the College Union.

Council members will also vote on the $2500 special allocation request for five four-page supplements to the Spartan Daily written by Third World Students. Other allocation requests from Reed Magazine and the SJS Marching Band will also be considered. A request for underwriting of the B.B. King concert to be held in May will be submitted to council.

A report will be given on Dr. Eldred Rutherford's firing.

Faculty Faces Rutherford Issue

State College Graduate Named To Fill Board of Trustees Spot

A Fresno State College graduate, Phillip V. Sanchez, has become the first graduate of the 19-campus state college system ever to be appointed to the State College Board of Trustees.

Gov. Reagan named Sanchez, the Fresno County administrator, and Robert A. Hornby, retired president of Pacific Lighting Inc., to seats on the Board Monday. They succeed James F. Thacher of San Francisco whose term has expired and Earl M. Jorgenson of Los Angeles who has retired.

Sanchez, 40, has four children and has served as Fresno County administrator since 1963. In that year he was named one of the ten outstanding young men in the country by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has worked with Boy Scouts of America and Junior Achievement.

Hornby, 69, has been a member of the California Coordinating Council for Higher Education. He is a member of both state and national councils on economic education and serves as a consulting professor and lecturer in the University of Southern California School of Business Administration. In addition, he is a USC trustee.

A past president and director of the California Chamber of Commerce, Hornby has also been involved in the San Francisco Opera Association and the San Francisco Foreign Relations Commission.

Sanchez lives at 1015 E. Alluvial, Fresno and Hornby lives at 435 S. Curson West, Los Angeles.

Both men are Republicans and will serve eight-year terms, according to the governor's press office. These two appointments bring to seven the number of positions filled by Gov. Reagan. He has also reappointed an eighth member, Trustee Daniel Ridder, originally a Pat Brown appointee. The appointments are effective as of March 1. The positions pay necessary expenses.

Meeting To Hear Actions Taken And Voice Views

A general faculty meeting sponsored by Academic Council will be held today at 3:30 p.m. in the College Union, Loma Prieta Ball Room.

Acting President Robert Burns, Chairman of the Academic Council George Muench, and Dr. Rex Burbank are included in the panel presiding over the meeting.

According to Charles Larsen, academic senator, there are two purposes for holding the meeting; to enable the faculty to hear reports of action taken and proposed by the Academic Council and other groups on the recent firing of Dr. Eldred Rutherford by Chancellor Dumke, and to provide an opportunity for faculty members to contribute their views on what Academic Council has done about this situation.

PETITION APPROVAL

Also, at the general faculty meeting members of the faculty will be asked to approve a petition submitted by the Academic Council against Dumke's action.

An A.S. sponsored student meeting will be held in Morris Dailey Auditorium Thursday. Students will be asked to sign up for work in the campaign against Dumke's action. Furthermore, students will be asked to sign a petition written by the student organization leaders of SJS.

A.S. President James Edwards will speak on the firing of Rutherford at the Dining Commons of the new high-rise dorm at 8:30 tonight. Edward's speech is sponsored by the dorm presidents and is open to all interested students, according to A.S. Personnel Selection Officer Randy Kern.

DUMKE CHALLENGED

According to Charles Larsen of the Academic Liaison Committee, a representative from SJS will confront the State College Board of Trustees meeting of March 24 and 25 to answer Dumke's recent letter to the Academic Senate.

Dr. Rex Burbank is presently compiling a document concerning the history of Dr. Rutherford and his actions leading to his firing. This document will be presented to the Chancellor.

'Pig' Bill Introduced

A bill which would make calling a police officer "a pig or any other insulting or threatening name" a crime was introduced in the State Senate yesterday by Sen. George Deukmejian.

The Republican Attorney General candidate's measure would make the crime punishable by up to a $500 fine and six months in the county jail.

East Side Park Project

Community Involvement Increases

By STAN SCOVELL
Daily Staff Writer

Although the tentative date for the start of work on the Community Park Project is April 3, the enthusiastic response already received by the program has exceeded the expectations of Jim Self, president of Manpower Administration Club, the project's sponsor.

Numerous donations have already been received by business firms which have endorsed the program's concept of "creating interaction among different cultural and ethnic groups on a project of community concern."

The park will be located on the East Side of San Jose between Jackson and Capitol at the intersection of Story and Galahad roads.

The park, when completed, will provide recreational facilities for a low income urban area that is composed of approximately 70 per cent minority families.

"The park," Self points out, "is a tool of involvement and communication between the community, college, and political factions."

Although this "grass roots level" method of community involvement has been tried on the East Coast, it has not attained the magnitude of the park project. The San Francisco Examiner already has run a series on the project and Time, Life, Look and Sunset magazines have expressed an interest in the completed story.

While much of the labor will be supplied by the students and neighbors of the proposed park site, Self has turned to the business community for materials and contributions.

Receptive PG&E officials leased the park site to the city and have volunteered to design and install the lighting features.

The small business establishments readily agreed to provide materials and installation. One minority construction company has offered to provide a bulldozer and will aid in shaping the park's contour.

The Council of 110, an organization created three years ago by former SJS President Robert D. Clark to establish rapport between the college and business communities, has already made several contributions.

The project has received the endorsement of the Mayor's Office, Acting President Robert Burns, the Model Cities Program of San Jose, and the San Jose Park and Recreation District. Much of the labor for the project has been volunteered by the neighbors and from students of Goss Elementary School, across the street from the park.

"The enthusiasm for the park," asserts Self, "can be attributed to the fact that this is a park for the people. It is a unique experiment in community involvement."

bombarded the nation with a barrage of anti-DDT propaganda which is remarkably untruthful and misleading."

He quickly added that "Scientists who are thoroughly familiar with the facts could scarcely believe that anyone would take such accusations seriously. For 25 years DDT has been a great benefactor of mankind, and it seems incredible that anyone could deliberately seek to deprive us of this remarkable ally in our fight against death, disease and starvation."

"After all, we thought there were such things as motherhood, patriotism, and DDT that simply did not need defending, at least, not until recently."

In his defense of the chemical, Dr. Edwards criticized certain segments of the press for printing "sensational and unfounded stories" regarding the use of DDT.

DISCOUNTED

"Statements by the chief toxicologist for the U.S. Public Health Service and by the chief of toxicology for the Food and Drug Administration were entirely discounted by many news media, but an assistant professor of chemistry, who never had a course in ecology, soon became recognized as a leading authority on toxicology, nutrition and ecology," Dr. Edwards noted.

He said that the testimony of leading cancer specialists has often been discounted by the media, in favor of unfounded charges by non-medical men that DDT may cause cancer.

"Cancer has steadily declined ever since the advent of DDT, except for lung cancer, of course, and no cancer has been caused among the hundreds of employees in the huge DDT factory in California during more than 20 years of massive exposure," he added.

Dr. Edwards also answers charges by those who say that DDT does not break down in the environment.

"Many official agencies regularly analyze our soil, air, and water, and the majority of samples contain no trace of DDT, even in the Columbia River and the Mississippi and its tributaries," Dr. Edwards noted. "The latter rivers drain some of the most heavily-sprayed fields in the world."

TESTS MISLEADING

Befogged Demagogues

A.S. Council, befogged with demagoguery and afflicted with nearsightedness, has assaulted the free press on campus.

Council's brief foray into censorship was wisely waylaid by A.S. President James Edwards, but the ultimate solution has not been reached.

Both the Daily and council have problems, but they will not be solved by suppression. Rather, they require solid decisions.

The following three-point program is a beginning:

—Funds for scholarships for minority students in journalism.

—A strengthening of a publications board on campus.

—The cutting of financial binds on the Daily by instituting a separate subscription fund on the ASB card, lowering the A.S. fees by a like amount, and directly channeling Daily advertising funds back to the Daily.

The institution of such a program would benefit the Daily by adding racial and ethnic balance to the staff, and by removing council's controls on the press.

But council would also benefit. The new plan could reduce council's financial support of the Daily.

Under the present system, the A.S., through council, financially supports the Daily through an appropriation. Council pays the bills, and Daily advertising revenue is channeled, through the Student Affairs Business Office, into the A.S. general fund.

Subsequently, if the Daily ad staff were to falter, it would not affect publication, and the A.S. could be stuck with a higher bill.

Under the proposed system, the Daily would receive a set amount (enough to start the year on), and the burden for continuing would rest upon the ad revenue.

The system is an efficient and equitable one. It deserves a chance. Council can set it in motion today.

A Rather Dubious 'Good'?

Projecting into the future, it can be seen that perhaps one rather dubious "good" came out of the recent Board of Regents decision to impose tuition on the students of the University of California. To see the benefits, however, one has to relate the effects in terms that big businessmen, cost-effect experts, and even Ronald Reagan understand.

That is, for those who can pay the price, students will now be able to demand — not ask — demand a good and fair "product" in return for their pound of flesh paid out. They can demand relevant courses, they can demand smaller classes and qualified instructors, and, as consumers, they can demand more participation in "product" selection — or curriculum.

When tuition hits the state colleges next, these demands will be hard, if not impossible, to meet.

Rhetorical 'Name Calling'

By STEVE SWENSON

Shame on you, enraged Tom McCune, for criticizing "The Press." Have you not learned that we in the Press are beyond criticism? We always get the last word in.

But you didn't criticize; you called us names. Oh, so clever of you. When you haven't got any facts to support your case, name calling is such a beautiful, well-thought-out cover-up because you can get people to agree with you even though you don't have an issue. What more convenient way is there when you don't know what you're talking about than to call the Spartan Daily names?

DEGRADING OPENING

Look at how degrading your opening sentence is. You called us critics of minority groups in their fight for justice and equality. Wow, that's cool. Everybody's for the minority, justice and equality, and you say the Spartan Daily is against that. It doesn't matter that it's not true (the Daily has supported the grape boycott, it has gone out of its way to give the Third World five four-page supplements to explain their feelings), what matters is that without facts you have portrayed the Daily as an oppressor.

But Tom, baby, you go on in splendor. You associate us with "descendants of slave masters, who murdered millions of Blacks." Moving right along you also call us "bloodied sons of Pioneers" who not only butchered Indians but contemplated genocide.

GENOCIDE CONTEMPLATORS

I don't want you to think you blew it there, Tom. Of course, your disregard for the facts that we are the sons and daughters of our mothers in the 20th century and the Daily repeatedly has called for all minority groups to work together has nothing to do with your goal of trying to make people hate the Daily.

Personally, Mr. Tom, baby, don't accuse me of something either my forebearers did, or anyone else for that matter. I feel no guilt or shame or even the vaguest association with anything anyone else did other than myself. And when you talk about racism and call me names, beware. . . .

You said that we are controlled by the old establishment press. Pure poppycock (sense the syllables). We are a student-run newspaper. The students determine the stories, write the editorials, edit the copy, take the pictures and take the credit or blame for anything that's printed. We check with our advisers only on style, grammar, libel and obscenity. The Spartan Daily is the students speaking. Tom, so don't give us an "establishment" label.

WARM GLOW INSIDE

Now, Tom, your letter was not completely critical of the Daily. You said that 1) you won't support our "distorted" press (although we are the first to concede that you are much better at distorting things than we are) and 2) the Daily is out of tune with the rest of the student body (presumably that includes yourself). Please don't flatter us. Just knowing that you don't agree with us gives us a warm glow inside.

You enlightened us with the proverb of the general population, "Never believe what you read in the newspaper." I read your article in the newspaper and let me tell you, I don't believe it.

Lastly, you said that you were no master or fool. The libel laws forbid me to tell you what I think you are. Please do not feel hurt if we of the Daily don't listen to you. It's only because you have nothing to say.

"We haven't laid a hand on him . . . !"

Further 'Political Interference'

By LES FRANCIS

Candidate 25th Assembly District

Political interference into affairs of our public institutions of higher education continues unabated. The latest has taken place at San Jose State College.

Chancellor Glenn Dumke, in a virtually unprecedented move, has decided to fire an SJS faculty member. Dr. E. E. Rutherford has been notified of his dismissal by the Chancellor despite the fact that such action has not been recommended by any college agency or administrator involved in matters of faculty retention. The chancellor's action is in direct violation of all recognized principles of academic due process. As a member of the faculty at San Jose State, and a candidate for the state legislature, I feel I have a responsibility to speak out in defense of due process and to denounce the Chancellor's action as ill-advised and inappropriate.

Just as importantly, I feel I have a responsibility as a candidate for public office to make my position on this matter perfectly clear:

1) The central issues in the current crisis should not be Dr. Rutherford, his political beliefs or organizational activities. Rather, it should be the preservation and adherence to, the principle of due process.

2) Interference by elected public officials into the affairs of our State College and University is the cause of much campus unrest. Politicians, including the Governor of the state — no matter who that might be — should not serve on the Board of Trustees or Board of Regents.

3) No matter what the provocation, no matter how ill-advised administrative decisions might be, the academic community — faculty and students — must not resort to violence. Not only is violence behavior illegal and abhorrent, it usually is counterproductive.

In conclusion, I reiterate my opposition to the decision by Chancellor Dumke to dismiss Dr. Rutherford. I also call upon the members of the academic community and the citizens of San Jose to resist any temptation to violence. Instead, let us work between now and November to rid the Legislative and Executive branches of those who create and profit by crises such as this!

'Crude Power Play'

Editor:

Since I have been enrolled at SJS (two years), I have never seen a more ridiculous hassle than the present one, over the so-called "racist" ad in the Spartan Daily last week. It is obvious from the very insignificance of the real issue (and the overreaction to it) that those who believe they represent the Chicanos are in reality using the mistake as a lever in the implementation of a crudely executed power play. The concept of such an uproar over a simple, stereotyped cartoon is reminiscent of the type of thinking in Joseph Heller's "Catch 22."

Surely, indignation over the cartoon may be expected and should be expected. But the childish antics of the "Daily Destroyers" and the A.S. Council suggest ulterior motives and cretin minds. I ask for reason to prevail; let the Chicanos involved not attempt to attack the maker of the cartoon but attack the society which knowingly perpetuates such stereotypes. It is obvious the Daily did not.

'Ludicrous Reading'

Editor:

Monday's front-page article concerning ROTC "instructors" (of how to kill) having to notify Santa Clara County residents of their military sons' deaths was just about the most absurd, ludicrous thing I have ever read. First of all, the authors state that "protests against the war have gone out of fashion." This is so far from the truth. Resistance organizations exist all over the country, nationwide mobilizations against the war are currently being planned, applicants for CO's are many, draft-dodgers are leaving the country, and so on.

However, what really sickened me about the article was this: First, it was stated that "some of the families . . . actually apologize for the job that the ROTC has to do." The presupposition that this implies is that war is a natural part of human relations and that ROTC's duty is to train men to fight in these wars. Of course then it is a terribly sad duty in turn, to inform families of their dead sons. Far too many people accept as fact that wars must go on.

Secondly, Maj. Goo was quoted as saying that "we are trying to take a more humanistic approach . . ." in relating deaths to families. This is an amazing contradiction in that he is in the business of training men to destroy human life and then he says he is humanistic.

I say the only way the military could be humanistic is for it to dissolve.

'Our Highest Priority'

Editor:

Dr. Ron Hunt sent me a copy of your Feb. 11 editorial, "Less Scars From SCARS." I appreciate your comments, and hope that an improved computer registration will be available soon. I posted a copy of your editorial so that all of our staff are reminded that improved systems frequently directly benefit students.

Incidentally, SCARS lives. A significantly revised registration system has been programmed which we feel will give improved student schedules. This system is being tested using preferences given to us by students from San Fernando Valley State College. After system tests are completed, the software will be available to the college campus desiring it.

I appreciated your editorial. Such comments give an improved registration system our highest priority.

Violence Is Unwarranted

By GARY PIERCE

"Violence does even justice unjustly." These words apply just as much today as they did when English author Thomas Carlyle first wrote them a century ago.

They carry a special meaning in light of the recent violent demonstrations at the University of California at Santa Barbara (UCSB).

The students who took to the streets of the UCSB community of Isla Vista are not to be idolized for their actions, but rather should be subjected to severe criticism.

Their acts of destruction brought in the police who were greeted with showers of rocks. Many serious injuries resulted among both demonstrators and police.

It is no wonder that the police reacted in the brutal manner in which they did. One UCSB student said last week, "The pigs were picking up the rocks that the people were throwing at them and throwing them back at the people."

The probable fact of the matter is that both the UCSB students who participated in the violence, and the police department, were guilty of many dubious acts of overt violence.

Two UCSB students who spoke at SJS last Thursday claimed that students who were arrested during the disturbances have received inhuman treatment in the hands of the police department.

Such overriding of authority by our police departments can not be tolerated. No matter how much provocation they were given by demonstrators, the police cease to be the public interest organization they are meant to be when they begin acting as judge, jury, and executioner as the UCSB students claim they have.

Another aspect of this question is the position of the Bank of America.

Two weeks ago the demonstrators burned down the Bank's $250,000 Isla Vista Branch. They claimed that the Bank represented a large corporation which was exploiting "the people."

A full page ad which appeared in newspapers all over the country last Friday (including this one) gave the Bank of America's response to this action.

The ad attacked violence as a means of bringing about change. Obviously a large organization like the Bank of America stands the most to lose in anarchy so they, naturally, are going to take this position.

However, although the advertisement was somewhat overdramatic, I concur with the Bank's criticism of the violent tactics used by UCSB demonstrators.

The only thing that UCSB students succeeded in doing by their violence was to anger a great many Americans who, through other means, might have been convinced to see the students' point of view.

Medina Charged in Massacre

Compiled from Associated Press

Captain Ernest L. Medina was one of five soldiers added to the list of men accused in the alleged massacre at My Lai.

Medina, former commanding officer of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., was charged with three counts, one of maiming and murder, one of murder, and one of assault with a deadly weapon.

The murder counts are connected with the sweep through My Lai March 16, 1968 and the assault charge stems from an incident the following day.

Others charged were, Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc, two counts of murder and one of assault; S. Sgt. Kenneth L. Hodges, one count of rape and one of assault to commit murder; Pvt. Max D. Hutson, one count of rape, one of murder, and one of assault with intent to commit murder; and Sgt. Esequiel Torres, two charges of murder and one of intent to commit murder.

The five charged now face investigation to determine whether they will be brought before a court-martial for prosecution.

Bomb Fails

President S. I. Hayakawa's office at San Francisco State College was the site of an attempted bombing Monday night. The bomb failed to explode.

A spokesman at the college said two custodians saw a hole in a ground floor window of the office and found a broken beer bottle with an unlit wick. The chemical contents of the bottle were on the office rug.

Beneath the broken window was a painted sign which said "Free Bobby Seale."

Innocent Pleas

Innocent pleas were filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco yesterday by ten Alameda County sheriff's deputies and two former deputies to charges of violating civil rights in firing shotguns, and mistreating arrested persons during the Berkeley People's Park riot last May.

Unruh Charge

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jesse Unruh told a news conference in Sacramento yesterday, just hours before Gov. Reagan was to go on television to announce his plans for re-election.

Third World Needs Copy

Any Chicano, Black, Oriental or American Indian students who would like to submit articles, photographs, art work or poetry to be published in the Third World Supplement may turn their work in to the secretary in the Associated Student Offices on the third floor of the Student Union or contact Vicki Hernandez at the Spartan Daily office.

Articles should be no longer than three typed pages.

tion, that Reagan was "a standstill governor."

Unruh claimed the college situation has gotten worse, taxes have risen, crime has worsened, unemployment has increased, and welfare case loads are up 40 percent.

Unruh stated he did "not intend to be a standstill governor," and he is "confident that I can do better."

Combat Pay

Hostile fire pay of $65 per month has been paid to U.S. military personnel in Laos since Jan. 1, 1966, the Pentagon disclosed Tuesday.

Although synonymous with combat pay, the allotments have been called hostile fire pay because Laos has not been designated a "combat zone."

Car Bomb

An associate of militant H. Rap Brown and another unidentified Black man were killed Tuesday when an explosive destroyed their car as it traveled on U.S. 1 south of Bel Air, Md.

The second man, who apparently took the force of the explosion, had his hands blown off, making fingerprint identification impossible, but following conjecture that it was Brown a state medical examiner announced a tentative finding, based on photographs, that it was not.

The other man was identified as Ralph Featherstone, a former Brown associate in the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Marines Counsel Future Receipts

The Marines will be landing on SJS soil. They are going to send their Officer Selection Team to SJS to interview prospective officer candidates.

The Marines won't be the first armed forces branch to set foot on the SJS campus. And the results of their visit won't set any firsts either.

The Marines are scheduled to visit SJS on March 16 and 17. They plan to outline Marine Corps aviation and front line officer plans.

Major E. O. Le Roy and Captain R. R. Bowen plan to discuss the different programs students can take. The programs offer training in the summer only, at two different six-week instruction periods. And there will be no military classes or drills during the school year. The candidate would be commissioned at his graduation and would then pursue advance training as either a ground or aviation officer.

College seniors or graduates may also apply for a commission under either the Officer Candidate Course or the Aviation Officer Candidate Course.

If you're interested in being a front line officer or an aviation officer in the Marines, further information will be available in Barracks 6, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Social Work Interviews

Marshall Colston, professor of social work at Sacramento State College, will be on campus Friday, March 13, 9:30-4:30 in the Conference Room of the Placement Center. He will interview minority students interested in a two-year program for a Masters in Social Work. There is a possibility of financial aid.

Students interested in the program may sign up in the Placement Center before March 13.

Capitol Newsman To Speak Today Before Audiences

Walter Ridder, Washington Bureau Chief for the Ridder Publications, will be at SJS, speaking to college students and, in particular, journalism students today, and tomorrow.

Before a college-wide audience, Ridder will speak today, 2:30-4 p.m. and tomorrow, 2-3:30 p.m. in JC 141.

Ridder will address journalism students today 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and tomorrow, 10-11:20 a.m. in the Spartan Daily News Room.

Culminating his visit to SJS, Ridder will be the featured speaker at Deadline Dinner, to be held in the Loma Prieta Room in the College Union, tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Seventh St. Fire? No!

There was no fire on Seventh Street yesterday.

Students who may have seen a fire engine or heard its siren yesterday afternoon can rest easy. The San Jose Fire Department (SJFD) fire engine was on campus to instruct a home economics class.

Home economics 170 is a class in the "observation and participation in the guidance of young children." Students from the class look after, and observe the behavior of 16 4-5-year-old children.

In cooperation with the Home Economics Department, firemen were on campus to demonstrate to the children what fire fighting is all about.

Robert Delgado, SJFD Public Relations Officer, spoke to the children on the needs for fire safety. He then showed the children the individual equipment worn by each fireman. According to Miss Marie Abersold, the class instructor, "He talks to the children in a very positive way so that they are not frightened about fire."

In conclusion, Delgado demonstrated to the children the various functions of the fire engine.

Students from the class observed the children's reaction to the firemen. Their observations make up part of their class work.

Students Participate as 'Neutral' Country at Model United Nations

By FRED HEMPY
Daily Staff Writer

Imagine being perfectly neutral. Impossible? Fourteen SJS students will take the role of Yugoslavia in the 18th session of the Model United Nations (MUN) to be held April 15-18 at the University of Oregon. They will try to duplicate Yugoslavia's non-alignment position in the Soviet Bloc.

The MUN project is part of a class (Pol. Sci. 180) designed to "bring world affairs in focus with the student," according to Pete Tsepeleff, chairman of the SJS delegation. In addition, the course offers diplomatic experience for our "future ambassadors."

Eighteen schools were represented in the pre-convention "workshop" held at Sacramento State College. Yugoslavia (SJS) was author or co-author of every resolution passed, including resolutions restricting military use of seabeds and the halt of Apartheid, the extreme segregation predominant in South Africa.

Certain resolutions passed in the MUN are sometimes brought to the U.N. General Assembly, such as the Apartheid resolution. Educational and medical aid was given to African nations following a resolution by MUN a few years ago.

At the workshop the countries broke up into committees designed to offer solutions to political, social, and economic problems of the world. Each of the committees then elected a representative to act as spokesman for them in the General Assembly.

Angie Brooks, president of the U.N. General Assembly from Nigeria, will be the key speaker at the Far West MUN.

MEC Recruits Minorities For Fall MBA Program

SJS's School of Business Minority Enrollment Committee (MEC) is recruiting minority students interested in entering into the Masters Degree in Business Administration (MBA) program in the Fall 1970 semester.

Negotiations are being completed by the MEC for the sponsorship of two Black and two Mexican-American students in the School of Business' MBA program.

Interested seniors in all majors with a 2.75 GPA in upper division work and an AB degree by the Fall '70 semester are urged to contact Fred Jackson at 287-3327 or Toby Solarzano at 289-9665.

Scholarship money and employment on and off campus are in the offing for the candidates selected by the screening panel

Of the $1,450 needed to make the trip, $1,000 has been allocated. The remainder must be raised by no later than April 5.

Tsepeleff says of the MUN class, "It's a tremendous learning experience. You actually become the country you represent."

of the MEC. The screening panel is composed of minority students and faculty in the MBA program.

The SJS MBA program is listed as the top priority of the MEC whose purpose is "To recruit minority students (particularly Black and Mexican-American) to study either a graduate or undergraduate program in the School of Business."

The MEC recently held a seminar on "Minorities and Industry" in the Ununhum Room of the College Union. Resource people for the seminar included Otis L. Courtney of SRI and other members of the college and business communities.

Today's Book Talk Reviews 'The Whole Earth Catalogue'

"The Whole Earth's Catalogue" will be the topic of today's Book Talk at 12:30 p.m. in the College Union Ununhum Room.

Dr. John Roche of New College will review the book, which he calls "a commentary that offers access to the tools of a new culture — the culture of the young."

Faculty Book talks are held every Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.

Caruthers' Extra Training Secret to 17-Foot Vaulting

By LANE WALLACE
 Daily Sports Writer

When Olympic gold medalist Bob Seagren was beaten in the pole vault at the All-American indoor Games Jan. 3 in San Francisco, it came as a surprise to most track fans.

One of the few not surprised was the man who beat him — Sam Caruthers of SJS.

Since being elected SJS team co-captain last September, Caruthers has been training harder than before, a factor he and coach Bud Winter think has been the reason for his success.

Caruthers, whose best vault was 16-6 outdoors last year, vaulted 17-0 to beat Seagren Jan. 3. Since then he has cleared 17 feet indoors six times and beaten Seagren twice more.

"Sam has more speed than last year," says Winter. Caruthers feels the increased speed he has gained through extra training has helped his vaulting, as well as his ability in the hurdles.

Caruthers says his being team captain "inspired me." However, Sam's performance against Stanford Feb. 28 must have inspired other Spartan track athletes.

The night before the meet Caruthers was in New York for the Amateur Athletic Indoor Championships and missed his plane because of the length of the competition. He caught a late plane, arriving in San Jose at 1 p.m. without sleep. He arrived at Stanford Stadium at 1:30 and won the pole vault at 15-6, beating teammate Bob Slover and Olympian Casey Carrigan of Stanford.

Caruthers first tried 17-0 outdoors this year last Saturday at Spartan track. Sam hit the bar on his first attempt, but it stayed up and he had the best outdoor vault in the country this year.

"Caruthers could be the first man to go 18 feet," noted Winter. Sam thinks he can make the magic barrier, although he says "I don't know when."

Although the pole vault is his best event, Caruthers is a fine hurdler and has high jumped this year. His best time in the hurdles is 13.9, but Sam feels he can get down to 13.7. Although he did not high jump last year, Caruthers has taken on the added burden this year.

Caruthers, who has participated in decathlon competition in the past two years, plans to work on it later in the season. His best score was 6797 in 1968. The world record is 8417. Says Winter of his multi-talented athlete: "He can be one of the greatest athletes in the country this year."

SJS Judokas Ready For Cal, AAU Meets

When SJS loses a judo match, a little bit of history is made. The Spartans have collected eight consecutive National Collegiate Athletic Association championships and never lose a dual match, or tournament.

Well, hardly ever. Coach Yosh Uchida's judokas suffered their first loss in years Saturday in the AAU Brown Belt tournament, dropping the team title to the Island Judo and Jujitsu Club, 14-11.

But coach Uchida and his squad are pointing toward Saturday's Senior AAU Championships in Spartan Gym which serves as qualifying for the National Collegiate Championships at Michigan State in early April. "The loss means nothing," Uchida explained. The Spartans used freshmen and brown belts and undoubtedly could have won the title by using their best.

Spartans Paul Wulf (heavy-weight) and Jim Ewald (176) took individual titles while SJS 139-pounder Mike Thibodeau added a third-place.

The Spartans warm up for Saturday's big tourney with a dual-match against University of California tonight.

Action gets underway at 7 p.m. in the SJS wrestling room. Saturday's Senior AAU championships will attract junior colleges, colleges and universities from throughout California and the Pacific Coast.

"This is the most important tournament of the season," coach Uchida observed. "The first three finishers in each weight division qualify for the nationals, so we'll use our best individuals."

Prior to the nationals, April 4, the Spartan judokas face Cal State Hayward April 1 and conclude their season with a promotional tourney on April 25.

Linksters Hole Fifth

SJS' undefeated golf team kept its unblemished record intact Monday by drubbing University of San Francisco, 24½ to 2½ at San Jose Country Club.

Jerry Vroom's linksters go after their sixth consecutive win Friday at the same location, facing Fresno State College, their toughest test to date.

The Bulldogs captured third place in last weekend's Los Angeles State Invitational, seven strokes ahead of SJS' total of 925.

Fresno also placed ahead of the Spartans in the partners championships, taking a second with a 440 total. SJS was four back at 444, good for third.

Kelly Moser again paced the Spartans in their win over USF with an 18-hole total of 69. Other scores for SJS were: Steve Bohn 80, John Adams 73, Glen Woodruff 80, Steve Hakes 79 and Jim West 72.

Upcoming action for the SJS linksters include dates against Willamette University, March 16; San Diego State, March 19; the Fresno State Golf Classic, March 20-21 and Cal State Los Angeles, March 23.

Times Have Changed Even Horror Movies

By MIKE NOLAN
Daily Investigative Writer

Remember, when you were younger, attending those fantastic horror and science-fiction movies — double and often triple bills? For a dime or maybe a quarter?

They featured such intriguing characters as Dracula, Frankenstein, the Mummy and the Thing and monsters like the Blob, the Giant Gila Monster, the Killer Shrews, the Spider, and even his cousin, the Tarantula.

Times have changed — and so have horror films. Now they cost $1.50.

Blood and guts — real guts — have become more prominent and the story lines a bit different, in line with the more sophisticated tastes of today's audiences.

Having little of significance to do one evening, this reviewer sat through three of the latest gems in the monsters and murder field — "Dracula Has Risen from the Grave," "Frankenstein Must Be Destroyed," and "Kiss and Kill."

BLOOD-FILLED

Though horror films have not been produced in much quantity since their prime days in the late 1950s and early 1960s, these three contained enough blood to make up for lost time.

Ten or 15 years ago, the horror was more implied than actually shown. That, definitely, isn't the case now.

And while the heroes have departed to be replaced by anti-heroes or non-heroes, even the villains have picked up new tricks.

Remember how a stake driven through the heart would readily kill a nasty vampire like Dracula, in the old days?

Not the new Dracula. When a stake was driven through this one's heart, he merely writhed through an appropriate gallon or two of blood before finally wrenching the stake free and returning to his coffin for a little R & R.

CONVENIENT CROSS

No, it took a solid gold cross, conveniently stuck into the ground in just the right spot, to kill Dracula when the ravished lady's boyfriend pushed him off the ramp of Castle Perilous. A 50-foot fall onto the cross did the trick — and the audience saw every gory minute of it.

In the old days the monster would be whipped by the hero.

CUPB Dance Friday Night

Bobby Stevens, formerly of the Checkmates Ltd., will be featured in a dance Friday, March 13, in the College Union Ballroom.

Stevens and his orchestra will play from 9 to 1 p.m. and will include such hits as "Sweet Caroline," "Baby I Need Your Lovin'," "Lone Bones," "Games People Play," "I Have a Dream" and "Someday We'll Be Together" in the show.

The veteran performer started singing 20 years ago and was with the Checkmates for the past 10 of those years.

An added attraction for the dance will be a dance contest which will begin at 11:30 p.m. A $25 prize will be given to the best dancing couple.

Admission to the dance, sponsored by the College Union Program Board, is $1.50 for SJS students and $2 for all others.

Now, everybody dies and nobody wins or loses, it seems, or at least that's what happened in the new version of Frankenstein. Five people, not counting the monster, died in one great blood-and-fire closing scene.

And, of course, these days they couldn't let a movie about Frankenstein pass without actual scenes of cutting into brains, stealing hearts, chopping off hands and heads, ad nauseum.

MYSTERIOUS FLUID

The best part of the entire movie came when some joker yelled "about a quart low" when the good doctor Frankenstein was drilling — yes, drilling — into the brain of some poor unfortunate, and trying to siphon some sort of mysterious fluid.

And in "Kiss and Kill" that old baddie, Fu Manchu, wearing a Fu Manchu mustache yet, returned for the umpteenth time to threaten the world. Returning with him was a bevy of three-quarter naked girls being whipped every few moments in a dark cave.

All told, it was quite an educational experience — especially when the films were rated "M."

Love — now, that rates an "X." After all, what could be worse for our youngsters than showing them some of the more sordid aspects of life?

SPARTAN DAILY—5

'Paint Your Wagon' Is A Humorous History

By JOHN ROONEY
Special to the Daily

The California Gold Rush is a colorful, vibrant part of American history. Producer and writer Alan Jay Lerner's film adaptation of "Paint Your Wagon" captures the lively, humorous, chaotic mood of the Mother Lode country.

The movie version of Lerner and Loewe's 1951 musical stars Lee Marvin as the rough, intoxicated miner, Ben Rumson, Marvin's quiet, sentimental friend, Pardner, is played by Clint Eastwood.

They have settled in the womanless mining town of No Name City, a mess of tents, mud, gambling and drinking.

HAPPY TRIANGLE

Excitement reaches a frenzy when a Mormon traveling through with two wives sells one to the highest bidder, Ben Rumson, who marries his purchase, Elizabeth (Jean Seberg). She is in love with both Ben and Pardner. To resolve this dilemma, all three decide to live together in matrimony.

This happy state of affairs is broken up by puritanical newcomers, especially after Ben introduces a lad in this group to all the popular local vices, which now includes the lively attractions of a mining camp hotel.

The theme of "Paint Your Wagon" is freedom. The miners cannot tolerate authority or civilization.

The plot of Lerner's production offers little in the way of suspense or involvement. The audience can assume that Elizabeth will not maintain two husbands.

GAUDY SETS

The real source of the film's magic lies in its gaudy, extravagant musical numbers and sets. Paramount spent $20 million and operated for a production period of six months.

A $2 million Gold Rush city was constructed in the Oregon wilderness on hydraulic machinery so it would collapse for the movie's finale.

A production staff of 800 built the sets and turned out 7000 costumes. They made everything themselves — including 80 wagons and 1500 whiskey glasses. Conductor and composer Andre Previn wrote music for the additional songs the movie required.

Harve Presnell, who qualifies as the only genuine singer among the leads, was given only a walk-on part plus one song, "They Call the Wind Maria." It is the most famous of the musical numbers.

CAN'T SING

Lee Marvin makes no pretense on his lack of singing ability, but he adds a characterization that would be impossible for most professional vocalists.

Clint Eastwood manages his songs well considering he has no real experience in the musical field. "I Still See Eliza" was romantic and fit well with the character development of his part.

The best number by far in the film is "There's a Coach Comin' In." It represents a well coordinated effort of music, action and scenery to dazzle the audience.

Even with its drawbacks, Lerner's film adaptation comes off as a humorous and enjoyable production.

Auditions

Auditions for the Los Gatos-Saratoga Community Theatre production of "Carnival" will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 30 and 31, in the Saratoga Civic Theatre, 13777 Fruitdale Ave., Saratoga. Auditions will start at 7 p.m.

Parts are open for men and women of all ages, singers and non-singers. A particular need is present for specialty acts such as jugglers, acrobats, magicians, sword swallows, puppeteers and musicians of all types.

The play will be directed by Mrs. Megan Davidson. Anyone interested in acting as rehearsal pianist is advised to call 356-8855 or 241-4833.

Theater Review

A 'Doggie in the Brig'

Does "Doggie in the Brig" sound like a play which requires this explanation from the Drama Department, "The brutality and language are appropriate to the play but may be offensive to some people. The play is not recommended for children."

Whether it does or not, the author of the drama, William R. Craig, SJS graduate student who received his B.A. in Radio and TV here, suggests that anybody who might get "squeamish" not attend.

Current holder of the Samuel S. Schubert Playwriting Fellowship, Craig said that the story is essentially about an Army enlisted man who goes AWOL and spends three days in a Marine Corps brig.

Craig pointed out that the drama focuses on the confrontation "to stop playing the military trigger-finger game against an institution whose whole function is to destroy the spirit in man." Craig's theme is that "total power defines its own reality."

One of Craig's pet worries is that he "finds it absurd that following WWII the population of the United States became horrified over the atrocities in the Dachau and Treblinka concentration camps, while at the same time keeping institutions that do to the spirit what those camps did to the bodies. And I might add that both situations took place in the name of patriotism."

Married with three children, Craig, 31, wrote the drama last semester. He claimed that he had one problem with the play, "Writing which has to do with the actual situation of the brig." Craig explained, "it has to be toned down in the beginning to be climactic at the end."

Craig pointed out that he had to develop a "profanity scale." The words which a nun might say in anger are at the bottom of the scale which progresses in emotional content to words which are commonplace among truck-drivers.

The production will be staged in the Studio Theatre opening next Wednesday and repeated Thursday night at 8:15. The Theatre Box Office will be open 1 to 3 p.m. next Tuesday to Thursday and admission will be 50 cents.

We can best introduce you to Ortho by saying that here, medicine and science meet to promote better maternal and feminine health, as well as necessary conception control. Ortho is the only company offering a complete choice of medically accepted methods of birth control and gynecologic drugs. From Ortho Diagnostics have come many important reagents for identifying blood antibodies, for hemoglobinometry and coagulation testing; slide tests for pregnancy and infectious mononucleosis and such life preservatives as Pap stains for cancer detection and the recently-introduced globulin for prevention of Rh hemolytic disease of babies.

As a sales representative of Ortho, you'll be welcomed by pharmacists, doctors and top hospital personnel. And because they need our products for their patients, you'll find that being a salesman is more like being part of the medical team. And therefore, doubly rewarding.

At Ortho, your material rewards are much above average: a top starting salary; a car for business; and personal use; a full package of benefits, which includes a liberal retirement income program, plus free stock of our parent company, Johnson & Johnson, for those who qualify.

How far can you go at Ortho? 49 former salesmen can tell you—they are now in top executive or management levels—starting with the Chairman of the Board!

We start you off with the finest on-the-job and in-plant training—at full pay.
