

District judge reduces NAACP bond, overrules picket and boycott ruling

By Marion Whittaker
U.S. District Court Judge Orma Smith recently reduced a $1.56 million National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) bond to $100,000 and overruled a Mississippi court ruling forbidding the NAACP from future picketing and boycotting in that state, according to Henry Gage, president of the San Jose chapter of the NAACP.

Smith said for the Mississippi court to make this kind of ruling would infringe on the organization's constitutional rights and cause irreparable damage, according to Gage.

"The district court ruling prohibits collection of the judgment during the NAACP appeal. It also prohibits Mississippi from enforcing the 125 per cent bond they originally imposed," said Gage.

Twelve Mississippi merchants were awarded $1.2 million in damages allegedly suffered by an illegal secondary boycott in 1967, staged by the NAACP and area blacks to focus attention on their demands for jobs and changes in local government.

Post bond
Under a Mississippi state law, a loser wanting to appeal must post a bond covering the judgment and court costs, which for the NAACP was $1.56 million. They had a deadline of Sept. 30 to raise the money. "We collected nearly $800,000 and borrowed $1 million, $800,000 from the AFL-CIO and $200,000 from church organizations and individuals," Gage said.

"The money we borrowed will be paid back, but we still have outstanding fees. We've paid $100,000 to the federal court of which we must leave on account, $500,000 for the appeal process and $262,000 from a February case also pending in Mississippi. Our chapters are still in the process of collecting money to defray these costs," he continued.

While the $1.56 million was being raised, the NAACP was simultaneously using three other avenues.

Request denied
"One was to approach the local judge who initiated the judgment, with the request of reducing the bond and extending the time limit," Gage said. It was denied.

"We also had attorneys in the Supreme Court of Mississippi making the same request. The court asked for a day or two to make up its mind.

"At the same time we approached the U.S. District Court. They put a temporary restraint on the lower court order. This delayed their collecting from the NAACP.

"The order was heard on Oct. 18, at which time we were given relief," Gage added. "The court said it was unfair to have an organization like the NAACP tie up such a large amount of money for an indefinite period of time."

It is estimated the money will be tied up for three to five years. This could have led to the financial destruction of the organization.

Funding quest
Gage noted in their quest for funds they had approached both the Ford and Rockefeller foundations for financial help and were turned down.

"These are both tax-exempt organizations, so to me it seems they were interested in the NAACP going out of business, which would have been the case if that large sum of money was frozen," he said.

Job fair looks at careers

Karen Stewart (l) explains to students some information concerning job placement. She is one of the Career Planning and Placement staff who participated in yesterday's Job Round-Up held in the Student Union. Various booths were set-up to provide students with information concerning career paths and job opportunities. Among those career interests covered by the center were on-campus interviews for business, industry and government job openings; co-operative education; a job listing service for part and full-time jobs; information on credentials for prospective teachers; a booth for working women, humanities and arts career information and a general information booth. The event was called "very successful" by director Gladys Rohe.

Matsumoto featured on piano tonight

SJSU student Paul Matsumoto will be the featured soloist this evening in a performance of Peter Illich Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1 in B-flat minor.

Dr. Vernon Read, professor of music, will direct the SJSU Symphony Orchestra in tonight's performance at 8:15 in the Music Building Concert Hall. There is no charge for admission.

Also scheduled on tonight's program are the Symphony No. 8 in B minor (the "Unfinished") by Franz Schubert.

Recycle centers face funds cut if selective

BERKELEY (AP) — Two recycling centers which adopted a "selective trash" policy to promote a boycott of Gallo and Coors products are in danger of losing their city funding, a center organizer said Monday.

The Community Conservation Collective, which runs the centers, decided six weeks ago not to accept Coors and Gallo containers in support of a boycott by the United Farm Workers and other organizations, said Pamela Belchamber.

Belchamber, speaking for the collective, said the boycott was an "educational" effort to provide the public more than just an "alternative" garbage can.

"We want to draw people's attention to what they're buying," she said.

She said the group was notified Oct. 19 by the city's public works department

Mayor proposes new bill Porno law to be discussed

The Inter City Council (ICC) on a request by San Jose Mayor Janet Gray Hayes, will discuss an ordinance which would prohibit more than one pornography establishment in any 1,000-foot radius.

In a letter received by the Santa Clara County Planning Commission at its meeting Thursday, Hayes suggested the ordinance be made county-wide so porno theaters and other adult entertainment facilities could not be concentrated in areas in the county where the ordinance was not in effect.

Proposal referred
The planning commission referred the proposal to the ICC for study.

Planners raised doubts whether the county's unincorporated areas, the only territory over which the commission has planning jurisdiction, has a problem with pornography facilities.

Several planners said the major problem is in downtown San Jose, not in county territory.

The city of San Jose is preparing an ordinance similar to one the county is considering.

The proposed city ordinance outlaws the "establishment of any adult book store, adult motion picture theater, adult cabaret, public card room, public dance hall, massage parlor or fortune-telling establishment within 1,000 feet of any other such uses."

Building restricted
Also, the ordinance prevents sex-oriented businesses from being built within 500 feet of any residential zone.

The ordinance is based on the "Detroit Plan" law, which the U.S. Supreme Court approved as constitutional on a 5-4 vote.

In a recent memo to the planning commission, Planning Director Roy Cameron reported that "the urban planners and real estate experts had found that the location of several such 'adult' movie theaters in the same neighborhood tended to attract an undesirable quantity and quality of transients, adversely affected property values, caused an increase in crime, especially prostitution, and encouraged residents and businesses to move elsewhere."

Bank official first guest at seminar

James P. Miscoll, senior vice president of Bank of America's San Jose-Central Coast Region, will be the guest of a day-long seminar as the first in a "Distinguished Bay Area Business Executive" series November 11 in the SJSU School of Business.

In addition to meeting with business classes, Miscoll will appear at a special coffee and informal gathering of students from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of the Business Classroom building.

Miscoll, who will be on campus from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., also will participate in a moderated question-and-answer panel in the Faculty Lounge from 2:15-3:15 p.m.

Booters edge Titans in overtime

By Jamie Rozzi
Easy Perez pulled his fifth hat trick of the season and Steve Ryan scored a pair of goals to lead the nationally sixth-ranked SJSU soccer team to a 5-4 overtime win over Cal State Fullerton Sunday.

The Spartans, now 9-2-0, scored the winning goal four minutes into the overtime period when Ryan drove his eighth goal of the year past the Titan goalie.

SJSU handed the 1975 NCAA quarterfinalists their fifth loss in 12 outings before 1200 fans in the Santa Ana Bowl.

Titan forward Juan Carrillo sent the game into overtime on a goal with 1:30 left to play in the game.

"They're one of the better teams we've played," Spartan head coach Julie Menendez said. "I'd rank them just behind USF (University of San Francisco)."

The defending Southern California Pacific Soccer Conference champions Titans, who tied USF earlier this season, were beaten by the Dons 3-2 in the NCAA quarterfinals last December. The Titans reached the quarterfinals after beating Colorado State 1-0 Dec. 4 in the opening round of the Far West regionals.

Perez, the nations leading scorer a year ago with 23 goals, scored his 19th, 20th and 21st goals of the season.

The Spartans, first in the Far West last week, have dropped to second on the charts this week following their 3-2 loss to UC Santa Barbara last Tuesday.

Hayward, second last week and undefeated on the season, have scooted into the poll position on the Far West charts.

The Spartans will tune up for their next league game Friday against Stanford tonight when they face the first place team in the Southern Conference of the Peninsula Soccer League, San Jose Lobos, in an 8 p.m., Municipal Stadium, exhibition tilt.

The Lobos (2-0-0) walloped the San Jose Tiger Oct. 17, 4-0 and demolished arch rivals San Jose Grenadiers 5-1 Sunday.

The Lobos will be led by Laurie Calloway and Terry Weekes of the San Jose Earthquakes, John Smillie, ex-Spartan all-American presently with the Portland Timbers and Tony Suffle of the defunct Denver Dynamos.

Weekes from the University of Santa Clara was the Earthquakes first round draft choice this year.

SJSU forward Ed Avakian attempts to halt the drive of a San Francisco Greek American while Steve Ryan (left) comes to his aid. SJSU tied the Greeks 2-2, Oct. 15. Ryan scored the winning goal for the Spartans in their 5-4 overtime win against Cal State-Fullerton, Sunday. In that game, Easy Perez scored his 19th, 20th and 21st goals of the season. Perez, who led the nation in scoring as a freshman last season with 23 goals, is again on top of the nation's scoring charts.

Poloists win two in a row; then lose to Gauchos

Ron L. Coverson

SJSU's water polo crew journeyed south this past weekend, and returned home with their best road results this season, defeating Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Claremont College, before losing to UC Santa Barbara on Saturday.

"The guys really played up to par this weekend, and if not for getting in foul trouble against UC Santa Barbara we might have swept all three games," assistant coach Shone Azarfar said.

"The way we're improving is right on line with being at peak readiness when we play Fresno State this week."

Battle Bulldogs

The Spartan aquamen will engage in a key league confrontation with the Bulldogs Thursday at West Valley College.

Last Thursday, however, it was the Mustangs from Cal Poly, SLO that the Spartans faced, and for the majority of the contest, it was a virtual war between two evenly matched teams.

Jumping out to a 4-2 lead midway through the game, the Spartans never trailed the Mustangs, but a late Cal Poly rally sent the game into overtime with both teams tied at 7-7.

However, Al Lavayen's scoring bursts and goalie Rick Graham's defensive work, gave the Spartans a hard fought 9-8 victory in a game that was controlled by only one official, because the other one failed to show up.

High Scoring

In a wild, high scoring affair at Claremont College Friday, SJSU had little trouble executing their offensive game plan, as they drove and scored almost at will against the hapless Stags defense.

However, the Spartan defensive efforts were not much better, as they also had trouble stopping Claremont's offensive thrusts.

Rich Taylor '76

There were a total of 29 goals scored in a contest that the Spartans managed to control in the final quarter, taking a close 15-14 decision from a "scrappy bunch of players."

"I think offensively, Claremont is comparable to UC Santa Barbara," Azarfar stated.

"We should have controlled them a little better, but I feel our offense also did a good job, and I was happy to see that."

Officiating Questioned
Saturday's game with the third ranked Gauchos from UC Santa Barbara was once again marred with controversy over the officiating, according to Azarfar.

"The officiating really got out of hand when it got to the point where we had four of our best players ejected for major fouls," Azarfar said.

In that contest, the Spartans lost Al Lavayen, Vince DeFrank, Gary Krage, and Gary Craddock to major infractions in the third quarter, and the Spartans registered 19 major fouls in all.

The Gauchos had five penalty shots in the contest which accounted for more than half of their points, as they blitzed the Spartans in the second half and won 9-3.

Sign-ups for intramural coed innertube water polo end tomorrow at 5 p.m. Sign up sheets are still available in the Student programs Office adjacent to the Spartan Pub.

Games will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday 7-9 p.m. in the Men's Pool.

"We will be playing with three men and three women on each side. You must have at least six persons on the roster in order to be eligible to play," Brenda Hyde, intramural director said.

There will be a captains meeting at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Pacheco Room of the SU.

The stickers are coming off a pair of shutouts over UC Berkeley and Hayward State last week. The scores were 6-0 and 4-0 respectively.

Teamwork key

"We have been improving steadily in each game," assistant coach Carolyn Lewis said.

Lewis noted that the key to the teams success thus far has been good teamwork.

"We are a totally strong unit in all areas. One thing that has really impressed me has been the fact that our scoring has been very well balanced," she said.

The stickers are 3-0 in league play thus far and need to maintain their winning ways as they strive for a spot in the Regional Tournament Nov. 12 and 13.

Sacramento Next

But right now Sacramento is the first order of business and Lewis expects no easy time with the Hornets.

British TV: unbiased news

The biggest difference between British and American television is there is no commentary or analysis of the news in Britain, according to Sandy Gall, a British journalist who spoke at SJSU Friday.

"Our job is to give the public news in an unbiased fashion. We do not comment. We try to elicit opinion and carry a more differing views as possible," he said to a newswriting class.

Covered wars

He said everyone can't be totally objective. "You'd have to be a sort of superman not to bring one's own prejudices with you."

Presently working for Independent Television News (ITV) in London, Gall covered the Congo War in the early '60s, the Six-Day and Yom Kippur wars in the Middle East and the Vietnam War from its inception to the fall of Saigon in 1975.

He covered the expulsion of the Asian community from Uganda in 1972, and was arrested and held without charge by the Ugandan army.

"I was there for three days. I saw a reign of terror," Gall said.

"Uganda is a vicious police state, in my view. It's wholly undemocratic leader has bent the whole country to his rule."

Justice abducted

As an example of the politics of the country, Gall noted the chief justice who criticized the government.

"He was well educated at the bar in Britain. At the legal bar, I mean. Four armed men entered the courthouse and abducted him. He was never seen again."

"It's a pretty dreadful situation. Amin rules by terror. So far nobody's assassinated him," he added. Gall said there are no journalism training schools in Britain.

British journalist Sandy Gall as he spoke Friday.

"The British Broadcasting system has its own training system for producers but the typical journalist is thrown into the deep end for training. He is trained on the spot. "It's sort of trial and error," he said.

Network competition

There are two main networks in Britain, the BBC and ITV, which Gall broadcasts for. The two networks compete with each other.

"We think our news is slightly sharper. The competition has been very good for both networks," Gall said.

ITV is the commercial network while the BBC is government supported.

Urban planning problems top of regional meeting

Students interested in environmental, urban planning and social problems are invited to attend a regional conference of urban and regional planning.

The conference, scheduled for Oct. 28 through Oct. 31, is at the Airport Marina Hotel in Burlingame. It will explore issues such as man's impact on the environment, low income housing and welfare.

Dr. Donald Rothblatt, chairman of SJSU's Urban and Regional Planning Department, will chair a session on education.

The conference is open to anyone, Rothblatt said.

Educators, professional planners and students will attend the conference as well as community interest groups, according to Rothblatt.

"The conference will also explore lifestyles," he added. "What makes up a human settlement? What is a neighborhood? Why do some neighborhoods give you a sense of friendliness?"

Rothblatt is president of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning.

news summary

Political money shifts direction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big political money, driven from the presidential election by post-Watergate reforms, is rushing in unprecedented volume into congressional races with potential for greater impact than ever.

The Federal Election Commission says there are at least 125 political committees which have given as much as $50,000 each. With the figures for some committees in the $1 million range, the over-all total and its clout is massive.

Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby, computed that as of Sept. 1 special interest groups from big labor to big business had reported contributions totaling more than $10 million.

That is twice the amount given by special interest groups to congressional candidates during the same campaign period two years ago. Dairy farmers, who had difficulty placing their money in 1974 in the wake of the milk fund scandal, have tripled their donations so far this year.

Prop. 13 promoters face disclosure suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State officials today slapped a $787,275 campaign disclosure suit against promoters of the greyhound racing initiative, only eight days before the general election.

The unprecedented suit was brought under California's Political Reform Act of 1974 "to force large, hidden amounts of campaign money into the open before an election," said Daniel Lowenstein, chairman of the Fair Political Practices Commission.

Named in the suit is George Hardie, chief sponsor of the initiative, Prop. 13 on the ballot. It would legalize greyhound racing with parimutuel wagering in California. The FPPC said it was the largest campaign disclosure suit in state history.

The suit alleges that Hardie, between Jan. 7, 1975 and last Oct. 1, collected more than $463,915 in contributions and properly reported no more than $136,684.

FPPC attorneys filed the suit in Los Angeles County Superior Court, asking damages of $327,231 for unreported campaign contributions; treble damages of $256,000 for unlawful cash expenditures, and treble damages of $74,601 for unlawful cash contributions.

Hardie could not be reached for immediate comment.

The largest single unreported campaign donation listed in the suit was $100,000 from Antilles Communications Ltd.

Smith says Rhodesia can defy guerillas

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith insisted Monday the country's whites can hold out against black guerillas and world sanctions for years if necessary.

"You know we are having great success against the terrorists guerillas," he told a news conference. "A 12- or 13-1 kill ratio." By that he meant up to 13 blacks are being killed for every white in a land where 6.4 million blacks make up 95 per cent of the population.

The Rhodesian leader's claim conflicted with Henry A. Kissinger's warning in Pretoria last month that continued black-white fighting could draw Cuban troops and Soviet advisers into the struggle as happened in Angola last year.

The American secretary of state, in the presence of South African Prime Minister John Vorster, also told Smith his regime need expect no help from Western powers if so perilous a situation should develop. An estimated 10,000-strong Cuban force, plus uncounted Soviet technicians, still are in Angola.

Notes to Condensed Statement of Financial Condition
June 30, 1976

The significant accounting policies followed by Associated Students are described below to enhance the usefulness of the financial statement to the reader:

- Accrual Basis
The condensed statement of financial condition has been prepared on the accrual basis except for depreciation accounting as explained in item 4 below.
- Fund Accounting
In order to ensure observance of limitations and restrictions placed on the use of the resources available to Associated Students, the accounts are maintained in accordance with the principles of "fund accounting". This is the procedure by which resources for various purposes are classified for accounting and reporting purposes into funds that are in accordance with activities or objectives specified. Separate accounts are maintained for each fund.
- Appropriated and Unappropriated
Within each fund group, fund balances are distinguished as appropriated for a specific purpose or unappropriated for the general purposes of the fund.
- Fixed Assets
Fixed assets are recorded as expenditures in the Plant Fund when acquired. Depreciation of fixed assets is not recognized because the objectives of the accounting system is to recognize sources and uses of resources rather than net income or loss.
