Two arrested in Pub incident

By Ken Leiser

University Police arrested two SJSU students Wednesday in connection with the incident which caused the evacuation of the Spartan Pub on Sept. 16.

The Pub was evacuated when a vial containing silicone tetrachloride was dropped on the wet floor, producing a cloud of smoke.

Gregory Allen Hamilton, 21, and Damon Keeve, 23, were booked on charges of vandalism and spilling a toxic chemical in a restaurant, said Russ Lunsford, University Police information officer.

Hamilton and Keeve surrendered at the University Police station after being contacted by police Wednesday morning. Hamilton was released on his own recognizance.

Keeve, however, was taken to San Jose County Jail after police discovered two outstanding warrants for traffic violations in San Francisco. He was unable to make bail, which was set at $1,000.

Hamilton's hearing has been set for Dec. 2 in San Jose Municipal Court.

A date for Keeve's hearing has not been confirmed.

A report on total damage has not been compiled by Spartan Shops, said Maria Arostigu, secretary to Ed Zant, Spartan Shops general manager. It should be submitted to University Police today.

Zant could not be reached for comment but has previously expressed a desire to press charges if any "malicious behavior" was involved.

The Pub was evacuated just after 6 p.m. because of noxious fumes and smoke on Sept. 16.

Witnesses at the Pub said they saw two men sitting at a corner table and that one of the two threw a glass container at the base of a table. The two men then attempted to leave the Pub when one of them was stopped on his way out by a Pub patron, which nearly caused a fight. A security guard reportedly intervened and the two were able to leave the area without further incident.

Following the incident, University Police attempted to search the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house during a party. At the time, Jim McCann, president of SAE, said the incident "has nothing to do with SAE."

Keeves and Hamilton are both members of SAE.

The San Jose Fire Department determined the smoke contained hydrochloric acid, a Class II toxin. Such toxins must be inhaled for a long period of time in order to cause bodily harm, said Fire Department Capt. Mike Burch.

The chemical reacts violently when it comes in contact with moisture, creating smoke and salt as byproducts.

Men's Center gets funds, other groups go without

By Ken Leiser

The Associated Students board of directors approved a $500 loan for the Men's Center to purchase T-shirts by an 8-3-1 vote after a heated half-hour discussion at Wednesday's meeting.

The group had received $200 for informational fliers at Monday's A.S. Special Allocations Committee meeting.

The committee is responsible for screening campus recognized groups who are requesting money from A.S.

Three groups received no funding. They were the American Society of Engineers, the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and The Society of Latino Engineers and Scientists.

Larry Dougherty, A.S. vice president disagreed with the stance of the Men's Center.

"I see a lot of things within the Men's Center changing from day to day," he said. "To this point, they haven't done anything that hasn't mocked the Women's Center."

Michalene Ghadiri, A.S. director of non-traditional minority affairs, reading from a prepared statement, expressed caution about funding the center.

"By sponsoring such an expensive joke with student money, we quickly lose our credibility as responsible campus leaders," Ghadiri said. "Students who have problems with the Women's Center should be encouraged to go directly to the staff at the center and express their views."

The audience applauded her comments.

Senator predicts fee compromise

By Jeff Barbosa

State Senator Bill Lockyer, D-Fremont, said Wednesday he believes a compromise will be reached on the question of community college funding.

Lockyer made his comments during an interview with reporters from the Spartan Daily and two other local newspapers on Fremont Cable Television.

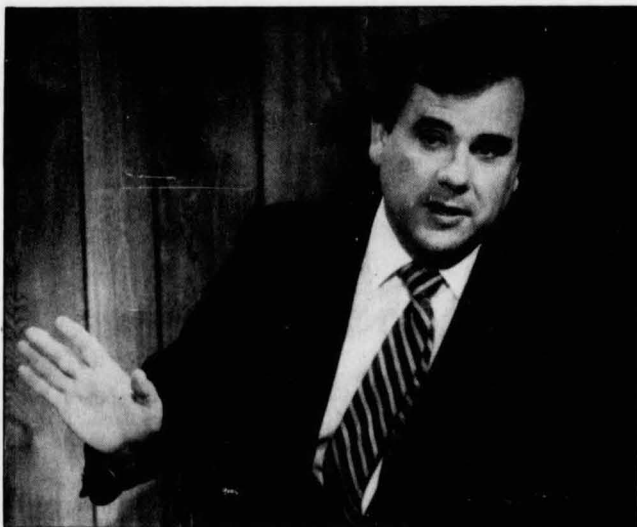

"I think the odds are that a compromise will result, but it still doesn't adequately provide funding for the community colleges," Lockyer said.

Lockyer said Gov. George Deukmejian's proposal to levy a $50 fee per semester on community college students would raise only $50 million. Combined with the $108 million the governor would give back to the community colleges if the fee is approved, it still doesn't completely restore the budget cuts.

"Budget cuts were $232 million, so there's still quite a shortfall," he said.

"I see the fees as an unfair tax increase and not appropriate for a state that has long valued a free public education," Lockyer added.

However, Lockyer said he joined his colleagues in the Senate in approving the $50 fee, in order to have the $108 million restored to the community college budget.

Mark McMasters

Senator Bill Lockyer speaks to reporters about Deukmejian's tuition proposal for community college students.

The Assembly has so far rejected imposing the fee on the community college students.

Lockyer, chairman of the Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee, also spoke out against the reapportionment process.

"I think there could be a better method. I'm having hearings this fall to explore the idea of an independent commission to take the issue out of the hands of the politicians," Lockyer said.

Although voters struck down a similar proposal, Proposition 14, last November, he believes the idea will get public support.

"I'm sure the public is tired and exhausted of the issue. It's been going on year after year," he said.

Lockyer said the present process forces legislators to spend two or three years every decade on the issue. He said the time could be better spent discussing public policies.

He said that the first nine months of the Deukmejian administration had some successes and failures.

"I think he has achieved much of what he wanted," Lockyer said.

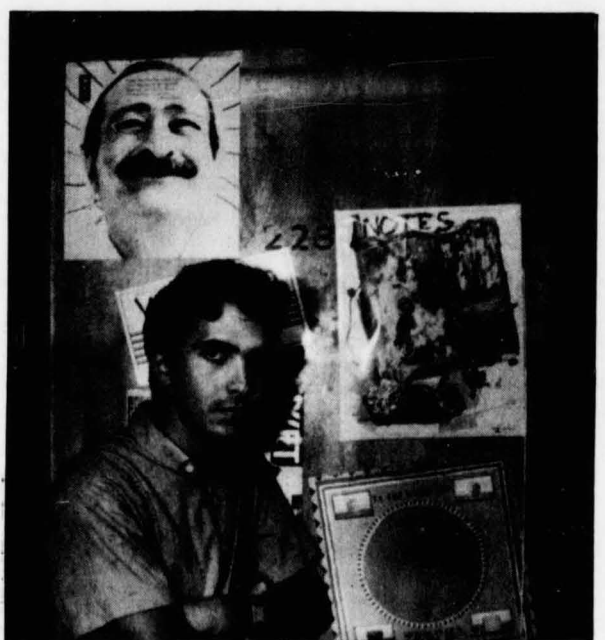

He sighted his handling of the budget deficit, closing tax loopholes, avoidance of general tax increases and gubernatorial appointments as successes, but criticized the governor for raising college fees and an unwillingness to compromise.

Lockyer said Deukmejian's predecessors, Ronald Reagan and Jerry Brown, were more willing to negotiate with opposing sides.

"He says 'This is my view. I don't care what the rest of you think. I'm going to be stubborn and rigid about this particular issue. That's my philosophy,'" Lockyer said.

"Well that's the problem. I think he must provide another form of leadership to get more done," he said.

Dorm official slams door on decorations

By Gail Taylor

Decorating their own doors may become a lost art for dormitory residents who like to go to the extremes. The extravagant doors may be a fire hazard.

In response to the possible safety hazards caused by the extreme decorations on residents' doors, a memo was passed to resident directors explaining the enforcement of a fire code policy. The memo was written by Allen Hall's resident director Steve

Willis. "In this dorm (Allen Hall), as well as in others, doors have been scorched," Willis said. "There are people who will take a cigarette lighter and start a fire at the bottom of the door."

Although small bulletin boards will still be allowed, anything found on doors that is flammable and not neatly affixed to the door must be taken down by

Blind to compete in SJSU track and field tournament

By Eric Hermstad

Blind athletes from throughout Northern and Central California will compete at SJSU next Saturday in the second annual Track and Field and Swimming Championships for the Visually Impaired.

Richard Wishnack, meet director, said the level of competition will vary according to age and the amount of visual impairment. Age categories for the meet are 10-24, 25-39, and 40 and older.

The winners of each event will be eligible to compete in the state meet for the visually impaired at Long Beach State on October 22.

"Last year some athletes ran in six and seven events and did it for the sheer enjoyment of competition," Wishnack said.

Swimming has been added for this year's competition, and will include such events as the 100-meter individual medley, 100-meter freestyle, 50-meter butterfly, and 50-meter backstroke.

Track competition will be in the 50-, 400-, 800-, 1,500- and 3,000- meter runs. Field events include the shot put, high jump, standing and running triple jump, and the one-minute jump rope.

Two well-known blind athletes, skier Mike May and marathon runner Harry Cordellas, are expected to participate.

The track and field competition will be held from 9 a.m. to noon at Bud Winter Field, located at South Tenth and Humboldt streets. The swimming championships will begin at 2 p.m. at the Spartan gymnasium pool, at Fourth and San Carlos streets.

For further information and applications, call Wishnack at (408) 267-3592.

Confessions of a chronic pacer

I am a pace addict. That's right, I am addicted to rapid to-and-fro movements across any surface I happen to be standing on.

When I lived with my sister, she worried I would wear out the carpet, so she periodically moved the furniture. This, my sister said, would ensure the safety of the shag and in turn, our security deposit.

She didn't think the landlord would look too kindly on one well-worn path, but he might not notice a criss-crossed pattern of several lighter ones. She was right. When we moved out, he thought the trailblazing I'd done was part of the original pattern.

My pocketbook thanked her, but my toes have yet to recover.

My sister's insistence on altering my pace route was particularly dangerous when I arrived home after dark. I'd enter a darkened living room and be savagely attacked by a marauding band of roving furniture.

Luckily, this only happened twice because my sister got sick of being awakened by my bloodcurdling screams. So she took to issuing me warnings of coming rearrangements.

Now I live in a house with hardwood floors. For a while, my new roommate thought there was a ghost in the house because she kept hearing footsteps at night. Curiously, the discovery that the footsteps were mine didn't please her much.

I think she was happier with her ghost theory. Ghosts, she says, are easier to get rid of because they don't usually help pay the rent.

Astute person that I am, I recognized this as a thinly veiled threat. I've been trying to curtail my night-time activity, but it hasn't been easy. In fact, it may be hopeless.

I love to pace. I need to pace. I am mentally and physically addicted to pacing.

I can spout theories that faintly resemble wisdom while my legs are moving, but make me sit still and my mind falls asleep. Usually, my body soon follows.

This is an unfortunate side effect of pace addiction. Especially for a student. When I take notes, my pen hits the edge of a page and keeps right on going. The little bit of writing it does manage to do in my notebooks is Greek to me.

I haven't taken a poll, but I don't think my teachers are pleased. There is something about talking to a student with her eyes closed that irks them a bit.

It is not that I find their lectures boring. Really. It is just that I have a low tolerance for inactivity. It puts me to sleep.

If only I could pace in class. Say, that's an idea. Let's have walking classrooms. Instead of desks, classrooms could have large conveyor belts so students could pace in place.

What's fair is fair, let's have some equality here. Teachers get to move about, so why not students?

Besides, pacing is good exercise. Especially for my mind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A complete nuclear freeze necessary, not impossible

Editor:
I am writing in regards to Todd Leroy Perreira's letter on the nuclear freeze in the Sept. 27 issue of the Daily.

I couldn't agree more with Perreira's view that our politicians need to focus on how to resolve conflict peacefully. I also agree that we all need to look for measures that will allow us to live in a world of harmony without the threat of destruction. However, his opinion that the freeze is a hopeless, idealistic cause and a "whim of wishful thinking" is mistaken.

There are certainly difficulties to be ironed out with a bilateral, verifiable nuclear freeze. These problems are mostly political. William Colby, former director of the CIA, and Herbert Scoville Jr., former deputy director of research for the CIA, both say that we have the technology for verification.

The freeze is an idealistic dream? Great changes have been made before in our society, minority's and women's rights were once an impossible dream.

Perhaps the need for a freeze should be put into perspective. With the current stockpiling of nuclear weaponry, nuclear warfare is becoming more and more imminent.

The Soviet Union and the United States are roughly balanced right now. The production of the MX missile and the deployment of the Cruise and Pershing missiles in Europe (all strike weapons) will upset the balance.

Losing that balance will create an unstable condition where either side would be much more likely to use nuclear weapons in a tense situation. The new missile will put total destructive power within eight minutes of Moscow.

Perreira, none of us will survive a nuclear war. Is that progress or insanity?

The freeze movement consists of sincere, realistic people from all ages and all walks of life. They are tired of rhetoric and rationalizations. They are horrified that a small group in power has the destructive capability to destroy civilization. I am one of these people, yet I believe deeply in the peaceful resolution of conflict. This is embodied in my belief in the freeze movement.

A nuclear freeze is a "measure that will allow us to live in a world of harmony without the threat of destruction."

Another vote on the necessity of the REC center needed

Editor:
It's interesting to note that the firm designing our wonderful new recreation center is seeking student input for the planning phase. Correct me if I'm wrong, but didn't we give our thoughts on this two years ago when we voted for the plan as proposed?

Didn't we say yes to the rock climbing wall, ski slopes, and raquetball courts?

Didn't we vote for a first class gymnasium, basketball court and aquatic facility?

Didn't we agree that $13 million, not $17 million, was a fair price to pay for this fantastic new building?

Come on, who's kidding who? The plans were approved by us some semesters ago. We voted yes for this facility as it was presented to us. It was after the affirmative vote that all the plans were downgraded and the price shot up.

What ever happened to the REC center that we approved?

Can we really afford the extra $40 a semester that this building is costing?

How can we benefit from a facility that won't be completed for several years?

Please, can we vote on this project again?

It's changed so much and has degenerated so far that it seems only fair that we have another say on it.

Let's not talk about what the REC center can have and not have, let's talk about the need for a REC center.

Global stability not enhanced by MX, Pershing missiles

Editor:
I definitely share Todd Leroy Perreira's thought on the need for a non-violent system of conflict resolution among nations (Sept. 27 letter in the Daily).

Atomization is the alternative.

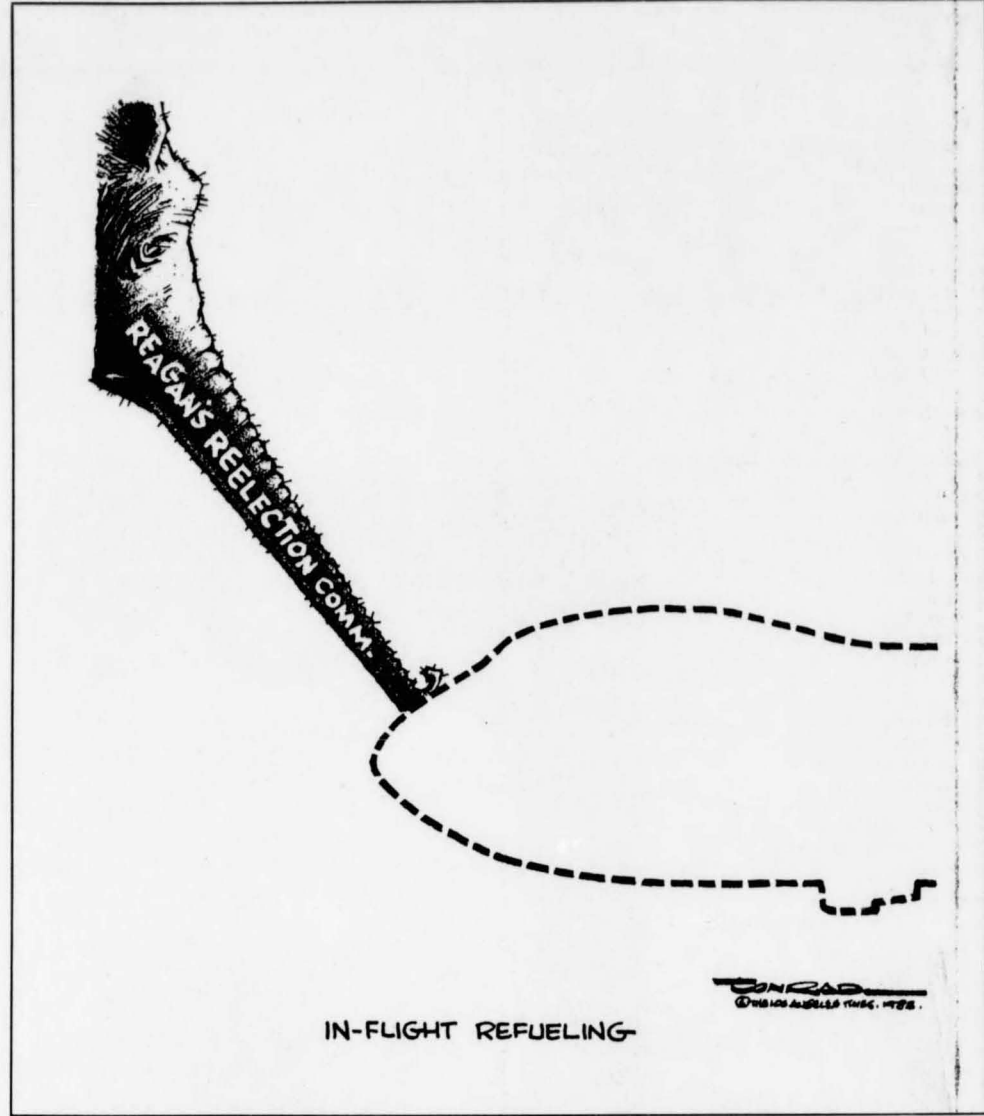

However, it is inconsistent to seek "means to live in harmony without the threat of destruction" while simultaneously dismissing the bilateral freeze as "wishful thinking." Such reasoning completely misses one of the most important points behind the freeze concept, that is the danger of the qualitative escalation of the nuclear arms race.

Doctrines of "limited nuclear war" would never have arisen without the technological refinements that are euphemistically and conveniently presented as "modernization" by advocates of new weapons.

Global stability will not be enhanced by the replacement of older weapons with MX, Pershing II, GLCM, and other missiles. The most outspoken opponents of the freeze have consistently failed to address this problem.

It is a serious mistake to base our understanding of the issue solely on moral or political considerations without judging the new nuclear weapons on their own merits (or demerits). This without weighing their probable contribution to the destabilization of the nuclear balance, as opposed to mere "deterrence."

Likewise, we should realize that the technical means of verification at our disposal now make it possi-

Reactionary Men's Center gets too much serious coverage

Editor:
Since the beginning of the year, I have read several articles in the Daily about the Men's Center.

Why do you allot so much space to an organization that exists primarily as a reactionary statement against the Women's Center?

There are dozens of campus organizations that deserve the attention you have given to the Men's Center.

If you wish to cover campus politics, I suggest you run stories on the Progressive Students Party and the Your Effective Student Support party. Informing your readers about their policies and ambitions for this year might facilitate more involvement in SJSU issues.

Staff writer receives a vote for most unprofessional article

Editor:
It was my understanding that the Daily is an educational tool of the journalism department. To be a constructive tool, I assumed, the Daily helped students learn how to investigate and report campus, state, national and international issues.

That was until last Friday, when I read Eric Gill's opinion piece.

It was probably the most unprofessional and irresponsible article I have ever read in the Daily.

To point out just a few examples:

- ✓ How many injuries have occurred as a result of Cushman-students collisions on campus? Few, if any.
- ✓ How many grounds crew employees attend classes or have graduated? The majority.
- ✓ What is the most aesthetically pleasing aspect of SJSU's campus? The flora.
- ✓ How many Cushmans are manned by the gardeners? About two-thirds, perhaps.
- ✓ Do Cushman drivers get "sheer delight" from driving in highly congested areas? Definitely not.
- ✓ Do Cushman drivers "hate students?" Absolutely not (refer to point number two).

I could go on. If unresearched articles like these (and there have been many) continue to be printed in the Daily, the Daily, SJSU and professional journalism will be threatened.

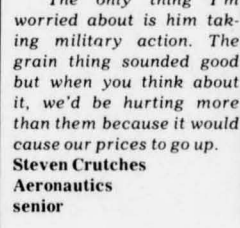

Most offensive to me, though, was Gill's remark, "I sometimes wonder why the university employs them at all." The SJSU grounds crew recently won second place in a national contest of university grounds.

The meeting was then

"It's about time men

During the meeting,
Ruppert said some of the crisis, ("should we open

single parents, spouse

Ruppert said that after the workshops, members would frequent a bar for "a

The Center has ob-

Dance band lands— 'hawks visit SJSU

By Mark Johnson

The last time the Nighthawks played in the Bay Area the audience's demands for "more Nighthawks!" could not be quelled until they returned to the stage for the second half of the show and played back-up for the late, great Muddy Waters.

They'll appear in the Student Union Ballroom tonight at 8 with The Roomful of Blues.

Whether playing alone or playing back-up for other blues musicians, the Nighthawks definitely have crowd appeal.

Perhaps this is why such blues greats as Muddy Waters, B.B. King, Greg Allman, Johnny Winter, and Carl Perkins have used the Nighthawks as their back-up band as many times as they have.

The blues took hold of Nighthawks guitarist Jim Thackery at an early age.

"I listened to all kinds of music when I was a kid," Thackery said, "but the blues really caught my attention, even before I knew what to call them."

The Nighthawks have played at the Mardi Gras celebration in New Orleans every year for the past six years.

Thackery said that it gives them another opportunity to jam with some of the greatest blues artists in the country. Also, a good portion of the band's friends make it to Mardi Gras every year.

"Making it to the Mardi Gras saves us thousands in long distance phone bills," Thackery said. "It's the biggest and best party in the world. We see a lot of people we know from all over every time we go there. Also, our music has been accepted very well in New Orleans."

According to Thackery the Washington D.C. based Nighthawks spend at least 300 nights out of each year playing in clubs and concert halls around the country. Of those 300 nights only two or three are spent in their native Washington D.C. area.

"There's a lot of tedium but also a lot of fun that goes with all this touring," Thackery said. "I'm sure there are worse ways to make a living."

Although the Nighthawks have been touring as a group for the past 11 years, jamming with some of the best bluesmen in the business, their own financial success is only marginal.

"Well we're not exactly eating out of garbage cans," Thackery said, "but we're not dining on caviar either."

Thackery said the Nighthawks "love the Bay Area" but they've never been to San Jose.

"I'm sure we'll like that too," he said. "We don't play as many college dances as we used to. They're always a lot of fun and we're really looking forward to the one there at San Jose State."

The Nighthawks, unlike most bands, do not choose the songs they play at their shows from a set song list.

"We just play whatever seems right at the time," he said, "although I'm pretty sure we're going to wind up playing a lot of stuff from our last album 'Ten Years Live'."

According to Thackery, the band also has a new album due out sometime in January. The album will contain four or five original tunes as well as remakes of old favorites composed by such music greats as Bo Diddley, Carl Perkins, and the Mills Brothers.

The Nighthawks appear with Roomful of Blues tonight at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Admission for the Associated Students Program Board dance concert is $3.50 for students and $6.50 general.

Before We Put You In Charge Of The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Equipment, We Put You Through The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Training.

It takes more than 16 months of intensive training to become a fully qualified officer in the Nuclear Navy. You begin with four months of leadership training. Then as a Navy officer you get a full year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price.

Navy training is based on more than 1900 reactor-years of experience. Right now the Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. And the Navy's nuclear equipment is the most sophisticated in the world. That's why your Navy training is and must be the most sophisticated in the world.

As an officer in the Nuclear Navy, you have decision-making authority immediately. You get important management responsibility fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so does your responsibility. Your training and experience place you among the country's most qualified professionals. (No surprise that most of the men who operate the reactors in private industry started in the Nuclear Navy.)

It takes more time and more effort to become an officer in the Nuclear Navy. But the rewards are greater, too.

The rewards can begin as early as your junior year in college. Qualify, and the Navy will pay you approximately $1000/month while you finish school.

After four years, with regular promotions and salary increases, you can be earning as much as $40,500. That's on top of a benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned every year. More responsibility, more money, more future. So, if you're majoring in math,

Men's Center receives loan for T-shirts

Rick Spargo, Poohbah of the Men's Center

Men's Center representative Rick Spargo argued that it is a serious campus organization.

"I'm concerned about the press we've received," Spargo said. "It's only our enemies who discredit us."

He added that the Men's Center will be "one of the major political forces on campus" by next semester.

"It's not a joke," said Krista Coultts, director of Cal State affairs. "These men have some really good ideas and I've never heard them say anything bad about the Women's Center."

- The Men's Center's ideas include:
- ✓ a seminar on battered spouses
  - ✓ masculine stress seminars
  - ✓ a seminar on alcoholism in the modern man
  - ✓ a seminar on single parenting

The $200 the group has already received will cover its start-up costs, which include newsletters and informational fliers. The $500 loan will be used to fund T-shirt sales.

Group members will be allowed to buy the shirts at cost while non-members will probably have to pay more, Spargo said.

"I see no problem with giving the Men's Center a lot more funding in the future," said Sam Doying, director of business affairs. "You can't deny that there has been demand."

There are currently 100 paid members in the Men's Center, Spargo said. The center charges members $3 in dues.

Spargo said the group has not decided on the design of the T-shirts but added that it will include a group logo to be designed by Robin Carr, the Center's "Worthy Scribe."

The group will have until the last A.S. meeting of this academic year to pay back the $500.

"A loan is a loan," Spargo said. "I believe in prompt repayment."

Dorm door decorations may go by the wayside

Oct. 3, said SJSU Housing Director Willie Brown.

"There are fire safety hazards that have to be maintained," Brown said. Yet some dorm residents disapprove of the new policy.

"I think it's a crime," said Glen Gray, a Royce Hall resident. "I think it's detrimental to dorm living because the doors bring out interaction between students."

Gordon Donlou, another Royce Hall resident agrees. "Decoration of the doors makes cohabitational living much easier," he said.

Nonetheless, resident advisers and directors will determine what will stay on doors and what will come off.

On Oct. 3 resident directors will check all doors for fire dangers. Anything found after that date not complying with safety standards will be taken down by SJSU maintenance employees.

"It won't stay that way for long because people won't stand for it," said Chris Wetzel, another Royce Hall resident. "It's an infringement on our rights. If they start doing this, it could be something more extreme next time."

Many tribes to be featured at powwow

By Karen Woods

An Indian ritual will come to SJSU Saturday night.

A powwow will be held in the Men's Gym at 8 p.m., the doors opening at 7 p.m.

There is no admission price. According to Alan Leventhal, an SJSU associate professor of anthropology, the powwow is inter-tribal, with representatives from 165 tribes participating.

Leventhal's American Indian class, which is coordinating the powwow, sets up the event each semester.

The powwow is sponsored by SJSU's Native American Students Organization and the Anthropology Department, Title IV Indian Education and the San Jose Indian Center.

Though the powwow is primarily a social event, there will also be updated information on events concerning the Indian community locally and across the nation, Leventhal said.

Included will be information on Deganwidah Quetzalcoatl University near Davis, whose students recently won a lawsuit against the Department of Education which had taken away their funds, Leventhal said.

Information also will be provided on Yellow Thunder Camp in the Black Hills of South Dakota, which was used for mining purposes that the Sioux were never compensated for, and radiation poisoning on a Navaho reservation in Arizona and New Mexico caused by uranium trailings after mining, Leventhal said.

The social events at the powwow will include fancy dancing, distinguished by the wearing of colorful outfits, and traditional dancing, "represented by people wearing eagle feathers, which are considered sacred regalia," he said.

There will also be special dancing events, including a hoop dance performed by a member of the Pueblo tribe.

The emcee will be Juno Ray from the Dakota tribe; the head dancer of the men will be Joe Standingelk, a Dakota Sioux; the woman head dancer is Carol Webb of the Nez Pierce tribe; the boy head dancer will be Miguel Duran, Siouxm, and the Girl head dance Dana Lone Bear.

They are all from the Bay Area, Leventhal said.

Arts and crafts will also be displayed and sold, and food baskets will be distributed to needy members of the community, he said.

Hispanics, Indians star in poetry fest

By Karen Woods

Hispanic and Indian heritage will be highlighted in a poetry reading sponsored by the San Jose Poetry Center tonight at 8 p.m. in SJSU's University Chapel.

A $3 admission will be charged.

The poets featured will be Gogisgi (Carroll Arnett), an Oklahoma native of Cherokee-French ancestry and Leonard Adame and Eugenia Gonzales, both Hispanic.

"The heritage of any poet is very important. The poems come from what the poet is," said Naomi Clark, director of the Poetry Center and an SJSU English instructor.

Gogisgi, (Arnett is his legal American name) 56, is a member of the Overhill Band and the Deer Clan of the Cherokee Nation.

He is also a professor of English at Central Michigan University and has published nine books, the most recent of which are "Rounds" (1982), "South Line" (1979) and "Tsalagi" (1976).

Gogisgi has also published over 300 poems and stories in over 50 magazines, including Harper's Bazaar, Saturday Review and Cosmopolitan, Clark said.

Adame, 41, teaches at California State University, Fresno. A collection of his work, "Cantos Pa La Memoria," has been published by Mango Press, a San Jose publishing company.

His work has appeared in American Poetry Review and Parisian Review. He is bilingual, and though he will be reading primarily in English, Adame will use Spanish phrases, Clark said.

Gonzales will be singing some of her poems with guitar accompaniment and performing completely in Spanish. However, there will be a translator present, Clark said.

Bookstore to bring a circus of value

By Eric Hermstad

Break out the clown suits and the dancing bears, the Spartan Bookstore Circus Sale begins Monday.

General supply items, books, clothing and gift merchandise will be on clearance sale Monday through Thursday, and popcorn will be sold for 25 cents a bag throughout the sale.

The Circus Sale was created to "liven up and draw interest by adding a circus atmosphere," said Ron Duval, bookstore manager.

On Monday the Theatre Arts department will set up a face-painting booth at a cost of 25 cents for a simple flower, to several dollars for a completely painted face.

In addition, Danny Touris, president of Players, (a theater arts students organization) will juggle and perform on a unicycle at noon.

Kate Irvine, publicist for the Theatre Arts department, said any profits made from the face-painting booth will go toward the Theatre Arts Students scholarship fund.

On Wednesday the new candy counter will hand out selected free samples (while they last), and some of the employees will dress up as clowns on Thursday to promote the circus image.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, nets, suspended from the ceiling of the bookstore, will open to release balloons that contain 10 to 30 percent discounts on regular merchandise.

Navy says it will clear 3,000 drug records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it will clear the records of about 3,000 Navy personnel disciplined for drug use because laboratory results had to be thrown out.

The Navy said Wednesday the testing errors at the Oakland, Calif., testing center included improper record-keeping and failure to have a second person confirm the results of some tests.

For the past two years, the Navy has employed a urinalysis drug-testing program after a study found that 48 percent of Navy personnel were abusing drugs.

Spartans take on highly improved Ducks

Elway cautious of Oregon defense

By Pat Sangimino
The Spartans return home Saturday night after two weeks on the road against tough Pac-10 opponents, but things won't be much easier for the SJSU gridders. Oregon comes into Spartan Stadium with a 1-2 mark, but fresh off a 15-14 upset win over Houston. The Ducks will be the first Pac-10 team to visit Spartan Stadium. In 1964 the Spartans hosted Pac-10 member Washington State, but at the time the Cougars were a member of the Pac-8 Conference. "I think we're going to have a little added incentive," coach Jack Elway said. "We have a Pac-10 school coming in to play us at home and we are expecting an enthusiastic crowd. I'm expecting it to be a great football game." The Spartans traveled to Eugene last season for the season opener and beat the Webfoots 18-13. SJSU jumped out to an early lead and had to hang on for the win. "They (the Ducks) are a good defensive team," Elway said. "They play hard and hustle and last week's win over Houston was a big confidence builder for them. Their defense ranks up to par with their defense last year." Houston is known as a "big play" team, but against Oregon the longest Cougar gain was 17 yards. "We stopped Houston defensively when we had to," said Rich Brooks, head coach of the Ducks. "We were able to stop them from running the dives and traps up the middle and forced them to go wide. We basically kept them out of the end zone." Jon Carlson enters the Oregon game after having his finest game at the major college level last week against Stanford. The SJSU signal caller threw for 211 yards and was named the Pacific Coast Athletic Association Offensive Player of the Week. Brooks is concerned about Carlson.

"They (the Ducks) are a good defensive team. They play hard and hustle and last week's win over Houston was a big confidence-builder."

— Jack Elway

SJSU's Terry McDonald is a main reason for the Spartans' defensive success. McDonald sacked Stanford's John Paye five times Saturday.

"Their quarterback has been good at picking out open receivers and they have a great ability to score," Brooks said. "The thing that's frightening is that they rushed for 225 yards against Stanford. Combine that with their passing attack and they present you with real problems."

Offensively, the Ducks have made big improvements. Quarterback Mike Jorgensen threw for 204 yards last week against the Cougars and the Ducks have always shown the ability to move the ball on the ground with running backs Ladaria Johnson and freshman Kevin White. "They do a lot of different things offensively," Elway said. "They're starting to come together. We're going to have to be alert on defense."

Thus far, the Spartan defense has been alert. It has recorded 20 sacks in the first three games and is ranked ninth nationally in rushing defense, giving up just 69 yards on the ground per game. "They have good quickness and team speed on defense," Brooks said. "They fly to the ball. We're going to have to be able to run the football against them and control the football."

Spartans travel south to play in soccer Classic

By John Ormsby
The SJSU soccer team travels south today with its sights on the United States International University Soccer Classic title. The Spartans look like they have the inside track to the top spot in a field that includes Brigham Young University, USIU and Loyola Marymount. At the very least, the Spartans should have little trouble advancing to the championship game. SJSU opens against Loyola Marymount Friday afternoon. Loyola enters the tournament with a 0-6 record. The Lions have managed only one goal this season, while giving up 36. The ineffective offense is led by freshman Niall Armstrong, who scored the lone goal and managed to take four shots in a game against USIU earlier in the season. Steve Cameron, a junior fullback, came through with two shots on goal in the same match. On the other side of the field, the Lions' defense is also having trouble. John Fordham has the unenviable task of starting at goal keeper for Loyola. The sophomore carries a 5.82 goals-against per game average into the tournament. It looks as though a very long season awaits coach Matt Kalasila and his team. The other opening game features Brigham Young and USIU, and it should be a better match-up than SJSU's opener. USIU enters the match with a 7-4-1 record. The Gulls jumped out to a fast start this season, rolling to a 5-0-1 mark and the championship of the Far Western Classic, before being slowed by injuries.

The Gulls are down to only 12 healthy players, but one of them will be leading scorer Gary Vandermolten. The sophomore midfielder has collected 26 points on 10 goals and six assists. He ranks among the nation's leading scorers. Coach Stuart Kaye has also received good performances from forwards David Armstrong and Rashid EL Bekraoui. Armstrong, a freshman, has collected 11 points. EL Bekraoui has eight points, despite missing three games because of a leg injury. Defending the goal for the Gulls will be sure-handed Jim Meyers. Meyers has played every minute for USIU, giving up only 11 goals in 12 games. He has earned four shutouts and carries a 0.90 goals-against per game average into the tournament. BYU (5-6) enters the tournament sound on offense, but with serious problems in goal. On the attack, the Cougars are led by standout mid-fielder Scott Nelson. The sophomore has four goals and three assists. Nelson was selected to participate in the Olympic trials. Rounding out the Cougars' attack are forwards Brian Bacon and Toby Mesquita. Bacon, a freshman, has three goals and two assists. Mesquita, a sophomore from Brazil, also has three goals and has assisted on another. The Cougars' defensive woes have been highlighted by the goal-keeping position. Sophomore Ted Thurston just returned to the lineup after missing the early part of the season because of torn ligaments in his hand. Thurston appeared a little rusty in BYU's most recent game, a 5-0 loss at the hands of San Diego State. The Cougars' other keeper, freshman Paul Ogan, has been hampered by a broken finger on his right hand. BYU was forced to play a fullback at goalie at the end of their last road trip.

SJSU hockey team meets Cal; Spartans face Bears on 'turf'

By Dean Kahl
Whether it is called a carpet, a rug, artificial grass or AstroTurf, one thing is certain for Saturday's field hockey match at Berkeley between SJSU and Cal. The surface will be synthetic. That usually means one thing — fast-paced action — and that is the Spartans' specialty. "Their field is suited to our style of play," head coach Carolyn Lewis said. "We like the smooth surface. The fast pace is our style." The Spartans are coming off a hard-fought 2-1 victory on a slow field at Pacific. But with the two days of practice prior to the Cal game, Lewis thinks her squad will be ready. "Cal might have a little advantage because it is their home field," Lewis said. "But we've been playing well no matter where we play." Playing well is something that Cal did not do Wednesday against Stanford, according to Bear head coach Donna Fong. They dropped a 3-1 decision to the Cardinal on the natural grass at Palo Alto. Fong hopes to change the team's luck at home on the AstroTurf. "The execution is better on our turf because there are no bumps," Fong said. "The players' individual qualities and talents also show up better." Overall, Fong is going to need the Bears' individual talents to show up against the Spartans. Against Stanford, Fong said the Bears didn't play well together. "We had mistakes here and there," Fong said. "It's just bits and pieces right now. I guess execution will come with experience." With the loss, the Bears' record dropped to 3-2 (1-1 in NorPac play). Fong's squad has been hampered by youth and injuries. Heading the list of injured players is senior midfielder and co-captain Cheryl Swanson, whose chronic back problems have listed her as questionable for Saturday's matchup. The Spartans were also affected by injuries this past week. Senior co-captain and forward Lynne McManus missed the Pacific game with a sprained right ankle and was replaced in the lineup by sophomore Celine Regalia. Regalia filled in admirably by scoring two goals and two assists. Also, in the Long Beach Invitational, defender Kath

SJSU field hockey coach Carolyn Lewis has guided the Spartans to an undefeated start.

Ferenchak suffered a superficial wound when she was struck with a stick. However, none of the setbacks seem to have slowed down the Spartans, who have opened the season with a 6-0 mark. "I hope my kids will be motivated," Fong said. "This is a traditional rivalry and it's always nice to beat one of the top dogs." Lewis assured that Saturday's game will be a good one. "With Cal and us playing on the smooth surface," Lewis said, "it's going to be a very well-played game."

Locals Sheehan, Inkster add life to S.J. golf match

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Patty Sheehan and rookies Juli Inkster and Lauren Howe, local talents who are among the best in women's golf, are helping to revitalize an abandoned tournament this weekend at the $175,000 LPGA San Jose Classic. Sheehan, 27, and Inkster, 23, were teammates at SJSU in 1979-80. Howe, 24, spent part of her childhood in the city and still has friends in the area. The presence of these three, who have won six tournaments among them this year, is important to the fate of the 54-hole tournament starting Friday at the par-73, 3,390-yard Almaden Golf and Country Club course. Inamori, a jewelry manufacturer, had sponsored the tournament for three years, but decided to take it to La Jolla this year. That tournament was played last week and Sheehan won by two strokes over Inkster. It was Sheehan's eighth triumph in three years and her fourth this year. A group of San Jose businessmen banded together as "Founders 100" and pledged to put up $3,000 each to assure the return of the LPGA. A total of 127 signed up but only 87 came through with the money. There was a scramble for more backing and eventually the group had enough cash to stage the event. Now, largely because of the appeal of the Sheehan, Inkster and Howe, tickets are selling well and the tournament is expected to be a financial success. In fact, most of the money pledged by the "Founders 100" will not have to be used. "I feel like I'm a part of this community, and it's important to me that this tournament works," Sheehan said.

Women's field hockey

Tigers slow pace, Spartans win

By Dean Kahl
The SJSU women's field hockey team had two surprises Wednesday. One good, one not so good. One on the field, the other off it. First, the official National Collegiate Athletic Association field hockey rankings were released and the Spartans found themselves in the lofty fourth position. Second, the Spartans went to Stockton and struggled to a 2-1 Northern Pacific Conference victory over Pacific. The Spartans are No. 4 in the nation behind the University of Connecticut, Old Dominion and Iowa. Massachusetts is fifth. "We're happy to be ranked high," said head coach Carolyn Lewis. "The girls have played well and they definitely deserve the ranking."

As far as the match Wednesday, the Spartans took their high ranking into the Pacific match and struggled to the victory. For the first time this season, the Spartans failed to score at least four goals and it was also the lowest margin of victory for the 6-0 Spartans. The pace of the game was slow, something the Spartans are unaccustomed to. Lewis said it was due to two factors. "The field didn't lend itself well," Lewis said. "It was a slow field and that slowed us down." Lewis also noted that each team's play in tournaments last weekend may have been a factor. The Spartans swept three games at the Long Beach Invitational last Friday and Saturday while Pacific was winning two-of-three games on the East Coast.

"I think we all might have been a little worn out from our weekends," Lewis said. The Spartans held a 1-0 half-time lead on a penalty stroke by Jeannie Gilbert with 12 minutes left in the first half. The Spartans increased their lead to 2-0 one and a half minutes into the second half when forward Celine Regalia scored on a rebound of a missed shot by Mace Savelkoul. Savelkoul had beaten Pacific goalie Jill Jacobson, but her shot caromed off the goalpost to Regalia, who knocked the shot in. Regalia's goal turned out to be the game-winner because Pacific finally sliced the Spartans lead in half with score with nearly 19 minutes left in the game. But the Spartans hung on as they improved their NorPac record to 3-0. "When the lead suddenly is only one goal," Lewis said, "you can't afford to make any mistakes. The play becomes a little more apprehensive."

'I think we might have been a little worn out from our weekends'

Confident Lady Spartans destroy overmatched San Francisco Dons

By John Ormsby

Those who enjoy a total mismatch of a volleyball game would have loved Wednesday night's Lady Spartan victory over the University of San Francisco.

SJSU overwhelmed the Dons 15-5, 15-5, 15-9 in the opening match of the Spartans' Northern Pacific Conference season.

The high point for USF came early in the match — the Dons jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first game — but the rest of the match was agony.

The Lady Spartans outscored USF 15-2 the rest of the way to take the first game. With an 8-0 lead in the second game, SJSU coach Dick Montgomery went to his bench, but the Dons probably didn't notice any difference, as the fired-up Spartan substitutes continued the rout.

The Dons managed only a .013 hitting percentage for the match, including a negative percentage in the second and third games. The Lady Spartans, on the other hand, posted a .365 hitting percentage.

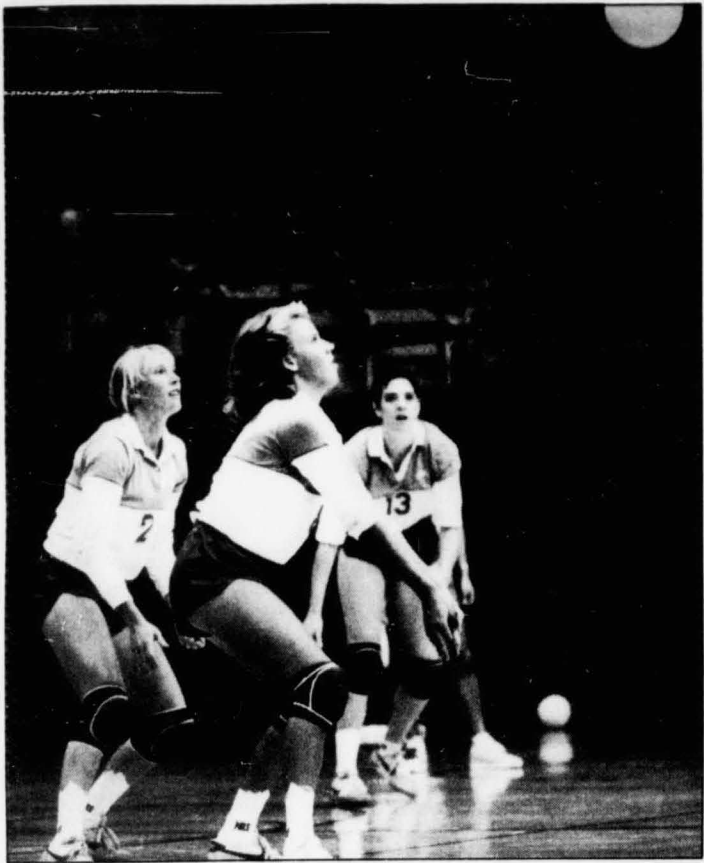

Sandy Jones led the SJSU attack with eight kills. Gayle Olsen had four kills and three service aces, and Linda Fournet, still filling in for the injured Lisa Ice, collected seven kills and a .545 hitting percentage. Felicia Schuller, beginning to look more like a starter than a substitute, had four kills and an .800 hitting percentage, while Mandy McMahon hit .750 and also collected three service aces.

"They're just not in our league," setter Teri DeBusk said. "I think it's going to be a very long season for them."

Said team captain Kim Kayser, "They're just not a very good team. It's too bad they can't drop down to division II or something."

The Lady Spartans should find some tougher competition this weekend when they compete in the Dolfin Invitational at UC Berkeley.

Spartans head north for volleyball tourney

By John Ormsby

SJSU's women's volleyball team will try its luck in another round robin tournament this weekend when they travel to Berkeley for the Dolfin Invitational. The Lady Spartans, after placing fourth in the Spartan Shops Invitational last weekend, will be ready to go all the way this weekend.

"We're going up there to win," team captain Kim Kayser said. "We're the team to beat."

UC Berkeley, the University of Wyoming and the University of Nevada-Reno will be standing in the Lady Spartans' way when play opens Friday afternoon in Harmon Gym.

"I think Cal is the team we have to beat," coach Montgomery said, referring to the Saturday evening match with the Bears. "They haven't played well this year. I just hope they don't suddenly put it together against us," the coach said of the 20th-ranked Bears.

"Wyoming might be a team to watch out for. They have a good program back there," he said.

Host California brings 7-9 record into the match, but eight of the Bears' losses have come at the hands of nationally-ranked teams. Cal is led by two-time All-American middle blocker Sylvia Monnet. The senior leads her team in hitting percentage, blocks, digs and service aces. Senior Denise Allen, an outside hitter, leads the team in total kills.

A problem for coach Chris Stanley so far this season has been the setter position. Stanley rotated three players at that position early in the season, but junior Teri Donahue will probably handle the position during the tournament. Stanley likes to use Donahue because at 6-foot-1, she is an excellent power hitter as well.

Wyoming stands at 15-5 as they open the tournament. New coach Gerry Gregory has turned things around for the Cowboys, who went 12-14 last season. Wyoming will be playing in their third tournament of the season. They finished second in the Kansas State Invitational earlier this season.

The Cowboys are led by sophomore outside hitter Mary Shea. She is averaging 3.5 kills a game and leads her team in most offensive categories. She was named to the all-tournament team following the Fullerton State Invitational.

Wyoming will also depend on the play of setter Chris Lambert, a Sunnyvale native.

Nevada-Reno enters the tourney in the midst of a rebuilding year. The Wolf Pack is 2-9 under the guidance of second-year coach Rene Rasmussen. Nevada-Reno is playing its first season in Division I, and has played well at times, despite the dismal record.

Outside hitter Ann Cabral leads the Wolf Pack in most offensive categories and junior setter Kathy Mollica runs the offense for Rasmussen. Injuries have cut the Nevada-Reno squad to only eight players.

Prune parade passes without king

EL MONTE (AP) — The king of El Monte's Fourth Annual Prune Parade missed the event because eating too many prunes made him ill, a city councilman said.

Floyd Yullie, 72, one of the city's most colorful residents, had been scheduled to ride alongside 104-year-old prune queen Kate Frampton, of South El Monte, during last Saturday's parade.

Come parade time, however, he could not be found. This week, city Councilman Jack Crippen ran into him at a local shopping center.

"What happened to you, Floyd?" Crippen queried. The councilman said Yullie replied, "Well, I got sick after eatin' all them prunes at the (earlier prune festival) breakfast, and I was up all night Friday."

New AIDS report released

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome is not highly contagious and is not spreading to people outside four identified risk groups, a state task force said yesterday.

"Plainly put, AIDS appears to be transmitted only by direct sexual contact, most often homosexual, and by inoculation of blood from a person with AIDS, as with intravenous drug abuse," said the task force appointed by the state Department of Health Services.

AIDS is a disease caused by an unknown agent which destroys a person's immunity to infections. About 70 percent of the 2,200 reported cases in the United States have died, said Peter Rank, director of the Health Service Department at a Capitol news conference.

Dr. James Chin, chief of the department's infectious disease section, said that the 600 cases reported in California since 1981 included only two women. More than 90 percent were gay men, he said, and the rest were drug abusers, Haitians or hemophiliacs.

Nationwide, only 70 percent of the victims are gay men. Of the rest, 17 percent are drug abusers, 5 to 6 percent are Haitians and 1 percent are hemophiliacs.

Dr. Marcus Conant of the University of California Hospital in San Francisco, who headed the task force, said that Haitian authorities now say that most of the AIDS cases in that country were among men who had engaged in homosexual practices.

Hemophiliacs, or persons who genetically lack a blood clotting factor or factors, account for only about 20 of the 2,200 AIDS cases reported nationally, Conant said.

Conant said hemophiliacs get injections of blood clotting factors from the concentrated pooled blood of thousands of donors.

Chin said he expected that the agent causing AIDS will be identified in the next few years.

Court approves pregnancy suit
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Napa woman who claims her lawyer misled her into believing he was sterile and that he allegedly was responsible for her pregnancy can sue him for battery and deceit, the California Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The court denied without comment a request from attorney John Gattfield of Napa to review a July 26 Court of Appeal ruling that reinstated a lawsuit filed by one of Gattfield's clients, Barbara J. Allen.

In her appeal of a Napa County Superior Court dismissal of her suit, Allen claimed she had to have life-saving surgery to remove a fallopian tube in which a fetus was growing. The operation made her sterile and she sued for damages stemming from her alleged relationship with Gattfield after the lawyer sued her for $1,520 in fees for representing her in a family matter.

If you're like most people, you watch a lot of TV programs you don't want to see. Simply because when you're ready to watch TV, you have no other choice. That's why you should be watching cable. Today cable television offers a choice of programming so vast, you can turn on the set any time of day or night and see something you want to see. Just a simple cable hook-up dramatically increases your choice of programs. And once you're hooked up, you can add commercial-free premium channels for a very modest price.

PAY CHANNELS WORTH EVERY PENNY YOU PAY.
If you love movies, the first premium channel you'll want is The Movie Channel. It's the only one that gives you great movies—uncut and uninterrupted 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. But just because The Movie Channel never takes a break from great movies doesn't mean you won't want to take one. That's why it's smart to have HBO in your cable line-up. It offers you concerts and big sporting events in addition to movies. With Showtime you'll even get to see variety specials and Broadway. And if vintage movies and foreign films intrigue you, make sure you add Cinemax.

THE PLEASURE OF HAVING MORE THAN ONE.
With several pay channels included in your cable line-up, you'll not only maximize your program choices, you'll also gain maximum flexibility over your entire viewing schedule. You can watch movies whenever you want; news whenever you want; sports whenever you want. You can watch virtually whatever you want, whenever you want. So have your local operator connect you to cable. Then whenever you're ready for a terrific TV program, your TV will have one ready for you.
