Ken Coleman Improves Following Series Of Blood Transfusions In S. F.

Ken Coleman, council member and Spartan Daily business manager who has been critically ill at the University of California hospital, is making satisfactory progress after receiving a series of blood transfusions, his wife reported yesterday.

Mrs. Coleman, the former Evelyn

Shottenhammer, a former student here, said Ken is sufficiently strengthened to be able to carry on a conversation, and feels much improved. Five members of the Spartan Daily staff accompanied Mrs. Coleman to San Francisco last week to donate blood for the necessary transfusions.

Former State Graduate Reported Missing Following German Raid

Word has been received that 2nd Lt. Byron Lanphier, former San Jose State college graduate, failed to return from a flight over Germany December 22. He served as combat intelligence officers in the Army Air Corps.

Enlisting early in 1941, Lt. Lanphier went overseas last November. Dangerous flights in advance of bombing raids to photograph enemy objectives were included in his duties.

ATTENDED S.J.S.

A graduate of San Jose State college, the former Stater also attended the University of California. Shortly before Pearl Harbor he entered the service, attending the Army's photography school at Denver.

He supervised the installation of photographic laboratories at air bases in this country, also taking specialized training in intelligence work at the University of Pennsylvania.

FORMER ATHLETE

As an outstanding boxer, Lt. Lanphier won the San Jose State novice title in the light heavy-weight class in 1936. He played end on the varsity football team the following year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan E. Lanphier of Campbell. Lanphier was married to Miss Peggy Marino of New Mexico a year ago.

Social Affairs Group Will Meet Today In Union

Arrangements for winter quarter student body social activities will be inaugurated in the Social Affairs committee meeting at 4 o'clock today in the Student Union.

All students, especially freshmen, who are interested in helping out with plans for student body dances this quarter are invited to attend the meeting. Chairman of the group is Beverlee Greer.

DANCE WORK

Work on the dances includes decorating the gym, arranging for entertainment, securing patrons and patronesses for the affair, and in general, acting as overseers of the function.

Students with unique ideas on decorations and entertainment are especially wanted on the committee.

Next event on the activity roster for winter quarter is a George Washington dance next month, which should offer a wide field for novel and patriotic ideas on decorations.

Dances this quarter will be held in the Women's gym, since the Men's gym will be used throughout the quarter for basketball games.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The Social Affairs group sometimes sponsor other activities as well as the traditional A. S. B. dances; for instance, the contest two years ago in which the typical Joe College and Betty Co-ed were chosen by student body vote.

With the war leaving its mark on campus life, especially where men are concerned, it is hard to make a student body dance the same successful function that it was in pre-war days.

AWA Members Will Present Program To High School

Upon special invitation from the Mountain View High School Girls' League, five members of the college AWA will participate in a program given at the high school tomorrow.

Accompanied by Dean of Women Helen Dimmick, the State women will be introduced to the Girls' League by Bobbie Jones, president of the AWA, who is in charge of the program.

Mrs. Jones is scheduled to give an introductory talk on various highlights of the college and to explain some of the organizations.

Illustrating the principles of modern dance, Eleanor Fammatre is to speak to the high school girls on the activities of Orchesis, college dance organization.

Alumni Group Membership Hits New High Of 1775

Membership in the Alumni association of San Jose State college stood at 1755 yesterday, highest total in history.

Miss Doris Robinson, placement secretary who is also secretary-treasurer for the alumni, reported that memberships have been flowing in as the result of a "pin-up letter" recently sent out by President Theron Fox.

A large number of men and women in service are included in the 1755 total, which represents paid-up alumni only.

Mrs. Hoover, SJS Alumna, Dies In New York City

Most noted alumna of San Jose State college, and honorary president of the Golden Grads, Mrs. Herbert C. Hoover died late Friday afternoon in her New York apartment.

Wife of the former President of the United States, Mrs. Hoover graduated from this institution with the class of 1893, as Lou Henry. At the annual Spartan Homecoming last June, the 1893 class was honored for having reached their fiftieth anniversary of graduation from college.

PRESIDED OVER ALUMNI

Having become members of the colorful organization known as "Golden Grads," which includes all alumni who have graduated 50 or more years ago from this institution, the class of 1893 celebrated by having Mrs. Hoover elected honorary president of Golden Grads.

In 1929, when Mrs. Hoover was presiding as "First Lady of the

Phelan Awards Open To Students Until February 15

Potential writers will be given an outstanding opportunity to enter competition for Phelan awards between now and February 15.

One fellowship in literature carrying a stipend of $900 will be awarded by the trustees of the estate of the late Senator James D. Phelan. The literature competition is limited to writers of fiction, biography, historical narrative, and verse narrative. Writers of the short story and lyrical verse will not be eligible this year.

Dean Charles B. Lipman of the University of California, speaking for the trustees, called attention to the fact that the competition is open to both men and women who are native born citizens of the state of California, between the ages of 20 and 30.

For complete information and an application write to the James D. Phelan Awards in Literature and Art, 319 Phelan building, San Francisco.

Nominations For Class Officers Are Scheduled For Today In Meetings; Council Members Will Preside Over Political Sessions To Explain Rules

Elections Are Slated For Friday; Polls Will Be Open From 8 To 4:30

Students with desires governmental may bid for campus recognition today when nominations for class officers are held in individual class meetings scheduled for 12:30 o'clock.

Seniors will meet for their regular orientation session in room 55, under supervision of council members Elsa Anderson and Jeanette Owen. Juniors will meet in the upstairs lecture room (S210) in the Science building with Mary Lou Montgomery and Howard Riddle taking charge. The sophomore meeting will be presided over by "Scrappy" Squatrito and Wilma Sabelman, and it will be held in the downstairs lecture room (S112) of the Science building. Freshmen will meet in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

ELECTIONS

Elections will be held on Friday and the polls will be open to all Associated Student Body members.

Book Exchange To Close Today; Will Reopen January 24

Today is the last day to buy and sell books at the Student Book Exchange according to Chairman Virginia Ferguson, who states the exchange will be open until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Still wanted are Rusche: Psychology and Life; Gilliam: Antecedents II; Fundamentals of Speech; and Zink: Government and Politics of the United States.

The book exchange will reopen January 24 to return unsold books and distribute money.

If the money or books are not called for by Wednesday, February 23, 30 days after the reopening date, they will be forfeited to the Student-Book Exchange.

STUDENTS WARNED TO HAVE PHOTOS TAKEN BY JAN. 21

San Jose State college students have only two weeks in which to get their pictures taken for the 1944 La Torre. Deadline has been set for January 21 with no extensions of time, says Editor Jeanette Owen.

Appointments with Bushnell's studio should be made in the Publications office. Pictures will be taken between 10 and 4:30 o'clock daily except Saturdays. Saturday appointments are granted only when absolutely necessary. La Torre office hours are from 9 to 3 o'clock daily.

SALE OF BOOKS

Yearbooks may be purchased any time this quarter at the standard price of $3.25. Students wishing to buy books for men in the service may have them mailed to the ser-

Revelries Tryouts Tomorrow In Dailey Auditorium

Calling all exponents of old-time vaudeville!

Tomorrow is the time when all actors, actresses, dancers, singers, comedians—and maybe even the traditional jugglers—will have an opportunity to display their talents for the Spartan Revelries, slated for March 10 and 11.

Tryouts are scheduled for 4 o'clock in Morris Dailey auditorium, under the supervision of Director Jeanette Owen. Tryouts for all chorus numbers—dance and song routines—will be held Friday at 4 o'clock in the auditorium.

Organizations wishing to participate in the program may present skits or other entertainment if they wish, announces Director Owen. Ideas should be submitted to her for approval.

Jean Petrinovich has been appointed to fill the post of business manager, according to a Student Council announcement.

Funeral Services Held Tomorrow For Science Professor

Funeral services for the late San Jose State college associate professor of bacteriology, Dr. Paul Beard, will be held tomorrow at 12:15 at the chapel of Roller & Hapgood in Palo Alto. Burial services will be at Golden Gate National cemetery in San Francisco.

Dr. Beard, who died Saturday afternoon at his Palo Alto home following a heart attack, has been teaching at the college since 1930. He was instructing a course in bacteriology here this quarter.

A graduate of Iowa State college, the noted professor was a graduate assistant in bacteriology there for two years before studying at Stanford, where he received his Ph.D. in 1929. He had been on the faculty at Stanford since that time and, until his death, was associate professor of sanitary science.

Dr. Beard was a veteran of World War I, in which he was injured in an accident, and had been in failing health for some time.

According to Dr. P. Victor Peterson, head of the San Jose State college Natural Science department, Dr. Beard was one of the outstanding bacteriologists on the Pacific coast.

Open Letter To The Dean

Paul M. Pitman, Dean of Men.

Dear Dean:
Because we know you would never administer self-praise where self-praise is due, we are printing this story for and the rest of the Spartan Daily readers. May YOU realize our devotion.

Gratefully,
A Spartan Daily Reporter.

"Ken Coleman is ill. Ken Coleman needs blood. Staff members heed call. Staff members are courageous, loyal, and sacrificial."

The above paragraph about sums up the Dean's greatly appreciated letter printed in yesterday's Daily, which was written in far more elaborate style. But we who partici-

CLASS NOMINATIONS TODAY

As one of the most pertinent affairs of the moment, the nomination of class officers at the meetings slated for today at 12:30, are worthy of comment.

To insure a choice of class representatives favorable to student opinion in general, it stands to reason that members of the student body should exercise their say in nominating class leaders.

A great deal of responsibility rests with these officers—namely, that of governing class activities. Candidates should be regarded with mounting interest. Nominations fulfill one of the most democratic privileges in our system of student government.

Aspirants toward participation in class government will be given opportunity to express their desires today when nominations are declared in order for class leaders. This opportunity will not knock again until next quarter. Now is the time to voice your opinion.

ATTEND YOUR CLASS MEETING TODAY. —Scruggs.

OFF WASHINGTON SQUARE

By LORRAINE GLOS

With so many co-eds becoming the Mrs. of service men we thought we could give you an idea of what your marriage ceremony might sound like if you marry a member of the Navy. Bee Laurence take note:

This bit of information was taken from the Farragut News published in Farragut, Idaho, a naval training center.

From a sailor in the Pacific comes this unofficial Navy version of a war time ceremony:

Chaplain: "Wilt thou, John, have this woman as thy wedded wife to live together insofar as the Bureau of Naval Personnel will allow? Wilt thou love her, comfort, honor and keep her, take her to the movies, and come home promptly on all 48's?"

Man: "I will."

Chaplain: "Wilt thou, Mary, take this sailor as thy wedded husband, bearing in mind liberty hours, ship schedules, restrictions, watches, sudden orders, certain mail conditions and the various other problems of Navy life? Wilt thou obey him, and love, honor and wait for him and learn to wash, fold and press his uniform?"

She: "I will."

Man: "I, John, take thee, Mary, as my wedded wife from 1700 until 0730, as far as permitted by my commanding officer, liberty hours, subject to change without notice, for better or worse, for earlier or later, and I promise to write at least once a week."

She: "I, Mary, take thee, John, as my wedded husband subject to the orders of the officer of the day, changing residence whenever the ship moves, to have and to hold as long as the allotment comes through regularly, and there I give thee my troth."

Chaplain: "Then, let no man put asunder these whom God and the Bureau of Naval Personnel have wrought together. By virtue of the authority in Navy Regulations of the Bureau of Personnel concerning matrimony, you are now man and wife, by direction of the commanding officer."

A former student of the University of Nevada now a captain in the Army, being held as a prisoner in a Japanese camp in the Philippine Islands caused the Jap censor to pull an "honorable boner."

In a letter to his mother, the captain asked her to buy more bonds to help win the war. The letter slipped through the censor and was received unclipped by honorable Jap.

One of the students of an eastern college who is now fighting overseas tell of the German he encountered. The ex-campus strutter asked the German what he expected to do after the war.

The German answered: "I am going to make a bicycle tour of Germany after the war."

Ex-College student: "Yeh—and what will you do in the afternoon?"

The WACS have finally invaded the Stanford campus, and have taken over the residence on Lagunita Knoll, that was the President's home for many years.

The President's house has been renamed "The Knoll" and serves as a dormitory for the trainees in the Army physical therapy.

It will be quite a change for the house being transformed from the "Indian tepee" literally speaking to a "WAC tent!" Instead of the usual redskin war whoop, coming forth from the residence, the customary marching signals and daily bugle calls will be heard.

NOTICES

Auditorium ushers . . . There will be a very, very important meeting at 12 o'clock today in room 108 of the music building. Some special ushering has come up.

buzzin'

by bee

Looks like the Beta Chis are coming through with traditional flying colors. Latest reports reveal that the B. C.-Laurence bean feed is a sure thing—and coming up but quick. Umm! With French fries and hot French bread—even if I do have to cook the beans, it sounds good.

Beverlee Greer carries on with campus social activities this quarter, with the Social Affairs committee scheduled to hold their first meeting today.

That means a few more lively times on campus—with maybe even a dance where servicemen are invited again. We've already sampled the Army engineers from Santa Clara university, Bev, so why not dip into the Moffett Field available? Or better yet—arrange for the Coast Guard up at Alameda to journey down for a gay time. I guarantee to do my share of morale building in either case. How about that?

No one can tell me the faculty isn't doing its part to keep up campus spirits and promote more and better activities. A certain instructor who is one of the staff favorites is keeping Revelries director Jeanette Owen hopping with his contributions for that magnificent, stupendous, ultra-colossal production. (Courtesy Hollywood press agents.)

La Glos and I are going to have a devil of a time keeping up when we get started on that Spartan Daily skit. But as a team, we can't be beat (author's opinion), so things should be buzzin' fast—and soon.

Before you start figuring out your income tax returns, you'd better get your 1944 La Torre. 'Cause judging from personal experience, there won't be any of that necessary lucre available after March 15.

I got mathematical myself over the weekend, and tried to determine in a rough sort of way approximately how much the sad news would amount to with me. Does anybody know where the bread line forms? And I'm not just kidding. Who said being a defense worker would pay!

You know, I wondered where those 186 men on campus were coming from—now I find they're all veterans of War II. To think of the things that go on around here that I don't even know about. Could it be my favorite "sources" have petered out. Maybe I'll have to start diggin' in other streams.

JOB SHOP

MEN

Two men are wanted to work afternoons in a warehouse. Pay is 60 cents an hour to start—may go as high $1.25 per hour.

A student may work three or four hours afternoons in a filing department in a local corporation. Pay is to be arranged.

College men wishing part-time work may contact Mrs. Louise Ralph in the Dean of Men's office.

All Speech majors meet in room 53, Wednesday at 4 o'clock. Important that all be there.

Personalities

By GERRY REYNOLDS

The first personality scheduled to appear in this quarter's column is Ann Rogers, acting business manager of the Spartan Daily.

Ann was born on October 14, 1924, in Oakland, but the Roger's family left the East Bay city soon afterwards, settling on a wheat ranch in Chico, California.

There Ann spent her early years "helping" her father on the ranch, feeding the animals, and, after she had reached the ripe old age of six, driving the family car. "Driving" for Ann consisted of perching on her father's lap in front of the wheel, and twisting it this way and that in good imitation of steering. She boasts now that she never hit even the tiniest tree . . . could be because there was nothing but level land for miles around, bare of trees, bushes, or any other vegetation . . . aside from wheat!

When Ann was four years old, she received a Collie named Tag, and with him she used to chase cattle, and later go rabbit and pheasant hunting.

When the time came for Ann to enroll in grammar school, she was much ag'in the idea . . . she preferred to spend all her days playing outdoors on the ranch.

However, parents and the law decreed that Ann attend school after her sixth birthday, so she started the first grade at Central grammar school, in Chico. When questioned regarding her years there, Ann replied, "Well, I spent the summer vacations riding horseback, and going to girls summer camp."

That takes care of grammar school. Now we find Ann registered in Chico high, where she entered politics. She was a member of the freshman class council, and, believing that one should always start at the bottom, she worked on the clean-up committee.

However, in her second year she was elected treasurer of her class . . . and declares now that the sophs of that year were constantly in the red.

Her junior year found Ann feature editor of the Chico high paper, the Red and Gold. She wrote a dirt column, and kept everyone alternately afraid of her and mad at her.

Senior days at Chico arrived, and Ann was president of the Girls' Student League, and copy editor of yearbook, Caduceus.

Extra-curricular activities included covering student affairs for the society editor of the Chico Record. One day said society editor didn't show up for work, and when she failed to put in an appearance for several days, Ann and the editor's daughter took over the society page, "temporarily." They stayed at it for a year.

When she wasn't covering the social doings of Chico, Ann was riding horseback . . . a friend had stabled his high-spirited race horse at the Rogers ranch, and Ann was elected to take care of it.

She had formerly worn jeans and sweatshirts while riding, but was told that such an outfit looked mighty incongruous a-top a beautiful race horse, so she had to buy a riding habit!

Following graduation from high school last year, Ann intended to go to Chico State, where she would major in journalism; but three weeks before it opened she changed her mind, and decided to enroll at San Jose State college.

Here she is a Personal Administration major, and a pledge to Kappa Kappa Sigma . . . and she is doing a great job as business manager of the Spartan Daily!

State Personnel Board Announces Civil Service Recruiting Examinations

The State Personnel Board has announced a series of civil service examinations for positions on its own staff with entrance salaries ranging from $195 to $285 a month. There are positions open on both the recruiting and examining and on the classification staffs.

The salary for Junior Personnelist is $195 a month. Entrance requirements are graduation from college and experience in one of the following types of work: six months in public or private personnel work, six months in interviewing or referring applicants in a public employment office, or one year in a recognized profession, or four units of graduate work in personnel administration.

The entrance salary for Assistant Personnelist is $240 a month. College graduation plus one year of experience in work comparable to that required for Junior Personnelist is necessary to apply for the test.

Associate Personnel Examiner and Associate Personnel Technician positions pay $285 a month. Both examinations require graduation from college. The experience requirement for Associate Personnel Examiner is one year in the preparation of written and practical tests and one year in placement interviewing, in one of the recognized professions or in making occupational analyses. The experience requirement for Assistant Personnelist is one year.

ADDRESSES

Whenever they are available, we are going to print the full addresses of our Spartans in the Service who are mentioned in this column.

CEONSOR SHY SOLDIER
SGT. ELNATHAN S. KIMBEL
 ASN 39104588
TROOP CARRIER CMD FORCE C
 Troop Carrier CMD Force Hq.
 APO 760, New York, N. Y.

From former Spartan Sgt. Kimbel, now in Sicily, we received a polite reprimand for exposing what might have been a military secret. It happened during the invasion of Sicily. The following letter is self-explanatory:

"I was very much perturbed to read the letter from _____ in your 'Spartans in the Service' article of the October 13 issue. Some of the facts mentioned in his letter are classified as 'Confidential' in Army correspondence, yet he has written the whole world about it. For all he or any of us know Army intelligence might want the enemy to think they had damaged some of our ships in the 100-plane raid.

"It was no doubt _____'s intentions to write the letter late enough so that the invasion would be well underway by the time the letter reached its destination. But, he probably didn't know that anything could happen to a letter en route. Nor did he stop to think that the Army might want to keep that information confidential.

"At present," he goes on, "I am sweating it out in Sicily. We do have a nice set-up as far as overseas units go. We have our bar and day room and we have the Red Cross club and special service entertainment. We are able to attend symphonic concerts once in a while that are arranged for us by special service. Of course, we have movies a couple of times a week.

"I have a clerical job in the troop carrier command and like it very much. There is a swell bunch of fellows and officers to work with. I have my trombone and there is a piano nearby so that we can have some interesting 'jam sessions' whenever we get in the mood."

1ST LT. JACK ALDRICH
 Recently assigned to a Marine fighter squadron command by Major Joe Foss, America's leading ace, First Lieutenant Jack W. Aldrich, former student here, has been promoted from second lieutenant. He is stationed at Santa Barbara, California.

Major Foss, credited with bagging 26 Jap planes in the South Pacific, hand picked the squadron which he is training for combat duty.

Lt. Aldrich underwent flight training at Los Alamitos, Calif., following his enlistment in May, 1942. His home is in Campbell.

VISITOR

Sergeant Ainsley Whitman, formerly of the librarian staff of the college library, was on the campus last week.

For 18 months Sergeant Whitman was stationed at Colorado Springs, Colorado, attached to the medical outfit for the field artillery of the 89th division. The past six weeks he has been on maneuvers in Louisiana.

NAVAL FLYER

John Franklin Turbeville, Jr., former student at San Jose State college, graduated December 11, 1943, from the Naval Air Training center, Corpus Christi, and was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

EARL F. POYTRESS
 Co. D-1
 West Point, New York
 Among the several belated Christmas cards that straggled into the pub office last week, there was one from Cadet Earl F. Poytress, son of Dr. William Poytress, head of the Social Science department at San Jose State.

In an attached short note he says:

"After having spent considerable time going through a hazing period de luxe followed by three weeks of maneuvers in the rain (that stuff which native Californians never knew existed), this Spartan turned plebe has been grinding away at academics for the past three months. Like State, our term is at an end but unlike State, we are topping it off with almost three weeks of 'finals.' One might say that everything is on a more concentrated and speedy basis than college is generally, and I do mean we cover things rapidly!"

Job Shop

WOMEN

A student is wanted to work in the Co-op daily from 3 to 4:30, and another is needed from 11 to 1 o'clock daily.

Help is also needed in the cafeteria.

To work three afternoons a week by arrangement, some women will obtain 60 cents an hour. The job consists of light housework for two local businesswomen.

Those interested in working part-time may see Mrs. Izetta Pritchard in the Dean of Women's office.

SENIORS CHOOSE COMMENCEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS

A representative group of seniors yesterday chose the graduation announcements that will be used by the class of 1944 for their commencement exercises on June 23.

The announcements, which are of the French fold type, are white with a deckle edge, and bear a small San Jose State college insignia in the upper left corner.

They will be available in the cop within the next few months, and will be sold at approximately 12 cents each. Name cards can be ordered in the Spartan Shop at any time, and there is a variety of types and sizes to choose from.

As in previous years, the number of announcements to be purchased by each senior is optional, while the name cards must be purchased in groups of 100, according to Betty Buckley, senior class president.

Letter To Dean

 pated in the effort to aid our business manager feel that the emphasis should have been stressed upon a fact that was entirely forgotten. And, as we recall our acquaintance with the remarkable author, we are impressed with his failure, as happens frequently, to mention the most important incentive. For who was it who informed us of Ken's need? Who arranged our appointments at the clinical laboratory for blood typing; and who was it who thought of checking with the college Health office to make certain our conditions were such that we could stand to give a little blood. Even if one didn't know, he could make an easy guess. For it is our Dean of Men who is the firm backer of almost every campus campaign. In his role as the Students' Friend he is the instigator of more acts of good-will than can be remembered. And he accomplishes more in a day than we could attempt in a week. Has anyone ever tried to keep track of the meetings he flies to and from during the course of an afternoon? If we fall short of words, it is not because we do not have them at the tip of our typewriter keys. We merely wish to acknowledge our appreciation of Mr. Pitman's personal modesty. We wouldn't upset his equilibrium for the world. He's too busy a man.

Phi Epsilon Tau members: There will be a short, but important meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in room 53.

Winless San Jose State Cage Team Meets Powerful Treasure Island Five In Return Match There At 8:30 Tonight

With seven straight setbacks behind them, San Jose State's wee basketball squad heads for Treasure Island tonight to do battle with the formidable Treasure Island Armed Guard casaba team.

The Spartans have already been smothered once by the Islanders by a 66 to 40 margin. Spearheading the attack for the Guards is Dale Sears, a rangy center who cavorted for the powerful University of Southern California Trojans a few seasons ago.

Mr. Sears was slightly on the spectacular side when he made his appearance here early in the season by ringing up 31 points against the Spartans. San Jose's center, Kerlin Morgan, matched the high scoring ace for the first half of the game, chalking up 12 points, but was held completely in check in the second half, going without a single marker. To date the leading San Jose scorer is forward Ray Saunders with a total of 51 points. Morgan follows with 29. Coach Bill Hubbard will probably start Saunders and Dick Wehner at forwards; Morgan at center; and Ed Louden and Mal Sinclair at the guard posts.

Grapplers Needed On Spartan Team

"Are you a master of the scissors grip? An exponent of the half-Nelson or the neck hold? Then trot your masculine wealth of muscles out to the Men's gym any afternoon at 5 o'clock, requests Coach Sam Della Maggiore. Wrestlers, especially in the light-weight division, are needed. "It's fun," says the coach, "and there are a lot of awards which should provide inspiration for any and all grapplers."

Matches already on the roster include University of California and possibly a number of servicemen teams.

Class Election Rules Are Listed

nominations or elections, the Student Council releases the following set of rules which apply to all class political maneuvers:

RULES

Section I. Class Officers

Clause 1. The officers of each class shall be president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, all of whom shall be elected by ballot. They shall take office immediately upon being elected.

Clause 2. Each class shall decide upon the specific duties of each officer.

Clause 3. One official representative shall be elected to meet with the Student Council of the Associated students. In case of a vacancy occurring during the term of office, which shall be one quarter, the president of the class, with the consent of the class council, shall appoint a representative to fill out the term.

Section II. Class Elections

Clause 1. Each class shall hold election of officers once each quarter, with the exception of the freshman class. Officers for the freshman class will be handled by the class advisers in any way they and the class may decide upon.

Clause 2. Nominations and elections shall be held not later than the second week of the quarter. Elections shall be held not later than three days after nominations.

Clause 3. The president of the Associated students shall appoint student councillors to preside at the first class meeting each quarter.

Clause 4. A majority vote on preferential ballots shall be necessary to elect any officer.

Clause 5. To be eligible to run for any office, one must be an A.S.B. member of his class in good standing and not holding any other A.S.B. office. He shall not be on probation or carrying less than ten (10) units, or be more than six units deficient for the class.

AWA Members To Present Program will be student Carmendale Fernandes, who will give a dramatic reading. Ernestine DeFord, popular college vocalist, will sing several numbers.

The AWA women and Miss Dimmick have been invited by the Girls' League of the high school to attend a luncheon following the program.

Noted SJS Alumna Dies In New York

Land" in the White House, she graciously accepted dedication of that year's La Torre, and sent a short message and photograph to be included in the annual. Editor of the 1929 yearbook was James G. Chestnutt, now a prominent bay city newspaperman. The 1929 La Torre, incidentally, was such a popular edition that few, if any, copies are to be found today.

STRICKEN AT HOME

Mrs. Hoover was 68 at the time of her death. According to Associated Press reports, she was bidding her husband goodbye as he was preparing to leave for a dinner, when she was stricken with an acute heart attack and died a few minutes later. She had returned to the Hoover apartment in the Waldorf Towers from a concert only a short time before.

The Hoovers had two sons, Allan, a California rancher, and Herbert, Jr., a radio engineer. Mrs. Hoover was the daughter of Charles D. Henry, a Waterloo, Iowa, banker. She met Mr. Hoover at Stanford university, and they were married four years after his graduation. They lived in many foreign lands, including Tientsin, Mandalay, Tokyo, Leningrad (then St. Petersburg) and London, before Mr. Hoover assumed the presidency of the United States in 1929. For many years their permanent home was in Palo Alto, on a low hill overlooking the Stanford university campus.

VISITED CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Hoover visited California recently, and returned to New York shortly before the holidays. She visited San Jose several times during her years of residence in Palo Alto.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hoover were held yesterday at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church in New York.

Film Producer Searches For Salome's Picture

Because famous artists of the past thousand years failed to agree on what Salome, most famous siren in history, really looked like, Film Producer Frank Ross has instituted an unusual contest to launch one of the broadest talent hunts yet attempted by Hollywood film makers.

In letters sent directors of 500 American art schools and advanced art classes, Ross says nearly 300 different portrait paintings and pieces of sculpture have been inspired by the veiled dancer whose charms caused John the Baptist to sacrifice his head. However, no two artists agreed on Salome's particular type of beauty. In fact they disagreed so much that of five paintings in one European gallery two pictured Salome as a blonde, a third as a red-head and two others as a brunette. In the five portraits her weight varies nearly 75 pounds, her age about 10 years.

SALOME PERPLEXES

Ross is rather perplexed that a girl whose beauty and vixenish capers inspired two operas, an Oscar Strauss score and so many art gems, is represented as being so many different types.

Preparing to give impressive picturization to Lloyd C. Douglas' record best-seller, "The Robe," the producer insists on a better conception of Salome than he has thus far been able to obtain. Ross is asking American artists to submit their conception of Salome's beauty in sketches in crayon, water colors or oils. For the best sketch he will pay well, and the sketch adjudged best will serve as a guide for a nation-wide search for the actress to impersonate Salome in "The Robe."

PICTURE VAGUE

"Certainly Salome must have been a most fascinating and exotic beauty to have her fame live nearly 2000 years," Ross reasons. "Since it is obvious Salome never posed for artists in her time the modern artist's conception of her should be as good as any our exhaustive research has revealed. Casting of the film role will await the time we find out how twentieth century artists picture first century beauty."

Although Salome descended from a swarthy race, German artists usually portray her as an unemotional, buxom, blue eyed blonde. French and Italian artists considered her an ideal nude subject; trim, gay and bewitching. Dutch and English artists had many contradictory impressions. Few historical painters agreed on how or where she received the head of John the Baptist. They did agree on John's features and the golden platter on which his head was presented.

Interested contest candidates should write to Frank Ross Productions, 780 Gower street, Hollywood 38, California.
