

'A CHIC IN EVERY POT'

While most SJS students might think these gals would make quite a pretty dish, that isn't what these tanks are installed for in the new cafeteria. More appropriately, the big containers are for cooking foods. The new cafeteria's Snack Bar will open for operation on June 23. New Cafeteria Partially Opens June 23 Featuring Many Modern Innovations

By BILL PHILLIPS
There are cafeterias—and there are cafeterias.

But San Jose State's new one—to partially open June 23 if on schedule—is quite different from most.

It's not just a place to eat. It's a place where students can enjoy their food in pleasant, modern surroundings.

For example, some 1100 persons can dine at the same time.

There is a large snack bar that can seat 300 persons, and it is completely modernized with the latest equipment.

FACULTY DINING ROOM
Also located in the structure on 7th street between the Engineering and Music Buildings, are two smaller dining rooms and a faculty dining room, plus a large kitchen, serving room and bakery.

Total cost for the one-story structure is $1,089,700, according to the office of Executive Dean C. Grant Burton. And this includes $102,100 for equipment.

It won't be open for full operation until next fall but present plans call for the opening of the spacious snack bar on the first day of the 1958 Summer Session.

The cafeteria is managed by Michael L. Dolan, who has been at his new job since the first of the semester.

TO EMPLOY 25

Some 25 persons will be found working this summer in the Snack Bar, according to William M. Felse, student affairs business manager.

Felse said plenty of book room is available for the students who want to keep their books out of the foul weather while they eat—for some 640 racks near the front of the cafeteria entrance have been installed.

Music will be piped in through a speaker system, although there will be a juke box available to the students, Felse explained.

Some other features of the new cafeteria are:

1) A full time baker who will be employed in the cafeteria come September.

Allen Outlines State College Woes

By BILL GODFREY
Music and rain stilled the political beat at SJS last night as only 18 public spirited citizens cold-shouldered the Annual Spring Sing and the semester's last symphony concert to hear Assemblyman Bruce Allen outline some of the problems facing California state colleges.

The Los Gatos Assemblyman stressed the "tremendous" need for public support in the years ahead if the state's higher education system is to give future students the same educational opportunities as those of today.

"If future students are to have the same opportunities as the present college enrollment, then we will have to have three seats for every one that we now have," he said.

Allen said that some of the opposition to expansion of the state college system naturally comes from the University of California because of prestige motives.

This, however, is not the greatest obstacle that must be overcome if state colleges are to prepare for the staggering amount of new students expected to over-run college campuses in the next ten years, he indicated.

"The largest problem facing the growth and development of the state college system is just plain dollars," Allen said.

Commenting on faculty salaries, Allen said the state colleges are attempting to hire 600 additional teachers this year. "And they are unable to compete in the labor market for these people because of the unequal pay balance between industry and college salaries," he said.

In answer to a question about public complacency regarding politics in particular and government in general, Allen said: "If people don't pay attention to their government, the opportunity for graft is much greater. The State Treasury is much bigger than any bank."

Allen was sponsored by the SJS Young Republicans Club. Rick Buxton, president, was chairman of the talk. Vice-President William J. Dusel introduced Allen to the group, which met in S142.

Summer Jobs Plentiful But Decreasing Fast

Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles about the summer job outlook for San Jose State students.

A warning came this week from the head of the San Jose State Placement Service office that students had better get on the ball if they expect a summer job.

Dr. Edward W. Clements said summer job possibilities from his office probably are better and more plentiful than last year's. "HURRY AND INQUIRE"

But he reminded those students who haven't thought about a summer job to hurry in and inquire about the possibilities.

"The Placement Service office has many job openings, especially good ones concerning camp counseling work," Dr. Clements said.

Dealing with part-time and summer placement is Mrs. Phyllis Headland, student placement secretary.

Asked when he believed the canning industry in the Santa Clara Valley would be in full swing, Dr. Clements said:

"It's rather hard to say exactly, but probably the big canning part of the season will begin in July. However, it sometimes depends on what the cannery is canning."

Meanwhile, a report came yesterday from one of the personnel directors of Hawaiian Pineapple

Company, formerly Barron-Gray Packing Company.

Bob Meusel believed the peak of the firm's hiring period would come about August 1, but added that it might come a few days sooner.

'ROUGHER THAN LAST YEAR'

He admitted that students and other persons will have "a rougher time getting jobs than they had last year."

Nearly 300 students were hired by the company last year, he said. General labor can expect to get these wages, according to Meusel:

Girls, with no special job skills, will get a base scale of $1.59 per hour, and men, without skills, will get a base pay of $1.75.

The Placement Service Office of SJS has a wealth of information for the student job-seeker, with plenty of qualified assistance and guidance from placement officers.

PROVIDES INFORMATION
Information is provided on the employment opportunities and practices of schools, industries, businesses and various governmental and private agencies.

It tries to keep in contact with employers in order to seek better relations between employers and students and alumni.

And the services of the placement office, which go on even during the summer, are free to the SJS student.

Placement personnel say that jobs cannot be guaranteed to those who seek the service, but from recent statistics, chances are excellent that the student will get the job he is interested in obtaining.

Engle To Refute Knight's Charges

By JIM ADAMS

BYU Dean To Be Head Of Home Ec

Dr. Marion Pfund, dean of the College of Family Living at Brigham Young University, has been appointed head of the SJS Home Economics Department, effective Sept. 1.

She succeeds Dr. Margaret Jones, who will continue on the faculty as professor of home economics.

Dr. Pfund was for 25 years a member of the faculty at Cornell University. She retired at Cornell in 1953 but later joined the Brigham Young staff.

Dr. Pfund's responsibilities at SJS will include the expansion of the department's course offerings and planning enlargement of the department's physical facilities.

She is a graduate of Simmons College, Boston, where she obtained a B.S. degree in home economics. She holds an M.A. degree in chemistry from Vassar College and a Ph.D. from Yale University.

Congressman Clair Engle will be in Santa Clara County for an hour and a half this morning to answer before an SJS audience Governor Knight's charges that he has "acted wilfully and recklessly to compound California's water problem."

Engle, unopposed in his bid for Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, will speak at 11:30 in the Inner Quad—or in Morris Daily Auditorium if it rains.

Republican opponent Knight said at SJS last week and at the California Institute of Technology (Cal Tech) the week before that: "While dedicated Californians are striving earnestly to conserve every precious drop of California water, (Engle) has been willing to throw away California's vital rights to Colorado River water."

WILL REFUTE CHARGES
Engle is making a point to appear at both institutions to refute the charges.

At Cal Tech last week he answered Knight's accusations and made a few of his own.

He told the students and faculty that the deadlock of the California legislature on water development showed the Governor's "complete lack of executive leadership."

He said later: "To put it very bluntly, Knight wouldn't know an irrigation ditch if he fell in one."

The Congressman will arrive at San Jose Airport from Los Angeles this morning at 11 and immediately after his campus address will leave for Vallejo.

Knight's water "give-away" charges stem from action by the House Interior Affairs Committee—of which Engle is chairman.

BILL PASSES COMMITTEE
The committee has passed a bill providing for the Upper Colorado Project that will distribute water to four western states.

Knight claims this project will cut into Southern California's Colorado River water rights and will thereby aggravate the more local controversy between Northern and Southern California.

Engle contends the project "will not take one bucketful" of water from the south. He contends the language of the bill prevents the four states from interfering with the "normal flow" of the river.

Wahlquists Greet Students Sunday
President and Mrs. John T. Wahlquist will be hosts to more than 100 SJS foreign students, Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Wahlquists will entertain the students in their home, 420 S. 12th St. They will be assisted by American students who are members of the International Students Organization.

Participating in the reception will be Phillip Persky, official college foreign student adviser, and four ISO advisers, Mrs. Lois Henderson, Naim Abou-Taleb, Thomas R. Coke and Floyd Greenleaf.

ATO, DU, Theta Chi Men Win Spring Sing Trophies

By ANTHONY TARAVELLA

Eight campus fraternities presented this year's Spring Sing program entitled, "Music for M'Lady" last night and methinks m'lady liked it very much.

A packed Morris Dailey Auditorium was filled with an appreciative student audience that seemed to give full support to the judges' decisions awarding first place to Alpha Tau Omega, second position to Delta Upsilon, and third spot to Theta Chi.

All groups could easily be classed as excellent. The long hours of practice that must have gone into the preparation of each number was evident in the fine precision with which each song was executed.

Many of the glee club selections were traditional folk tunes while others were more recent tunes taken from Broadway musicals such as "South Pacific" and "Most Happy Fella."

Particularly moving was the expression given "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Delta Upsilon. Alfa Tau Omega's "Civil War classic, When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again," was an outstanding credit to director Dave Gupton.

Lyke Reports 3300 Sales

Lyke sales topped the 3300 mark yesterday during the second and possibly last day that the campus feature magazine would be available this semester.

Larry Rodrigues, public relations manager for the magazine, said he expected the issue to "sell out." The final sales figures were not available at press time.

A sales pitch on Wednesday, consisting of a red sports-car filled with "Lykable Lovelies," was reported to have aided sales in the Library quad.

The lovelies were models of ads in Lyke. Rodrigues said the models were protected by Yosha, a Russian Wolf Hound owned by Art Editor Dave Redmond.

Yosha also was a model in the magazine.

FINE ARTS

ANTHONY TARAVELLA, Fine Arts Editor

SJS will offer a fine arts bouquet to the community this summer when it presents its fourth annual Festival of Arts during the six-week summer session from June 23-Aug. 1.

The program should resemble something like a fine arts open house. Not only will the festival give the community an opportunity to see what goes on behind the hallowed walls, but it also will give the Fine Arts departments a chance to show off.

The festival won't be strictly an SJS artistic endeavor, however. Some of the most outstanding features of the summer program will come from off-campus. For example, the festival will be highlighted by Shai K. Ophir, young Israeli pantomime artist who has been called "a show stopper" by Walter Winchell and described by Life Magazine as "one of the world's foremost pantomime artists." Ophir may be remembered by many T.V. viewers as the man who played "Rumpelstiltskin" in the Shirley Temple Storybook series. He will appear on campus July 1.

Lovers of the arts will find a variety of cultural affairs available this summer. There will be concerts, art exhibitions, and celebrated entertainers such as Ophir.

No admission will be charged for most of the events. However, two plays, "Mrs. McThing" and "Childe Rowland," will have an admission charge of $1 each. "Mrs. McThing" will be performed in College Theater at 8:15 p.m., July 10, 11, and 12. "Childe Rowland" is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. July 25, and 26.

Director of the Festival of Arts is Joe H. West, dean of summer sessions. Department heads in charge of the programs will be Dr. Harold C. Crain, Fine Arts Division chairman and head of Speech and Drama Department; Dr. Hartley Snyder, Music Department chairman and Dr. John E. French, Art Department chairman.

Music Department contributions to the Festival will include a program of chamber music at 8:15 p.m. July 17 and 18. A string group consisting of the Shoefeld Sisters and pianist Siegfried Schultze will perform.

On July 29 at 8:15 p.m., the Music Department will sponsor a performance of the Summer Session Orchestra and Chorus in Morris Dailey Auditorium.

The Art Department contribution to the Festival program will include a travelling art exhibit entitled, "A Day of Design." This will include displays of jewelry, weaving and ceramics and will be set up in the Art Wing of the Art Building.

In addition to the events already mentioned, there will be a number of visiting lecturers, on campus. The internationally known foreign correspondent and author William L. Shirer, will be among guest lecturers who will appear.

Recreation Department will sponsor a series of motion picture classics during the Festival. These will be shown every Wednesday evening at 8 in Ed 55 beginning July 2. Opening the movie series will be "The Sea Around Us," followed by "Caine Mutiny" July 9; "The Man in the White Suit" July 16; and "The Prince of Foxes" July 23.

Folk dancing, also sponsored by the Recreation Department, will be held on campus every Tuesday and Thursday night at 7.

These are only a few of the events to be offered to the community and students during the summer Festival of Arts program. In addition to the cultural contribution offered by all three fine arts departments at SJS, an academic program will be carried on in the departments during both the six-week and four-week sessions this summer.

WHERE'S PIP?

Children at the SJS nursery school have a lot of fun playing in this make-believe trolley car built as a part of the scenery for Mrs. Olive Engwicht's first children's play, "Pip and the Crosspatch Fairy." Olive Engwicht, First Journalism Grad, Returns to SJS as Children's Playwright

By ANTHONY TARAVELLA

Mrs. Olive Engwicht, first woman to be graduated from SJS Journalism Department, has come back to school, but this time her aim is to become a playwright—not a journalist.

How did all this come about? Why has she waited so long to further her education? Mrs. Engwicht, wife of Harry Engwicht, professor of engineering at SJS, claims she was drawn back into the classroom after listening to a student praise a former professor of drama here.

The student was living at the Engwicht home at the time. "We had Robert Guy as a topic of conversation at lunch every day for several months, and I just had to find out for myself if he was that good," Mrs. Engwicht said.

Mrs. Engwicht, who still has the manner of the journalist about her despite her switch to the theater, says her impression of Robert Guy is that he was more than she expected. Now working toward her masters degree in playwriting, Mrs. Engwicht has concentrated her efforts on writing plays for children. "There are not enough good plays being written for children these days," she remarked. A mother herself, Olive Engwicht feels she knows what children want to see in a theatrical production. Her two daughters, 14 and 12, have been her strongest critics and have helped mom by being her "practice" audience.

Mrs. Engwicht has had a successful start in playwriting. Her first attempt at a children's play was "Pip and the Crosspatch Fairy," which she entered in the annual playwriting contest sponsored by Speech and Drama Department. Her entry took first place in the contest and was judged good enough to be produced here for child audiences.

Asked why she chooses to write children's plays, Mrs. Engwicht replied, "Plots for children's plays are much more exciting and theateric than those written for a adult audiences." Besides, she added, children's plays constitute the practical part of her master's thesis. Olive Engwicht manages to maintain her household while keeping up a busy academic schedule. Glancing at her watch, she reminded herself that it was time to prepare the family dinner.

"Today's women should be able to manage their household affairs so that they have time to do other constructive things as well," Mrs. Engwicht said in summing up her philosophy. This is what she believes and practices.

Playwright Engwicht now is busy putting together another play entitled "Childe Rowland." This second work will be longer than "Pip."

"Childe Rowland" has an elaborate musical score written by Angelo Sparacino, professional accordionist. The story tells of a magical goat-skin bag, carried by a wandering minstrel, from which music is supposed to flow.

LET'S GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY

BASED ON MYTH

Based on an ancient myth, "Childe Rowland" tells of a 14-year-old boy who engages in a magical contest that takes him to the underworld or elfland. He seeks his sister who has been abducted by the elf king. "Fantasy must be handled carefully," Mrs. Engwicht said. "People used to think of elves as being at least the size of human beings, but today they think of them as the size of Tom Thumb." The elf king is human size.

"You can't write comedy just for comedy's sake, for children," Mrs. Engwicht pointed out. "The plot must have melodramatic features about it," she said. "Children try to relate the play to what they know. They look for a problem and a solution," she added.

AMBITIOUS, WORKING HARD

Ambitious to become a successful playwright, Mrs. Engwicht is working hard toward her goal. She confided that she doesn't expect a lot of money from her work. The greatest reward for her efforts is just to see her plays produced occasionally, she said. Mrs. Engwicht will have the enjoyment of seeing her next drama, "Childe Rowland," produced at SJS by Speech and Drama Department this summer. The play will be shown in College Theater from July 10-12.

Flexibility Highlights Art Dept. Display

By ARLENE PHILLIPS

"Man's Head," the card under the painting said. I looked at the picture and, sure enough, it was a man's head.

"Hand," another card read, and I saw a hand that was painted on the paper within the frame.

Another title card said, "Winter Beach," and anyone could see that that's what the painting represented.

"What unimaginative titles for such imaginative pictures," I thought as I wandered through the student art exhibit in the SJS gallery.

And then I remembered what Thomas Hardy, famous metal sculptor, had said in a lecture here last week:

"I think it's a shame even to put a name on any work of art. A person should be able to see something in it for himself and choose his own name for it."

I stopped criticizing the titles of the pictures and started looking at the pictures.

I began listening to the various reactions to the art work. Expressions like "Wonderful," "Beautiful style" and "Very talented person" could be heard. But what seemed to amaze students most was the flexibility of the Art Department display.

John V. DeVincenzi, assistant professor of art, and the man in charge of the student art show, walked in.

I went over to him and inquired about the flexibility.

"There is something for everyone to enjoy here," he said. "There is an awareness of many kinds of approaches to art—extreme abstract modern to extreme naturalistic work."

"The imagination is the only thing that draws a line as to what a person can do in any work of art," Professor DeVincenzi added. Once again I looked around me at the works of art on display and tried to see them in this new light.

Ray Norton Faces Co-Record Holders At Modesto Relays

San Jose State's track team enjoys its annual picnic this week, but will swing back into action May 31 at Modesto in the Cal Relays.

Spartan Ray Norton will face a splendid array of top sprinters in Modesto, including the man who supposedly holds the "fastest human" tag, Dave Sime of Duke. Others in the field are Bobby Morrow, whom Norton nipped in the Coliseum Relays, Abilene Christian's Bill Woodhouse, Cal's Willie White, and Fresno State sprinter Mike Agostini, who has been whipped three times by Norton this season.

Four of these men (Norton, Morrow, Sime, Woodhouse) have run :9.3.

A probable starter is Oklahoma State kingpin Orlando Hazley, who anchored his team to a 440-yard relay clocking of :40.6 recently. SJS' sprint team (Norton, Garfield Finley, Kent Herkenrath and Bob Brooks) also is slated to compete.

SigEp Golfers Set To Defend Title Monday

Monday will mark opening of the all-campus Golf Tournament, and if Sigma Phi Epsilon has anything to say about it, then this fraternity will cop team honors.

Winner the past two years, the Sig Eps will gain permanent possession of the team trophy if it can win this big one. As many men as desire may enter for the team standings, but only the four highest scorers will count for the Fraternity Team title.

Although golfers may tour the 18-hole Hillview Golf Course as many times as they wish during the tourney, a fee of $1.50 must accompany each round. Scorecards may be purchased in the Outer Quad or at the Phi Sigma Kappa house. The Phi Sigs sponsor the tourney each year.

Trophies will be awarded in three divisions and the Callaway Scoring System will be the guiding rule. The first division will be the Individual Low Medalist, the person with the lowest score. Another division will be the Faculty, with the lowest individual score also being used.

Finally, the teams will vie for the coveted squad trophy.

For further information about Monday's Golf Tournament, students may consult a member of the Phi Sig house at 234 S. 11th St. or phone CY 5-9657.

Audience participation was stressed during the session. Representatives of high schools, junior colleges, colleges and club coaches and players discussed fundamentals of the game, drills and formations for offense and defense.

Highlight of the evening was a scrimmage between members of the Spartan squad.

The clinic, conducted by Spartan water polo mentor Charles Walker, was held in the Spartan pool.

Rostomily led the team in total bases with 36, (Christiansen was close behind at 35), triples, 3, tied for home runs, 1, tied for walks, 20, and led in runs batted in with 23.

Harry Haley appeared in the most contests, 31. Christiansen had the most hits, 28, and tied with Bob Krail for the double leadership with four.

Jimmy Long, soph flash, proved to be the most successful base runner by scoring 21 times and stealing nine bases.

HOME RUNS DOUBLED

While opponents doubles and triples closely matched those of the Spartans, home runs were more than doubled by the opposition. The Spartans connected five times (Christiansen, Buzz Ulrey, Al McIntyre, Rostomily and Haley) while the outsiders smashed 12.

Team batting was at the .247 level while rivals compiled a .255 average. While the Spartans as a team walked 161 times and struck out 159 in 32 games the Spartan pitchers shone by walking 104 and striking out 190.

McIntyre and "Only Southpaw" Larry Williams appeared in the most games, 12, and were neck and neck in most departments. McIntyre was the only pitcher over the .500 mark with a 6-5 record but Williams had the best ERA, 2.93.

MCINTYRE STALWART

McIntyre completed the most games (seven out of ten started), and pitched the most innings, 84. He also led in strikeouts, 66.

Fresno State Posts Winning Mark

FRESNO—The curtain dropped recently on Fresno State's eleventh consecutive winning baseball campaign.

Coach Pete Beiden's Bulldogs used clutch pitching and timely hitting to down Santa Barbara, 6-2, and Los Angeles State, 12-5 and 4-2, in season-closers to boost their campaign to 23-9, the best at FSC since 1952.

The three triumphs gave the Bulldogs an 11-4 California Collegiate Athletic Association record, second only to San Diego's 13-3 mark. Beiden's record of never finishing below second in the CCAA remains intact.
