
CRS Report for Congress

Received through the CRS Web

Agriculture: A List of Websites

Updated January 18, 2000

Carol Canada, Coordinator
Technical Information Specialist
Resources, Science, and Industry Division

ABSTRACT

This list provides a sampling of the rapidly proliferating number of agricultural resources available on the Internet. It is divided into 27 categories and alphabetized for ease of access.

NOTE: A Web version of this document with active links is available to congressional staff at http://www.congress.gov/cgi-lis/web_fetch_doc?dataset=erp_prd.dst&db=r1&doc_id=xRL30313

Agriculture: A List of Websites

Summary

This list provides a sampling of the rapidly proliferating number of agricultural resources available on the Internet. It is not intended to be exhaustive. It is divided into 27 categories.

The websites in this report are for reference only. CRS does not guarantee that these websites are active or current, as the Internet is a vital domain in which new websites continually are added and others abandoned. Also, CRS does not make judgements about the partisan nature of the information posted at some addresses, which will reflect biases of the organization maintaining the site. CRS has, however, made some judgements on where to place groups; many groups could be placed in multiple categories. Finally, no state or local agencies, such as individual state departments of agriculture, or locally-based private organizations, such as the Marin Conservation League, are included to limit the size of this document. Also, this list does not include addresses of private businesses.

Note: CRS has a wide variety of online reports on agricultural and other issues. See the CRS home page at [<http://lcweb.loc.gov/crs/>].
