2008

While the 2008 financial crisis created greater needs in our community, it also gave us reason for hope. Foundation donors have risen to the challenges that face King County today by generously supporting the organizations effectively working to improve the well-being of our community.

The Seattle Foundation's commitment to building a healthy community for all King County residents remains as strong as ever. In 2008, with our donors, we granted more than $63 million to over 2000 organizations and promising initiatives in King County and beyond.

Though our assets declined like most investments nationwide, The Seattle Foundation's portfolio performed well when benchmarked against comparable endowments. In the longer term, The Seattle Foundation has outperformed portfolios comprised of traditional stocks and bonds due to prudent and responsible stewardship of charitable funds that has been the basis of our investment strategy for decades.

The Seattle Foundation is also leading efforts to respond to increasing need in our community. Late last year The Seattle Foundation joined forces with the United Way of King County and other local funders to create the Building Resilience Fund—a three-year, $6 million effort to help local people who have been hardest hit by the economic downturn. Through this fund, we are bolstering the capacity of selected nonprofits to meet increasing basic needs and providing a network of services to put people on the road on self-reliance.

We are also targeting more of our resources to ensure economic opportunity and educational success for all King County residents—two elements of a healthy community with the greatest potential to broadly improve overall quality of life. In 2008, The Seattle Foundation awarded four targeted grants, totaling $327,500, to connect low-income people to effective primary and post-secondary education. These went to help ensure students graduate from high school with the knowledge and skills to succeed, and provide much-needed resources to small minority-owned businesses.

As we look to the future, we are confident that our community will emerge stronger and healthier than ever. As always, we remain proud and humbled to support the generosity of our donors and the good work being done in this community, our home.

Donors & Contributors

We thank our many generous contributors—individually and combined—who are making our world a better place to live.

Other Foundation Grants

The Seattle Foundation Youth Grantmaking Board

The Youth Grantmaking Board (YGB) helps young people learn how philanthropy can effect positive change in their community by giving them the opportunity to take the lead on all phases of grantmaking. Supported by Foundation staff and community experts, YGB members assess community needs, select a grantmaking focus area, develop requests for proposals, review grant applications, conduct site visits and make final funding recommendations to The Seattle Foundation Board of Trustees.

The Seattle Foundation Healthy Kids Fund

The Healthy Kids Fund focuses on childhood obesity with a concentration on low-income communities – an issue that affects many elements of a healthy community. Driven by donor interest, The Seattle Foundation launched the Healthy Kids Fund in 2006 and has been awarding grants since 2007.

The Seattle Foundation Medical Funds Grants

Medical grants are awarded each year to support the purchase of equipment. Grants are awarded to organizations that address specific healthcare needs of low-income children in King County and to support medical research in the fields of cancer, cardiopulmonary disease, multiple sclerosis and diabetes.

2008 Anne V. Farrell Leadership Grant

Since 1995, The Seattle Foundation has awarded the annual Anne V. Farrell Leadership Grant to an organization or group of organizations addressing a pressing community issue in an innovative way. In 2008, the Foundation supported the Workforce Development Council of Seattle-King County for its Minority Business and Youth Alliance Project, which links business, the juvenile court and community-based organizations together to help young offenders of color progress along pathways to post-secondary education, job training and mentoring, and living wage employment.

The Seattle Foundation Emergency Relief Fund

The Emergency Relief Fund was established to respond to natural disasters locally, nationally and internationally. In 2008, Cyclone Nargis devastated the coast of Myanmar (also known as Burma) in Southeast Asia. In the same month, a 7.9-magnitude earthquake struck the Sichuan province in China. Many donors responded to these disasters by contributing to The Seattle Foundation's Emergency Relief Fund. This fund supported organizations already established in these countries to build temporary shelters and schools in China, as well as provide emergency relief and recovery efforts in Myanmar.

Foundation for the People of Burma

The Seattle Foundation Community Leadership Fund

The Community Leadership Fund helps support our community dialogues and convenings. The Seattle Foundation believes community foundations best serve their communities if they work in ways that recognize the larger context in which their communities exist. We are always looking for ways to use different tools to enhance our work, particularly seeking to bring underrepresented voices into these discussions, to spearhead collaboration across sectors and organizational lines, and to encourage discussions across the region's various municipalities.

The Seattle Foundation Administrative Fund

The Seattle Foundation Scholarship Fund

The Scholarship Fund supports King County residents who demonstrate financial need, outstanding community involvement and academic promise. It is open to all types of students—from high school seniors to current college students, returning students and "non-traditional" students. Recipients may use scholarships at public community colleges, four-year colleges or universities, trade or vocational schools. The first awards were made from the Scholarship Fund in 2008.

University of Washington

Poisoned Waters Documentary

Poisoned Waters is a PBS Frontline documentary that aired in spring 2009 and featured Puget Sound and Chesapeake Bay as "the best and worst in America's environmental cause." In the case of Puget Sound, it is the "best" because of the green political climate in Washington state and the "worst" because the Sound is the most contaminated estuary on the Pacific Coast. Pulitzer Prize-winning, former New York Times reporter and editor, and Emmy award-winning producer/correspondent Hedrick Smith produced Poisoned Waters.

Bank on Seattle-King County

Bank on Seattle-King County is a public and private initiative to connect people without checking and savings accounts to affordable mainstream financial services, including checking, savings, credit and financial education opportunities. This effort provides people with alternatives to paying more than they need to for financial services, in order to help them on a pathway to economic stability and success.

Business Opportunities for Leadership Diversity (BOLD)

Business Opportunities for Leadership Diversity (BOLD) brings together CEOs from some of the region's most respected companies to share experiences, information and resources in an effort to accelerate employment diversity in each of their companies. In addition to accelerating employment diversity at all levels, particularly where progress is the slowest and most difficult, BOLD is working to influence public opinion of diversity at local companies, shape public policy and promote the employment diversity of the Puget Sound region.

Philanthropic Partnership for Public Education (PPPE)

Philanthropic Partnership for Public Education (PPPE) was formed in 2007 to support the Seattle Public Schools during a significant leadership transition. PPPE comprises more than 12 local funders who share a commitment to high-quality public education for all children. In 2007, PPPE engaged researchers, business and communications consultants and other local experts to work in conjunction with the new Seattle Public Schools superintendent as she began to implement district improvement initiatives.

Seattle King County Workforce Education Collaborative

The King County Workforce Education Collaborative was established by foundations, corporations and government agencies to increase access to and improve labor market outcomes of credentialed education and training for low-income adults. The collaborative aims to increase participation, persistence and completion in post-secondary education and other forms of "second-chance" training, education and employment services, strengthening the quality, labor market relevance and delivery of those programs.
