

Handwritten text in a script, likely Tibetan, on a dark, textured surface. The text is arranged in approximately 12 horizontal lines, written in gold and orange-red ink. The script is dense and appears to be a form of Manichaean or similar religious text. The lines are roughly parallel to each other, following the curvature of the surface. The ink shows some wear and fading, particularly in the lower lines. The background is a dark, mottled grey or black material, possibly leather or a similar durable fabric. The overall appearance is that of an ancient manuscript or a page from a historical book.

Handwritten text in Devanagari script, arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines per page. The ink is dark, and the paper is aged and yellowed. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous passage of prose or poetry. Some lines are written in a slightly larger or bolder script, possibly indicating a new section or a specific verse.
