A Structure for a Voice

The Drawing Society, a student run society which is broadly open to explore any ideas which will help develop creativity. We started off with a few trips to draw horses as an extension of life drawing. The process is that the creative decisions should be student led within the University's support for Societies in respect of safety and accountability. The students create a committee to manage the travel and accommodation.

The structure's paradigms:-

The Architectural Association founded by students.
