

Anthrofest 2011

February 4th, 2011, 10am-2pm
Museum Room 345

Jennifer McAuley 10:00-10:15

Excavating the medieval church at San Pietro d'Asso: The first field season

Elaine Yang 10:15-10:30

Food & Work: Transitioning Ideas of Health in the Indigenous Toba Community

Molly Hude 10:30-10:45

The Burning Man Festival or, on the glaring lack of contemporary American myths

Sascha Murillo 10:45-11:00

The Politics of women's work in Santiago de Atitlan: The case of women-washers

Hayley Germack 11:00-11:15

Interconnections: How a one laptop per child program unites a community

Madeleine Macks 11:15-11:30

The Mummies of Lullaillaco Volcano: Questions of cultural patrimony

Myles Karp 11:30-11:45

Nintendocore: Nostalgia and the musical-social space of classic game culture

Paul Mitchell 11:45-12:00

Sexual dimorphism and functional anatomy in primate locomotion

Lunch 12:00-12:30

Lydia Gau 12:30-12:45

Gene (ADH) variation in indigenous Altaian and Kazakh populations

Cassandra Turcotte 12:45-1:00

Quantifying dominance: A comparative analysis of methodologies assessing bilateral asymmetry in human skeletal remains

Kym Cole 1:00-1:15

Understanding Duch and his Impact: Reaching toward national reconciliation in Cambodia

Sarah MacIntosh 1:15-1:30

For the love of lithics: The Penn Museum's artifacts of the Early Epipaleolithic occupation in Jordan

Catalina Villamil 1:30-1:45

The relationship of the proximal femur to femoral length in children

Lauren Kapsalakis 1:45-2:00

"Savage" in the barrio: The informal and formal economies of indigeneity among the Toba

