

Purdue University
Purdue e-Pubs

---

Charleston Library Conference

---

Introduction

Leah Hinds
leah@charlestonlibraryconference.com

Beth Bernhardt
beth\_bernhardt@uncg.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://docs.lib.purdue.edu/charleston>

 Part of the Library and Information Science Commons

An indexed, print copy of the Proceedings is also available for purchase at:

<http://www.thepress.purdue.edu/series/charleston>.

You may also be interested in the new series, Charleston Insights in Library, Archival, and Information Sciences. Find out more at: <http://www.thepress.purdue.edu/series/charleston-insights-library-archival-and-information-sciences>.

---

Leah Hinds and Beth Bernhardt, "Introduction" (2013). Proceedings of the Charleston Library Conference.
<http://dx.doi.org/>

This document has been made available through Purdue e-Pubs, a service of the Purdue University Libraries. Please contact epubs@purdue.edu for additional information.

Introduction

---

The Charleston Conference continues to be a major event for information exchange among librarians, vendors and publishers. Now in its thirty-third year, the Conference continues to be one of the most popular library-related conferences in the United States, if not globally. With record numbers for 2013, Conference attendees continue to remark on the informative and thought-provoking sessions. The Conference provides a casual, collegial atmosphere where librarians, publishers, and vendors talk freely and directly about issues facing their libraries and information providers. All of this interaction occurs in the beautiful city of Charleston, South Carolina. This is the ninth year that Beth R. Bernhardt has put together the proceedings from the Conference and the fifth year for Leah Hinds. We are pleased to share some of the learning experiences that we, and other attendees, had at the conference.

The theme of the 2013 Charleston Conference was “Too Much Is Not Enough!” While not all presenters prepared written versions of their remarks, enough did so that we are able to include an overview of such subjects as collection development, management, end users, scholarly communication, and technology issues. The unique nature of the Charleston Conference gives librarians, publishers, and library vendors the opportunity to holistically examine these and other points of interest.

Katina Strauch, founder of the conference, continues to be an inspiration to us. Her enthusiasm for the conference and the proceedings is motivating. We hope you, the reader, find the papers as informative as we do and that they encourage the continuation of the ongoing dialogue among librarians, vendors, and publishers that can only enhance the learning and research experience for the ultimate user.

Signed,

Co-Editors of the 33rd Charleston Conference Proceedings

Beth R. Bernhardt, Assistant Dean for Collection Management and Scholarly Communications, University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Main Conference Director

Leah Hinds, Assistant Conference Director

